Council delays action on Atrium site plan approval

by DAVE KNIGHT

Though indications were that the Charlevoix City Council were in basic support of the proposed motel and conference center project at the present Archway Motel, they stopped just short of granting full site plan approval at their meeting Monday night.

Concerns over the adequacy of water supplies for fire protection prompted the council to table site plan approval until further study is dona on the fire protection equipment designs for the project.

Tentatively called the Atrium Motel and Conference Center, the project features 82 motel units, meeting rooms and an center atrium with a swimming pool and lounge. The project was presented to the council Monday night by architect Jack Begrow and Archway Motel owner Craig Wise.

City Manager Robert Hunt told council members that a problem with sanitary sewer service had been resolved with the developer and that another concern with drainage basin adequacy was probably not enough of a problem to hold up approval.

Hunt did say, however, that "I think the council would be ill-advised to approve this project when there is still a concern over a matter of public health and safety."

Council member Jeffrey Porter said, "I think this project is important to Charlevoix. I feel bad that we are delaying it."

On a motion by Council member James Block, the matter was tabled and will probably be on the agenda for a special meeting of the council this Monday night, January 11.

The council did facilitate approval of the site plan by passing an emergency zoning ordinance amendment to include hotels and motels in the C-1 classification. The move was considered a correction of an oversight in the zoning ordinance, according to Hunt.

At another meeting that night of the Charlevoix Township Board, city manager Hunt will present a resolution proposed to be drafted by the City Council Monday night calling for a state legislative amendment to the consolidation process laws making representation more equal on a charter commission.

The State Boundary Commission last month gave its blessing to a consolidation of the township and the city. According to current laws, a charter commission is to be formed with 7 city representatives and 2 township representatives.

The council will propose to the township that they jointly ask the state legislature to provide for equal representation on the charter commission.

In other action, the council:

-Approved the appointment of Mary Margaret Geiken to fill Ralph McRae's unexpired term on the Housing Commission.

-Designated the last weekend in January for a council retreat, the details for which are to be worked out later.

-Renewed the city employees' group life insurance policy with Insurance Programmers of Michigan with modifications to reflect current salary levels.

-Approved an improvement agreement with developer Michael Barnard for his commercial project at the corner of Ferry Ave and Stover Road.

Memories of five-month cruise are still fresh

This story is dedicated to all those in Charlevoix who can remember what summer is like

by DAVE KNIGHT

There are two kinds of sailboat owners in this world racers and cruisers.

There are two kinds of racers those who win and those who lose.

And there are two kinds of cruisers, those who dream and those who do.

Dr. Dennis Joy, his wife Karen and their three children are among those who did.

This past summer, the Joys fulfilled a cruiser's dream by setting out in their 35-foot sailboat from Charlevoix in early June on an epic voyage that took them through the Great Lakes, the St. Lawrence Seaway, down the Eastern coastline and eventually to Chesapeake Bay. They returned from the over 3,000-mile odyssey in late October.

"It was a fantastic trip," said Joy, "We loved every minute of it and will never forget it."

Joy's boat, SERENITY, is a Swedish-made Rasmus 35. A Minnesota native, Dennis's first exposure to sailing on the Great Lakes was only seven years ago when he and his wife moved to Charlevoix. Since that time, SERENITY has taken the Joys on several moderately long cruises in the upper Great Lake region. Until last summer, though, the longest they had spent on a cruise was three weeks on Lake Superior during the summer of 1980.

"The part of cruising we enjoy most is exploring new areas and visiting different ports," said Joy, "About two years ago we decided we'd been to all the ports in the Charlevoix and were ready to see a different part of the country. Besides, in during our previous trips, it seemed as though we never had enough time to really do everything we wanted to. For this trip, we allotted plenty of time."

Plenty of time meant from June 6 when a large group of well-wishers saw them off at the city docks to October 20 when the Joys returned to Charlevoix by car having left SERENITY in Oxford, Maryland on the eastern coast of Chesapeake Bay.

Even though the children, Marty, 11, Kirsten, 10, and Jeff, 5, left school a few days before it was recessed for the summer and missed about a month and a half of classes in the fall, the trip provided an educational experience that no classroom could ever duplicate.

Joys purposely plotted a course that would take them to the oldest and most interesting ports of the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River. It was, in one sense, a fascinating five-month history class for the Joy children with a liberal dose of geography thrown in as well.

"We traveled the same route as such great explorers as Cartier and Cabot," says Dennis, "The ports we visited were especially rich in the history of the War of 1812. I think the kids really enjoyed seeing the old forts and old cities. We even found a statue in Queenston Heights, Quebec of a General Brock who was killed in the war and to whom we claim some ancestral ties."

Other school subjects were not forgotten. Marty and Kirsten, before they left, were signed up for a correspondence course developed by the prestigious Calvert School in Baltimore. The school, which provides similar materials for such transient families as those of U.S. State Department diplomats, prepared a curriculum that Dennis and Karen could teach the children along the way and send in assignments when in port.

The two older children also shared crewing responsibilities on the boat. On overnight sails, each would take a watch while the others slept (with one eye open, says Dennis.)

SERENITY turned out to be well fitted for such a voyage. The only modifications Dennis made in preparation were a custom-built refrigeration system to accomodate frozen foods and an autopilot automatic steering mechanism

They carried six head sails but, said Dennis, used primarily light air sails, a Genoa jib particularly, for most of the trip.

"The heaviest weather we experienced was in Chesapeake Bay," said Dennis, "At one point the wind was strong enough to pull a clew out of the jib. Other than that, we were very fortunate to have good weather for almost the entire trip."

For a Great Lakea sailor, a cruise to the East Coast presents some interesting new twists. Like the tides. At some points, they experienced tide differentials of up to 20 feet which meant, when they were tied at a dock for the night, much retying of dock lines as the tide changed.

Learning to cope with tidal flows was especially crucial when SERENITY approached the mouth of the Sangenay River in Quebec. The only time the Joys could enter the scenic river was during flood tide near the end of the day. Any other time, the current was too strong for them to make it into the river.

The efforts were worth it as the fjord-like Sangenay gorge was one of their most beautiful side-trips.

Another aspect of cruising the Atlantic coastal regions that Dennis found different from the Great Lakes was the shallowness of the waters.

"We were very surprised at how much more shallow many of these areas are and have just a couple scrapes on the hull to prove it. In many ways, Chesapeake Bay, being long, narrow and protected, is very similar to Lake Charlevoix for sailing. But its aversge depth is only about ten feet. This means that seas can build up instantly as soon as a wind develops," said Dennis.

Encounters with the unfamiliar forms of wildlife were another fascinating part of the trip. The Joys saw bald eagles in Nova Scotia, seals in Maine and dolphins continuously in the coastal waters.

They also saw white beluga whales in the St. Lawrence River and what they think was a killer whale that got rather curious himself. The whale was first spotted about 100 yards away but heading toward the boat. It didn't change course and, as the Joys looked on with more than passing interest, the whale crossed SERENITY's bow only ten yards away.

Do the Joys plan another long cruise in the near future? Not right now, says Dennis, who is content to pore over the slides and journals accumulated on the last one for now. One object of the trip was to get the boat to a southern location allowing earlier use in the spring.

Eventually they may work their way to Florida; then maybe the Bahamas; then maybe the Panama Canal; then maybe...who knows?

Library to sponsor workshops for children

by ANNE KELLY

A series of workshops for school age kids will be presented at the Charlevoix Public Library beginning January 9th. Offered each Saturday morning between 11-12 o'clock during the months of January and February, the sessions have been created as an enrichment program for area youngsters as a community service. On the agenda is a variety of activities which will appeal to children of elementary and middle school age. Parents are asked to watch the Courier and flyers sent home from school which will announce the forthcoming program for the week and suggest the age group appeal. Here is a tentative schedule of activities for January and February:

Jan. 9: Plants and plant care presented by Carol Louiselle of Greenleaf Country Gardens, suggested for ages 6-9.

Jan. 16: A tour of WVOY, KGQ radio station given by Tim Moore, owner and general manager, suggested for ages 9-13.

Jan. 23: An introduction to puppetry. Suzanne Dahl, local substitute teacher, will be making puppets with the children, ages 6-9.

Jan. 30: Creative writing workshop for kids. Mary Ann Chew, elementary teacher, has developed a series of "story starters", suggested for ages 9-13.

Feb. 6: Using clay to create. Todd Warner promises to return this year with more of his zany creations and a lump of clay for each participant as well, ages 6-9.

Feb. 13: Candy-making, just in time for Valentine's Day with Beth Strawbridge, resident gormet cook and lover of sweets, ages 9-13; a make and take sampler.

Feb. 20: Birds and bird feeders; given by Betty Potter, elementary school librarian. Lots to learn about Michigan birds and how to make feeders, ages 6-9.

Feb. 27: Drug abuse awareness presented by Bob Sell of Chip Counseling Center. A must for ages 9-13.

January 9th will find Carol Louiselle of Greenleaf Country Gardens kicking off the series of Saturday Library workshops for kids with a program about plants and plant care suggested for ages 6-9. Included in the presentation will be the hands on experience of planting a small plant and learning how to help it grow and thrive. Each child will take home his-her own plant to care for.

And who better to initiate youngsters into the world of green growing things? Carol Louiselle, originally of Soo, Canada, has found a place in the sun for her greenhouse and florist shop enterprise here in Charlevoix. This is the 4th year for Greenleaf Country Gardens, located on the old Norwood Rd. just off US 31 near Barnard Rd., though she and her husband, Richard, have lived on their acre of land for 11 years. The business is a natural outgrowth of a deep love she has for plants and growing things. Raised on a farm, Carol's father was a produce farmer specializing in strawberries.

Carol admits to having "hung around the town greenhouse" while growing up in the Soo, where she tucked away a knowledge of horticulture for future use. The Greenleaf Country Garden enterprise was to be that "future use" as it turned out.

"We were going to put a greenhouse on our house," Carol recalls, but the price was too prohibitive for a hobby. It was then that she decided to "give it a try" as a business. Carol worked at Freedman Art Craft for five years during which time she was able to save enough money to construct a small shop with the help of her husband and father-in-law. The greenhouse itself was purchased in fairly good condition from a florist in Elk Rapids and took over three months to unassemble, transport and reassemble on their property. A brick floored solarium complete with fountain was later added to the original building and provides a pleasant atmosphere for browsers and shoppers beneath an array of hanging greenery and flowering plants in season.

Summer finds Carol busiest with the usual greenhouse and nursery floral business. A revival of the "cut flower wagon" idea, peddling fresh bouquets to townsfolk is another innovation for Carol. She has done some landscaping as well.

Future projections include classes in flower arranging and dried flowers and carrying a line of Bonsai (the Japanese art of potbinding and aging plants, trees, and shrubs).

Greenleaf Country Gardens is open for business 9-5, six days a week. You will find Carol busily tending to her plants and working with fresh flowers if you should stop in. Where you find Carol, there will be birds chirping, a fountain gurgling, and the green of growth with loving care all around.

Social Security changes now in effect

Four Social Security changes became effective on January 1, 1982. These changes affect almost every person living in Emmet, Charlevoix and Cheboygan counties.

The first change is in the wage base. It will increase from $29,700 in 1981 to $32,400 in 1982. This is a net increase of $2,700 in the maximum covered earnings.

Along with the wage base increase will be an increase in the social security tax (F.I.C.A.) from 6.65% to 6.70%. The actual tax will rise by $195.75 to a maximum of $2170.80 on wages. Employers will pay a matching amount on maximum earnings.

A worker earning $13,729 and paying $912.98 in social security taxes in 1981, will pay $1008.02 in 1982 based on a raise in wages to $15,045. If wages stay the same in 1982, the tax will only increase to $919.84.

Workers with income of $6,968 in 1981 and paying $463.37 in social security taxes in 1981, will pay $511.61 in 1982 based on a raise in wages to $7,636. If wages stay the same in 1982, the tax will only increase to $466.85.

Another change involves earning quarters of coverage which determines eligibility. The earnings needed for 1 quarter of coverage will raise from $310 to $340 in 1982. A total of $1,360 (4 x $340) or more in earnings will earn the 4 quarter yearly maximum.

Exempt amounts for beneficiaries working and receiving checks will also change in 1982. At age 65 and older, the exempt amount will increase from $5,500 in 1981 to $6,000 in 1982. Under age 65 exempt amounts will change from $4,080 in 1981 to $4,440 in 1982.

Additional information about these and other changes is available by calling the Petoskey Social Security Office. The phone number is 347-8727.

Northwestern Michigan College will teach accredited EMT course in Eastport this winter

Northwestern Michigan College will bring a fully accredited Emergency Medical Technician course to Eastport this winter. Joel Baillie, Emergency Services Coordinator for Northwestern Michigan College, Traverse City, has agreed to conduct an Emergency Medical Technician (E.M.T.) course in the Joseph Harrylak Training Room of the Torch Bay Ambulance Building.

This location on U.S. 31, Baillie felt, is readily accessible to Atwood, Charlevoix, Central Lake, Elk Rapids and Eastport. Baillie stated that the Twelve week intensive training course could be held in twice weekly sessions, contingent upon an enrollment of twelve or more persons. Starting in mid-January, the classes would be completed in April.

Northwestern Michigan College will provide this fast growing area with a course usually held in Traverse City on the college campus, because these areas have shown an interest in providing their own communities with such volunteer services as resque squads, fire fighters and ambulance services.

Volunteers already involved in emergency services recognize the value of such training and the tremendous advantage of having this credit course offered so close to home. Heretofore they had to travel some 40 miles each way to attend classes.

The course is open to anyone 18 years of age or older and will be held Tuesday and Thursday evenings of each week from 7 to 11 p.m.

Brush up work for current E.M.T.'s will be included. It is a challenging course of great benefit to industrial plants, family life as well as emergency service groups.

As of this writing five persons in the area are committed. All emergency service groups in the area will be contacted for prospective participation. Interested individuals please call 599-2662 immediately.

WRC workshop

The Women's Resource Center is offering an Employability Skills Workshop for women who wish to enter the job market or are contemplating a change in jobs. The workshop will begin on Tuesday, January 19, 1982 and will run for six consecutive Tuesdays (last class will be February 23) from 1:00-4:00 p.m. in Room 32 at North Central Michigan College. We will discuss job goals, communication skills, time management, interest surveys, resume writing, and interviewing techniques.

Please call the WRC office to pre-register for this free workshop. A minimum registration of eight people is needed in order to run this workshop. Phone 347-6087.

Fascinating Facts About Gold

Colleen Titsworth
Manager

We all know that gold is a magical metal. The very mention of its name brings expressions of awe and wonder and curiosity. We all at one time or another have been struck by it and wondered about it. Maybe we've wondered what makes it so valuable or so unique or so time honored, but have you ever wondered exactly how much of it is used and for what?

We all know it is used for jewelry but did you know that over 46% of all gold is used for the manufacture of jewelry. Any guess how much this is? Well, it is about 27,000,000 ounces per year. To put it another way this would make about 300,000,000 or more ladies 14K gold rings of average weight!

But if 46% of all gold available is used for jewelry, what is the rest used for? Well, there is dentistry, of course, but a lot less is used in this industry than you might think. There is about 2,200,000 ounces of gold used here. And in electronics only 2,500,000 ounces despite the recent eruption in computer manufacture. In fact, over the last ten years or so the use of gold in the electronics industry has declined by over 25%! Actually, if you add up all the industrial uses of gold outside of jewelry, all of them, they amount to only about one fifth of the amount used in jewelry!

But is this all! Aren't there any other uses for gold? In fact, there is a whole category of gold use that is almost as large as its use in jewelry. It is in the making of medals and coins and in hoarding, speculation and investment. Over the last number of years there has been a significant even spectacular increase in this area, especially in speculation/investment and the issuance of coinage and bullion by governments such as the South African Krugerrand and Credit Suisse pure gold bars. In fact, in the most recent year there are statistics available 22,000,000 ounces of gold went into this category and this was before gold hit astronomical heights in terms of price and interest.

All these uses of gold from jewelry to investment makes for a lot of gold, but can you guess how much? How much 55,000,000 ounces per year. This is over 1,000 tons?

Knight on the Town

Snow, Snow...

by Dave Knight

Dear Uncle Harley:

I just remembered what you said when I told you we weren't going to get much snow this winter.

I believe your exact words were, "Ha, ha."

Somebody said over a foot of snow came down in about seven hours yesterday morning.

I didn't see any snow coming down - it was all going sideways. At least that's what it looked like downtown. When I got home, I found out it had indeed come down. All on my driveway.

Right now there's a drift about chest high outside my garage door. Did I say drift? Looks more like a dang glacier!

Things are pretty bad all over town actually. When I skiied to work Monday morning, there were so many tires going wheeeeeee that it sounded like nobody had stopped celebrating New Years.

All this snow has created a bad epidemic of cabin fever, too. Somebody said the rescue squad was sent out on five calls yesterday with tranquilizers for mothers who had had to spend a four-day weekend with husbands and kids in the house.

Even when the roads are plowed, it can be dangerous when the wind keeps blowing. They got what they call white-outs up here which are kind of just the opposite of blackouts.

Tell Aunt El I really liked the matching mittens and sox she sent for Christmas but I think she may have gotten a little mixed up. Either she sent three mittens and one sock or she thinks I've got a long front toe on one foot.

Cousin Dwight says he got three socks and one mitten so we'll just make a trade.

Say hi to everyone back home and tell them the skiing's going to be great up here til July, the way it looks right now.

Arcticly,
Your Nephew.

Clockwise

...And more snow!

by Bob Clock

FOR WEEKS NOW I have been forecasting a mild, virtually snowless winter for Northern Michigan, mostly for the benefit of my friends to like to ski, snowmobile and participate in other fearless winter activities.

And right up until New Year's Eve, it appeared I had an uncanny knack for predicting the weather.

Then it happened. The New Year dawned on a bright and freshly minted world with a patina of new snow. And the snow has stopped only a few hours at a time since then — with the heaviest snowfall coming Monday, when we all were supposed to return to our normal pursuits.

But how can life ever assume a mantle of normalcy when the snow accumulates at the rate of several inches an hour and brisk winds create swirling whiteouts along the Lake Michigan shore?

Now such a storm wouldn't be all that unnerving if one could sit home by the fire and watch the snow collect outside solid thermopane windows.

But it's a different matter when you are forced by the nasty business of earning a living to do battle with such a storm in the pre-dawn darkness, piloting two tons of capricious machinery over lonely stretches of isloated highway, alternately drifted over or polished to a high luster by wind and snow.

MONDAY MORNING, as you might have guessed, wasn't exactly my kind of a morning. I left the house at 5:30 a.m. hoping to get to the office in Petoskey by 8 a.m. And to tell you the truth, the weather in Charlevoix wasn't all that menacing. An inch or two of snow had fallen over night but there certainly wasn't any reason for me to shovel the driveway in order to back into the street.

As I headed northwest, however, conditions changed dramatically. Visibility for all practical purposes ended at Waller Road and I was on my own, and the only indication of where the highway lay was the bank along the shoulder, which disappeared from view from time to time.

Few cars were headed toward Charlevoix at that hour, but when one hove in view I felt like I was meeting an old friend. Then awoosh! It would disappear into the darkness behind me, leaving me without a beacon.

At Big Rock Road, a snowplow was busily rolling back the shoulders and the glow from the LexaLite Plant told me I was now traveling along the Lake Michigan shore, where visibility would even be worse if that is possible.

TWO MILES FARTHER down the pike I encountered three cars parked in the right-hand lane. One apparently had had a break-down and the other two had stopped to help. They obviously didn't need a fourth car blocking traffic, so I swung into the westbound lane to pass and noticed that two other cars were following my taillights.

I hoped conditions would improve at Bay Shore, as they usually do, but Emmet County was worse than Charlevoix County. Not a snow plow was in sight, not that I could have seen one if I had run into it.

Finally, the Emmet County fairground buildings loomed on my right and I knew I had made it to Petoskey. But the worst lay just ahead.

I drew a red light at the intersection of U.S.-31 and U.S.-131 and when I started again the Ford stalled and would not start. The engine wiring apparently was saturated with snow and slush.

Two helpful passersby helped push me halfway into the driveway of a Standard gas station just around the corner and a tow truck — summoned from an all-night gas station two blocks south on U.S.-131 — pushed my car up to the station doors and deposited me at the office.

The station tells me that the Ford started right away when their mechanics arrived shortly before 8 a.m. But we're still a mile apart — and the blasted snow shows no signs of letting up.

No matter what happens from here on in, we've had our winter in the last four days — and it was a dilly.

Engaged?

Engagements

Walbridge-Slone

Mr. and Mrs. David H. Walbridge of Battle Creek announce the engagement of their daughter Kelly Sue to Eric Robert Slone of Maumee, Ohio. Eric is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Slone of Charlevoix.

The bride-elect, majoring in social work will be graduating from Michigan State University in June, 1982.

Eric is a graduate of M.S.U. with a bachelor's degree in accounting and employed by Arthur Anderson and Company in Toledo, Ohio.

The wedding will be in Battle Creek on July 10, 1982.

Former resident selected for program

A former Charlevoix resident is among 21 women from throughout the nation who have been selected to participate in a second degree program for women who want to make maximum use of their talents in mathematics and sciece.

Mrs. Stanley Harwood, the former Madelyn Rabach, now residing in Plainfield, Ind., began her course of study January 4 for a Bachelor of Science in Engineering degree from Purdue University School of Engineering and Technology at Indianapolis, one of the largest schools at Indiana University-Purdue University.

A graduate of the Charlevoix High School, Mrs. Harwood is a graduate of Central Michigan University with a B.S. degree in Education majoring in math. She has also done graduate work in this field. She has taught on a secondary school level at Clio and Flint in Michigan and Plainfield, a suburb of Indianapolis in Indiana.

"I had heard about this re-entry program for women and mentioned it to Stan, who is an electrical engineer with Chevrolet-Indianapolis. I really didn't think too much about it but he kept encouraging me to at least check it out. He even went with me to the first conference in August. After talking it over, I felt I had nothing to lose so I applied. It was a wonderful opportunity for, I could attend classes close to home; I was thrilled when I was later accepted," Mrs. Harwood said. She went on to say that she has credits in many of the required courses so feels she has a "head start" which should help. "It's been a long time, about 20 years, since I was a student. Hitting the books again isn't going to be easy, I know. However, it will be a challenge and I know I will like it," she added.

The program is funded by the National Science Foundation and Indiana University-Purdue University. Since 1976 the National Science Foundation has been funding Science Career Facilitation Programs for women with degrees in science who need a specially designed educational experience to enter or re-enter science. Women who have earned baccalaureate degrees in mathematics, physics, or closely related sciences no later than January of 1980 are eligible for the program.

Mrs. Harwood is the mother of two children, Stanley Jr., a freshman at Purdue University, and Carolyn who entered Indiana University-Purdue University on Jan. 4.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence F. Rabach of Charlevoix.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan C. Shepard of Marietta and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shepard of East Jordan and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Krulik of Charlevoix.

Dr. Evan A. Abbott of the Smyrna Baptist Church officiated at the ceremony in the presence of their immediate families and close friends.

Dorothy LaBoy attended the bride as maid of honor and Lisa Shepard, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid. Iris LaBoy was flower girl.

Wayne Goins of Gas City, Ind., assisted the bridegroom as best man. Richard Shepard was ringbearer.

The bride is employed by the McDonald Corporation. The bridegroom is employed at the Smyrna Hospital at Smyrna, Ga.

Martin-Buddle

Arrangements of seasonal poinsettias, garlands and lighted tapers graced the altar of the United Methodist Church for the wedding of Elaine R. Martin of Charlevoix and Ralph M. Buddle of Hemlock on Sunday, December 27.

The Rev. David W. Yingling officiated at the double ring service in the presence of their immediate families and close friends. Mrs. John L. Boss, at the organ, played a program of traditional music and accompanied Kenneth L. Boss who sang "And I Love You So".

Escorted to the altar by her son, Lt. Kevin L. Martin of Lubbock, Texas, the bride chose a Christmas green velvet street length gown with matching silk bolero and matching accessories for her wedding.

Her only attendant was her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Claire T. Martin. She wore a black gown with Christmas green accents.

Mark W. Buddle of San Bernito, Tex., assisted his father as best man.

Robert M. Buddle of South Haven and Claire T. Martin of Charlevoix, sons of the couple, seated the guests.

A dinner reception followed at the Grist Mill Room of the Weathervane Inn. Mr. and Mrs. George [illegible] were master and mistress of ceremonies.

After a wedding trip to [illegible] Beach, Hawaii, the couple will be at home at 4[illegible] Burns Street, Charlevoix.

Girls volleyball team prepares for 1982 season opener

The Charlevoix High School girls Volleyball team, coached by Mary Lieberman, will launch its 1982 schedule at Petoskey Wednesday, Jan. 13.

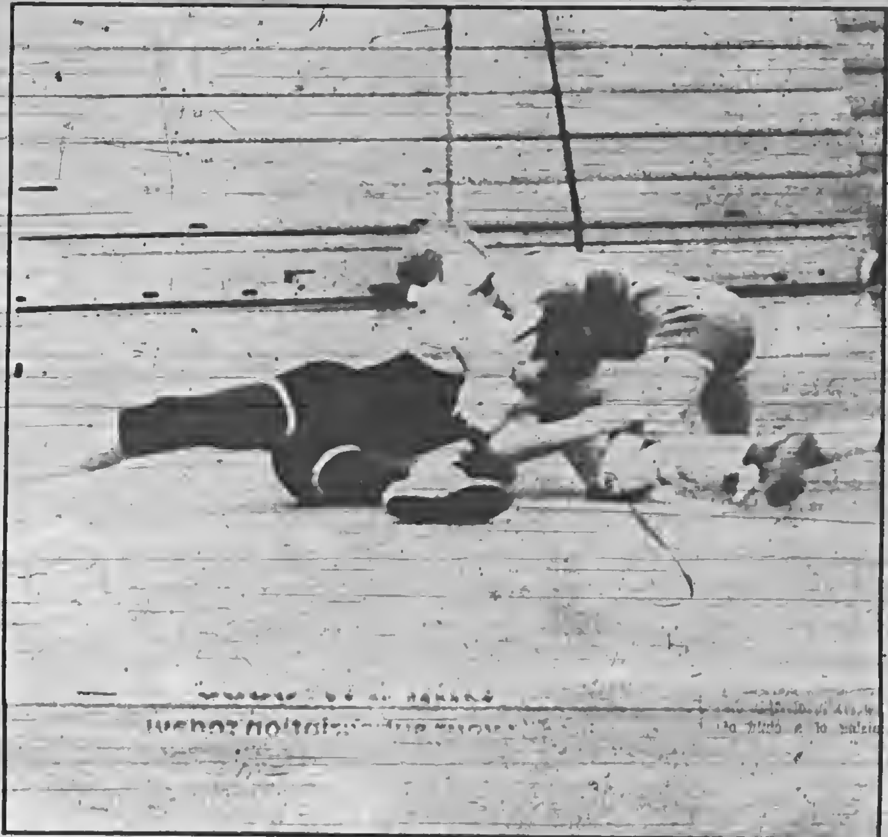
The opening game will climax six weeks of preparation for a team that will boast only one returning regular, Margo Smith, a senior and three players who lettered last season. They are Colleen LaBlance, Teri Klama and Jackie Pence, all seniors.

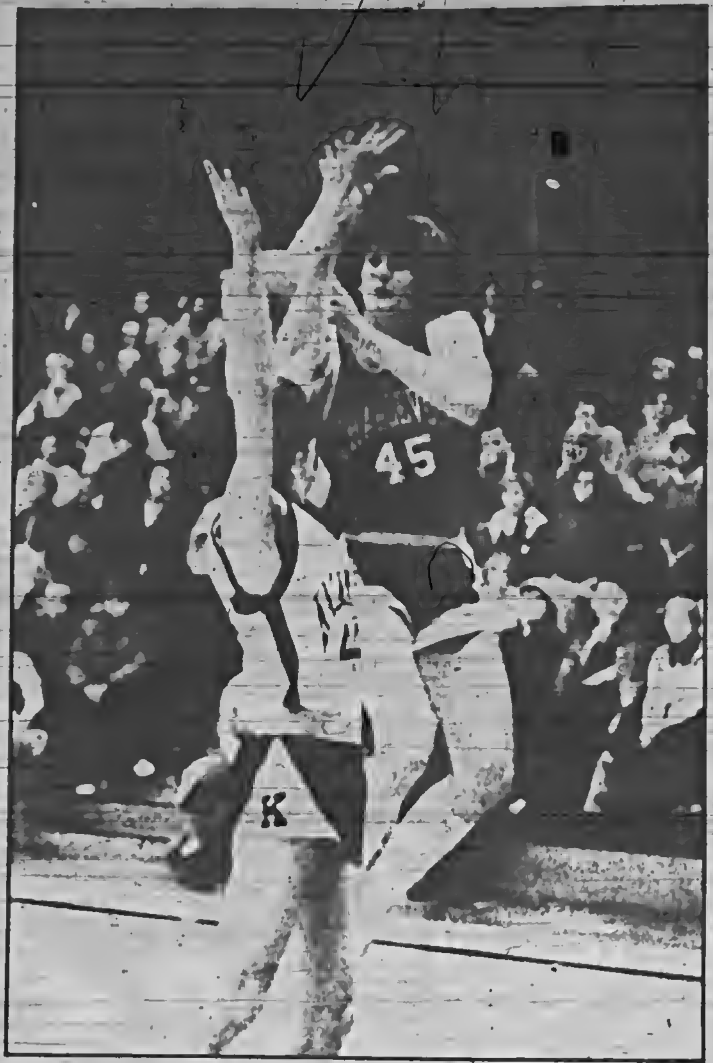
Other candidates are Colleen Sell, Connie Borths, Mary Ellen Cluk, Treasure Drost, all juniors and Laura Henry, a sophomore, whose experience has been limited to action in JV ranks.

Out for the first time are Holly Taber, a senior, and two juniors Amy Sanborn and Laura Kemp.

"We lost most of our team through graduation and we are starting a rebuilding program," Coach Lieberman said. She went on to say that Rogers City, defending Michigan-Huron Shores and District Class C champs, and St. Ignace are expected to be the strong teams in the league this season. "Most of the other teams are in the same position we are in after losing all our regulars," she continued.

Eighteen candidates for the JV team are also reporting regularly Coach Lieberman added.





Rayders return

The undefeated Charlevoix Rayder basketball team returns to action this week traveling to Harbor Springs Tuesday night for a non-conference game and hosting Rogers City Friday night to try and boost the Rayders' unmatched 5-0 league record. In previous action, Craig Klooster is shown above trying to get a shot off while, below, Dave Buday goes in for a layup. The wrestling team, left, travels to Gaylord Thursday night for a conference dual meet.

Pat Miller: Pre-school consultant

By ANNE KELLY

Pat Miller has a preschooler of her own, but taking care of 3-year old Heidi is only part of her busy life. This is Pat's 8th year serving the Char-Em Intermediate School District as a preschool consultant. A graduate of Eastern Michigan University, Pat received her B.S. in special education with a major in dealing with the emotionally impaired. She earned her M.S., also from Eastern, in the area of learning disabilities. In her capacity as pre-school consultant, Pat helps parents of physically and mentally impaired pre-schoolers identify and deal with problems now which might seem insurmountable later.

In 1973, when she first joined the Char-Em staff Pat recalls, her duties were contingent upon the recently passed Michigan Mandatory Education Act. As a result, much of her time was spent in searching out preschoolers with severe disabilities for the Intermediate's Developmental Needs program. She was the only staff member involved with pre-school aged children at that time.

Over the years, Pat sees her job description as having become more specialized. Having sought out and placed the severely impaired pre-schoolers in the district, the emphasis of her efforts was shifted to deal with the in-home problems of the slightly impaired child. Many minor problems with the developing preschooler can be best dealt with and resolved right at home. A speech and language consultant, for example, was added to aid parents concerned with children concerned with children having problems with speech development. The "pre-school team" was thusly initiated.

Today the pre-school disciplinary team, consists of Pat, as preschool consultant, a speech and language consultant, an occupational therapist and a pre-school psychologist. Pat is excited about the accomplishments of the team and about the unique opportunity they share in working with pre-schoolers and their parents.

"It's a team effort," Pat points out. "No one person makes a decision regarding a child. If I were a parent of a handicapped child, I would feel comfortable knowing that a team is seeing my child."

Pat explained the sensitivity aspect of her job. "We realize that the child is the most important commodity for the parent." When something appears wrong with the normal developmental process, the parents find themselves in an often frightening and discouraging situation. The preschool team exists to alleviate some of the burden of responsibility for the impaired child's progress and to provide a constructive plan for each child according to his individual needs.

Pat makes initial contact with the concerned parents and impaired child in the home. Usually two home visits are sufficient to size up the situation and to decide upon a course of action. At least two members of the preschool team, however, must see the child before a decision is made.

A slightly impaired child, or a child who is under the age of three, may be visited at home by each member of the team on a regular basis and an in-home program be initiated for his benefit. In this case the parents are instructed as to specific tasks that might be done with the child between visits.

If, on the other hand, the child is more severely physically or emotionally impaired, he may qualify for one of the Developmental Needs programs. At present, Char-Em provides two such programs, one in Pellston and the other in East Jordan. An Individual Education Placement Committee (I.E.P.C.) consisting of an administrator, a parent, a diagnostic team member and a receiving teacher from one of the programs, meet to devise plans for the best way to deal with each child's needs.

Pat and the preschool team are also responsible for conducting the three-year-old screenings each spring.

"The age of three seems to be the turning point," Pat explained. Parents often find that they need help in identifying and solving developmental problems at this stage. The screening is also a reassurance to many parents that their child is in fact progressing normally. If there is a problem, there will still be plenty of time before school to work on it.

The success of the total pre-school program is founded not only in the expertise of the professionals who work with the children, but also for a large part in the parents. The parents are a contributing factor in any decision-making involving the child.

"The parent cooperation level is high," Pat reports. "The child hasn't been a failure yet, so parents are eager to learn what to look for and how to help him."

Pat sparkles as she talks and it is easy to see the dedication behind her team's successes.

"It's exciting to be able to help parents change their perspective. When they begin looking for growth and improvement rather than focusing on the negative aspects of the handicap, it's a real change in attitude and outlook for them."

Once a month, Pat participates in the Developmental Assessment Clinic at Burns Clinic. Here she offers assistance in making developmental assessment of babies who have been in the neo-natal intensive care unit. Checks are made at intervals of the child's development as a kind of follow-up or progress report on the babies.

As an extra in her schedule, Pat is periodically asked to speak to nursery school or other parent groups regarding early childhood development or the preschool program at Char-Em.

But as fulfilling and rewarding as she finds her work with Char-Em, Pat and her husband, Bob, find what all parents of pre-schoolers experience—the hours of enjoyment and often concern involved in the raising of a child of their own.

Sharkey to speak here

Reginald Sharkey, wildlife columnist for the Petoskey News Review, will be the guest speaker at the January 12 meeting of the Charlevoix Garden Club. His topic will be "How Do You Feed Your Birds?"

The meeting is scheduled for 1 p.m. at the home of Lucille Ingram. Mrs. Robert Close will be the co-hostess.

Club members are advised that they should be committed to the welfare and protection of the birds which consume tons of insects and various weed seeds. They also reflect changes in the environment, warn humans when things get out of balance and cheer the world with their beauty and song.

At this time the black-capped chickadee, a talented acrobat, feeds upside cown, clinging to even the most wildly swaying twigs and branches.

And when the weather outside is frightful, thoughts of spring can be delightful! The Garden Club suggests that one of the ways to cure the winter blues is to think spring and start planning your garden now. Illustrated seed catalogs will soon be arriving in the mail. January is a time for planning and taking stock.

MID-MORNING MONDAY is usually a busy time in downtown Charlevoix but this week's storm left the downtown almost completely deserted.

HEAVY SNOWFALL over the past week has caused extensive erosion, above, of the north bank of the Pine River Channel near the bridge. The washout threatens buried water and electrical water lines, according to City Manager Robert Hunt. Hunt told City Council members Monday night that if the Army Corps of Engineers is correct in their assessment of the city's liability, the cost to the city for repair may run into the tens of thousands of dollars.

Drifting snow cripples area

by DAVE KNIGHT

Life in Charlevoix came to a virtual standstill this past Sunday and Monday as more snow, brutal winds and bitter cold temperatures swept across Northern Michigan.

A state of emergency was declared in Charlevoix County Monday morning. Drifting snow prompted the barricading of all major highways leading in and out of the city as plowing crews struggled in vain to keep up with the drifting snow. The Sheriff's Department issued frequent pleas over radio and television for drivers to stay at home and not attempt any travel on the highways.

Creating as much of a problem as the actual snow drifts was the lack of visibility. White-outs with traffic at a virtual standstill were reported on Highway 31 just south of Charlevoix near the airport and north between the Church of the Nazarene and Big Rock Point.

City crews did not get around to plowing many sidestreets until late Monday morning as they gave top priority to keeping important routes open such as to the hospital.

All area schools were closed Monday as were most industries and downtown businesses. Most meetings and other events scheduled for Monday were also cancelled.

Faulty switch KOs Big Rock try for record

by DAVE KNIGHT

Poor contact on a console switch resulted in a scram, or shutdown, Thursday at the Consumers Power Big Rock nuclear generating plant.

According to plant spokesman Phil Loomis, the occurence happened at about 1:30 p.m. Thursday during a routine testing sequence.

"There was no release of any kind therefore there was never any danger to plant personnel or area residents," said Loomis.

The shutdown came on the plant's 339th day of continuous operation. Big Rock currently holds the world record for most days of continuous operation by a boiling water reactor-type plant at 343 days. Had last week's unplanned shutdown not happened, the plant may have set a new record of 365 days of continuous operation since the regular refueling shutdown was scheduled for February.

During routine testing last Thursday, said Loomis, a reset switch on the control room console failed long enough to let air pressure drop in a scram valve system. The result was that half of the control rods were gradually inserted into the reactor vessel thus slowly shutting down the plant.

Operators had no choice, he said, but to insert the rest of the rods and totally shut down the plant.

"Had we not been doing these tests on our protection systems, which are done monthly, the shut down would not have occurred," said Loomis, "Everything worked just as it should have following the failure of the switch."

Required calls were made immediately after the shut down to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission and the state Department of Public Health. More detailed reports on the incident will be made later, said Loomis.

The plant was scheduled to be back in operation by Saturday.

WARNING SIRENS, with public address capability, have been installed at 11 locations within a five-mile radius of the Big Rock nuclear plant. All were wired and ready for testing by Friday afternoon after construction got underway the previous Monday. The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners gave the go-ahead to the project by a 12-1 vote the week before after they were told by Consumers Power officials that the company would foot the entire installation and maintenance bills. Silent testing of the system is scheduled for this week. A schedule for full tests has not yet been determined.

Fiddlers to gather for EJ jamboree

Fiddlers, banjo strummers, guitar pickers and at least one washtub bass player will congregate at the East Jordan Civic Center again this year for a jamboree and square dance on Saturday, January 16.

The event will be a repeat of the very successful jamboree held last year that attracted several musicians from across the state plus hundreds of local onlookers and square dancers.

This year the jamboree will get under way at 1 p.m. All old time fiddlers are invited to step up to the microphone and play a couple of their best tones. Guitarists, banjoists and other backup musicians (non-electrified instruments only) are welcome to play along with the back-up band at any time.

The jamboree will last until about 5 p.m. After a two-hour break, the square dance will be held from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. Callers are welcome as are all musicians.

Refreshments will be available all day and donations will be accepted at the door. The jamboree and square dance is sponsored by the Original Michigan Fiddlers' Association which holds similar events at various locations throughout the state.

Expanded ski lodge is raffle goal

by DAVE KNIGHT

The Charlevoix Recreation Commission put the final touches this week on a raffle planned to raise funds for the expansion of the Mt. McSauba ski lodge.

According to City Recreation Director Dwight Boss, 300 tickets will go on sale this week at $20 apiece. In a drawing to be held as soon as the tickets are sold, a first prize of $1,000 will be awarded. Other prizes include a second place check for $500 and $100 for third. Thirteen other winners will receive ski passes for Mt. McSauba worth $30 each.

The addition to the McSauba lodge, as designed by local architect Lou Orlowski, features a 20' by 40' recreation room, heated by a free standing fireplace in the middle, on the south end of the existing building. A 20' by 22' equipment storage garage will also be added next to the rec room.

Footings for the addition have already been poured, said Boss, so construction can start as soon as the snow is off the ground.

"This will be a great addition to our ski program but it will really be a help to the summer day camp operation. Youngsters will have the building in which to bunk instead of tents and it will give us some needed space for programs such as arts and crafts," said Boss.

The City Council has already allocated $4,000 for the project with the understanding that the commission come up with an equal amount to make the $8,000 total cost.

According to state need index, county not so bad off after all

by DAVE KNIGHT

Despite all the self-flagellation Charlevoix County residents have inflicted upon themselves since the last unemployment figures came out (which showed Charlevoix County, at 17.3 percent, to be the highest in the state), the state has determined that Charlevoix County is only the 1,516th most needy unit of government out of a total of 1,601.

That does not mean, however, that all governmental bailiwicks within the county are as well off. Boyne City, for example, has been deemed to be the 20th most needy community in Michigan.

These numerical rankings are part of a "need index" compiled each year by the state Office of Community Development. The index is one of the evaluation tools used by state and regional planners to determine which Michigan communities are most in need of financial assistance.

Counties, cities and townships are all ranked on the same list. The higher the index number, the less needy the unit. While the ten-county Northwest Michigan region is generally regarded as one of the state's more depressed, within it are the fourth least needy local unit, Leelanau County at 1,598 and the second most needy unit, Cross Village Township in Emmet County at No. 2.

The reason that Charlevoix County and several townships within (see accompanying list) are assigned such relatively high rankings despite the high unemployment in the county is that unemployment is but one of seven factors used to compute the index.

The other factors include per capita income, percent of families living in poverty, the tax base (SEV) per capita, the trend (increase or decrease since 1975) of the tax base, the relative tax effort of the unit and the percent of old housing. These values are updated as often as new data is available. The need index itself is determined annually.

According to economic development specialist Dan Hannigan of the Northwest Michigan Regional Planning and Development Commission, the index is relied on heavily for the allocation of block grant funding, most of which is administered through the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Block grants have been used, in the past, primarily for housing projects. The federal government is now exploring, however, several other means to stimulate economic development with block grant funding and has given the state much more flexibility in allocation, says Hannigan.

He adds that the need index is not the only determinant used in allocating grants. Other concerns include how a specific project will impact the community in terms of jobs, tax base, etc. and how the project will conform to local and regional planning directives.

The following need index numbers are based on a total of 1,601 governmental units. The higher the number, the less needy the community.

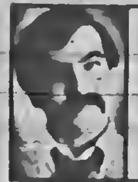
Opinion



Knight on the Town

Operation Petunia

by Dave Knight

While everyone else has been preoccupied with shoveling snow lately, Dale Boss has had petunias on his mind. Not just a flat or two for his garden, but $3,500 worth.

That will be just about enough, he thinks, to line both sides of Highway 31 from the M-66 intersection to the Mt. McSauba sign on the north side. Just about enough, that is, to make Charlevoix the Beautiful beautiful again.

"This town has gotten filthy," said Boss Saturday at a meeting of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful (KCB). "After years of sanding and salting, we need to do something about the mess that has built up along the roadway. Charlevoix the Beautiful just isn't beautiful anymore."

Boss could not have picked a more appropriate audience for his proposal. Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, in the two months or so since its formation, has made long strides already toward becoming a viable and valuable organization. Perhaps its most amazing accomplishment to date has been the dialogue established between "townies" (natives) and "newcomers" (non-natives).

"I'm a townie," says Boss, "And I was a little skeptical at first of this KCB group." The organization was founded by Bruce and Barabara MacArthur who recently established year round residence in Charlevoix after summering here for many years when they lived in Grand Blanc.

"But I went to their meeting Saturday and I liked what I saw," said Boss, "It's time we townies get off our duffs and do something to promote this town."

The "something" Dale has in mind is no small "something", either.

He envisions the petunia planting project to involve a semi-load of flowers, several truck loads of city sludge, 700 volunteers armed with rototillers and the biggest picnic lunch Charlevoix has ever seen. According to the proposed plan, after the roadsides are cleaned, a Site Planning Development truck loaded with city sludge, otherwise bound for the Medusa reclamation site, will spread its cargo instead along each side of the road. Volunteers with rototillers will then follow right behind to till up the beds. The semi with the flowers will park on the south end of town and the planting will begin. It will go from block to block, right through the middle of town (none on the bridge; Highway Department won't allow it) to the northern limits.

After the planting comes the picnic.

All this is being tentatively planned for KCB's Pride Day on May 22.

Where does the promotion come in? If Boss has his way, ABC network cameras dispatched from New York will be ready and waiting when the first petunias come off the truck.

"We always shoot too small...we've got to shoot big on this thing!" he says.

The KCB executive committee evidently agrees. Following the general KCB meeting Saturday, the executive committee voted its unanimous support for the project and named Dale Boss chairman of a special committee to explore funding and other details.

According to KCB president Bruce MacArthur, an appropriate name for the petunia planting project is still being sought. The Courier welcomes all area residents to submit their ideas for publication in the coming weeks.

"If you really love a place, you want to do everything in your power to promote it," said Boss, "Besides, let's enjoy some flowers now; not after we're dead and buried."

Clockwise

Don't be too smug

by Bob Clock

I suppose there was a great deal of back-slapping and general good fellowship in offices of the American Civil Liberties Union around the country last week when U.S. District Judge William Overton announced his decision in Arkansas' celebrated "Creation-Science" case.

Judge Overton, as you'll recall, ruled that Arkansas can no longer require its teachers to teach the biblical theory of creation.

The decision came on the heels of lengthy court proceedings initiated by the ACLU and others challenging an Arkansas law demanding equal time for so-called "Creation-Science" (i.e., Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden), so long as schools were going to teach the theory of evolution.

For many of us, the trial was embarrassing because the testimony was so lop-sided and so heavily weighted in favor of the ACLU. Arguments against the law were based not only on our cherished doctrine of separation of church and state but battalions of well dressed, highly respected educators from across North America were called in to point out the folly of attempting to teach Genesis as rock-ribbed fact.

Their job was easy compared to that of the state Attorney General Steve Clark who drew up his case pretty much on faith alone.

Judge Overton's decision, of course, was the right one. The state simply cannot tolerate - much less require - the teaching of the biblical theory of creation in public schools. There is absolutely nothing in the Book of Genesis that can be duplicated in the laboratory and the names of the authors are lost in the mists of time, so their veracity may not be questioned.

Furthermore, the ACLU tells us that Judge Overton's written opinion is so well articulated, so tight that the possibility of appeal appears highly improbably.

So be it. The issue seems to be one which must be decided by each generation.

But I hope that in their victory, members of the ACLU don't feel overly smug about the Bible-thumpers in our midst who stood up for Creation-Science. Sometimes I think we tend to lose sight of the fact that although Genesis cannot be proven, neither can the theory of evolution.

Meticulous research over the years certainly points toward evolution; but we still do not know for sure how life began on Planet Earth. We have learned the chemical formula for DNA - the basic substance of living matter - but as yet we are unable to create even the most simple life forms in our sophisticated laboratories.

Man - the Scientist - has come a long way, but not quite far enough to satisfy all the skeptics.

I also have trouble writing off "Creation-Science" as hocus-pocus when I consider the amazing order of the universe.

Is it by chance that celestial bodies move perpetually through the heavens along charted pathways?

Is it by chance that the sun will rise tomorrow at such-and-such an hour and set tomorrow night at such-and-such an hour without tinkering or intervention by the hand of man?

Is the symmetry of a snowflake accidental?

Why must the seasons always follow one another in a particular order?

Why don't apples fall up instead of down?

Why do mama robins have baby robins and mama cats have kittens?

How can two rank amateurs in the back seat of a souped-up Chevy produce a perfect human being - an accomplishment that has confounded the most brilliant minds of evry generation?

That is why I hope the ACLU doesn't feel too smug. There are still too many unanswered questions.

Annual LCPOA report on Lake Charlevoix quality

During the last year the Lake Charlevoix Property Owners Association continued its efforts in the preservation and betterment of Lake Charlevoix. The facts that the lake is known as one of the highest quality bodies of water, and the other area attractions, bring thousands to use it, buy land around it and value its beauty. The Property Owners' Association is the only organization solely interested in the lake's welfare and in helping it to withstand the increased pressure that its quality attracts.

Some of the specific actions of the Association this past year are:

Close cooperation with the Northwest Regional Planning the Development Commission, The Michigan Lakes and Stream Association, and the District Health Department. These organizations have been important as sources of help, information and common interests. This fall the LCPOA, The Northwest Regional Planning Commission and the Health Department all cooperated in a Cladophora mapping project; an important tool in identifying sources of nutrient pollution. The results of this will be made available to LCPOA members soon. From this individuals and areas that are adding nutrients from septic fields, fertilizer use, livestock, etc. can be identified and solutions to the problem sought.

Water quality measurement as part of the DNR self help program continued this year. The clarity studies are done each week during the summer months. Next year we will increase the stations tested using member volunteers and additional equipment. This effort is one of the best at signalling any changes in the lake. The significant dredging activity at both ends of the main body this summer did have an effect on the water clarity, but it is expected to be only temporary. The Lake Association was closely in contact with the new condominium developments being built on the lake. As a result we formulated and had approved by the annual meeting, a development policy that focused our efforts not in stopping development, but in making sure it was the best possible and least threatening to Lake Charlevoix. As a result of this policy, we are presently organizing a workshop on greenbelt protection with the Cooperative Extension Service and the governmental units surrounding the lake. We hope this will result in significant new zoning regulation and practical protection of the lake environment.

Even though we had to drop our legal action against the National Fish Hatchery for nutrient pollution to the South Arm, we continue to watch the situation. When new discharge permit hearings are held, we will put all possible pressure on the DNR to remove this large threat to our lake quality.

Another significant action of the Assiocation this past year is to operate with a part-time administrator. All regular activities of the Association are now carried out by the administrator with the Board of Directors formulating all policy. As with all things our costs this year increased enough to necessitate an increase in dues to $15 a year. A referendum on the increase was held in November and the result was a 94 percent approval for the increase. This will make possible increased printing, mailing, equipment and other services, all to better the lake environment.

We have many more ideas and programs to be accomplished in 1982. With your support the lake will be protected and improve. Year 1982 dues are now due and payable. It is important to our planning to receive payment by January 30. Regular memberships are $15 and associate dues are $7.50. There are no longer any group memberships. Thank you for your help and support.

Stop Smoking clinic to be held

Charlevoix Area Hospital is sponsoring an unique five-day Stop Smoking Clinic beginning Monday Jan. 18 at 7:30 p.m., under the direction of Raymond Hamstra and Gary Russell.

The five-day program, open to anyone in the area, will be held evenings Monday through Friday, the week of the 18th from 7:30 to 9:00 p.m. The session will be held in Charlevoix Area Hospital's classrooms on the lower level of the new wing.

Hamstra and Russell, both experienced leaders of similar clinics around Michigan, will lead participants through the process of quitting smoking, helping them develop their will power while understanding the effects smoking has had on their bodies.

Hamstra has conducted over 40 such clinics in the Detroit area for the American Cancer Society and Michigan Cancer Foundation. Russell holds a Masters Degree in Public Health and has also had considerable experience conducting Stop Smoking Clincs. Hamstra said that as many as 90 percent of the participants in such clinics can be successful in their efforts to kick the smoking habit.

Each participant will be given a booklet containing daily specific suggestions for dealing with the desire for a cigarette. The booklet details what foods tend to stimulate a desire for nicotine, what foods help the body rid itself of nicotine, and what kinds of activities can help a person avoid becoming overwhelmed by the urge to light up.

Each evening's session will combine psychological and physiological information helpful to people wishing to quit smoking, Hamstra said, in an interview.

Films, both motivational and informational will help participants strengthen their resolve and will power. The dynamics of quitting with a group of people going through the same struggle will also help.

Hamstra, Pastor of the Petoskey Seventh Day Adventist Church emphasized that while this Five Day Program was developed by his church, the program is not religious.

In the early 1960's Reverend Elmond Folkenberg and Dr. Wayne McFarland conceived the Five Day Program. Today it is being used around the world, Hamstra reported.

"The booklet has been translated into many languages. I'm told it is being used with great success in Moslem countries, in Asia and North Africa," he said.

Each evening will include direct information on topics such as the psychological aspects of habit and the physiological aspects of smoking. There will be time for questions and answers, group sharing of problems and successes, and tips on how to lessen the drive to smoke, how to strengthen will power and how to control weight. Films on smoking, the human heart and lungs, and building will power will be included.

Sponsored by the Community Education Committee of Charlevoix Area Hospital, the Stop Smoking Clinic is another in the hospital's series of monthly presentations to the public. The series was initiated over a year ago by hospital employees who believe that preventive medicine and community health are an important part of the hospital's service to the community.

Participation in the Stop Smoking Clinic will be limited to approximately 40 participants. Those wishing to join the group should register by Friday January 15, by calling Charlevoix Area Hospital switchboard at 547-4024. A $5 donation is asked to cover costs of the five-day progrsm.

Besides learning body awareness in some basic calisthenics, the moms and tots will follow the leader aerobically, have some fun crawling and releasing tension and have time for hugging between stretch-outs.

The ten week session is from January 18 through March 25, costs $30 for the pair, and will be held Mondays at 2:30 p.m. or Thursdays at 11:00 a.m. The Charlevoix Gym Club will be the site of activity both for regular classes and for the special free class to be held on Saturday, January 16, at 9:30 a.m.

Teacher Feature

Barbara Bump

Barb Bump is presently teaching a self-contained 6th grade class at Charlevoix Middle School, but most of her teaching years have been spent teaching Social Studies on that grade level in Charlevoix.

Originally from Lansing, Barb graduated from the University of Michigan with a degree in language. It was much later, in fact after her own children reached the junior high level, that she decided to return to school for a teaching certificate.

While her children were growing up, Barb found that she became very active and involved with their education, especially through the Parent-Teacher Organization.

"From my own children's educational experiences, I got an idea of what a good teacher should be." Barb decided to become that sort of teacher herself.

Earning her teaching certificate from Michigan State University, Barb began her teaching career with 2½ years spent in Lansing's inner city

NO. 81-[illegible] PZ

In the Matter of the Complaint of the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

On reading and filing the complaint of the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan praying for a judgment in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of land therein described, for the amounts therein specified, claimed to be due for taxes, interest and charges on each such parcel of land, and that such lands be sold for the amounts so claimed by the State of Michigan.

It is ordered that said complaint will be brought on for hearing and judgment at the February term of the Court to be held at Charlevoix in the County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, on the 1st day of February A.D. 1982 at the opening of the Court on that day, and that all persons interested in such lands or any part thereof, desiring to contest the lien claimed thereon by the State of Michigan for such taxes, interest and charges, or any part thereof, shall appear in said Court, and file with the clerk thereof their objections thereto on or before the first day of the term of the Court above mentioned, and that in default thereof the same will be taken as confessed and a judgment will be taken and entered as prayed for in said complaint. And it is further ordered that in pursuance of said judgment the lands described in said complaint for which a judgment of sale shall be made, will be sold for the several taxes, interest and charges thereon as determined by such judgment, on the first Tuesday in May thereafter, beginning at 10 o'clock a.m. on said day, or on the day or days subsequent thereto as may be necessary to complete the sale of said lands and of each and every parcel thereof, at the office of the County Treasurer, or at such convenient place as shall be selected by him at the county seat of the county of Charlevoix, State of Michigan; and that the sale then and there made will be a public sale, and each parcel described in the judgment shall be separately exposed for sale for the total taxes, interest and charges, and the sale shall be made to the person paying the full amount charged against such parcel and accepting a conveyance of the smallest undivided fee simple interest therein; or, if no person will pay the taxes and charges and take a conveyance of less than the entire thereof, then the whole parcel shall be offered and sold. If any parcel of land cannot be sold for taxes, interest and charges, such parcel shall be passed over for the time being, and shall, on the succeeding day, or before the close of the sale, be reoffered, and if on such second offer, or during such sale the same cannot be sold for the amount aforesaid, the County Treasurer shall bid off the same in the name of the State.

Witness the Hon. Martin B. Snaghner, Circuit Judge, and the seal of said Circuit Court of Charlevoix County this 21st day of December A.D. 1981.

STATE OF MICHIGAN
IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF CHARLEVOIX

In the Matter of the Complaint of the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

TO THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF Charlevoix.

LOREN E. MONROE, State Treasurer of the State of Michigan, respectfully shows unto the Court:

1. That he is the State Treasurer of the State of Michigan and therefore files the complaint on der, by virtue of and pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 206 of the Public Acts of 1893, as amended, and Act No. [illegible] of P.A. [illegible], as amended.
2. That Schedule A annexed hereto is the tax record required by the act first above mentioned and contains the description of the lands in the aforesaid county upon which taxes which were assessed for the years mentioned therein, have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent; the description of the lands in said county heretofore bid off in the name of the State and then held and upon which taxes which were assessed subsequent to the tax for which such lands were sold to the State have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent.
3. That extended separately in said schedule against each description of said lands therein contained are (a) the total amount of delinquent taxes upon said description for the non-payment of which the same may lawfully be sold at the next annual tax sale, (b) interest computed thereon as provided by law to the first day of May next ensuing, (c) a collection fee of four per cent which shall be a minimum of $1.00 as provided by Section 211.58 C.L. 1970 as amended, and (d) $10.00 for expenses as in accordance with the provisions of the act first above mentioned.
4. That the aforesaid taxes, interest and charges are valid, delinquent and unpaid, and have remained delinquent and unpaid for sufficient time to authorize and require, as provided by the foregoing acts, the sale of the aforesaid parcels of land against which they were assessed and are extended in said schedule at the next annual tax sale for the non-payment thereof, and that the said taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses so extended in said schedule against each parcel of land therein described constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein and against which extended in favor of the people of the State of Michigan, the payment of which lien this court may enforce as a preferred or first claim upon such lands by the sale thereof.

Wherefore your plaintiff prays:

a. That within the time provided by law this court may determine and adjudge that the aforesaid taxes, interest, collection fee and charges are valid and constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein extended.
b. That within the time provided by law this court make a final judgment in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands for the payment of the several amounts of taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses as computed and extended in said schedule against the several parcels of land therein contained, and the amounts listed in the column headed "aggregate" shall constitute the amounts adjudged against the said several parcels, unless as amended by the court.
c. That said judgment provide that in default of the payment so ordered of the said several sums computed and extended against said lands in said schedule, the said several parcels of land, or such interest therein as may be necessary to satisfy the amount adjudged against the same, shall severally be sold as the law provides.
d. That your plaintiff may have such other and further relief in the premises as to the court may seem just and equitable.

And your plaintiff will ever pray, etc.

Tim Moore

Next library workshop to explore world of radio

Saturday, January 16, will find local personality of the airwaves, Tim Moore, participating in the second of a series of Saturday workshops for kids sponsored by the Charlevoix Public Library.

"Kids have an image of what they think goes on in a radio station," Tim observed tongue-in-cheek (having been a kid himself not too long ago). "They're often surprised to see the actual studio and learn from where the music originates."

He will be on hand to host a tour of the WVOY-KHQ studio for students in the age 9-13 category from 11-12 o'clock. Perhaps they will watch Bob Harper or Rob Hazelton do a broadcast, or see how a commercial is produced. Seeing the recording studio and the automatic equipment will perhaps give the kids a glimpse into the world of radio from a slightly different vantage point.

Planning Dept. lists ten projects for 1982

by PEG OHLE

At least one department of County government has its work cut out for 1982.

The Planning Department has set up a work schedule showing how it will spend its 1,820 hours, or 210 days, or 52 weeks of time during the year.

As set forth by County Planner Lawrence Sullivan, the schedule is divided into the ten different projects to which the County Planning Department will devote its time. Each project is further divided into segments and a certain amount of time allocated to each segment. The total time allocated to all the projects equals total working time.

The schedule was approved by the County Planning Commission, subject to modifications, according to Sullivan.

"It gives me a guide as to how to spend my time," Sullivan explains. "If I find I'm spending too much time on one project and not enough on another, I can change over."

The ten projects the Planning Department will be working on during the year are Solid Waste (garbage disposal), Land Use Inventory, Transportation Inventory Update, Recreation, Natural Resources Inventory Update, Planning Commission meetings, Economic Planning, Regional Planning, and Township Assistance.

The Planning Department has been working on a Solid Waste plan for about two years and is scheduled to complete the project next June. It is estimated that it will take 350 hours of work to finish this project.

The Land Use Inventory will consist of a study of how land in the County is being used and misused. The Planning Department will work with air photos, make field checks, and produce a comprehensive map. This will be the major project of the year, taking approximately 500 hours, and is scheduled for completion next November.

The County's transportation facilities will be the subject of the Transportation Inventory Update. Information on road, rail, boat, and air traffic will be compiled in a 35-hour study during the year.

Services which communities are offering the public, and how they are offering them, will be studied for the Community Facilities and Services Inventory Update. To be considered are water and sewer facilities, police and fire protection, and the County Transit System. The Planning Department will devote approximately 50 hours to this study, completing it by the end of the year.

The Recreation study will include an inventory of present recreation facilities, suggested plans for further development, and public hearings to learn the wishes of local residents about recreation facilities.

The Planning Department has allocated 100 hours to this project between now and the end of May.

The Natural Resources Inventory Update will contain climate information and point out such special lands as the flood plain, prime forest lands, and prime and special agricultural lands. This study will receive approximately 80 hours of attention.

One hundred and twenty hours have been allocated to the planning and holding of County Planning Commission meetings.

Economic Planning, including general economic planning, the County Economic Development Corporation, and the preparation of a brochure by the end of February will take up approximately 205 hours of the Planning Department's time.

Regional Planning and Assistance to the Townships within Charlevoix County are scheduled for 268 hours of allocated time throughout the year.

The Charlevoix County Planning Department is a two-person department consisting of Sullivan and Barbara Feis, who holds the title of "Assistant to the Planner". The Planning Department works under the immediate jurisdiction of the County Planning Commission, which is made up of eight men and two women from all areas of the County.

County building permits slumped in 1981; down to 500

by PEG OHLE

The Charlevoix County Department of Building Inspection issued 500 permits during 1981, down from 579 in 1980. Construction covered by the permits amounted to $8,752,508, down from $10,751,844 in 1980.

These figures, contained in the Department's annual report released last week, indicate a continuing slowdown in construction in Charlevoix County. In 1979, 699 permits were issued for $10,867,335 worth of work. In 1978, 673 permits were issued for $15,247,635 worth of work, including a new building at the Medusa Cement Company.

Boyne City led all other political units in the number of permits issued, due largely to residential additions and remodeling work done in the city. Twenty-three permits were issued for new residences, eight for residential garages, one for a porch, two for new commercial buildings, seven for commercial additions and remodeling, two for demolitons, and one each for a mobile home addition, residential outbuilding, and commercial outbuilding.

The City of Charlevoix, which headed the list last year, was second in the number of permits issued, with 52. The County's third city, East Jordan, accounted for 26 permits.

In the outlying areas, Eveline Township led the list, with 51 permits, followed by Charlevoix Township, 33; South Arm Township, 33, Melrose Township, 33; Hayes Township, 32, Wilson Township, 29; Boyne Valley Township, 26; Marion Township, 25; Bay Township, 23, St. James Township, 21; Peaine Township, 15; Norwood Township, 14; Hodson Township, 13; Evangeline Township, 12; Chandler Township, four; and Boyne Falls, three.

Eveline Township led the list in permits for new residences. Twenty-two permits were issued for new houses in Eveline Township, 12 of them in the Hemingway Pointe Club subdivision.

There was a mini building boom on Beaver Island, where 17 permits for new residences were issued, 11 in St. James Township and six in Harbor Springs surprises Rayders with fourth quarter torrent

Whether it was a case of too much Christmas turkey or looking too far ahead, the Charlevoix Rayders' patented second half charge failed to materialize at a January 5 game at Harbor Springs.

The Rayders lost their first ballgame of the season to the Rams 74-63. Though Charlevoix's conference record remains unblemished at 5-0, their overall tally for the year now stands at 6-1.

Friday night's scheduled conference game with Rogers City was one of several high school contests cancelled or postponed because of the heavy snowfall that day. The Rogers City game to have been played Friday night has been rescheduled for February 9.

Charlevoix coach Dave Smith probably wishes Tuesday's game could have been cancelled, too. At least the fourth quarter.

In control until late in the third quarter, Charlevoix suddenly couldn't buy a basket. They saw a slim lead disintegrate in a hurry as the Rams poured in 18 unanswered points and storm to an eleven-point lead, 82-51, that was never relinquished.

In the first quarter, Charlevoix led 19-17 and kept the pace steady through the second taking a 37-32 lead into the lockeroom. At the third quarter mark, the Rayders still clung to a 51-47 advantage before being blown away, 27-12, in the final quarter for the 74-63 Harbor Springs victory.

Craig Klooster led individual scoring for Charlevoix with 16 while Gary Drury, Mike Loper and Jim Buchanan each contributed 12, Ross Carey six and George Smith five. Harbor Springs' Mark Lauer and Pete Kelbel tied for game honors with 16 apiece.

Charlevoix's junior varsity squad also fell flat last Tuesday night losing the preliminary game 45-32. The Rayder JVs were held to single figure scoring in three of four quarters. Tim LaBlance and Bill Tillen each had eight points while Dane Tollas added six, Pat Mitchell five and Wayne Bergmann four.

This week's action includes a trip to Onaway Tuesday night and to St. Ignace on Friday.

Middle School wins

Charlevoix's Middle School basketball teams defeated their counterparts at Harbor Springs in the first outing of the New Year Monday.

The eighth graders defeated their opponent by a score of 37-29 while the seventh grade squad won by a 39-30 margin.

Jodi Putman scored 10 points and Sean Ferguson nine as Charlevoix led 11-4, 22-13, and 29-23 by quarters. Doug Tippett had eight points for the young Rams.

The seventh graders trailed 10-9 at the quarter before taking over 20-16 at halftime and 27-22 going into the final period.

Kevin Shepard had 15 points and Terry Bonar nine to pace the nine players who scored for Charlevoix. Dickinson and Clancy had 10 each for Harbor.

The Charlevoix Middle School teams will host Boyne City teams here Monday, Jan. 18.

Adult basketball league results

Basketball league action on January 8 saw Charlevoix Truss and Lumber beat Air Force 63-47. For the winners, Bill Annon had 16, Tom Morrison 14 and Scott Blanchard 12. For Air Force, Hal Hogue had 18 and Chris Clayton 13.

Boyne Machine walked all over Wojan beating them 59-27. Jeff Baillargeon had 17 and Marc Molka 12 for Boyne while Stan Martin led Wojan with eight.

First State Bank toppled Medusa 45-38 behind 11 points from Bernie Devries. Doug Winnell had 12 and Ken Balch 10 for the losers.

On January 7 it was Townhouse over Village Inn Pizza 71-52. Steve Dunkleberg accounted for 20 Townhouse point, with Rick Lesley and Steve Smith adding 12 and 10 respectively. For VIP, Jerry Skippergosh had 13 and Jim Parrish and Vince Left, 12 apiece.

Ellsworth I.D.C. topped Klooster John Deere 79-60. For the winners, John Nachazel had 17, Larry Taylor 16, Tex Drenth 14, Brian Farrell 13 and Randy Holecbeck 11. For Kloosters, Bud Klooster had 15, Kevin Swanson 13 and Wally Drenth 10.

Great Lakes Energy stopped Boyne Auto 68-61 with Tom Beyers contributing 10 and Tim Hartwick 19. Rob Spencer had 17 for Boyne Auto.

Buchanan wins again

Because of last week's snowstorm, last week's basketball contest results were not published. In that contest, LeRoy Buchanan won his fourth first prize after tying Norman Alley of Berkley and then guessing the tie breaker of 136 points on the head.

Buchanan has now accumulated prizes worth $55 in the Courier basketball contest over the past four weeks.

City of Charlevoix Council Minutes

January 4, 1982
8:00 P.M.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time with Mayor Staley presiding.

Present: Councilmembers Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, and Block. Absent: Councilman-elect Morris.

The Minutes of the regular meeting of December 21, 1981, were approved as presented in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes Book.

The following Emergency Ordinance was offered and moved for its adoption by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Wood.

Ordinance No. 394

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX HEREBY ORDAINS that Chapter 51, entitled Zoning, Article IV, entitled Use Districts, Section 5.82, entitled Use Regulations, be amended to add the following additional provision to said Ordinance, which shall be designated as sub-section (18) and read as follows:

Section 5.82
(18) Motels or Hotels

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX HEREBY ORDAINS that Chapter 51, entitled Zoning, Article IV, entitled Use Districts, Section 5.82, entitled Use Regulations, be amended to re-designate the current sub-section (18) as sub-section (19) and read as follows:

Section 5.82
(19) Other similar retail business or service establishments; provided, however, such uses shall be found to be similar by the Planning Commission.

Pursuant to City Charter, Article V, Section 5.4, IT IS HEREBY DECLARED that this Amendment Ordinance is enacted as an emergency measure so that same may be given immediate effect on the date of its introduction. This declaration is made for the reason that the current zoning classification entitled "Community Service Commercial" (C-1) fails to provide for the establishment or operation of motels or hotels and for that reason the enforcement of this ordinance without amendment will have a substantial adverse effect on vested property rights.

Ordinance was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, and Block. Nays: None. Absent: Councilman-elect Morris

Enter Councilman-elect Morris who took the Oath of Office as administered by Mayor Staley, the Mayor and Councilmembers Porter and Timms having been sworn into office prior to the meeting by the City Clerk.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Timms that a Public Hearing be held on January 18, 1982 at 8:00 P.M. regarding a proposed permanent Amendment to the City Zoning Ordinance which would allow motels and hotels in the C-1 zoned sections of the City.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, Morris and Block. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Mayor Staley opened nominations for the position of Deputy Mayor for 1982. Moved by Councilman Timms and supported by Councilwoman Roloff that Councilman Wood be nominated as a candidate for the position of Deputy Mayor. Councilman Morris moved to close nominations and Councilman Wood was unanimously elected as Deputy Mayor by voice vote.

The City Manager suggested that Council table consideration of the site plan for the Atrium Motel and Conference Center until more information is provided by the developer regarding drainage on the site and adequacy of the water supply for fire fighting purposes. Craig Wise, the developer, and Jack Begrow, architect for the project, objected to the matter being tabled on the grounds that too much detailed information was being required for a preliminary review. Mr. Begrow stated that such details are generally worked out with the Building Inspector's department. The City Manager maintained that inadequate information had been submitted for Council to properly evaluate the site plan. The Council discussed the balance of the plan and generally agreed to hold a special Council meeting on January 11, 1982 to consider approval of the site plan if all required information is available by that date.

Council generally agreed to table defining the scope of the proposed stormsewer project to allow further discussion at the Committee of the Whole meeting scheduled for January 11, 1982.

Moved by Councilman Timms and supported by Councilman Block to accept Mayor Staley's appointment of Mary Margaret Galken to the Charlevoix Housing Commission to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Ralph McRae, said term to expire on April 19, 1982.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas. Councilmembers Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, Morris and Block. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilwoman Roloff to authorize the City Manager to sign an Improvements Agreement with Michael Barnard for his proposed commercial project at the corner of Ferry Ave. and Stover Rd., said Agreement to include provisions for on-site drainage.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, Morris and Block. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Morris and supported by Councilman Porter to raise the City's senior level employees life insurance coverage to their current salary levels.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, Morris and Block. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council briefly discussed a letter to the City from the D.N.R. regarding the City's groundwater contamination problem. The City Manager pointed out that technical assistance from the E.P.A. as well as E.P.A. funding to replace the City's water supply may be available to the City that he would pursue the possibility of this assistance.

The City Manager reported that, due to erroneous information given to him by the Traverse City office of Consumer's Power Co., his projected rate increase of 26% in the cost of wholesale power to the City under his new agreement with Consumer's was incorrect and the increase would in fact be closer to 14%.

The City Manager reported that he had contacted the Charlevoix Historical Society regarding their proposal to convert the old water tower into an observation tower and had advised the Society that a written opinion from a qualified engineer regarding the structural adequacy of the tower and written evidence of support from property owners in the vicinity of the tower would be required before the City Council could properly consider the proposal.

Council generally agreed to consider 1982 appointments to the Board of Review at the January 18, 1982 Council meeting as requested by Mayor Staley.

Council generally agreed to hold a retreat on January 30-31, 1982 for the purpose of discussing the general goals and direction of the City.

The City Manager advised Council that a contract had been awarded to R.B. Lyons for replacement of pilings which protect the concrete dock leased to the Beaver Island Boat Co. Council generally agreed that the City should be responsible for the replacement cost of these particular pilings as they had deteriorated with age and the Boat Co. was not directly responsible for the damage.

The City Manager suggested Councilmembers may wish to attend the Planning Commission meeting on January 11, 1982, to discuss the City Master Plan /Waterfront Areas Management Design Plan with Ronald Nino, consultant for the projects.

Mayor Staley proposed that a Resolution be prepared for forwarding to the State Legislature in support of equal representation from Charlevoix Township and the City on any Charter Commission elected in the consolidation process of the two units. The Mayor also suggested that the Resolution be presented to the Charlevoix Township Board for their consideration.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Morris that the City Manager be delegated to draft a Resolution to present to the State Legislature that would amend the present Boundary Commission procedure to allow an equitable distribution of members on a Charter Commission to represent the City and Charlevoix Township in the consolidation process.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, Morris and Block. Nays: None. Absent: None.

The Council having examined bills totaling $407,921.80 find them correct and recommend the bills be allowed.

Moved by Councilman Timms and supported by Councilman Porter that the bills be allowed and others drawn for the amount.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, Morris and Block. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council adjourned.

Animal health problems pose threat to humans

Vaccinations for humans have served as an extremely important tool to help prevent disease. Vaccinations for animals are also very necessary to prevent disease not only in animals, but also in humans.

Unfortunately most animals have an even lower immunization score than the people that they may come in contact with. Without proper recommended immunization levels, animals may carry disease that can be transmitted to humans. Some of these diseases include: rabies, hepatitis, equine encephalitis (from horses); and leptospirosis and brucellosis (both from cattle.)

In September the Michigan Department of Public Health confirmed the presence of rabies virus in a skunk killed in Montmorency County. This is the first reported case of rabies within the District Health Department No. 3 or 4 Northern Region since 1980. During 1980 a skunk was found to be rabid in Cheboygan County. Rabies is unfortunately fatal, and only the application of preventive measures will prevent this dread disease.

In November the Center for Disease Control reported the death by rabies of a 40 year old man. The patient was bitten on the right hand by his own dog. Within the previous year the dog owner had vaccinated his own dog for rabies. Because vaccines are susceptible to loss of potency through mishandling, it is recommended that vaccinations be given only by or under the supervision of a vetinarian.

Local Animal Control Officers from Charlevoix and Otsego Counties met with Dr. Brian Youngs, Medical Director for District Health Department Number 3. Their main topic was how to better control public health problems that are related to wild and domestic animals.

According to Dr. Youngs "One of the best methods of controlling rabies in domestic animals is rabies vaccine. There are other diseases in animals that can also be prevented through vaccination. For further guidance individuals should check with their local veterinarian."

Officer Bennett also mentioned another major problem that in part, stems from economic hard times. She said "More people are abandoning animals to starve." Officer Huff added "We're Animal Control Officers, this means we can help in many of these situations. We can do much more than the 'dog catchers' of years ago."

schools. Deciding subsequently to move north, to the area where her family had previously vacationed, Barb applied for and landed a teaching position with the Charlevoix Schools. That was in 1970 and Barb is still teaching with the same enthusiasm and love of her students which originally inspired her to assume teaching as a career.

"When I first started here," Barb recalls, "the school day was longer. By the time the last hour rolled around, the kids needed incentive to keep their enthusiasm for being in school." It was then that Barb initiated some practical and enjoyable extra-curriculars into the agenda in the form of popular card games like bridge and cribbage, knitting and home ec., personal grooming. Other teachers added their own version of activities to the program like photography. "It was fun for all of us – they learned, but not in the classroom setting."

Refering to her present self-contained classroom experience, Barb considers it to be an academic challenge, but a joy to get to know one group of students so personally. A firm believer in the theory that children of all ages need personal concern and physical reinforcement in the form of hugs and an occasional pat of encouragement, (Warm fuzzies" to students of T.A.), Barb treats here students with respect and relaxed friendliness. Her philosophy springs from structure and caring discipline.

Social Studies has been a first teaching love for Barb over the years and she explained that she tells her students that "social studies is exciting because they are living in a very exciting time." Thus a great emphasis is placed on current events, which is also a backdoor way of teaching geography. Her students must make an oral report to the class each week on a current event not taking place in the U.S.A.

"After a while they know where the different countries are and can identify them on the world atlas." The reports also give her students the confidence they need to stand up and speak before their classmates.

"They aren't sophisticated enough to realize the enormity of world problems," Barb commented. In time however, they gain a facility in recognizing and talking about different countries.

Barb summarized her dedication to her sixth graders when she concluded that all her efforts were worthwhile when she saw that "occasional spark" that her teaching may have kindled.

"We have a unique group of teachers here. Everyone is very supportive of each other." Barb is happy to be a part of the sixth grade teaching team and happy to be doing what she loves most of all, relating to young people and helping them learn about themselves and their world.

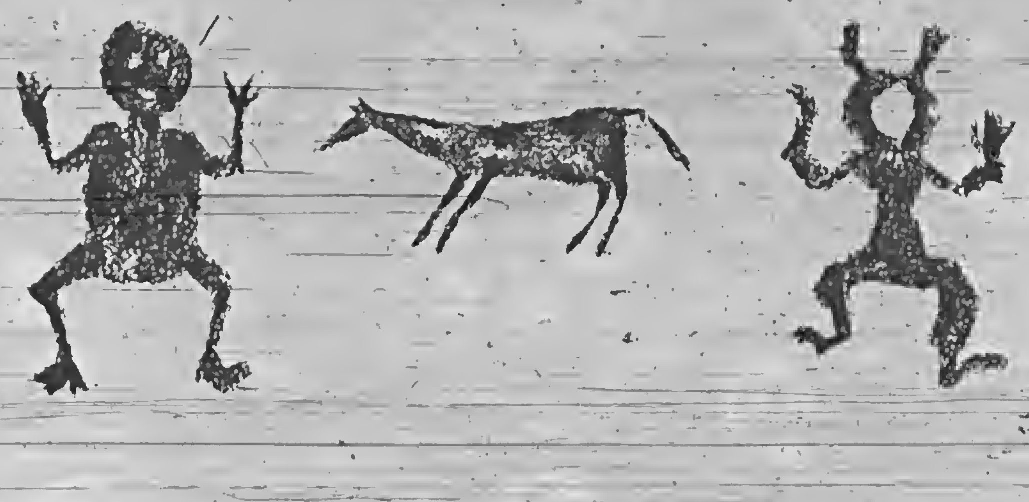
Ancient Indian Petroglyphs



...communicating ideas with art 800 years ago and we're still using art today as an effective means of communication

These crude drawings etched into volcanic rock are easily seen near Albuquerque, N.M. They were done between 1100 and 1600 AD, and are among the best examples of ancient Indian art.

Today art has taken on a more polished look and its role in communications has taken on a greater meaning. In newspaper advertising, art helps communicate business ideas. This newspaper maintains an extensive file of art covering every major facet of retail business for use by its advertisers. This art, prepared by several Newspaper Art Services is provided at no cost except for the advertising space you invest in. Ho, hum...another weekend, another storm

In a scenario that is getting almost routine, Charlevoix and surrounding areas were slammed again this past weekend with heavy snowfall and high winds that resulted in the calling of a state of emergency in the county. Most rural rods were impassable by Saturday morning as the snow started falling Friday night and the winds picked up during the night.

It was the third major storm in a two-week period to hit Charlevoix.

Several weekend events were cancelled or postponed including the Winter Capers at East Jordan and the Winter Festival at Petoskey. Almost all church services in the Charlvoix area were cancelled Sunday and Charlevoix schools were closed Monday as county plows battled drifts sometimes larger than the trucks in rural areas.

Lloyd Kuebler, who keeps records for the National Weather Service at the Charlevoix Sewage Treatment Plant, reported a total of 13 inches of snow from Friday through Monday. That makes a total of over 56 inches for Charlevoix since the first of the year, an unusually large amount compared to recent years said Kuebler.

Everything you wanted to know about the Master Plan

Progress on Charlevoix's master plan will be rapid over the coming months. In next week's Courier will appear an attitude survey questionaire designed to gather input from the public on planning needs and desires. The first of a series of workshop sessions open to the public is scheduled for 9 a.m. Saturday, January 30 in the City Council chambers. These sessions will offer area residents an opportunity to contribute directly to the planning process.

In the following question and answer format, Charlevoix City Manager Robert Hunt answers some of the most frequently asked questions about the master plan and describes in detail what progress has been made and what has yet to be done.

What is it?

The master plan-waterfront areas plan is a community-wide project to define the City's economic goals and establish a program to meet these goals, while ensuring the City's character is maintained. It will be the basis for future grant applications, economic development initiatives, and other City activities addressing Charlevoix's future. Although it will address all land areas within the City, the plan will focus particular attention on the City's waterfront areas. The plan recognizes these areas as the City's most valuable resource.

How is it funded?

Through your local tax dollars and a grant from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. The total cost is $30,000, including $5,000 in local funds.

I heard this project was having trouble getting off the ground.

It did get off on a couple of false starts, due mainly to a lack of co-ordination between funding sources that required the consultant selection process to be conducted twice. This delayed the original timetable by several months. Hopefully, this delay also allowed the City to get a better handle on the project. It is now back in full swing.

Who is doing the planning?

Most of the technical work is being done by Ron Nino Associates of Grand Blanc. The City Planning Commission is responsible for overseeing the project on a regular basis, while the City Council must review and ratify all major policy decisions.

What does the planning entail?

The plan will have two main elements: an economic element, and a land use element. The economic element will inventory the various sectors of the local economy, assess potential areas for expansion, and chart a strategy for improving local economic conditions. The land use element will ensure that adequate provision is made for all the various land uses that will be necessary to achieve this economic growth.

Supporting these major elements will be specific policy tools, such as capital improvements programs, zoning ordinance revisions, grant applications, and development project proposals.

Does this mean that we will plan more industrial parks?

Maybe - and maybe not. Part of the process will take a look at Charlevoix's industrial future. If it is determined that additional industry can be attracted to the City, and the community decides it wants this sort of growth, then the plan will address where to locate the industry, what public investments are required, and what sort of financial and administrative mechanisms must be established to realize this growth. If the community choses to limit industrial expansion, no efforts to develop such parks will be made.

What about the tourist industry?

Part of the process will also look at Charlevoix's future as a resort. If it is determined that the community can attract more resort clientele, and the community decides it wants resort development, then the plan will address what types of facilities might be constructed, where they should be located, what public investments are necessary, and what sort of mechanisms must be established to achieve these goals. Once again, if the community decides it does not want to encourage development of its resort industry, then no steps will be taken to encourage it.

Who will decide these matters?

The community of Charlevois, including residents of both the City and outlying areas.

How?

There will be a series of workshops held, which will be open to the public. At each workshop, information developed through the planning process will be presented and alternatives outlined. Participants will make choices about what goals should be established, what policies should be adopted and what sorts of improvements should be pursued. Hopefully, these workshops will be televised on Cable TV.

Will the workshop participants vote?

Not really. An attempt will be made to reach decisions by consensus, not by saying "yes" to one side and "no" to another. Ultimately, the general directions reached in these workshops will have to be molded by the Planning Commission into specific proposals, to be ratified by the City Council.

What about the downtown?

Because it is the economic and physical focal point of the City, special attention will be directed toward the problems and alternatives for downtown development. Financial solutions will be sought which minimize the overall City's burden in accomplishing needed improvements.

Why do we need this plan? We already have zoning and the County EDC (Economic Development Corporation).

Charlevois is experiencing a dilemma. On the one hand, most people would agree that the City must rapidly adapt to the changing economic conditions in the County, in Michigan, and across the country. But when we look at what has been built here in recent years, many people also feel that the development, with a few exceptions, has been a detriment, rather than an asset, to the community.

Part of the problem is that traditional zoning has not proven very successful, particularly in the City's waterfront areas. Even if a project meets setbacks, height restrictions, and other code requirements, it may still block views, limit public access, and remain out of character with adjacent buildings.

While the County EDC is a valuable tool for financing economic growth, it cannot decide what type of growth is appropriate for the City, nor can it be expected to visualize specific projects or improvements which might encourage this growth to occur.

The purpose of the planning process is to define the City's economic future, and then set in motion the specific steps required to make that future a reality. Once again, these steps might include capital improvements programs, zoning ordinance reform, grant applications, or development project proposals. Neither zoning nor the County-wide EDC effort is set up to take this sort of proactive approach toward the City's future.

What if we like the way Charlevoix is right now?

Most of us do - that's why we live here. But our community and County is undergoing rapid change, whether we like it or not. The real myth is thinking that we might always "keep things the way they are."

Planning gives us the opportunity to define Charlevoix's future - both its economic character and its physical characteristics. If we fail to seize this opportunity, then our futures will be defined for us by outside forces. So far, these forces seem to have led to changes most of us do not want - less jobs, less income, and development which seems to provide little if any benefit to the community, when weighed against the costs.

With active community input, we can all help ensure that the parts of Charelvoix we treasure - its beauty, its character, its lifestyle - are preserved, even as it adapts, changes, and grows.

Stroud: 'Let's sit down with city on equal terms'

By DAVE KNIGHT

Charlevoix Township Supervisor Oscar Stroud said last week that he favors formation of a charter commission with equal representation to study the pros and cons of a consolidation of the township and the City of Charlevoix.

Stroud's comments were made after the Township Board, at their January 11 meeting, tabled action on a proposed city-township joint resolution that is considered crucial to the continuation of a consolidation study.

The resolution, first suggested by Charlevoix Mayor Kenneth Staley, would petition the state legislature to amend state statute to allow equal representation of both city and township on a commission formed to study a new charter.

According to Charlevoix City Manager Robert Hunt, who drafted the joint resolution, it would be futile to proceed under the current state guidelines which designate charter commission representation on the basis of population. Under such a formula, the city would have seven representatives and the township two.

"Any charter drawn up by a commission with that type of representation would not have even the slightest chance of passing in the township," said Hunt.

Stroud agreed saying the township should discuss consolidation on an equal basis with the city or not at all.

"If the people of the township want to find out the benefits of consolidation, that's fine with me," said Stroud, "I am in favor of sitting down with the city and talking things out but only on an equal basis."

Passage of the joint resolution by both the City Council and the Township Board is necessary, said Hunt, so that their respective state lobbying organizations, the Michigan Municipal League and the Michigan Townships Association, can push for the amendment in Lansing.

The City Council approved the resolution January 11 with Mayor Staley saying, "I think we need to show the township residents we are serious about this and that we are willing to change the law if it means we can sit down together and talk about it."

The Township Board tabled action on the resolution later that same night but is expected to take up the matter at their March meeting.

Formation of any charter commission could be thwarted by a referendum vote against it in either the city or the township, should a petition calling for such a referendum be circulated within 45 days of the receipt of the formal state Boundary Commission findings. The Boundary Commission announced their approval of a consolidation at a December 17 meeting in Lansing.

Stroud discouraged a referendum before a charter commission with equal representation can be formed. When asked if he would sign any petition calling for an early vote, Stroud said, "No, I would not."

"This has been kicked around for years now," he said. "I think it is time we talk this out and decide something once and for all."

NOWHERE ELSE TO PUT IT so Warren Duplessis of 108 E. Dixon chopped the snow on his sidewalk into blocks and fashioned an attractive wall on either side. Will it keep more snow off his sidewalk? "The way it's going, I'll only have to wait a day or two to find out!" says Warren.

Growing mounds of snow create headaches downtown

by DAVE KNIGHT

There was a lot of input but not much output in the form of any official action at Monday night's City Council meeting.

Council members grappled with the problems of snow removal in the downtown area after hearing complaints that many stretches of sidewalk in the business district are not being shoveled. Charlevoix Merchants Association President Linda Mason told the council that much of the problem has been created by businesses that are closed for the winter and whose owners are not around to see that their sidewalks are cleared.

Unusually heavy snowfall and high winds over the past two weeks resulted in drifting in some areas and a lack of space in which to pile the snow in others.

Street superintendent Leonard Dubey pointed out that plowing of the downtown sidewalks by the city was made difficult by the trees planted on the sidewalks last spring. He said that the city's large plow cannot negotiate the space between building overhangs and the trees.

Dubey said that a vee-plow could be purchased for the city's smaller tractor but that idea was criticized by business owners who said at least half of the snow on the sidewalk would only be pushed up into their doorways. Mason suggested that notices be sent to all downtown landlords advising them of their responsibility to clear sidewalks of snow.

Mayor Kenneth Staley said that the council would take the matter up at their January 24 work session.

Also present at Monday's meeting were several members of the Charlevoix Volunteer Fire Department who expressed concern over recruitment procedures for a new fire chief.

Current Fire Chief John Curtis has announced his retirement from the postion which will take effect March 1.

Volunteer fireman Doug Bergmann read to the council a letter from the volunteers critical of a fire chief job description that was circulated statewide but not posted locally. Bergmann pointed out several areas of the description that have never applied to the fire chief's job in the past and other areas that were completely left out.

He also questioned the distribution of up to 300 of the job descriptions to fire departments throughout Michigan while none were distributed locally.

"This is a direct slap in the face to all the volunteer firemen in Charlevoix," said Bergmann.

City Manager Robert Hunt defended the procedure authorized by the council saying that applications were intended to be posted locally but that the outstate material was distributed "because it takes longer to recruit outside the area than inside the area and the council decided it wanted to solicit applications from all over."

Mayor Staley said that the fire chief's job was to be one of the topics to be discussed at the City Council's retreat this weekend and that it would subsequently be put on the agenda at a public meeting.

In other action, the council:

-Approved the appointment of Don Voisin to the Board of Review for a three-year term and council members Shirley Roloff and Robert Timms for one-year terms.

-Discussed downtown loading procedures which, according to Police Chief Jack Mol, have created some complants of traffic problems but for which there are no real solutions because of some alleys that are not negotiable by large delivery trucks.

Rubik's Cube to be topic of new class

by DAVE KNIGHT

President Reagan blew it.

He could have wiped out the federal budget deficit with one easy move back around Thanksgiving. If, right about the time that people started Christmas shopping, he would have established a nickel tax on each Rubik's Cube sold in the country, by this time Republicans may have been able to worship at the shrine of a balanced budget again.

And if some method could be developed to recover all the heat that builds up around the collars of Rubik's Cube owners, we might be able to put a dent in the energy shortage as well.

For the benefit of those just coming out of a long coma, the Rubik's Cube has walked in the footsteps of the Hula Hoop and the Pet Rock in becoming the most successful fad item of the year. Tens of millions have been sold all over the world.

Developed by Erno Rubik, a professor at the School for Commercial Artists in Budapest, it is a plastic, cube-shaped puzzle comprised of 27 smaller cubes of six different colors. The object is to manipulate the small cubes by turning them in rows so that each side of the puzzle is a solid color.

Sounds simple but it's not.

"I know of no one in Charlevoix who has been able to figure it out without the help of a book," says Charlevoix High School teacher Ken Bartley.

Now, for those frustrated local people about to throw their Rubik's Cubes into a snow bank, Bartley has come to the rescue.

Starting Thursday, February 4, he will teach a weekly class entitled "Solving the Rubik's Cube" as part of the Charlevoix Public Schools Community Education Program. The class will be held from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Thursday nights at the high school and will involve a total of four sessions. The class costs $10. Each participant must bring his own Rubik's Cube.

"I think education should be fun," said Bartley who teaches math and computer science at the high school as well as computer programming at North Central Michigan College and in another Community Education class.

"There are so many people who have Rubik's Cubes, I just thought it would be fun to hold a class and let them all bat their brains out together," he said, "I know there are parents in the area who have given a Rubik's Cube to their children and who are probably being driven crazy by the kids alone."

The school district's Community Education Program is generally aimed at adults but Bartley encourages people of all ages to attend the class. His sixth grade daughter Laura, for instance, is a rabid cube fanatic, and has even solved it already.

Ken got his first cube for a birthday present in July and admits that, after weeks of working at it, he finally bought a book with the solution. There are currently three Rubik's Cube books now on the market.

"Simple Solution to Rubik's Cube" by James G. Nourse is a runaway national bestseller and, according to Bartley, the best work on the subject. "You Can Do the Cube" was written by Patrick Bossert, a 14-year old British youth. "Mastering Rubik's Cube" by Don Taylor may not be as well written, says Bartley, but it has some interesting new approaches.

Bartley has read all three books, which are available at Literary News in Charlevoix, and combined techniques from each with his own methods for lecture material.

Each week, the class will work on a different step. For instance, the first week Bartley will concentrate on the top; the second week the middle; third week, edge cubes and so on.

He plans to also include a section on the structure of the cube which he considers crucial to an understanding of the solution. Participants will learn how to take the cube apart and put it back together.

"Besides the fun involved, there are some definite educational disciplines one develops working on the cube," says Bartley. "Originally, Rubik built the cube for his students to use as a tool in the classroom. He demonstrated the 'group theory' which involves rotation in three dimensions. I can now see where it could be used as a very profound educational tool in such subjects as geometry and physics."

The complexity of a puzzle that looks so simple is pointed up by the fact that there are a total of 43 quintillion possible configurations of the cube, (that's 43 followed by 21 zeros). If someone was to move to a different variation each second, the time it would take to go through all the variations would exceed the length of time that the known universe has existed.

Having taught adult education classes before, Bartley thinks this one will be especially fun. "When adults get a chance to go back to the classroom, they naturally get excited. In this case, I think they will really have fun."

While some people find the cube easier to solve than others, Bartley believes that anyone of average intelligence can do it eventually. It does not, he says, require extraordinary mathematical talents. In fact, some mathematically oriented people have more trouble.

"There are two kinds of mathematicians," he says, "Digital and spacial. A digital person, such as an accountant, may be good with figures but not neccessarily with something like this. A spacial person has an easier time with subjects like geometry and is more apt to understand the cube."

Ken Bartley

Ken admits Rubik's Cube is a "craze" and realizes that some people might wonder what a course like "Solving the Rubik Cube" is doing in the Community Education Program.

But there are other hobbycraft-type courses offered like decorating Ukranian Pysanky eggs so why not the cube?

"After all," said Bartley, "The Rubik's Cube is a constant pastime for a lot of people. It's like PacMan. Only cheaper."

Marriages, births up; divorce death down in county

by PEG OHLE

Marriages are up, divorces are down.

Births are up, deaths are up.

That's the news from the Charlevoix County Clerk, who last week released vital statitic figures for the County in 1981.

While none of the figures are startlingly different from the past two years, advocates of strong family ties will probably find hope in the marriage, divorce, and birth figures.

There were 245 marriages, 122 divorces, 256 births, and 126 deaths in the last year. In 1980, there were 232 marriages, 130 divorces, 249 births, and 111 deaths. In 1979, the figures were 262 marriages, 94 divorces, 263 births, and 100 deaths.

In addition to the divorces granted, 32 divorce cases were dismissed. There was also one annulment.

District Court logs annual report

Charlevois County District Court was a busy place during 1981.

The District Judge and his Magistrate's Department disposed of 4,675 cases and turned over $130,875.21 to the County Treasury.

The money represents fines and costs levied against citizens who broke the law in one way or another, mostly while driving their automobiles.

There are two kinds of violations of the law: criminal and civil. District Court divides criminal violations into traffic, non-traffic, traffic ordinances, and non-traffic ordinances. It divides civil violations into civil infractions (mostly speeding), general civil, small claims, and summary proceedings.

Cases are disposed of in several different ways in District Court: by the accused person pleading guilty or admitting responsbility; by informal or formal civil infraction hearings; by trials without a jury; by trials with a jury; by holding preliminary examinations and binding over to Circuit Court; by waiving preliminary examinations and binding over to Circuit Court, and by dismissal.

Harvey C. Varnum has been serving as District judge since last July, when he assumed the post previously held by David W. Fershee.

Boyne City Winter Festival set to go

The fun of winter will take over in Boyne City when the annual Winter Festival begins next week.

Starting on Thursday, January 28, with a "Kick-Off Party", the Festival will continue through Sunday with entertaining activities planned for each day.

Smeltania, a city on ice, complete with streets and buildings, will be set up on Lake Charlevoix and will be the feature of the Festival, with competition in ice fishing for smelt and many other events taking place in the temporary city.

There will be snowmobile competitions, cross country ski races, snow sculpture contests, cutter rides in the park, a model rocket launch, exhibition of radio-controlled planes, slide-glide relay races, concession stands, and bean pots.

Prizes will be awarded in many contests, including the smelt fishing contest.

Further information may be obtained from the Boyne City Area Chamber of Commerce, 28 South Lake Street, Boyne City, phone (616)582-6222.

Big Rock Supt. Hartman announces retirement after 13 years at plant...

Cyril J. Hartman, plant superintendent for Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant, has announced his retirement effective June 1.

Hartman, who has been plant superintendent since 1968, is retiring after 36 years with the company.

He joined Consumers Power in September 1946 as an efficiency man at the utility's Elm Street plant in Battle Creek. He was promoted to efficiency analyst in 1948 and transferred to the J.C. Weadock generating plant near Essexville. In 1952 he was named general engineer and moved to the company's general office in Jackson.

In 1954 he returned to the Weadock facility as a laboratory supervisor before being named senior engineer at the nearby D.E. Karn generating plant in 1958.

In 1960 he was appointed chemical engineer for the Big Rock plant and came to the facility in February of 1962 prior to the plant beginning operation later that year.

He was named assistant plant superintendent in 1966 prior to his 1968 appointment as plant superintendent.

Hartman was born April 13, 1925, in Earl Park, Indiana. He graduated from the University of Michigan in 1946 with a bachelor of science degree in chemical engineering.

He is a registered professional engineer and a member of the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers.

He is also a member of the Elks Club in Petoskey and a past member of the Petoskey Rotary Club. He is past president of the Bay View Country Club of which he is still a member.

Hartman served in the United States Naval Reserve during World War II and during the Korean conflict was the commander of a mine sweeper.

He and his wife, Katharine, plan to continue to reside in Petoskey while wintering in Florida

David P. Hoffman

...Hoffman to fill position

David P. Hoffman, nuclear licensing administrator for Consumers Power Company, has been promoted to assistant plant superintendent at the utility's Big Rock Point nuclear plant.

The promotion is effective February 1, 1982, according to Russell B. DeWitt, vice president for nuclear operations.

On June 1, 1982, Hoffman will become Big Rock Point plant superintendent, assuming the duties of superintendent Cyril J. Hartman. Hartman has elected to take early retirement effective June 1.

A registered professional engineer, Hoffman assumed his position in Consumers Power's nuclear operations department in November 1979 and was named assistant nuclear licensing administrator in February 1977. He joined Consumers Power in 1975 as a senior engineer after 5 years in the engineering research department of The Detroit Edison Company. He was senior reactor operator at the University of Michigan's Ford nuclear reactor from 1967-1970.

A native of Breckenridge, Hoffman, 37, graduated from the University of Michigan in 1968 with a bachelors of science degree in mechanical engineering. He was awarded a master's degree in the same subject from U. of M. in 1970.

Hoffman will relocate to the Charlevoix area. He currently works in the utility's Jackson headquarters.

Hartman, a 35 year employee of Consumers Power, joined the company in 1946 at the former Elm Street generating plant in Battle Creek.

Prior to 1962 when he came to Big Rock Point, Hartman worked at the company's general office in Jackson, at the J.C. Weadock plant and the D.E. Karn plant near Essexville.

He has been superintendent at Big Rock Point since 1968.

The Big Rock Point nuclear plant began commercial operation 20 years ago last year, in 1961. The plant is capable of generating 75 megawatts of electricity.

The plant, on 600 acres about four miles northeast of Charlevoix, was Michigan's first nuclear power plant.

Knight on the Town

From the mouths of babes...

Hi, folks!

This week you get a different Knight on the town.

My name is Gretchen Knight and I'm writing the column this week because we haven't seen my Dad since he went out to shovel snow the other day. We know he's out there because we can hear him holler every time the city plow dumps another load on the driveway. By the language he's using, Mom and I figure he's keeping plenty warm so we're not too concerned yet.

It is not often that a ten-week old baby gets this big an audience but there are some things we babies have been meaning to tell you.

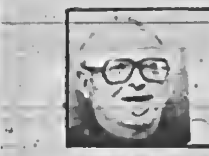
For instance, if people are so convinced that newborn infants are intelligent and eager to learn from the day we come home, why do they insist on conversing in baby-talk to us? It is really quite demeaning though it can be rather comical at times.

Here are two grown people of, I assume, at least average intelligence going around the house referring to each other as "Ma-ma" and "Da-da" whenever I am around. My father has been tape recording me lately but I think it would be a real party favorite to have a tape of him talking to me. I mean, it is hilarious.

Another thing. I know it is bitter cold outside these days and I know parents are up tight about Baby catching pneumonia or something. But all this bundling every time I go anywhere is a drag!

By the time I get wrapped in two sleepers, a couple sweaters, two layers of booties, knit cap with little balls on the strings that tickle, sleeping bag with fuzzy hood and a couple blankets, I feel like an elephant seal ready to be shipped parcel post and am just about as big.

Even the astronauts in space suits can move their arms.



Clockwise

A modest proposal

by Bob Clock

HEREWITH I would like to resubmit a modest proposal to the Charlevoix Board of Education to keep our schools closed during January and at least part of February in the interest of costs, safety and common sense.

Since classes resumed after the Christmas break on Jan. 4, our schools have been closed at least five days because of foul weather and kids have been sent home early at least once. And the month is scarcely three weeks old.

There is no telling how many more school days we will lose before the weather breaks.

Not only have the schools been heated during all of these down-days, but teachers have been paid — with no indication that there will be make-up days at the end of the school year.

The county Road Commission also has logged no few number of overtime hours attempting to keep roads open and passable for our lumbering school buses, even though the task often turns out to be impossible.

As for safety, I do not like to think about whole busloads of kids traveling highly banked country roads during virtual whiteouts. Do you?

From a common sense standpoint, it seems that we could not only save money but also provide a better education for our kids by eliminating the sheer drudgery of keeping our schools open during the worst of the winter.

UNDER MY proposed schedule, I see our schools reopening for the new school year the first week in August, well before the start of the heating season, putting the first semester behind us by Christmas.

After a seven week break over the holidays, I see our schools reopening about Feb. 15, give or take a few days, and continuing until the end of June, well after the end of the heating season, when they would close for a four or five-week summer vacation.

As a parent, it has been my experience that the three-month summer vacation is altogether too long. Kids (and sometimes teachers) get restless before it's half over; and I suspect that after a shorter summer holiday there would be less reviewing needed in the classroom when school resumes.

I do not know if a similar schedule has been attempted elsewhere in the country. But I do know that Northern Michigan, with its abominable winters, is an excellent place to give it a try.

ARE WE SUDDENLY being forced to make amends for all of the gloriously "open" winters of the past few years? I'm not sure. But I do know that right up until New Years weekend, the winter of 1981-82 was following the pattern of the past few years. Now suddenly our winter weather is more "normal," and we hardly know how to handle it.

I have heard one unconfirmed report that the mysterious "jet stream" which brings us our weather from the west has suddenly shifted north and that we now are getting all of the storms that have plagued southern states in recent years.

But if that is true, why is Dixie under a winter storm watch every few days? And why is driving in Atlanta and Nashville as tricky as it is in Charlevoix the Beautiful and Atwood the Adorable?

No matter how hard we try, I don't believe we'll ever succeed in making an exact science of meteorology. I think our short-range forecasting is a little better that it was a generation ago, probably because of data passed along by weather satellites. But for the long haul, the wooly worm is as accurate a forecaster as any.

CHARLEVOIX WAS shocked Saturday to learn of the unexpected death of Maurice Cudd, 59, a long-time letter carrier on the North Side.

Always smiling, always cheerful and so punctual you could set your watch my his arrival on your front porch, Mr. Cudd was one of the post office's finest. Charlevoix has lost a very special friend.

Letters: Reply to Bob Clock, salute to Samaritans

To The Editor,

Just a few words on Bob Clock's Clockwise column titled "Don't Be Too Smug". I imagine every atheist, ACLU member, Bible hater, and Christ rejecting person would rejoice at Judge Overton's decision forbidding the teaching of biblical creationism in public schools.

Evolution is not primarily the result of learning, it is primarily the result of unbelief. Men want the natural instead of the supernatural.

Genesis, Chapter one, tells the order in which God created things. The first verse says, "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth." Now notice a peculiar kind of language that recurs ten time: "after his kind", "after their kind".

God has said that he has divided and created things and gave a law that they should bring forth after their kind. We see here that God created things to follow a certain set pattern.

The evolution theory is that reptile came from fish, birds from reptiles, mammals from birds and man from mammals. It is a theory widely held everywhere and taught by people who do not believe the Bible.

God's divine law says that things are to reproduce and do reproduce after their kind. In other words, horses do not turn into cows; dogs do not turn into cats; the quail does not turn into a turkey; one kind of a tree does not turn into another kind. They bring forth after their kind as the scripture says.

Maybe the author of the book of Genesis is lost to you but to us who believe the Bible to be God's holy word, Moses' name will be remembered throughout all eternity. According to the 17th Chapter of Matthew, Moses was in good company; appearing with Christ on the Mount of Transfiguration. If I were your theology teacher, I would have you read the four Gospels and I think you would be surprised on how often Christ spoke of Moses and quoted from his books. In fact, read what Christ said in Mark 12:26, and Luke 24:44.

If you question the veracity of Moses, you would certainly question the veracity of Christ.

Evolution was taught in Moses' day also. Moses, as the adopted son of the Pharoah's daughter, was trained and educated in Egypt and the evolution theory was that the earth was hatched from an egg. How is it to be explained that Moses didn't present this theory? The explanation is that according to II Timothy 3:16-17 that, "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: That the man of God may be perfect, throughly furnished unto all good works."

I suppose if he had adopted this theory, the Judge Overton's, the ACLU and others would have honored him as a true intellectual. As long as God doesn't get any credit, it makes these people rejoice.

Finally the Bible teaches that the Truine God, God the Father, Son and Holy Spirit is each distinct and yet each equally and eternally the one God of Creation.

1. All things were made by God. Acts 14:15, Acts 17:24-26, Romans 11:36, Hebrews 1:2,10.

2. Jesus Christ the Son is the Creator of all things. John 1:3, I Corinthians 8:6, Ephesians 3:9, Colossians 1:16, Hebrews 1:2.

3. The Holy Spirit is the Creator. Job 33:4.

Psalm 19 says, "The heavens declare the Glory of God; and the firmament sheweth his handiwork". "Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night sheweth knowledge." "There is no speech nor language, where their voice is not heard."

Their line is gone out through all the earth, and their words to the end of the world. In them hath he set a tabernacle for the sun, which is as a bridegroom coming out of his chamber.

The people who deny his creation are without excuse so we read in Romans 1:20, "For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse.

Thank-you.

Robert L. Olson

To The Editor:

Charlevoix the beautiful could be any of bundreds of towns, real estate wise. It's the people who make this indeed a beautiful town.

During the white out Sunday my family and I were stranded on State Street. Thanks to a volunteer fireman Rick Davis and Frank Hamilton of the Capri Motel, who gave unselfish assistance and refused monetary remuneration, our belief in class people was reinforced.

Thanks to people of this calibre Charlevoix will always be beautiful.

Meet Charlevoix

Mitchell joins Assembly as new pastor

Mike Mitchell

by PEG OHLE

"Mike" Mitchell is the new pastor of the Assembly of God Church in Charlevoix. This week the Courier talks with him about his ministry and about himself.

COURIER: Do we call you "Mike" or "Michael"?

MITCHELL: Well, my real name is Michael, but no one calls me that. I'm Mike.

COURIER: How long have you been in Charlevoix?

MITCHELL: Since November. We came here from a church in Moline, Illinois

COURIER: And before that?

MITCHELL: We were in Kalkaska. Before Kalkaska, we were in Avon and Warsaw, Illinois.

COURIER: Where did you grow up?

MITCHELL: In Neosha, Missouri. I went to high school and junior college there. Then I went to Hannibal-LaGranga Bible College.

COURIER: The Assembly of God is one of the newer denominations, isn't it?

MITCHELL: It's not redally all that new. It was started in the early 1900's by people of charismatic-pentecostal faith. The Assembly of God is presently the fastest growing church group in the world. In fact, we have the largest church in the world, the Full Gospel Assembly in Seoul, Korea. It has 150,000 to 170,000 members. We have a strong missionary group.

COURIER: The Assembly of God Church building in Charlevoix is a handsome structure.

MITCHELL: Yes, it's only four years old.

COURIER: Who goes to your church?

MITCHELL: I would say that our main age group is between 30 and 45 years. We have a mixture of city and county people, some of whom drive as much as 30 miles to come to church.

COURIER: Are there other Assembly of God churches in the area?

MITCHELL: Yes, in Boyne City, Petoskey, and Traverse City.

COURIER: We assume the doctrine of your church is considered conservative.

MITCHELL: Yes, it is.

COURIER: How do you try to reach people?

MITCHELL: I try to keep the church atmosphere pleasant. I also think it is important for church members to reach out to others.

COURIER: Are you enjoying Charlevoix?

MITCHELL: Oh, yes. I especially appreciate the Ministerial Association in Charlevoix. I feel a spirit of cooperation, not of competition. I was also pleased to be elected president of the Charlevoix County Ministerial Association. Their most important work is furnishing chaplains for Grandvue and the county jail.

COURIER: What do you do when you're not working?

MITCHELL: I like to run. This afternoon I'm going to run with Walt Hastings. We're going to get ready for the Saginaw Marathon in May. I've never run competitively before. I'm really just an outdoor enthusiast. I like all outdoor things – hunting, fishing.

COURIER: Are you musical, like so many ministers are these days?

MITCHELL: Well, my wife and I used to travel and sing.

COURIER: You have children, don't you?

MITCHELL: Yes. Gina and I have two children. Charity is eight and Gabe is four.

COURIER: We know about Charity. We ran her picture and her thoughts about Christmas in our Christmas issue.

MITCHELL: Yes, she was excited about that.

COURIER: Do you have any special burning ambition as far as your career is concerned?

MITCHELL: Only to be the best pastor I can be, right here in Charlevoix.

Irwin rep sets hours

State Senator Mitch Irwin's District Representative, Greg T. Long, will be in Charlevoix today (January 20). He will hold office hours in the County Building from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Earlier in the day, Irwin has scheduled office hours in the Horton Bay General Store, from 10 am. to 11:30 a.m., and will meet with senior citizens for lunch at the Charlevoix County Senior Center in East Jordan. Following that he will hold office hours in the East Jordan City Hall from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m.

V.F.W. plans Valentine get-together

Plans for a Valentine party to be held at the V.F.W. post home for members of the post, its Auxiliary and their respective families were made at a recent meeting of the V.F.W Auxiliary held at the home of Mrs. Clarence Rabach.

The event will be held on Saturday, Feb. 13, with a potluck supper at 6 p.m. Mrs. Rabach, Mrs. Clarence Goldstick and Mrs. Ivan Phillips were named to chair the party.

It was also announced that a social meeting will be held at the Goldstick home at 6 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 21, and that the next regular meeting on Thursday, Feb. 4, will be held at the home of Mrs. Albert Russell at 8 p.m. rather than at the post home.

At the business session, it was announced that 66 members had paid their 1982 dues. Others are asked to pay their dues as soon as possible. Mrs. Gertrude Holt and Mrs. Wanda Scheff have joined the organization.

It was also announced that the next District 13 meeting will be held at Atlanta Feb. 7. A dance on the evening of Feb. 6 will precede the meeting. Anyone wishing more information may call Mrs. Albert Russell.

Mrs. Rabach reported on her work with the Special Olympics program; a $100 contribution was made to the State Cancer Research and Grant program; the charter was draped in memory of past department president, Irene Bassett; letters of acknowledgement for gifts sent by the Auxiliary at Christmas time were read, and Mrs. Russell reported that approximately 90 members of the post and Auxiliary and their families attended the annual Christmas party. Thanks was extended to Santa and his helpers including Col. Robert Rajewski and Jimmy Bogart for presenting gifts and candy to the children. Annual reports were also given.

Dahl's puppets are next library workshop subject

by ANNE KELLY

Suzanne Dahl, for eight years a sixth grade teacher with the Flint Kearsley schools and presently a substitute teacher for the Charlevoix Public Schools will be the featured community resource person at the library sponsored Workshops For Kids this Saturday, Jan. 23.

Making puppets is only part of Suzanne's program, though the main part, which is geared for children ages 6-9.

"It's not the actual construction of the puppet that's important," Suzanne explained. "It's the creative expression that follows. It's what can be done by the children with the puppet at home, with themselves, their families and friends."

It is for this reason that each child will be taking home not only a completed shoebox puppet, but a play suitable for puppetry as well. The children may want to create more characters for the play once they get home.

Suzanne, ostensibly a delightful person and dedicated teacher, graduated from Central Michigan University with a degree in education and has been thoroughly enjoying teaching ever since. She feels fortunate to have been picked to staff a new Middle School just opening in Flint in 1972. As part of the staff she was instrumental in developing the curriculum, philosophy and policies for the new school.

"This experience helped my awareness and strengthened my own beliefs in working with children," Suzanne recalls.

As a teacher, she is a firm believer of placing strong emphasis on all levels of integrating the fine arts into academic programs. Suzanne became inspired to do just that after having attended a summer reading workshop class at Oakland University directed by Bill Martin, author and lecturer from Colorado. Mr. Martin and his staff demonstrated for participants of the workshop how music and art could be incorporated into the daily reading program within the classroom.

"We often make the mistake of isolating the disciplines," Suzanne commented. "The fine arts can provide another approach to teaching. They can be used to enhance the study of subject matter."

Saturday's workshop for kids will include a brief description of the purpose and process of making a puppet, the actual construction of their own creations, and a sharing time with the finished products. Children will also be bringing home a play, "The Popcorn Dragon", by Jane Thayer for further fun and enrichment at home.

Children are asked to bring a shoebox and if possible, fill it with interesting scraps of felt, material, foam, yarn, buttons etc. to share. Most of all, Suzanne would like to see the children bring their wonderful imaginations.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Danny Russell

Denny-Russell

Darlene Denny became the bride of Danny Russell on Saturday, January 2, at Grace Community Church in Central Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Denny of Ellsworth are parents of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Russell of Charlevoix are parents of the bridegroom.

The Reverend Estel Clark performed the ceremony, in which the bride was given in marriage by her parents.

The bride's gown was of dacron and polyester organza, featuring a Queen Anne's neckline and bodice trimmed with silk Venise lace and pearls, full bishop sleeves, cuffs of Chantilly lace, A-line skirt, and attached chapel-length train trimmed in Chantilly lace. Her waltz-length veil of layered bridal illusion with pencil edge trim was attached to a halo of silk flowers. She carried a bouquet of white carnations, pink and white rosebuds, and baby's breath accented with a white bow.

Becky Russell, sister of the bridegroom, served as maid of honor. She wore a gown of lusterglo in dusty rose. It featured a lace yoke ruffled in Chantilly lace. Her headpiece was made of rose-colored silk flowers and she carried a bouquet of white carnations, rose and white rosebuds, and baby's breath accented with a dark pink bow.

Kevin Speer and Arnold Nettles served as ushers.

A buffet dinner catered by Kenneth and Susan Charbonneau and Leonard and Karen Kirby at the Charlevoix Rod & Gun Club followed the ceremony.

Robert and Mary White of Ishpeming provided music for dancing.

Miller seeks to broaden language horizons

by ANNE KELLY

"Why Should Your Youngster Learn A Foreign Language", is the title of a recent article in the October, '81 issue of Better Homes and Gardens. It is also a question pondered by school boards as, strapped by economic cut-backs, they are forced to trim the curriculum. Parents too, occasionally question the validity of foreign language as part of the program as their child tackles the rudiments of the 3 R's.

In fact, enrollment in foreign language classes has fallen to the point that "less than one percent of elementary students, 18 percent of junior and senior high schoolers and 9 percent of college students" (statistics taken from Better Homes and Gardens) are presently studying foreign language.

Ted Miller, Spanish teacher at the Charlevoix High School, would tell those concerned about the negative aspect of those statistics, that the foreign language program is alive and well in Charlevoix. He reports that he personally instructs in Spanish 85 students in the high school and 25 eighth graders at the middle school. Yvonne Went, the French counterpart in the language program instructs about 150 students in her French classes. Therefore a total of 235 students out of the high school enrollment are involved in the study of a foreign language.

But why do Ted and Yvonne and those who have decided upon the high school curriculum think that such study is beneficial for the students?

Ted was anxious to defend his discipline.

"Foreign language competency broadens a student's career options, for one thing," Ted explained. "The more areas of exposure explored in high school and college, the better chance of being hired in many positions offered by large companies, government agencies, hotels, or jobs abroad. As our world grows smaller in proportion to scientific advances which tend to diminish distances, experience in communicating with peoples of other cultures become an employment plus.

"Foreign language study," continued Ted, "gives students an international perspective which they might not otherwise gain." When Ted teaches the Spanish language, he is teaching the culture as well.

Furthermore, some hold that the learning of a foreign language helps in the mastery of our own language. Much of the English language is derived from other languages.

There is the additional benefit of the study of a language providing an impetus for travel. If one feels somewhat confident in a language, he will attempt communication while visiting another culture. He will not need to feel dependent on interpreters or fall prey to misinterpretation.

Ted's background seems to have prepared him adequately for his present position. A graduate of Albion College who earned a M.A. from Michigan State University, Ted taught Spanish and English for 5 years before joining the staff at Charlevoix High School, one year at Jonesville and 4 years at Lumen Christi High School in Jackson. He conducted a student group to Spain last spring and plans to attend a seminar in Mexico this coming June.

His own interest in Spanish, stems from a fascination in knowing a foreign language and in being able to converse in that language. He sees his purpose as a Spanish instructor to make students aware of Spanish speaking peoples and their countries and to provide an interest "jumping off point" for continued interest and study.

His methods include setting up life-like situations wherein his students must conversationally express themselves. He would like to see travel incorporated as part of the language program. Visiting another country is extremely beneficial as a motivation for learning. The language suddenly becomes a reality, more than strange looking words on the page of a textbook.

"I try not to stifle them when they make mistakes." Ted believes that in learning a foreign language, a student must progress gradually, like a baby learning our own language, with all the trial and error that may involve.

Perhaps the innovation he seems most excited about is in "exchange programs" with the elementary school. Once a week seven of his Spanish students have been exposing 1st grade students in the rudiments of Spanish. In return, the high school students are learning to pass on the knowledge of Spanish and are enjoying themselves in the process.

Other than his enthusiasm for Spanish, Ted is planning on conducting a writing workshop as part of the community education program this semester. Obviously, English and Spanish have proven to be a happy combination for Ted Miller.

Fascinating Facts About Gold

Do you know why the wedding band is worn on the third finger of the left hand? You might have guessed that wedding rings are almost always made of gold because gold symbolizes a lasting attachment. That attachment was once considered physical as well as symbolic. In olden times it was believed that an artery ran directly from the ring finger to the heart!

You probably look for the marking 14K when you're buying gold jewelry, but do you know how the term "karat" came to be used to measure gold? Long ago the seeds of the fruit of the carob tree were used to balance scales in Oriental bazaars. Gold and precious gems were placed on one side of the scale and carob fruit seeds were on the other! The word karat is derived from the Italian "carado," the Arabic "qirat," or the Greek "keration." All these terms mean "fruit of the carob tree!"

As shocking as measuring gold against carob fruit seeds seems to us now, it made sense at the time. After all, before coins were made barter was the method of trade and commodities were always measured against one another. Cattle, cocoa beans, shells, skins, and gold were just a few of the commodities that were traded the way we use money.

Today our method of trade is advanced. We exchange paper money with a universal value for goods and services. But we all know that inflation has dramatically effected the value of the dollar. There is still one commodity whose value is universally acknowledged and ever increasing – gold. You can invest in gold easily by buying Krugerrands or Credit Suisse at your jeweler. Each Krugerrand or Credit Suisse contains one troy ounce of pure gold. These coins and bars are beautiful to look at, easy to store and sell, and you can depend on them no matter what inflation does to the dollar.

Rayders bounce back with two more wins

The Charlevoix Rayder varsity basketball team got its road act back together last week with two convincing victories, a 76-43 romp over Onaway Tuesday and a 51-41 win on St. Ignace's home court Friday night.

The pair of victories boosts Charlevoix's stature to 8-1 overall and maintains their unbeaten streak in Michigan-Huron Shores action at 6-0.

At Onaway, the Rayders set the pace from the opening tipoff with Gary Drury scoring ten points in the first quarter alone for a 17-5 Rayder lead at the end of that period. Onanway gained some ground in the second quarter and trailed by ten, 32-22 at the half.

Charlevoix exploded again in the third period with 23 points, eight from Ross Carey and seven from Jim Buchanan, to establish a 55-29 lead going into the last quarter. The Rayders converted 11 of 14 free throw attempts in the fourth quarter to seal the 76-43 victory.

Drury led all scorers with 16, Carey added 15 and Craig Klooster 13 for Charlevoix.

The Rayder junior varsity squad also had easy going at Onaway as they picked up a 61-33 win at the hands of the Onaway JVs. Tim LaBlance poured in 16 points while Pat Mitchell and Dane Tollas added 14 apiece.

Up at St. Ignace, it was Mike Loper and Klooster leading the way with 15 points each as the Rayders again established a lead early in the game and held on.

The Rayders led 14-8 at the end of the first quarter and 27-16 at the half. While the Saints didn't let Charlevoix run away with the game, they couldn't make up the difference either. At the end of the third it was 36-31 Charlevoix and 51-41 at the final gun.

The St. Ignace JV squad pulled a fast one on their Charlevoix counterparts exploding for 23 points in the final quarter for a 51-41 win. LaBlance was high scorer for the Rayders with 12 points.

This Friday the Rayders board the buses again for a crucial game at Boyne City. The Ramblers, ranked within the top ten Class C schools by some, are right on Charlevoix's heels in the conference race with a 6-1 record and some wounds unhealed from the two teams first meeting which Charlevoix won.

Junior varsity action starts at 6:30 p.m. Fans should arrive early since there will probably be few empty seats available by the varsity tipoff.

Skiers place third, fourth at Nub's Nob meet

The Charlevoix Rayder ski teams made their initial appearances in competition on the slopes at Nub's Nob last week in a five-team meet that saw the boys' team place third and the girls' fourth according to Coach Mercedes Mathers.

Petoskey placed first with 32 points followed by Harbor with 52; Charlevoix with 107; Gayord, 132 and East Jordan, 136.

In the girls' meet Petoskey and Harbor took the first two places with 40 and 51 points, respectively, followed by Gaylord with 96; Charlevoix with 138 and East Jordan, 172.

In the slalom Bill Ranger finished ninth; Pete Cockfield, 13th; Tom Egler, 14th; John Marsh, 16th; Matt Landon, 18th and Scott Stebe, 19th.

Only four Rayders finished among the top 20 in the giant slalom with Ranger in fifth place; Egler, 14th; Cockfield, 17th, and Stebe, 19th.

The girls' team, which has four freshmen as members, saw Sandy Miller finish tenth and Sally Westenbroek, 11th, in the slalom. In the giant slalom, Miller was 11th, Lenore Erber, 15th; Westenbroek, 16th and Cheryl Aull, 18th.

Ms. Mathers said the teams looked good in their first outings of the season and should improve now that they are in competition.

Next Wednesday the teams will be at Bear Mountain at Grayling with Grayling and Kalkaska.

Volleyball team drops opener to Petoskey

The Charlevoix girls' volleyball teams dropped both Varsity and JV games to Petoskey in their initial appearances on the court last week according to Coach Mary Lieberman.

This week Charlevoix will host Gaylord at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Petoskey took both matches in their meeting with Charlevoix by scores of 16-14, 15-5 in the first and 15-10, 9-10, 15-9 in the second. Coach Lieberman said Amy Sanborn made the best showing especially on defense.

In the Junior Varsity games, Charlevoix lost 15-5, 6-15, 19-17. Rhonda Buchanan on offense and Meg Fowler on defense were the outstanding players.

Mrs. Lieberman said both teams, being young and inexperienced, made a lot of mistakes that, hopefully, will be corrected as the season progresses.

The Varsity squad, it will be remembered, has only one returning veteran.

Buchanan wins one, loses one

In the Courier basketball contest for January 7, LeRoy Buchanan won again missing only two games for the first prize of a $15 gift certificate. Joey Trojanek of Boyne City tokk second place when he won a tie breaker with three other contestants who had three wrong. Joey gets a $10 certificate.

Buchanan relinquished first place in the January 14 contest to Normao Alley of Berkley who guessed only one wrong. Buchanan missed two games and had to settle for second place.

Frosh win fifth in a row

The Charlevoix Freshman basketball team made it five in a row last week with a 57-27 win over Central Lake according to Coach Chuck Wright.

Three young Rayders hit in double figures as they led the visitors 13-8, 27-16, and 40-23 by quarters. Doug Sloan and Thad Morgan had 14 points each and Brent Cole 11.

Adult basketball league sees First State, Wojan, T&L, Klooster, Townhouse and I.D.C. all win last week

In adult basketball league action on January 13, First State Bank topped Boyne Machine 61-63 behind 12 points apiece from Ralph Doan and Ike Boss; Roger Gowell added 10 for the Bank. Mark Molka had 16 for Boyne and Jeff Baillargeon 10.

Wojan Aluminum beat Air Force 56-43. Stan Martin had 19 and Don Ward 12 for the winners. Chris Clayton led Air Force with 17 points.

Charlevoix Truss and Lumber beat Medusa 53-35 as Tom Morrison, Bill Annon and Scott Blanchard each had 12 points for the winners. Doug Winnell had 10 for Medusa.

On January 14, it was Klooster John Deere over Kit Carson, 64-51. Paul Osterburg hit 24 points for Klooster while Bud Klooster had 16 and Scott Boss 10. For Carsons Rogert Crain had 14 and Butch Klooster 16.

Townhouse ran away from Great Lakes Energy 84-64. For the Townhouse, Steve Dunkleberg had 26 points, Rick Leslie 17, Dan McKenzie 13 and Kevin Griffith 11. For the losers, Al Looze had 14, Tim Hartwick 13, Dean Hicks 12 and Tony Williams 11.

Ellsworth I.D.C. topped Boyne Auto 66-53 behind 21 points from Tex Drenth, 14 from Brian Farrell and 10 from Randy Holecheck. For Boyne Auto, Dale Timms had 16, Keith Fitzpatrick 13, Hal Price 11 and Kirk Kujawski 10.

Warns of open water near marina project

Denny Heck of Northwest Marine, Inc. warned all area snowmobilers, skaters and ice fishermen this week that the marina project on lake Charlevoix at the former Foster Boat Company at the foot of Eaton St. will be bubbled during the winter months.

A total of 28 aerators have been installed around the dock area. Heck said that there will be open water all around the perimeter of the project and that ice may be thin as far as 150 feet out from shore and possibly farther depending on conditions.

Heck warned all those planning to be on the lake to avoid the area around the project because of the open water.

Church of God to hold 'Planned Famine'

Thirteen young members of the Community Church of God are going to begin a "Planned Famine" on Friday, January 22 according to Rev. Walter G. Hastings, pastor. Mrs. Margaret Juilleret explained that the 30-hour fast will have a two-fold purpose.

"We plan for the youth participating in the program to stay together during the fast so that while we share the experience of feeling hungry, we can also learn why hunger exists in the world, and what we can do about it," she said.

The program will also have a practical side, Mrs. Juilleret points out. The participants will seek out Famine Supporters to contribute $6 donations — $2 for each meal. The supporters will then be asked to read a fact sheet on hunger so that they can become involved.

"We hope to be able to raise $1,000," said Mrs. Juilleret. "The money we raise may help feed many families, or even an entire village, for a month or longer."

The funds will be channeled through the World Vision International. Anyone wishing more details may call the church office at 547-2875.

January 11, 1982

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time in a Special Council Session with Mayor Staley presiding.

Present; Councilmembers Timms, Roloff, Wood, Morris, Block, and Porter. Absent: None.

The following Resolution was offered and moved for its adoption by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Wood.

Resolution 82-1-1

WHEREAS, a consolidation of the City of Charlevoix with Charlevoix Township has been proposed; and

WHEREAS, the consolidation has received the approval of the State Boundary Commission; and

WHEREAS, a full evaluation of the proposed consolidation is necessary to determine whether it merits adoption; and

WHEREAS, state law currently provides that a Charter Commission must be composed of representatives from each jurisdiction; in proportion to the population of each jurisdiction; and

WHEREAS, this provision would result in the City holding substantially greater representation on the Charter Commission than would be held by Township; and

WHEREAS, this unequal balance is not conducive to the proper drafting of a charter which is acceptable to both the City and Township; and

WHEREAS, it is the conviction of the City that the parties should participate in the Charter Commission as equal partners;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, by the Council of the City of Charlevoix that the State Legislature and Governor be petitioned to immediately amend the Michigan statutes; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that Section 13 of Act No. 191 of the Public Acts of 1968, as amended by Act No. 362 of the Public Acts of 1972, being section 123.1013 of the Compiled Laws of 1948, be amended by adding additional language to read, in part as follows:

...The (Boundary) Commission shall determine the number of Charter Commissioners to be selected from each municipality* proposed for consolidation, which number shall be proportionate as near as may be to its population; provided, however, that a different plan of representation may be determined by the Commission if such plan is accepted by resolution of all municipalities proposed for consolidation...

RESOLVED this Eleventh Day of January, 1982 A.D.

* note: the term "municipality" is defined in the statute to include townships.

Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Timms, Roloff, Wood, Morris, Block, and Porter. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Mayor Staley temporarily adjourned the meeting to the regularly scheduled Committee of the Whole meeting until the City Manager was able to return from a meeting with the Charlevoix Township Board which he was attending.

Council reconvened at approximately 9:30 P.M. with all members being present.

Moved by Councilman Morris and supported by Councilman Wood to approve the site plan for the Atrium Motel and Conference Center contingent upon the following matters:

1. Submission of an adequate drainage plan, as determined by the City Manager in consultation with the Building Inspector.
2. Determination, by the City Manager, that water required by the project for firefighting purposes is available. Such determination shall be based upon specific flow and pressure data provided by the Developer.
3. Sanitary sewer discharges related to operation of the swimming pool shall only occur between the hours of 11 p.m. and 4 a.m.
4. Submission of an acceptable plan for exterior lighting, showing location of fixtures, candle power, and lighting type. Acceptability shall be determined by the City Manager, who may refer the lighting plan to the Planning Commission for comment at his discretion.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Timms, Roloff, Wood, Morris, Block, and Porter. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Timms that the City obtain designs and specifications for the following storm sewer extensions:

School Board grants tenure to three teachers

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Board of Education, at its regular meeting Monday night, granted tenure to three teachers, discussed the site for the annual Prom, refused the only bid on a piece of shop equipment and heard a report from Kenneth Bartley relating to the computer program being offered in the school.

Three elementary teachers who have completed their two-year probationary period were granted tenure. They are Diane Boss, Cara Hochhalter and Beth McGraw.

After a discussion of a possible site in the community for the annual prom, Max Novak, president of the board, named a committee composed of Doris Pearl, Elaine Buddle and Ardeth Wieland to work with Vane H. Smith, high school principal, and to bring a recommendation to a future meeting.

Only one bid for the metal shaper which had been used in the Industrial Arts Department was received. The board refused the bid because it was felt the equipment was worth more than the bid. The board had reserved the right to refuse the bid.

Vincent Olach, business manager, and Mrs. Pearl reported to the board on the problem of parking at the Charlevoix Public Library. Motorists are utilizing space meant for library patrons. This has become a problem. A recommendation will be forthcoming regarding those violating the area.

Mr. Bartley presented an in-depth report on the computer program pointing out the classroom application of the computer, the programming and how it benefits the students.

A brief executive session was held prior to the regular meeting. The executive session was held at the request of a student.

Supt. Gordon W. Van-Wieren was designated represent the school in applying for federal aid under Public Act 874 which allows funds to school attended by the children of military families. Children of U.S. Air Force and Coast Guard families are enrolled in Charlevoix schools.

The next regular meeting of the boarding of education, is scheduled for Feb. 1.

...to participate in the City of Charlevoix master plan process by completing the Community Development Policy Survey found on page 9 of today's Courier. The survey, which is being distributed by the Courier as a public service to the city, will be an integral part of the planning process. Through it, the planners seek to find out what goals and priorities area residents have in mind for the City of Charlevoix. All Courier readers are urged to participate in this survey. Extra questionnaires are available at City Hall.

STILL NUMBER ONE, the Charlevoix Rayder basketball team, with Coach Dave Smith in the foreground, celebrated in its locker room Friday night following a convincing 70-53 victory over conference rival Boyne City. The game was considered Charlevoix's last big hurdle enroute to a conference championship. The Rayders are now atop Michigan-Huron Shores standings with a 7-0 conference mark. Details of Friday's game can be found on page 8.

Welfare recipients will do snow shoveling, other chores for senior citizens

by PEG OHLE

Charlevoix County senior citizens who are in need of help to do outdoor chores which they are unable to do themselves may now qualify for assistance from the County Commission on Aging.

The Department of Social Services and the Commission on Aging have set up a program whereby recipients of general assistance from Social Services will be asked to "work out" their general assistance payments by doing chores for qualified persons over 60 years of age.

"The program will be a real help to older people who need work done and can't do it themselves," David Straubel, who supervises the program for Social Services, said.

"Our workers will shovel snow, rake leaves, cut grass, or do any similar jobs in which there is no high degree of danger," he added.

Arthur Saworski, director of the program for the Commission on Aging, said that senior citizens

New in the Courier

In response to requests from some of our readers, the Courier is adding two more categories of information to its "For Your Information" listings which is one of the most frequently read sections of the paper according to our surveys. Stating this week, we will feature Weather Statistics and Fire Calls of the previous week. Compiled by National Weather Service statistician Lloyd Kuebler at the Charlevoix Sewage Treatment Plant, the weather data will include daily records of precipitation, high and low temperatures and other significant information such as year-to-date snowfall. This information should be of special interest to area residents wintering elsewhere. Our log of fire calls will include both the city and township departments.

Has recession in area bottomed out?

By TOM DAMMANN

Despite increasing jobless rates in northern Michigan counties, area bankers seem to feel the recession has already bottomed out and that an improvement in the economy may well begin by early summer.

A telephone check with bank officials indicates that while many workers were laid off in industrial plants, merchants did as well in 1981 as they did the previous year, thanks to a good tourist summer season, and there is evidence that in some instances workers are being called back.

The most up to date figures released Thursday (Jan. 14) by the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) show an average 19.5 percent jobless rate in six northern counties from Antrim in the Lower Peninsula to Chippewa in tha Upper. Specifically, Antrim's rate was 19.9; Charlevoix 17.9; Emmet 18.6; Cheboygan 20.7; Mackinac 24; and Chippewa 18.

The over all November figure for the state was 11.8.

"But in December the state rate rose to 14.9 percent which would indicate that when the county figures for December come in a further increase in unemployment will be shown in these northern counties," said Bob Van Ravensway, Economic Analyst in the Traverse City MESC office in a telephone interview last week.

Van Ravensway has been predicting for some time that the jobless rate in some of these counties would be between 20 and 25 percent before the current downward trend stops.

However, Medusa Cement Co., Assistant Plant Manager Tom Thimm reported that as of Jan. 4 the plant which had been all but shut down all fall with only 38 percent of its work force on the job, would have 82 percent back in the plant performing maintenance functions.

"We will be starting up in full production with everybody back at work in April," Thimm said in a phone interview. "We expect to run through the balance of the year. There's a lot of pent up construction out there, just waiting for interest rates to fall and we intend to be ready to supply the cement."

Medusa is one of the principal cement suppliers in the midwest.

His statement is supported by bankers and realtors who report that many land sales have been consumated in the last few months. The new owners are just waiting for lower interest rates before they start carrying out building plans, which are chiefly for condominiums.

Louis Hollow, President of First State Bank of Charlevoix for example, points out that plans for a 7-11 store, and a 50 room hotel with facilities for small conventions are almost completed. The exterior of the city's first McDonald's drive-in is already completed and will probably open in late spring.

In general Charlevoix area retail merchants ended 1981 in fine shape, thanks largely to an excellent summer and a last minute buying spree before Christmas, Hollow said.

One long established merchant, Jeanine Wallace at the Shop of the Gulls reported that her business last summer was the best in 18 years. "But I'm afraid of the first quarter of this year," she said.

Hollow expects interest rates will continue a downward trend through there may be a few peaks as at present.

"Our bank has been extremely busy and the loan activity is up," he told a telephone interviewer. "I think we're pretty close to the bottom of the recession."

In Boyne City, John Coulter manager of the Boyne City branch of Northwestern State Bank agrees that interest rates will fall and the construction industry in the area will come alive again.

While Charlevoix merchants attributed last summer's good business to crowds drawn to the region by the Bay Queen, bankers from Bellaire to Sault Ste. Marie stated that retail merchants in their communities had also experienced unusually high tourist business last summer, and that the burst of pre-Christmas sales helped them end the year as well as they did in 1980.

"We hope we can hold our own in 1982," said Frederick Bechtel, President of Bellaire State Bank, "but we have to depend on the people down below coming up here for their vacations. We have a lot of people who own second homes here."

The economy of Antrim, Charlevoix and Emmet Counties received a welcome shot in the arm from the thousands of skiers who swarmed over the slopes of the area's ski resorts from Hilton Shanty Creek to Nubs Nob.

"I think we had more people around here during the Christmas-New Year's week than ever before," said Ray Conley, Chairman of the Petoskey First National Bank and Trust Co. "The ski season got off better than ever and if we get snow we'll have a good year. We'll have a good summer, as always, and if we don't have any more plant closing, we'll do well.

"1981 was as good for the merchants as 1980, but it seemed even better because the predictions had been so gloomy.

"Eighty-two will be a quiet year," Conley continued. "It won't be better than '81.

"The construction of condominiums will continue as long as there is the demand. Interest rates are not the barrier to this, because the people who buy them aren't affected. But we are always six months behind the rest of the country and the sales of condominiums in California, Arizona and elsewhere have almost halted. Fortunately the condominium developers in this area build only what they are certain they can sell."

Siren tests on Thursday

by DAVE KNIGHT

Facing a February 1 deadline set by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission to have a working emergency warning system in place within a five-mile radius of the Big Rock nuclear plant, Consumers Power Company, with cooperation from the Charlevoix County Office of Emergency Services, will conduct the first live test of the system this Thursday, January 28.

Eleven siren-public address units have been mounted atop 45-foot utility poles at various locations within the five-mile radius of the Big Rock plant. Each unit swivels 360 degrees.

Sometime around noon on Thursday, the testing will begin. According to Earl Muma, Director of Emergency Services for Charlevoix County, the test will consist of three separate activations of the siren and public address modes.

The siren itself will be a steady tone that will last about one minute followed by a vocal explanation over the public address. In an actual emergency, the siren tone would last for about five minutes. The siren tone to be used for Thursday's test is one of three programmed into the system. The steady tone will be used in the case of a nuclear emergency at Big Rock or other potential disaster such as a tornado.

The controls for the system are located in the communication room of the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department with a backup system at the Big Rock plant. Each siren unit is radio controlled. Activation occurs when a coded message consisting of six tones is broadcast from the control center to the eleven units. Each unit's power supply is provided by either the City of Charlevoix or Top'O Michigan although the units have emergency self-contained power sources also.

To help evaluate Thursday's testing, the Office of Emergency Services is asking for citizen volunteers who will be positioned at outlying points in the radius circle to determine if the warnings can be heard in all locations.

Anyone wishing to assist in the test is asked to contact the Charlevoix County Office of Emergency Services.

Following this week's intitial tests, the warning system will be tested regularly at noon on the first Saturday of each month.

Charlevoix Yesterday

This picture of the Charlevoix boat dock on Round Lake was taken just prior to World War I. Bob Miles, who furnished the picture, points out the "deplorable condition of the waterfront", which, he says, was like this or worse from the channel to Antrim Street. The car in the lower left corner is a Pierce-Arrow, which Miles remembers as the only car of that time with headlights on the fenders.

St. Mary's to mark Catholic Schools Week

by ANNE KELLY

"Catholic School Week", a national event observed Jan. 31-Feb. 5, will find St. Mary's School here in Charlevoix spreading the good news. The theme of the week long observance is just that: "Catholic Schools: Good News in Education".

Just what is on the agenda for that week is a special focus nearly every day. The schedule includes a Tuesday "Good news for teachers". On this day, St. Mary's teachers will be recongized and shown appreciation by a luncheon and other surprises planned by principal Sr. Anges Mary. Wednesday is "Good news for parents day" on which parents will be invited to a special pancake lunch with their children. Thursday is "Good news for the community" day. Grades 3, 4, 5, and 6 will be visiting the Pine River senior citizen center and be profiding entertainment for residents. The week will be culminated with an invitation to grandparents to join their grandchildren for a day of liturgy, lunch and bingo in the school hall.

What do the children of St. Mary's say about their school? St. Mary's 1st grader Jessica Oleksy says, "I like hot dog day best of all. I love the book 'BOATS' so much. It's our reading book. Our teacher, Mrs. Dubey, helps us spell words that we read. I have lots of friends here at school."

Jason Pajtas: "We get to do lots of fun things here at St. Mary's. We had a picnic at Whiting Park last year. I like religion because it teaches us about God." He added that an advantage of a small school was "there aren't many of us so we don't have to wait in line a long time for anything."

3rd and 4th graders share a combined classroom at St. Mary's and the arrangement often proves beneficial to both segments. Kevin Campbell likes to be a 3rd grader at St. Mary's because "I have lots of friends here." His face really lit up when he mentioned his favorite subject which is art with volunteer Miss Mary Faculat. 4th grader Rita digressed into a discussion of clothes, a typical occupation with that age bracket. "I like it here because of the teachers and my friends but also because 'Twin Day' is fun. On that day we get to dress in the same things as your friend. Our uniforms are dark blue skirts or pants (not jeans) and light blue shirts. Every Friday though, we get to wear whatever we want."

The 5th and 8th grades, also a combination classroom, offered the comments of 5th grader Pat McKay as their spokesperson. "The teachers here are strict and they help you have good study habits. I like going to church on Friday. Every once in a while we have something fun like a picnic or a party."

Sister Agnes Mary concluded that her school provides much good news in education. "We give our children a good education, individual attention and hope to instill in them Christian values to better themselves and their community."

Important meeting on solid waste set for Thursday

The Charlevoix County Solid Waste Planning Committee has scheduled what it calls a "very important public meeting" for 7:30 Thursday evening, January 28, in the County Building Annex.

The meeting is being held to hear comments from representatives of all cities and townships in the County pertaining to the Solid Waste Management (garbage and trash disposal) plan, on which the Committee is now putting finishing touches.

The Committee was formed over two years ago in answer to a State mandate to the County to prepare a plan that would meet State guidelines. Now the Committee is ready to ask local governments if they intend to keep their present landfills or transfer stations, if they plan to let private haulers take over, or what other actions they want to take.

At the present time, there is no licensed landfill in the County and the unlicensed facilities are being threatened with closing by the Department of Natural Resources.

The high cost of bringing their facilities up to date to meet DNR requirements has kept local governments from making the necessary improvements. It is expected that many will voice this situation Thursday evening.

Knight on the Town

A toast

by Dave Knight

Long after the last snow shovel is put away, which may be sometime in August this year, people around here will remember the brutal winter of '82. Can there be any redeeming good about weather that has cancelled school four Mondays in a row? That has dumped feet of snow on the ski slopes but prevented skiers from getting to them? That has resulted in so many hardships and cancellations of special events?

Indeed there is something good about it all.

Everybody raise your glass.

Here's to the neighbor who lent a hand when he saw you struggling in vain against a drift across your driveway.

Here's to the saint who didn't know you from Adam but stopped when he saw you stuck and helped push your car, getting covered with slush as you spun your tires.

Here's to the tireless snow plow driver and police officer who were on the job when nobody else was.

Here's to the dairy farmer and milk truck driver; cows don't take off on snow days, you know.

Here's to the hospital employee and emergency services crew member who manned their crucial posts during the worst of it.

Here's to the mailman and the newspaper carrier who faithfully travelled their routes and also to the thoughtful housewife who had a hot cup of hot chocolate waiting for them.

Here's to the spirit of helping each other in time of hardship that we sometimes take for granted but is so much a part of life in a close-knit community.

Even if it takes 64 inches of snow to help us rekindle that spirit, perhaps something good has come of the experience after all.

The 'Sorting Out Era'

by Bob Clock

I HAVE NEVER seen the expression used, but I would not be surprised if future historians call the present epoch in Amerrican economics as a "sorting out" period.

Divestiture of Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. by American Natural Resources on Jan. 1 is a good example. ANR in recent years took a long, hard look at its profits and decided no sound corporation can exist half slave and half free.

Michigan Con, as a public utility, was subject to control of the Michigan Public Service Commission (PSC), which, for some unaccountable rreason, used to take the performance of the entire corporation under consideration when establishing Michigan Con's rates.

The gas distribution arm was not one of the more profitable segments of the corporation, but the PSC seldom allowed it to levy the full amount of a requested rate increase because the parent company was doing fairly well, thank you, although ANR shareholders were not receiving a fair return on their investment.

Now the two companies have been "sorted out," and Michigan Con (now Primark Corp.) will be eligible (or inelegible) for rate increases on its own merits. You can look for some rather steep hikes until the company's profit picture comes into better focus.

THEN ALONG came the break-up of American Telephone and Telegraph, the direct result of long-standing anti-trust litigation. Under an out-of-court agreement, AT&T will spin off 22 telephone companies (including Michigan Bell) which are subject to PSC controls in the various states.

This will leave AT&T free to run uncontrolled segments of the corporation — including Western Electric and long-distance lines — with a free hand and also get more deeply involved in the burgeoning data processing business.

Of course, rates for the 22 emancipated telephone companies probably will go up after the cushion of AT&T profits has been removed.

It is ironic that the same liberals who championed the split-up of AT&T are now wearing long faces after considering the consequences for the little telephone user — but it's another example of "sorting out" in action.

NOW THE U.S. Senate is considering an action which will "sort out" the home financing business after a fashion — and again to the detriment of the little guy. The measure, which may be acted on as early as February, would make it illegal for a home buyer to sell his present low-interest mortgage to a third party, a practice which has had the professional money lenders over a barrel for years.

Oddly enough, such assumable mortgages have been holding the real estate market together during these high-interest years, with six of every 10 transactions involving an assumable mortgage.

It is no secret that the proposed legislation is another ballout for the savings and loan industry. S&L officials point out that assumable mortgages perpetuate long-term loans at rates below prevailing interest levels — by-passing S&Ls which are desperately in need of new business.

Most conventional lenders now include "due on sale" clauses in their mortgages, requiring the seller to pay off his loan in full when the home is sold and forcing new buyers to obtain new mortgages at prevailing interest rates.

Just what the pending legislation will accomplish in the various states is uncertain. New York and California, for example, have laws prohibiting lenders from banning assumption of old mortgages. Seventeen states in all have similar laws or court rulings.

Presumably the federal legislation will override the states and home financing eventually will be "sorted out" from the real estate business.

When it's all over, the nation should have a more orderly economic system — although it appears a lot of little fellows are going to be hurt in the process.

An open letter to Cong. Davis

To Congressman Bob Davis:

As individuals, some of those who met with you on Jan. 2 in Petoskey have already written to thank you for allotting us time from your busy schedule. A vote of thanks is also in order from our organization which is dedicated to peace and freedom.

As you now know, we are deeply troubled by the escalating costs of the military which we believe will not enhance our security but instead will mean another upward spiral in the arms race with resultant insecurity. And certainly some of the funds being channeled into the Pentagon could be used to good advantage here in Michigan's 11th District where unemployment is very high.

As for Project ELF, while we are grateful for your having tried to prevent its being located in the UP, we do not believe that you should dismiss it as "one we lost". You will recall that a member of our group quoted Dwight Eisenhower as saying, "The people of the world want peace so badly that the Governments had better get out of the way and let them have it." We are some of those people, and we can not sit idly by while taxpayers' money is being lavished on projects such as ELF and the MX and while health and social programs are mercilessly slashed. Like the demonstrators in Europe, we are trying to tell our Governments something.

As was suggested by someone in our group, we need statesmanship in high places. We should not go into negotiations saying we do not trust the Russians nor should we make a proposal which we know in advance will not be acceptable. The hard nosed men in the Kremlin are not going to dismantle weapons already emplaced in exchange for our promise not to build and deploy the new cruise missile (which the Europeans will probably not let us do anyway). However, if an even-handed proposal could be made which would be in the self interest of the USSR as well as that of the US, the chances are that there would be a positive response. After all, the Russian economy as well as our own, is suffering because of huge military outlays. Former Ambassador to the USSR, George Kennan, says that the Soviets do and will honor treaties which are to the advantage of all concerned such as the Test Ban Treaty and SALT I. Surely it is to the Russians' benefit as well as to ours to halt the arms race and reduce the risk of World War III.

There will continue to be an impasse as long as either or both sides insist on negotiating from "a position of strength" by which is really meant a position of superiority. True statesmanship is, indeed, what is needed.

To repeat, thank you for meeting with us and we trust that you will do so again from time to time.

Coping with the stress of winter weather

by Leah Green

Well, how are you weathering the repeated winter storms sweeping across our little corner of the world? Are they getting to you? You are probably beginning to gril you teeth on Thursdays in preparation for another weekend of not being able to get out to cross country ski or take care of your weekend errands. It's even difficult to plan on grocery shopping if you regular time for this chore is Friday or Saturday. The kids can't visit their friends, parents can't plan on seeing their friends on weekends either. Even having youngsters home form school sometimes creates problems for parents who work. Regular meetings and activities are being pushed out of place. Our lives, especially those which are lived by habit or routine, whether by choice or due to circumstance, seem to be topsy turvy and out of control. Unless you crave solitude and don't mind taking a chance that you will run out of something important to your well being at the wrong moment the weather is creating a lot of stress in your life.

Actually there's not a lot you or I can do about the weather. But there's something we can do about the stress it is creating in our lives. Stress is a subject that has received a lot of attention in the last two or three years. Before that we didn't even know wat it was. Well, we may have recognized what happened to our bodies and our outlook when things did not go well at work or home or school. We may have noticed that we did not feel as well as usual. We may have noticed that we were more tired or more irritable than usual. We may have recognized that things were unpleasant for us in general. Our emotions work overtime when we are under stress. Our body tenses, adrenalin is released; our respiration rate increases. If these physical and emotional responses are not released at least from time to time, we may be headed for big trouble. We become good candidates for life threatening physical conditions, heart condition, high blood pressure and ulcers.

Anyway, just being able to label stress for what it is and knowing the by-products of stress for what they are is a big step in the right direction. We can all be grateful to health experts for causing the rest of us to recognize this major force in our lives. But, as with anything else there are lots of ins and outs to understnading stress. It influences the quality of our life immensly. Think, if you will, about one thing, even a small one, that can quickly identify as a source of tension or irritation to you. Of course, stress isn't necessarily identified just with these two reactions, but they will serve to illustrate the point. Then think of what changes might take place for the better without that factor. How would the quality of some part of your life be affected? We daydream sometimes about the improvements in our general situation that could be wrought if only so and so wasn't always late or if we didn't always have to do something a certain way or if we had more time. Some of us dream of our job being vastly improved if things were just a little different. If our kids just behaved a little differently things would be better at home.

Our spouse, our inlaws, our home, our location - you get the idea. These individual stressors do indeed affect the quality of our life. When our mind is bothered by something, our body can't help but react. This is the point at which many of us first recognize stress. Actually by the symptoms rather than their source. Have you every found your body tensing as you prepare to do an unwanted task or enter a building where you know you will not be entirely comfortable? Let's say you have an important meeting coming up and you're not sure you are going to like the outcome, that is, you aren't sure you will be elected, you don't know if the boss will like your idea, the teacher may tell you something negative about your child etc. This is stress. You experience stress when you are fixing a company meal as well as when you set out to shop for something special.

As I said before, just knowing what stress is and where you will experience it is good. Knowing how it acts on you is also good. However, dealing with it is even better. The 4 H & Family Living arms of the Cooperative Extension Service each have stress management programs. The 4 H program is entitled "The Stress Connection". It has management programs for both adults and children. You CAN learn to reduce the stress in your life. The process is not difficult. It can make you happier and it can make your children (or young people with whom you work) happier. Persons going through "The Stress Connection" can learn to understand stress, gain good insight into how it affects individuals and ultimately how to help others cope with stress. But the greatest part of this program is teaching yourself to cope with stress. The program for achieving this is carefully laid out - and you do it yourself.

Facilitators and other members of the group don't necessarily learn all the details of your life nor does anyone tell you how to cope. Through the exercises and discussions you fashion your own management system. And best of all it works. For more information on "The Stress Connection" and how to use it contact Leah Green at the Cooperative Extension Service in Boyne City.

Letters: Shopping, schools

Remember our local stores

To the Editor and Charlevoix Residents:

I'm always disappointed when I hear that Charlevoix residents have gone to other towns for major purchases without checking with our local merchants first. In many cases shoppers will find that prices are better, or at least as good as in distant locations.

We must not forget that these local businesses are run by our neighbors and Charlevoix taxpayers. We all benefit when Charlevoix money is kept in Charlevoix.

I believe we should at least begin our shopping here.

Sincerely,
Marilyn Izor

Our schools are great

Dear Editor:

May I take this opportunity to commend our Charlevoix school system which, I believe, is one of excellence.

As a substitute teacher, I have worked in both the Middle School and High School - from the sixth grade to the senior-high level. I feel the students are truly learning; I have seen their interest and determination to succeed.

Perhaps I am one of the fortunate few who can evaluate the curriculum and atmosphere "from the inside"; and from my day-to-day experiences at the schools, I feel our educational tax-dollars are being spent effectively.

Besides including studant, teacher, and administrative involvement, one important factor seems to aid Charlevix schools' success; and that is parent concern. Without parents who care, students are less motivated; and that can make the difference between an average education and a superior education. I think many Charlevoix students care because their parents care also.

If my family were to leave Charlevoix, our greatest loss would be my children's diplomas stamped "Charlevoix Public Schools."

Bus system logged 6,347 rides in December

by PEG OHLE

The Charlevoix County Transit System, which operates bus service on a request basis to residents of the County, provided 6,347 rides during December, the System's monthly report shows.

This brings to 106,848 the number of passengers using the service since it was started two years ago, January 1, 1980. However, this figure represents only 1,589 unduplicated passengers, which indicates that most of those riding the buses do so on a regular basis. Clients of the Bergmann Center are among those who ride morning and evening five days a week.

The Transit System had expenses of $24,364 during the month and took in $3,070 in fares. According to Art Saworski, who manages the Transit System, December expenses were unusually high because of bus repairs and purchases of new tires.

The System is guaranteed funding by the State Department of Transportation through the summer of 1982 – through July by some calculations and through September by other calculations. It will receive $222,146 during that time, according to budget figures.

At the end of July – or September – funding will be cut from the 100 percent now received to 75 percent, with the County being asked to provide the additional 25 percent. How and if these funds become available will be a problem for the County Board of Commissioners. No provision for subsidizing the Transit System was made in the County's 1982 budget.

The Charlevoix County Transit System maintains a fleet of seven buses, two of which are equipped with lifts for wheelchair riders. Under normal circumstances, two of the buses are stationed in Charlevoix, two in Boyne City, two in East Jordan, and one is used as a spare.

The buses make trips between the cities as well as within the cities and out into the rural areas. Requests for pickups should be made 24 hours in advance by calling 582-6900.

Fiddle jamboree reset for February 6

The Old Time Fiddlers' Jamboree and Square Dance has been rescheduled for Saturday, February 6 at the East Jordan Civic Center, according to organizers.

The jamboree was originally scheduled to be held on January 16 but was cancelled because of the weather that weekend.

According to coordinator Bill Stevens, the timetable for the jamboree will be the same with all fiddlers invited to play in the Civic Center from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Other musicians with non-electrified instruments are also invited to play in the backup band.

Square dancing will then be held in the evening.

CHIP staff to be invloved in clergy substance abuse conference

Several staff members and a former staff member of the CHIP Counseling Center in Charlevoix will be participating in the 8th Annual Clergy and Religious Workers' Conference on Substance Abuse to be held February 1 and 2 at the Kellogg Center in East Lansing.

CHIP Program presenters at the conference include Robert M. Sell, II, Substance Abuse Counselor - Prevention Specialist for CHIP and former Director of Substance Abuse for District Health Dept. No. 3; Sally Davies-Scott, Substance Abuse Counselor for CHIP and Robert J. O'Brien, Certified Social Worker for the Substance Abuse Division of CHIP.

CHIP group leaders include Dennis Priess, former CHIP staff member and currently associated with Northern Michigan Substance Abuse Services in Gaylord and Terry Smith, clinical director of CHIP Counseling Center.

The purpose of the conference is to sensitize clergy and religious workers to their own attitudes toward substances and their abuse, and enable them to deal with those attitudes. The conference, the theme of which is "Drugs and the Family", will also help participants become catalysts in substance abuse situations by providing education, information, prevention, referral and support.

Seek horsemen

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department is finalizing plans for a horse mounted sheriff's posse on a volunteer basis Sheriff George T. Lasater has announced.

The special mounted posse would be utilized in special situations such as search and rescue of lost persons.

Any Charlevoix County horseman who would like to participate in the mounted posse on a volunteer basis is asked to contact Sheriff Lasater or Deputy Michael Wheat so an organization meeting may be set and a training progam initiated.

"WHY CARDINALS HAVE RED C

Mary Ann Chew in front of a display of her students' creative writing papers.

This week's workshop is on creative writing

by ANNE KELLY

A creative writing "Workshop for Kids" will be offered at the Charlevoix Public Library this Saturday, Jan. 30. Mary Ann Chew, fourth grade teacher at the elementary school, is well known locally for her expertise and enthusiasm in this area.

Mary Ann, although a versatile educator remarks that "from the very beginning creative writing is one area that I've always enjoyed teaching." Through written expression, she explained, children learn to communicate their feelings and problems. Their personality can become better defined for a teacher as students write. It has been through creative writing that she has been able to find gifted students who will benefit from recognition, encouragement and additional challange. Children in Mary Ann's classes find themselves encouraged to write creatively at least once a week.

As a tool to get them going on an assignment, she may draw from an original collection of "story starters" she developed in conjunction with local artist Ken Swan. Some examples of assignments might be:

"If I were a principal"...or "What bugs me"...or this week "Why Cardinals have Red Coats".

Some of her assignments are shorter and are graded for literary accuracy, but more often, they are longer ideas like writing plays or tall tales. These are evaluated from the children's oral reading of their work so as not to discourage creativity by getting bogged down in the mechanics of writing.

Mary Ann holds a degree in Elementary Education as well as a Masters in Elementary Administration from Central Michigan University. Her specialty area is reading. She also holds a degree in Retailing from Flint Jr. College. She has taught in Charlevoix since 1966 and especially enjoys the 4th grade level.

Participating in the Library-sponsored workshops for kids is just one more extension of Mary Ann's creative energy. She has also conducted a workshop as part of the Northern Michigan Reading Association Meeting, giving teachers teaching ideas for the instruction of creative writing in the classroom.

Children ages 9-13 who enjoy writing are invited to come to the lower level of the library for an hour of writing and sharing what they have written.

RAINBOW FOR A JANUARY BIRTHDAY

If you were born in January, you are lucky indeed. Your birthstone comes in every color of the rainbow except blue. A blood red stone is what most people envision, but garnets come in just about any color that suits your fancy.

Garnet is actually a group of gemstones rather than one specific gem. The dark red stone most people are familiar with is pyrope. Rhodolite is usually a violet red. Spessartite runs in the oranges, yellows and browns. Almandite can be a ruby red or a violet. Of the grossularites, the orange and green stones are the most attractive. Andradite occurs in green, yellow or brown. Uvarovite usually occurs in an opaque emerald green.

Two of the garnets occur in exciting green varieties. Tsavorite is a transparent green grossular garnet which may resemble fine quality emerald. A translucent grossular sometimes calls to mind a rich jade. Demantoid is a transparent green variety of andradite. This is too brilliant to resemble emerald, but instead it bears a closer resemblance to a fiery green diamond.

A garnet I haven't mentioned, but which has sparked quite a bit of interest lately, is the malaya garnet. Malaya means "out of the family." This garnet, usually a cinnamon orange, is called malaya because it really doesn't fit into any of the garnet categories already classified.

Please feel free to ask me any questions you may have about the glorious garnets ... or any other gemstone that intrigues you. This is one of my favorite topics of conversation.

Welfare recipients will do chores for senior citizens requesting help will be checked out to insure they have no able-bodied people in their family who could do the work.

"We will ask for donations from the senior citizens," Saworski explained, "just anything they can afford. And if they can't afford anything, that's all right, too."

"We will not be a repair service," Saworski added, "but our people will be able to make minor repairs when the homeowner provides the necessary materials."

This new help-for-senior-citizens program is an outgrowth of the "Work Relief" program, in which able-bodied recipients of general assistance from the Charlevoix County Department of Social Services are placed in public or non-profit private agencies to work as many hours as necessary to cover their general assistance payments.

According to Straubel, the Work Relief workers are paid the minimum wage, and since the average general assistance check is $174 a month, they work an average of approximately 50 hours a month.

In this new program, as in the original Work Relief program, any recipient of general assistance who is able-bodied and refuses to take a work assignment, will be cut from the general assistance rolls, Straubel said.

Straubel believes this is the first such cooperative program to be set up in Michigan to meet the needs of senior citizens.

The Commission on Aging has hired Joseph Moby of East Jordan to supervise workers on the job. Saworski and Leanne Hardy of the Boyne City office of the Commission on Aging will assess the needs of senior citizens applying for help.

Senior citizens may make their needs known by calling Ms. Hardy at 582-6682.

Rayders prevail

Friday night'a game between the Charlevoix Raydera and the Boyne City Ramblers was billed correctly as a showdown between the conference's two top teams.

It was to have been close.

The Raydera read a different book, though, and methodically went about the business of dismantling the Boyne City offense, Brian Vroman included, which had scored 101 points against Onaway only days before.

The result was a stunning 70-53 rout that put Charlevoix firmly into the conference driver's seat. With six more games against conference foes left, Charlevoix remains undefeated at 7-0 in Michigan-Huron Shores action.

They are alone in first place with Boyne City at 6-2 and Cheboygan at 5-2 in second and third respectively. In their biggest remaining test, the Rayders host Cheboygan on February 12.

In Friday night's game, a tenacious defense that held Rambler star Vroman in check plus some nifty shooting by senior Gary Drury put Charlevoix in control of the game by the second quarter.

At the end of one period, Boyne City led by one 17-16. it was in the second period, however, that the Rayders really got going with some key rebounding and subsequent fast breaks.

Charlevoix took a 36-28 lead into the lockeroom.

The teams played evenly in the third quarter scoring ten apiece for a 46-38 tally going into the final quarler. With eight of ten conversions from the free throw line, Charlevoix doused any hopes of a Boyne City rally and went on to win going away, 70-53.

Drury led all scorers in the game with 26 points. Craig Klooster added 16 for the Rayders, Jim Buchanan hit 12, Ross Carey 10, George Smith 4 and Mike Loper 2.

For the Ramblers, Vroman had 19, John Tompkins 14, Brad Musser 10 and Corey Fish 8.

The game was played one hour earlier than scheduled because of deteriorating weather conditions.

In junior varsity action, it was Boyne City on top by a 60-49 margin. Jeff Gabos led the charge with 18 points for the Ramblers while Jeff Johnson and Kimo Kuheana added 14 and 10. Charlevoix's top scorer was Tim LaBlance with 17 points. Bill Tillen had 12 and Dane Tollas 10.

This Friday night the Raydera play their first home game since December 15 when they host the Petoskey Northmen at the Charlevoix High School gym. JV tipoff is at 6:30 p.m.

Community Development Policy Survey

Dear Citizen:

The City of Charlevoix has begun preparing a master plan which will include a detailed development plan for all waterfront areas. If we are to make this plan responsive to the needs and desires of our residents and visitors, we need your input.

This survey is designed to probe your opinions over a wide range of matters concerning the city and its future. We ask that you take a few minutes to complete it. All responses will be confidential. The completed surveys, when collected and tabulated, will be used to further develop the master plan. If you wish to address any areas not covered on this survey or offer any additional comments, please include them on a seperate sheet and staple it to this page.

To be counted, this completed questionnaire must be returned to City Hall, 210 State St., Charlevoix, MI, 49720 either in person or by mail no later than February 5, 1982. All interested people are also encouraged to contribute directly to the master plan development at an upcoming series of community workshops. The first workshop will be held at 9 a.m. Saturday, January 30, at City Hall.

Your participation in this survey and in the workshops is greatly appreciated.

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX COUNCIL MINUTES

January 18, 1982
8:00 P.M.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time with Mayor Staley presiding.

Present: Councilmembers Roloff, Wood, Morris, Block, Porter, and Timms. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Morris and supported by Councilman Block to approve the Minutes of the January 4, 1982 regular Council meeting and the January 11, 1982 special council meeting as presented in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes Book.

Motion was adopted by voice vote.

Moved by Councilman Wood and supported by Councilman Timms to accept and file the City Planning Commission Minutes dated January 13, 1982.

Motion was adopted by voice vote.

Moved by Councilman Roloff and supported by Councilman Morris to appoint Donald R. Voisin to the City Board of Review for a three year term effective January 1, 1982.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Roloff, Wood, Morris, Block, Porter and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Block to appoint Councilmembers Roloff and Timms to the City Board of Review each for a one year term effective January 1, 1982.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Wood, Morris, Block, and Porter. Nays: None. Absent: None. Abstaining: Councilmembers Roloff and Timms.

Council discussed current policy regarding the parking of delivery vehicles in the street in the downtown area for loading and unloading purposes. Police Chief Mol stated that he has been permitting the vehicles to stay a short time on Bridge Street as the City alleyways running parallel to Bridge Street are either not accessible or are too narrow for large trucks to negotiate. Council generally agreed to maintain the current policy as no other solution to the problem seemed apparent at this time.

Council discussed the problem of snow removal from the Bridge Street sidewalk. Street Supt. Leonard Dubey stated that his department can no longer remove the snow with the City loader as the space is too narrow between the building overhangs and the trees that have been planted in the sidewalk. Linda Mason, a member of the General Public present, stated that the Merchant's Association had sent letters to their members asking them to remove the snow in front of their stores and requested that the City contact the landlords of vacant buildings on Bridge Street asking them to keep their sidewalks clear. The City Manager read the City Ordinance which mandates removal of ice or snow from sidewalks by a property owner or occupant and pointed out that the Ordinance does not distinguish between residential and commercial sections of the City and, therefore, could not be enforced in its present form unless enforcement is city wide. Councilmembers and members of the General Public present offered various suggestions to resolve the snow removal problem. Council generally agreed to discuss the matter further at the Committee of the Whole meeting scheduled for January 25, 1982.

A Public Hearing was held regarding a proposed amendment to the City Zoning Ordinance which would allow motels and hotels in the C-1 zoned sections of the City. The City Manager explained that the Zoning Ordinance does not provide for this use in its present form.

The following Ordinance was offered and moved for its adoption by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Wood.

Ordinance No. 395

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX HEREBY ORDAINS That Chapter 51, entitled Zoning, Article IV, entitled Use Districts, Section 5.82, entitled Use Regulations, be amended to add the following additional provision to said Ordinance, which shall be designated as sub-section (18) and read as follows

Section 5.82

(18) Motels or Hotels

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX HEREBY ORDAINS That Chapter 51, entitled Zoning, Article IV, entitled Use District, Section 5.82, entitled Use Regulations, be amended to re-designate the current sub-section (18) as sub-section (19) and read as follows

Section 5.82

(19) Other similar retail business or service establishments; provided, however, such uses shall be found to be similar by the Planning Commission.

Ordinance was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Roloff, Wood, Morris, Block, Porter, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Doug Bergmann, President of the Charlevoix Volunteer Fire Dept., read a letter to the Council from that organization requesting that representatives from the organization be allowed to participate in the process of selecting a new Fire Chief to replace Chief John Curtis who will retire on February 28, 1982. The latter also expressed concern that the vacancy has already been advertised throughout the State without the knowledge of the Volunteers. The City Manager stated that Council had directed him to seek qualified applicants for the position from outside the City and that he did not plan to post the vacancy in the City until a more refined job description could be prepared.

Council discussed the status of the proposed Airport Improvement Project. Don Seelye, a member of the General Public present, asked if a taxiway would be included in the Project. He was advised to contact the Airport Manager regarding budgeting funds for this purpose as the present Project is for extension of the runway only.

Mayor Staley stated that he would be prepared to make appointments to fill the vacancies on the City Compensation Commission at the next regular Council meeting.

Council approved the policy set down in a memorandum dated January 15, 1982 to the City employees from the City Manager regarding work curtailments due to severe weather conditions.

The City Manager advised Council that John Haggard had obtained a Zoning Permit for his project at 200 Antrim St. and outlined several problems with the project as set down in this letter to Mr. Haggard dated January 15, 1982.

The Council having examined bills totaling $344,308.53 find them correct and recommend the bills be allowed.

Moved by Councilman Timms and supported by Councilman Porter that the bills be allowed and orders drawn for their amount.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Roloff, Wood, Morris, Block, Porter, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council generally agreed to hire an attorney to attend Council meetings when the City Attorney is out of town on City business if the City Manager and the City Attorney agree that an attorney should be present.

The City Clerk advised Council that four outstanding Receivable Accounts were being taken to Court for collection. It was generally agreed to discuss one of the accounts, for installation of a sewer line on the Douglas Bethey property, with the City Attorney at the next Committee of the Whole meeting.

Contest winners

The Buchanans kept the Courier basketball contest first place winnings in the family this week with Jim Buchanan taking over the winning ways from his dad LeRoy, a six time winner. Both Jim and runnerup Paul Burlew of charlevoix missed on three guesses but Jim won the $15 first place gift certificate by coming closer on the tie-breaker.

Middle School teams split

The Charlevoix Middle School basketball teams split in their first outing in recent weeks with the seventh grade defeating Central Lake's seventh graders 25-19 and the eighth graders dropping their game by a one-point 31-30 margin.

The seventh graders led Central Lake 12-8 at halftime after overcoming a 6-2 first period deficit. Charlevoix then went ahead 15-8 at the three-quarter mark before coasting to the six-point win.

Terry Bonar had nine points for Charlevoix with O. Hall matching the number for Central Lake.

In the eighth grade game, Central Lake jumped to a 13-4 first quarter lead and never relinquished it as they led 17-12 at the half and 24-18 going into the final period.

J. Dickinson paced the scoring with 16 points for the victors. Jodi Putman had 11 and Joe Hayes nine for Charlevoix.

Charlevoix was to host Harbor Springs Monday.

Ballenger to stop here on his walk through state

United States Senate Candidate William Ballenger will be in Charlevoix this week to meet the people and promote his campaign.

The candidate's visit to the area is part of his thousand-mile walk from Saulte Ste. Marie to the southern part of the state, which he began a week ago Monday.

Ballenger will be the honored guest at a cocktail party at Duffy's of Charlevoix this evening (Wednesday) from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m., hosted by Charlevoix County Republicans. The public is invited to meet the candidate at this time.

Thursday afternoon, Ballenger will tour the rebuilt Lexalite plant in Charlevoix, and Thursday evening he will meet the press at a gathering of the Northwest Michigan Preax Club at LaMarguerita Restaurant in Petoskey.

Friday morning, at 8 a.m., Ballenger will be at Leutheuser's Restaurant in Charlevoix, where he will greet the public and answer questions. At 9 a.m., Ballenger will record a message at radio station WVOY.

High school debaters will travel to CMU

The Charelvoix High School Debate team will travel to Mt. Pleasant early next month to participate in the State Finals of the Debate Division of the Speech program, Coach Connie Ford has announced.

The event will be held at Central Michigan University Feb. 5-6.

Members of the team are Patti Cook, Beth Ford, Jacque Erber and Dan Buday.

Mrs. Ford said that because of the inclement weather so far this year the team's participation in invitational tournaments has been limited to three such events. The team finished in fourth place in the nine-team league with Gaylord placing first and Petoskey and Big Rapids tied for second place. The Novice team also did well despite limited experience finishing in third place in the league.

Cook finished in sixth place on the Varsity level; Maureen Buday, sixth in the Novice Class, first in Junior Varsity and second in the Ithaca tournament; Dan Buday, first unit speaker and first in the Ithaca tournament and Karyn Mayhew, first unit speaker at the Ithaca tournament.

Members of the Novice team are David Umlor, Dianna Loder, Laura Grooters, Cathy Shepherd, Ann Wagner and Katie Clock.

The Drama Division of the speech program will open Saturday, Jan. 30 with the District event to be held at Midland on that date, Mrs. Ford said. Students are already in rehearsal for the group's One Act play which will be "The Diary of Ann Frank".

The play has a cast of 10 with Beth Ford playing the title role. She will be supported by Judy Mabee as her sister, Margot; Paul Stangis and Martha Staley as her parents; Donna LaVasseur and Ronald Archey as Mr. and Mrs. Van Daan; Gary Carson as their son, Peter Van Daan; James Gleason as Mr. Dussell; Chris Peterson as Miep and James Boggs as Mr. Kraler.

Sound familiar?

Looking backward – to March, 1898.

The Charlevoix Sentinel published a letter written by Mr. Whittaker of the Michigan Fish Commission to Capt. Neil Gallagher of St. James "highly commending the latter's action in urging fishermen to comply with the spirit and purpose of the law in protecting small fish and using meshes large enough to take whitefish and trout only that are of merchantable size."

Whittaker complimented Gallagher on being "a very level-headed man" and added that "if Michigan fishermen were all as sensible and honest as he is, the lake fisheries would continue to be a mine of wealth for all future time, instead of being ruined as a source of food supply and a living for hundreds of families."

That was 84 years ago.

Council grapples with fire chief vacancy

by DAVE KNIGHT

Charlevoix City Council members used to think hiring city managers was a hassle. That was before they were faced with hiring a fire chief.

Monday night the council grappled with job descriptions, selection procedures, residency requirements and a liberal dose of public input before resolving only part of the problem created by the resignation of fire chief John Curtis.

Curtis will step down at the end of this month.

At the center of the issue is whether the chief should be one of the department volunteers or a full-time professional position.

Currently the city employs three full-time firemen, of whom Curtis is one, who man the station 24 hours a day in eight-hour shifts. The rest of the department is comprised of volunteers, many of whom were on hand for Monday night's discussion.

Jerry Pease, one of the full-time firemen, pointed out to council members that as a member of the city employees' union, he would find it difficult to answer to both a city department head and a volunteer chief.

Doug Bergmann, a volunteer fireman, criticized the job description circulated by the city statewide saying that its duties were too extensive.

"Who is going to sit in the firehouse if you hire somebody to do all these things like building inspection and prevention programs?," said Bergmann, "Are you going to hire one person or two?"

Council member James Block expressed his strong feeling that, although the chief should be a paid professional, he should not be one of the three full-time firemen.

"One of these three men should not have to worry about running the department, too," said Block.

Dr. David Strawbridge, speaking as a city resident, suggested that the position be filled on the basis of merit.

Said Strawbridge, "You should not reject someone just because you don't know him."

Former city manager James Brinker agreed saying that the fire chief should be an appointed position just like any other city department head with full responsibility of running the department.

Following a lengthy public hearing, the council acted on a motion by council member Shirley Roloff to establish a five-point policy regarding the hiring of a new fire chief.

Included in the measure were requirements that:

-The chief be one of the three full-time positions currently included in the budget.

-That the residency requirement be followed as it is outlined in the city charter which would require residency in the city unless waived under special circumstances.

-That selection be based on merit implying that anyone can apply and will considered fairly, that written criteria will be established for the position in advance, that an impartial evaluation will be conducted for each applicant and that the recommendation of the evaluating party be accepted at an open meeting.

-That internal structure of the department not be addressed at this time.

—Roloff's motion carried by a 5-1 margin with Block casting the dissenting vote. The council will further define the duties and responsibilities of the position at their February 8 work session.

In other action, the council:

-Postponed the awarding of bids on a design contract for the city's storm sewer project until more firm prices on actual post-design construction can be obtained from the two firms to submit bids. Granger Engineering, Inc. who bid $9,290 on the design and McNamee, Porter & Seeley who bid $10,000. City manager Robert Hunt told the council that if the additional figures can be obtained this week, the bids might be ready for awarding at a special council meeting February 8.

-Went along with a proposal by Grey Gables owner Peter Pace to allow parking for his customers on both sides of Belvedere Ave. from Alice St. to the Belvedere Club gates on the condition that he arrange to have snow removed to the curb on both sides of the street. Winter parking had been restricted to one side of Belvedere because of the narrow roadway caused by excessive snow banks. The council went along with Pace's proposal for a thirty-day trial period.

-Retained the city's current policy on downtown snow removal which requires each merchant to clear his or her own sidewalk. Rejected was a proposal that the city spend from $5,000 to $15,000 on additional snow removal equipment to clear downtown sidewalks.

County back into zoning business?

by PEG OHLE

Should Charlevoix County go back into the zoning business?

That question was raised recently when Charlevoix County Planner Lawrence Sullivan spoke at a meeting of the Charlevoix County Townships Association.

The County had a zoning ordinance for several months in the early 1970's, but in 1973, County residents called for a referendum vote on the ordinance and it went down to defeat.

In the ensuing weeks and months, individual townships within the County adopted their own zoning ordinances and set up machinery with which to administer them.

However, two townships, Melrose and Boyne Valley, told the County Planning Commission they could not find anyone to administer their ordinances and asked the Planning Commission to do the job for them until administrators could be found. The Planning Commission took on the job and has been administering the zoning ordinances for those townships ever since.

In recent months, Wilson Township asked the County Planning Commission to do their zoning work for them because they have been unable to secure a zoning administrator within the township. That request was tabled for further study. Since that time, other townships have been feeling out the Planning Commission on the possibility of taking on their zoning activities.

Sullivan told the Township officials that he did not see any way for the County Planning Commission to take on more work with its present staff. He did, however, have some suggestions for those townships looking for zoning help:

Perhaps the County Department of Building Inspection could do the job. Sullivan pointed out that most building jobs the County inspects require a zoning permit before a building permit can be issued. Also, the County Building Inspector is constantly "on-the road" throughout the County and can detect and report any zoning violations.

Perhaps the Townships Association could form a department within its organization to do the zoning work for those townships needing help.

Perhaps just two or three townships could join together to hire one administrator for their zoning ordinances.

Further discussion brought up the possibility of another County zoning ordinance, with some township officials noting that the County, with its law enforcement staff, was better able to handle zoning violations.

Also discussed was the possibility of a County zoning ordinance which would give individual townships the choice of adopting it or continuing to administer their own zoning ordinances. Townships in Emmet County operate under such a plan at the present time.

The whole question must now be considered by the ten-person County Planning Commission and the County Board of Commissioners.

As of this year, Melrose Township pays the County $750 annually for its zoning service, and Boyne Valley pays $440. The County Planner attends an average of 16 three-hour meetings in each township each year. These are meetings of the Township Planning Commissions, the Zoning Boards of Appeals, Township Board meetings at which zoning matters are to be discussed, and public hearings on zoning matters. The County is not reimbursed for mileage to these meetings except when they are public hearings.

Besides attending meetings, The County Planner and his assistant issue zoning permits, check on zoning violations, answer questions about zoning problems, and set up zoning meetings and public hearings for Melrose and Boyne Valley Townships.

This kind of service by the County has caused concern among some townships officials who do all their own zoning work. They think some changes should be made.

Siren tests got generally good grades

With blizzard winds gusting up to 25 miles an hour, conditions were probably ideal for the first tests at noon last Thursday of the Emergency Siren Warning System installed by Consumers Power Company within a five-mile radius of the Big Rock nuclear plant.

Twenty-five people volunteered to man 23 different checkpoints in the area for the tests, according to Charlevoix County Emergency Services Director Earl Muma. Three tests of the system were run at 15-minute intervals with volunteers noting how well the siren and voice instructions could be heard at various locations.

A common report from the volunteers was that the siren could be heard but the voice instructions not understood. This was reported by 18 of the volunteers. At only four locations, South Point, Charlevoix Area Hospital, and two locations near Horton Bay, could neither the siren nor the voice be heard.

Consumers Power officials indicated that adjustments will be made to further amplify the voice portion of the warning before regular monthly testing begins at noon on Saturday, February 6. The company has a 120-day period to make adjustments according to requirements set by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

Area transportation meetings will help state determine future policy

The kind of transportation services the State of Michigan provides its residents over the nest ten years could be influenced by a series of public meetiogs now being held throughout the State.

Two meetings are scheduled for the Upper Lower Peninsula area – on Wednesday, February 3, in Cadillac at 7:30 p.m. in the Middle School Cafeteria, and on Thursday, February 11, in Gaylord at 7:30 p.m. in the High School Activity Room.

A booklet prepared by the Michigan Department of Transportation indicates that the financial outlook for State transportation systems is rather dreary: Revenues are expected to decreased by up to ten percent a year based on projection of present conditions; competition for funds will increase as demand for needed services grows, and federal policies may alter esisting funding levels.

As revenues decline, transportation services will be cut back severoly, maintenace will be reduced, and esisting facilities will continue to deteriorate. This means that bus and rail service will decline, snow removal will be limited, and repair of streets and highways will be postponed. Almost all new construction will be eliminated.

Some ways of meeting the problem of declining revenues which will be considered at the meetings are: Establishing the gasoline tas at a fixed percentage, thus increasing revenue as the price of gasoline increases; increasing vehicle registration fees, and looking for a method other than the gasoline tax to fund transportation,

Answering the question, "Why do we need transportation?", the Department of Transportation booklet points out that manufacturing, agriculture, and tourism are important to Michigan's economy, and all are dependent upon the transportation system. Weekend tourist travel especially creates the need for high capacity transportation networks, it states.

Social needs are also met by transportation. Local bus service, such as the Charlevols County Transit System, provides access to health and other vital services, especially for the poor, elderly, and handicapped. Schools and colleges are distributed widely throughout the State, necessitating an estensive State and local network to provide access to them. Population shifts to smaller communities such as those in the Upper Lower Peninsula are occurring. Transportation is needed to provide access to vital services and social activities for residents of these areas.

Much of the food, clothing, and household goods consumed by Michigan residents is produced outside the State. An extensive transportation system is needed to deliver these goods. Also, a major attraction in Michigan is the extensive natural and man-made recreational areas. Transportation brings these areas within a few hours of travel from anywhere in the State.

Those attending any of the State Department of Transportation meetings will have a chance to discuss the issues and participate in a survey to suggest how the Department should respond to the above problems. The survey results will reflect the views of those attending and will be used to guide policy decisions

Ballenger stops here on walk through state

Most of Charlevoix County became aware last week that William S. Ballenger is a Republican candidate for the United States Senate.

The 41-year-old Flint native spent three days in the area, taking a little time off from his thousand-mile walking trip criss-crossing the State from Sault Ste. Marie to Detroit.

Between the Sault and Charlevoix, Ballenger stayed with six different families, learning first-hand the problems facing them. He also talked with grocery shoppers in super markets, with small business men in their shops, with senior citizens at their meal sites, with students in their classrooms, and with everybody else who had a question or offered a comment.

Ballenger is one of three announced Republican candidates for the Senate seat now held by Democrat Donald Riegle. His announced opponents in the August primary are Philip Ruppe of Houghton, who represented the 11th Congressional District in Washington for several terms; and Robert J. Huber of Troy, who represented his district in Washington for one term. Dean Baker, a regent of the University of Michigan, may announce his candidacy later.

On the Democratic side, Ballenger relieves that Riegle will be the only serious candidate.

Ballenger began his political career in 1969, when he was elected to the State House of Representatives. After serving for one term, he was elected to the State Senate. Looking back on his State Senate days, Ballenger proudly recalls that 27 of the bills he introduced were passed.

Ballenger went to Washington during the presidency of Jerry Ford and served as Depoty Assistant Secretary of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare with responsibilities for congressional liaison. He also served as assistant to Caspar Weinberger, who is now Secretary of Defense.

With this background of Lansing and Washington esperiences, Ballenger is campaigning on the issue of leadership, telling his audiences that Donald Riegle is a poor representative of the people of Michigan – that he doesn't get things done and he really doesn't know what his constituents want.

As to his political persuasion, Ballenger calls himself "progressive on social issues and conservative on economic issues". He supports equal rights for women and minorities as well as a balanced budget and the Economic Recovery Act. "Let's give it (the Economic Recovery Act) a chance to succeed," he says.

One question often asked in northern Michigan, Ballenger

Harbor Industries receives POPAI award

Harbor Industries has been selected by the Point-of-Purchase Advertising Institute, New York, to receive their 1981 "Best of Industry" award. Harbor was the manufacturer of the "Quick Fix" Display System for the General Electric Company of Louisville, Kentucky.

A Charlevoix manufacturer of point-of-purchase displays, Harbor competed against 800 entries on October 27 in New York to win this honor, and was considered for the "Display of the Year" award at the final judging on January 20 in New York City.

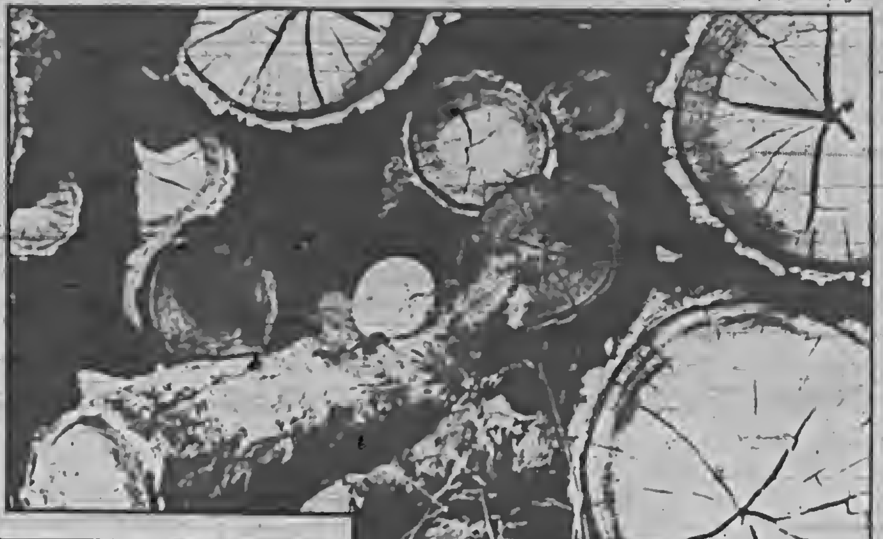
Ted Parker, President, states, "We are extremely pleased and honored that we have been selected to receive this award. General Electric has dedicated the last two years to developing a program which allows consumers the opportunity to service their own products by providiog all the necessary parts with easy-to-follow instructions. Harbor Industries is proud to be associated with General Electric, and to be a part of one of the must successful, consumer-oriented programs developed to date."

THANKS TO TEAM WORK and a generous donation from Mr. Jack Goldman of Imperial, Missouri, Charlevoix Area Hospital has been able to expand the capabilities of its In-Service Education Department. Mr. Goldman, a summer visitor to Charlevoix donated funds to assist in the acquisition of a speakers podium, complete with sound system, for the hospital classroom, as well as new audio-visual equipment.

Rather than buy the podium, Dr. James Gels volunteered to build it and install the electronic amplification equipment. Tom Carey, hospital Board of Directors member, in turn, volunteered to seal and finish Dr. Gel's work.

As a result, the hospital has the new podium, shown above with Dr. Gels and Carey, at a considerable savings and the balance of Mr. Goldman's donation was used to purchase the video taping equipment.

The podium will become familiar to those who attend the regular public education sessions at the hospital. The video tape equipment will make it possible for the In-Service Department to expand its program of employee and patient education. Video taped educational programs for patients will be shown on the televisions in patient rooms on a special closed circuit channel.



Local photographer's work displayed in N.Y.C.

AN AWARD-WINNING PHOTO, shown above, taken by Cindy Streur of Charlevoix, is currently on display in The Equitable Gallery in New York City, through Feb. 19, as part of a presentation of nearly 1,000 finalists in the Kodak International Newspaper Snapshot Awards (KINSA). It won a certificate of merit.

The exhibit includes the winners of local summer contests conducted by 175 newspapers in the United States, Canada and Mexico with more that 385,000 entries.

Ms. Streur, left, a teacher at Charlevoix Children's House, is represented by a black-and-white picture of an egg on a woodpile. She explained, "I was experimenting with the light meter and chose an egg because its stark whiteness reflected the light, and the dark shadows between the wood helped accent that starkness. The smooth, clean form of the egg set against the coarseness of the wood made an interesting contrast." It was a winner in the Petoskey News-Review's summer snapshot contest and as such was submitted to the international competition.

Knight on the Town

The madding crowd

by Dave Knight

There was a new twist in the pregame routine Friday night when the Charlevoix Rayder varsity basketball squad hosted Petoskey on the local court.

In addition to all the familiar ceremonies such as the National Anthem, introduction of players and high fives all around as the troops got psyched, an announcement was read over the public address. It went something like this: "The officials for tonight's game are hired by the Charlevoix Athletic Department and are fully sanctioned by the Michigan-Huron Shores conference. We ask that all players, coaches and spectators cooperate to make the game a positive experience for everybody."

As it turned out, the game was indeed a positive experience for the local partisans who saw Charlevois salvage a 43-40 win in the closing seconds (see page 6). In fact, the handful of Petoskey fans attending saw their team play some of its best ball of the year, too.

But that is not what the pregame announcement was alluding to.

The statement was a direct result of a growing concern by those associated with the high school athletic program over fan conduct. Specifically, verbal abuse of game officials was getting out of hand.

By no means is this a new problem nor is it unique to Charlevoix. Heaven only knows that years ago when the first official pulled on a striped shirt and blew the first whistle, there was a loyal fan in the bleachers who hollered. Fans and refs carry on a symbiotic relationship unique to the sporting world. They are constant adversaries yet ultimately depend on each other. Without either, there could be no organized sport as we know it.

Problems develop, however, when well-meant hometown loyalty deteriorates into vicious personal attacks.

"It is a contagious thing," says Bob Drenth, Charlevoix School Board member and veteran football, basketball and baseball official. "All it takes is one or two loud individuals in the stands to form a nucleus. When others see them, they join in and then everybody's yelling at the refs. It gets to be okay in their minds."

"We expect to get yelled at when we make a bad call but lately, some of the abuse has been getting more personal," said Drenth. "And after a while, that gets under your hide."

High school officiating must rank right up there with barn cleaning as one of the world's more unenviable jobs. Officials in the Michigan-Huron Shores conference get $25 a game plus travel expenses. Since they must often travel hundreds of miles to get a game, many leave work early on a Friday afternoon and don't return until after midnight. It is the quintessential labor of love.

Despite the scarcity of qualified officials in this part of the state (Charlevoix Athletic Director Dale Burge estimates that there are only about 80 officials based north of Cadillac to cover literally hundreds of contests each week), there is every indication that the calibre of local officiating is high. In the hierarchy of officials the more "ratings" one has, the more prestigious games he is assigned. Each year, several officials from this region are asked to work downstate tournaments and some make their way to state finals competition regularly. It is from this pool that local officials are hired.

"We don't have enough officials in the area but we are definitely getting the best ones we can," said Burge who is responsible for hiring officials for all Charlevoix sporting contests.

The problem of too few officials is compounded when some of them would rather not take games in places where the fans have a reputation of being abusive. And that, unfortunately, is what was happening with Charlevoix.

"We have always been known as a school with class," said Burge. "Now some of my fellow ADs are asking me 'What happened?'. Not only are we seeing unneccessary fan conduct at the varsity level, where it has always been somewhat evident, but also now at freshman and JV games."

Rayder basketball coach Dave Smith sees abusive fans as giving his players a mixed message.

Said Smith: "I let my players know that if they ever say anything out of line to a ref, they are on the bench immediately. How are they supposed to react, then, when fans behind them go ahead and carry on like that? The player gets confused in his mind."

"The worst result of the adult fans showing disrespect to the officials is when the players and other young people in the stands see that type of behavior as acceptable," said Smith. "That defeats the purpose of the program. We are supposed to be building character in the kids."

Last Monday's meeting of the Charlevoix Sports Boosters was devoted to the subject of fan sportsmanship and how officials are hired. One of the offshoots of the meeting was the special announcement read before Friday night's game. Whether because of the announcement, or a conscious effort on the part of the Sports Boosters to improve the attitudes in the stands, there was little evidence of unneccessary criticism of the officials during the game. Of course, Charlevoix won so who's to complain?

But they won with class and it was encouraging to many that the locals fans responded in a like manner, a manner traditional to Charlevoix...with class.

Charter should be the last step

To The Citizens of Charlevoix Township,

Writing a charter to consolidate the township and the city isn't an issue we should be considering at this time. The charter-writing stage should wait until some basic problems are addressed.

The real issues before us as township residents involve: taxes, zoning, roads, water, sewers, police and fire protection, electrical service, recreation facilities, and responsive local government. Presently I'm very satisfied with what Charlevois Township has to offer me as a resident. That doesn't mean however that I'm unwilling to listen to a better offer.

One better offer might be cheaper electrical rates from the city versus REA. But writing a charter and voting to consolidate wouldn't change my electrical service. Top O Michigan's position is that they would not surrender any of their service areas without losing a lawsuit and then their lines would have to be purchased. Before we vote to end Charlevois Township don't you think we should have this issue settled?

What about the controversy surrounding representation on the 9 man charter commission? The state law calls for it to be based on population only. The city manager says that a charter written by 7 city and 2 township residents doesn't have much of a chance of passing in the township. Mayor Staley wants to change the state law so that we would have four and four with the chairman being a city resident. Oscar Stroud says he'll talk on an equal basis, but he won't sign a referendum petition. Bob Clock's column points out that its highly unlikely that the state will change the law and if they should the courts would throw it out because of the one man - one vote principle. Where does that leave the present proposal from the boundary commission? The answer is that it's a waste of time and a waste of money. There are many questions that need to be answered and problems to be solved before we are ready to sit down and write a charter.

The city is in a position where they must sell their services and government as a better operation for all our residents. The way to do this is by communication and co-operation. I feel that the people of Charlevoix Township are willing to talk, but we aren't ready to write a charter with so may unresolved issues.

If the city is serious about some type of combination, various joint-study committees should be organized to look into finances, services, utilities, recreation, and government operations. The next step would be a public hearing and if the general opinion was favorable then a charter could be written. The final step would be an election to gain approval.

Clockwise

Stubborn stand bodes ill

by Bob Clock

Jan. 28, 1982, was a black day for all Americans.

Shortly before midnight last Thursday, contract negotiators for General Motors and the United Auto Workers (UAW) announced that contract talks had broken down and that GM's foundering auto plants were in for another six months of hard times.

I - for one - had hoped that UAW President Douglas Fraser would be able to rise above petty union politics for the good of his membership and the well-being of the country.

But, no. Concessions were not in the cards. GM earlier had agreed to pass every dollar saved along to the buyers of new cars, but the union tried to exact too many impossible concessions from the giant automaker in return - concessions like job guarantees, a discontinuance of out-sourcing and other practices that GM just couldn't agree to in this dismal winter of 1982.

Talks, of course, are still under way at Ford Motor, but Fraser's chances of bringing Old Henry's empire to its knees are even slimmer.

Ford was aghast when GM originally agreed to pass all savings resulting from contract concessions along to customers, because Ford itself is desperately in need of revenue. The Ford stock dividend for the first quarter has been canceled - the first time this has happened since the company "went public" 25 years ago.

The company certainly would want to bring prices down to spur sales, but its financial situation - unlike GM's - simply demands that some of the savings be invested elsewhere.

All in all, the outlook for the auto industry and its workers is very bleak. There is just no way you can build cars with $20-an-hour labor and sell them to folks making $5 and $6 an hour.

Furthermore, I cannot see the UAW any more willing to bargain concessions next summer than it is today. The automakers foolishly let themselves be bamboozled into preposterous, grossly inflated labor contracts three years ago - and now their stockholders, employees, customers and the country at large are paying for their ineptitude.

PRESIDENT REAGAN has been strangely quiet during the concession talks — but maybe it's not so strange after all. Reagan, as you know, wants to get government off industry's back. Big-Brotherism is old hat in Washington and the less the White House has to do with day-to-day life in the hustings, the better.

There was a time when the Oval Office was occupied by jaw-boners - presidents like Lyndon Johnson and John Kennedy who were not adverse to taking big business or big labor to task if they thought intervention was warranted.

I can't help but wonder if a word or two from Reagan might have brought GM and the UAW a little closer together at the bargaining table last week.

But now it's too late. The GM talks have broken down and the outlook for the entire industry is grim at best.

Jan Spurgeon is named Girl Scout leader of the month

Jan Spurgeon has been selected as the outstanding Girl Scout leader for the month of February by the local Girl Scout Service Team Personnel.

Jan, a Charlevoix native, was a scout herself for five years and a Campfire Girl for one year. She was introduced to Girl Scout leadership in Pontiac and has been a leader in Charlevois for four years.

Why?

"Because I enjoy working with girls," said Jan, "And because I am just a big kid at heart. Seeing the girls accomplish their goals is the greatest reward a leader could ever ask for."

Activities Jan has coordinated for her Scouts include a trip to Traverse City for the Girl Scout Mini Olympics where the local Scouts competed against Junior troops from all over Michigan. The Olympics featured relay races, pool events, treasure hunts and individual competitions. In the greased watermelon relay race in the pool, for instance, the Charlevoix troop set a record of 13.5 seconds.

"We sure had some happy girls when we were presented with a third-place trophy," said Jan, "My girls are talking about going back this year."

At home, Jan is kept busy with her two children, Trina, who is in her Girl Scout troop, son Jason and her husband, Joe. She also holds down a full time at the Charlevoix County State Bank where she works as a proof operator in the bokeeping department. In what free time she has left, Jan bowls on the Edwards IGA team and is active in the United Methodist Church where she was recently elected financial secretary.

Ongoing activites for Jan's Girl Scout troop have included recent completion of Child Care badge requirements which qualifies the girls for babysitting. The troop is also preparing entertainment for the VIP Father-Daughter banquet in April.

Said Carolyn Olinger, local Public Relations Representative for the Girl Scouts, "It's citizens like Jan who help our younger generation make Charlevoix a better place to live. Girl Scouting could not succeed without leaders like Jan Spurgeon."

Garden Club meeting with Sharkey reset for Feb. 9

Reginald Sharkey, wildlife columnist for the Petoskey News Review, will be the guest speaker at the February 9th meeting of the Charlevoix Area Garden Club. His subject will be "How Do You Feed Your Birds?"

In announcing the meeting, to be held at the home of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, it was explained that the program is one postponed from January 12 because of inclement weather. Mrs. Clifford Biddick Sr. will be the co-hostess.

Club members have passed on gardening hints for 1982.

It is suggested that the 1982 gardening season should be planned or in the process of being planned at this time.

This is a good time to take an inventory of the garden tools and determine your needs for the forthcoming summer. It is suggested that you invest in tools of top quality including a well-balanced trowel of stainless steel which is the principal hand tool for planting and a small hand fork for roughing up the soil or digging individual plants. A good pruner is essential and a strong pocket knife is very useful. A deep weeder for cutting weeds with top roots such as dandelions is another necessary tool.

Another suggestion is to paint your hand tools red. They will be much easier to find if you should mislay them.

A time table for the growing season sets June 1 as the frost-safe date for setting started plants in the garden. Seeds should be started indoors no earlier than eight weeks before this date, on or about April 6.

To foretell the forthcoming spring and the gardening season, Mrs. Edward Lewand reports hearing the familiar song of the phoebe while walking with her husband on Mt. McSauba Road.

Warner workshop coming next month

by ANNE KELLY

Saturday, March 13 marks the date of an upcoming library sponsored "Workshop for Kids" featuring Todd Warner. Warner, a local artist and sculptor who displays his work in galleries from Ann Arbor to Miami, from Baltimore to Kansas City, from St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, U.S.A. to Honolulu, Hawaii and Germany, returns again this year with clay for each participant.

Todd's interest in living things coupled with an equal interest and talent in art has made his clay creatures come alive. "The whimsical aspect of my creations is purely a natural one," Todd replies when questioned about the characteristic humor he forms into each creature. "I do believe, however, that life in general is quite heavy, and a little whimsey may be a pleasant relief."

Todd whose personal love for and fascination with animals has led to these whimsical creations as his personal form of artistic expression, also loves to work with kids. He will first give a brief explanation of the techniques involved in working with clay. Then the fun will begin, as each child lets his imagination dictate the specifications of his own creation. Children are asked to wear an old work shirt since they will be modeling with red clay and bring a pencil and a fork. This workshop is recommended for ages 6-9.

Jim Buchanan launches a jump shot over the block of Mickey Walker.

Rayders scared but not scarred by Petoskey

Even with starter Gary Drury on the bench with back spasms, the conference-leading Charlevoix Rayders figured they would have little trouble with the hapless Petoskey Northmen who came into Friday night's game with only two wins and eight losses for the season.

The smug Rayders and their fans, looking forward to a route in the first home game since December 15, were in for a surprise.

After being held to a meager four points in the first quarter, it took the faltering Rayders almost the entire remainder of the game to scrap their way back and eke out a thrilling 43-40 win.

Senior guard Jim Buchanan sunk the 43rd point from the free throw line with three seconds remaining to seal Petoskey's fate. It was also Buchanan who put Charlevoix in position for the kill when he canned two clutch field goals to nudge the Rayders into a 41-38 lead with 1:27 to play.

The first quarter was a nightmare for the locals as Petoskey's Jim Alton swished a shot at the buzzer to give him ten points for the quarter and the Northmen a stunning 16-4 lead. By halftime Charlevoix had managed to score 12 more but still lagged behind at 26-16.

It was in the third quarter that the tide began to turn with Alton in foul trouble and Dave Buday coming off the bench to ignite the Rayders; the Northmen lead had been cut to 34-30 by the end of the quarter.

The score was tied 34-34 with 5:46 to go and Mike Loper finally put Charlevoix ahead at the 5:03 mark 36-34.

After Buchanan's four points from the floor, and two pressure free throws by Mickey Walker at 1:27, the score stood at 41-40. Craig Klooster calmly dropped one more free throw at the eight second mark and Buchanan then added the insurance point after a Petoskey shot circled the rim and fouled after the rebound.

For the Rayders, nobody had an especially hot hand; Loper and Ross Carey shared individual honors for the team with nine points each while Buday had eight, Buchanan seven, George Smith four and Chris Putman and Klooster three apiece.

Charlevoix's junior varsity also added a win with a 53-44 triumph over their Petoskey opponents. For Charlevoix, Bill Tillen had 14, Tim LaBlance 12, Dane Tollas 11 and Dan Buday nine.

This week the 10-1 (8-0 in the conference) Rayders travel to Kalkaska Tuesday for a non-league game and then to Gaylord Friday for a potentially tough match with the 6-3 Blue Devils.

reports, is about gill netting. His answer has been, "I don't think we can imperil the fish population because of certain fishing techniques that probably weren't even used when the treaty was signed years ago."

Students have been asking him about possible cutbacks of student loans and other types of student financial aid. He tells them that because of the current budget situation, there will probably have to be some cutbacks, but he also tells them that "where there is a will there is a way" for financing a college education.

"Earlier loan recipients don't have a very good track record of paying back their loans, either," he reminds the students.

So it goes, the 1982 fight for Michigan's Senate seat is in full swing in northern Michigan. Other candidates will certainly be turning up before August.

Preventive methods, latest concepts to be included in dental program at hospital

"Only Floss the Ones You Want to Save" is the title of a free public discussion of prevention of dental problems to be presented by Dr. David Strawbridge at Charlevoix Area Hospital, Wednesday, February 10 at 7:30 p.m.

Focussing on prevention of dental disease as both health and money saving, Dr. Strawbridge, a member of the Dental Staff of the hospital, will discuss preventive techniques and some of the latest concepts in dentistry.

"Regular cleaning and an annual check-up is considerably less expensive than the cost of replacing even one tooth," Dr. Strawbridge pointed out.

"Proper care leads to a healthy pain free mouth," Dr. Strawbridge continued. "And there's no reason for people to suffer pain," he emphasized.

During the evening session, Dr. Strawbridge will explain the types of dental disease, their causes and prevention. He will compare the effects of diet and heredity, bacteria and viruses in oral disease.

The how to's of diet, brushing, flossing and professional care will also be a part of Dr. Strawbridge's discussion. He will also discuss new orthodontic techniques in which there is very little relapse.

The evening's session, Wednesday February 10, is part of Charlevoix Area Hospital's continuing series of presentations on preventive medicine for the people of the area. The free sessions meet in the classrooms at the lower level of the new wing.

Fifth graders benefit from teachers' team approach

by ANNE KELLY

"Teamwork in education" sounds like a theme for a specially observed education week. But for 5th grade teachers at Charlevoix Elementary, Sally McNamera and Ron Cox, it is a daily theme for their successful team teaching endeavor. This is their third year combining classes and professional efforts.

Just what is "team teaching" and how does it work for them?

"As many as twelve years ago," Sally recalls, "when 5th grade was in the middle school, Jean Seymour and I did some team things." These mainly involved combining their classes for certain presentations and projects. "Then one day the doors got stuck (dividing their rooms) and we couldn't fix them so we just left it that way." Sally found the combined classroom situation had many plusses. She still does.

If you were to visit Ron and Sally's combined fifth grade class today, you would find an atmosphere of purposeful busyness. Students seem to know their tasks and go about it in an organized yet relaxed way. "It will seem like confusion when an outsider looks in," explained Sally. The classroom is large. There may be as many as 80 students together at one time. One teacher may present a lesson while the other makes the rounds making sure that individual problems are solved.

"There is a tremendous amount of paperwork involved," continued Sally. "We send packets of their work home with the children and put personal comments of each."

Sally McNamara is an energetic and vivacious teacher who appears to be working hard at her job and loving it. Originally from East Jordan, Sally graduated from Central Michigan University with a major in vocal music and a minor in secondary history and speech. She later attended classes in Ypsilanti and received a degree in Elementary Education from Eastern Michigan University. Her initial teaching experience was on the Kindergarten level during the course of some 10 years in both Monroe and Charlevoix. In 1969, Sally began teaching 5th grade in Charlevoix and has been enjoying that level ever since. This is her third year team teaching with colleague Ron Cox.

"I like the idea of team teaching – I'm very relaxed with it," states Ron. One of the advantages he notes is one of time for the teacher. One teacher can be instructing the children while the other helps with individual questions and problems and also checks their work.

"Sally and I operate pretty much on the same level. I don't think everyone would make it in this situation."

Ron a native of West Jefferson, Ohio, put in four years of duty in the Coast Guard before earning his teaching certificate from Central Michigan University with a concentration in history. Not finding a suitable teaching position after graduation, he tried his hand at plumbing for two years. In 1976 he joined the teaching staff at Charlevoix Elementary and began teaching on the same grade level in which he finds himself today. When he first started teaching, Ron remembers some teaming up of classes occasionally for science.

Regarding his present situation, team teaching with Sally McNamara, Ron feels that students become more independent in this atmosphere. They have discussions, then do work on their own.

"It will only work if a teacher is willing to put himself inside the other person's head," Sally pointed out. "You have to be compatible and think along the same lines."

Is there a chance to get to know their students personally? Both Ron and Sally agree that there is enough changing around of groups that by the end of the year they know every student in the 5th grade on a name basis. They feel that it is important to work closely with parents and communicate by sending work home, conferences, and occasional phone calls.

They make it a point to meet with 6th grade teachers to recommend placement in middle school classes based on their observations and experience in working with the kids.

"We're proud of the results of our team effort," Sally concluded. Both Sally and Ron cite test scores which are indicative of successful teaching methods.

You can't help but feel, meeting with Ron and Sally, that they run a very tight ship. Their class appears to be a very carefully run business in which the product is a group of students which has benefited by being challanged by two dedicated teachers.

Equestrain students can learn dressage at local indoor arena

Sally Scoggin, riding instructor at Lake Charlevoix Farm, thinks she has just the right combination of elements to apread the word about a special way of riding horses – dressage.

With the lighted indoor riding arena, of over 10,000 square feet, the only such in the area, four school horses, and a lot of determination, she hopes to convince area riders that dressage, often thought of as an elite way of riding, will help riders of all styles become, aa she says, "more effective".

The 23 year old riding instructor says, "Dressage is a way of riding – effectively controlling your horse – that can benefit any other style of riding, English or western."

She said this while watching one of her students, Kris Trautman, of Walloon Lake, put an Appaloosa barrel bending horae through modified dressage paces. A western speed and action horse, the Appaloosa is learning the controlled and aubtle basics of dressage under Scoggins training.

Watching Kris, she noted that the way of sitting for dressage, with longish stirrups, is closely akin to a good western style.

"The exact use of the rider'a hands and legs, in dressage, to tell the horse where and how to move, are skills that can make anyone a better rider," Scoggin continued.

The precision of dressage also affects the horse, the young instructor continued.

"Dressage is a precise form of riding based on the principals of making a horse obedient and supple," she defined.

Scoggin, who began her equestrian career in 4-H, is training Lake Charlevoix Farm's four school horses and several privately owned horses.

She noted that the farm has room for two more horses in its two horse barns. In March, three more box stalls will become available. She trains horses as well as riders, but the school horses are available for students who don't own their own.

She added that while she is an advocate of dressage, she will also teach what is known as "forward hunt seat" – the style of riding used in jumping.

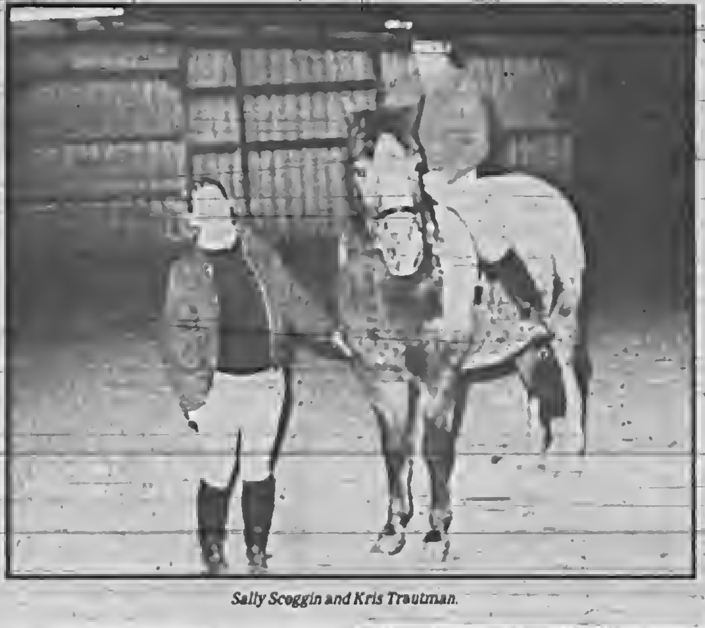
"I introduce beginning riders to dressage and hunt seat style," she eaplained, pointing out that anyone who joins her classea now, can begin preparing for aummer shows.

After high school and an early career with 4-H, Scoggin entered Michigan State University's pre-veterinarian program, later transferring to Lake Erie College, outside Cleveland, where she received her BA in Equestrian Studies.

At Lake Erie, she studied under Hugh Wiley, a former member of the United States Olympic Equestrian Team. She also spent a semester in England at the famed Moat House in Kent, training at the British Horse Society Eaamination Center.

She moved to Charelvoia last fall, to open a riding school at Lake Charlevoia Farm. Currently she has several private students and horses which she is training. She thinka her program will grow and she has room for a few more students. She will accept more horses as box stalls become available.

Meantime, her students, with barely perceptible hand and leg action, are putting their horses through their graceful paces.



Sally Scoggin and Kris Trautman.

Venetian Committee plans a 'Charlebration'

"Charlebration" was chosen as the theme for the 1982 Venetian Festival at a recent meeting of the festival's organizing committee.

"The intention of the theme is to make this year's Venetian Festival an upbeat experienca," said Venetian Chairman Phil Loomis, "Charlebration means a party, a good time. We think it fits in very well with our spirit of the community and the festive tradition of Venetian Weekend."

The dates for the 52nd annual Venetian Festival will be July 22-25.

At the initial meeting of the organizing committee, chairmen of individual Venetian Festival events were named. Dava Fowler will coordinate the Drum & Bugle Corps competition which will be highligbted this year by an appearance by the nationally known Stroh Higbland Pipa Band, according to Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Jacquie Merta. The band will also appear in Saturday's parade.

Marina LaBlance will repeat this year as chairman of the Street Parade committee. Mrs. LaBlance indicated that several additions and changes in the parade format are being contemplated such as float judging with trophies awarded. Crickett Uhrick will again head the Dress Up & Doll Parade.

WKHQ'a Bob Harper will coordinate the Saturday afternoon entertainment on the East Park stage, which, said Harper, will feature a wider variety of entertaining groups this year.

John Coolman has been named chairman of the traditional Saturday evening boat parade and also has plans for increased participation.

Pete Spieles and Dwight Boss will repeat as organizers of the Venetian Footrace and Softball Tournament respectively. A new sporting event has been added to the roster of events this year: BMX bicycla racing. Dan Miller will be chairman of a sanctioned BMX rally which will be held at the Charlevoix Township BMX track and will attract hundreds of riders from all over Northen Michigan.

Venetian publicity chairman is Dave Knight.

"By announcing out theme now," said Loomis, "Wa hope people will start thinking about float designs and boat parade decorations. The broadness and flexibility of 'Charlebration' should lend itself well to some exceptionally creative ideas."

License plate sales tabbed for Operation Petunia funding

Operation Petunia, the recently hatched plan to line Bridge St. and U.S. 31 through Charlevoix with flowers, will be funded through the sale of specially designed license plates it was decided Saturday.

At a breakfast meeting of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Operation Patunia organizer Dale Boss announced that 1,000 custom designed license plates will be sold to raise the $3,500 needed to buy enough petunias for the planting project.

The license plate has been designed by Marilyn Boss and features the familiar Charlevoix script in red lettering on a white background.

According to Dale Boss, the plates cost $1.50 apiece and will be sold for $5 each, ($6 mail order).

"Two missions are being accomplished in one stroke," said Boss of the license plate sale, "We are raising money to beautify our city and we are also sending out 1,000 messages promoting the area."

Boss pointed out that at Saturday's meeting at Leutheusers restaurant, an Indiana family overheard the proceedings and was so impressed that they have already ordered the first plate. He also said that the gentleman also indicated that he was thinking about moving his light industrial firm from Indiana to Charlevoix.

"This is just the kind of thing that happens when wa all get together to accomplish something good for our little town," said Boss.

Plans for door-to-door sales of the license plates are being discussed with local service clubs. The plates can also be ordered by mail. Anyone wishing to order a plate can send $6 to Charlevoix License Plate, Box 123, Charlevoix, 49720.

Coast Guard Station planning new antenna

The Charlevoix Coast Guard Station may soon have a new 196 foot communications antenna as the result of action taken last week by the Charlevoix County Planning Commission.

The Planning Commission approved the Coast Guard's request for $40,000 from tba U. S. Department of Transportation to install the antenna, to be located at the Coast Guard Station at the foot of Dixon Avenue.

The present antenna is located on the old City water tower on Park Avenue, which is scheduled to be torn down sometime in the near future.

Originally, the placement of the antenna at the Coast Guard Station was questioned for aesthetic and safety reasons. After seeing drawings of the proposed antenna and learning that the top portion would be resilient enough so that if a plane should hit it, the plane would not be seriously damaged, the Planning Commission approved the project.

Also, it was determined that the antenna could not be placed on Mt. McSauba or on the radio towers on Richardson Hill because of interfering signals from other antennae.

Installation of the antenna must still be approved by the City of Charlevoix.

Big Rock plant shut down for refueling

Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point nuclear plant has been shut down for refueling.

While the plant is shut down, routine maintenance and inservice equipment inspection will be completed. Other major work activities to be accomplished during tha outage includa electrical equipment anchoraga, routine turbine generator repairs, replacement of 16 control rod blades and some facility changes required as part of post-Three Mile Island requirements.

It is anticipated that the outage, which does not affect any local customers, will last nine to ten weeks. This is the 17th planned refueling outage at the almost 20-year old plant. An unscheduled outage occurred January 7-14 when the plant's reactor scrammed due to a malfunctioning console switch.

Billboard pleas for peace headed to Washington

by DAVE KNIGHT

From a unique Christmas present involving a local family and a deep-felt concern for world peace has sprung a novel idea to carry an important message to our nation's capital.

Susan Logie of Grand Rapids and Carrie Venema of Kalamazoo, daughters of Charles and Margaret Duerr of Charlevoix, felt strongly enough about the threat of nuclear war to tell the people of their respective communities in a big way last December.

As Christmas presents to their families, both rented full-sized billboards with the message: "Nothing survives a nuclear holocaust". Since then, Mrs. Logie's efforts have resulted in a total of four more similar billboards going up in the Grand Rapids area and Mrs. Venema has initiated a drive to post ten such billboards in Washington, D.C.

"Billboards to Washington" will involve the rental of ten billboards in the vicinity of the Capital and the Pentagon, according to Mrs. Venema. The billboards will all carry the same message; the statement: "Hear us...Nuclear war hurts too much" with an illustration of people, hand in hand, across an arc representing the earth. Each will also include a credit line with the name of the group or groups who paid for it.

Each of the ten billboards will cost $550 which includes the artwork, shipping, space rental for one month and other incidental costs. A drive has begun locally to collect money for one billboard. Mrs. Margaret Duerr, mother of Mrs. Logie and Mrs. Venema, is the contact person in the Charlevoix area.

According to Mrs. Duerr, about three-quarters of the $550 has already been donated by people in Charlevoix, Eastport, Harbor Springs, Walloon Lake and Petoskey. One of the billboards to go up in Washington will thus bear the credit line: "Paid for by People in Northern Michigan".

The unusual idea of using billboards to promote world peace was developed around last Thanksgiving when the Duerrs, the Logies and the Venemas were together at the Logie household in Grand Rapids.

"I remember talking about the idea at that time," said Mrs. Duerr, "But after that, the girls kind of went their separate ways and did their own things."

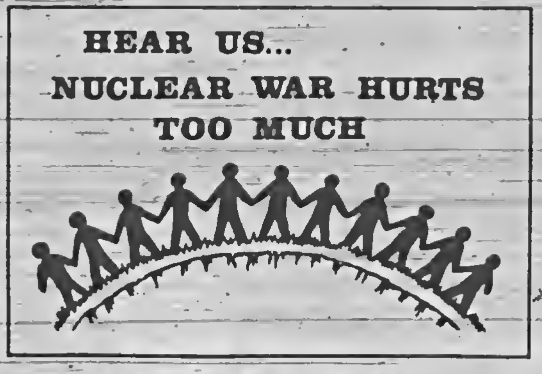
Mrs. Venema's design in Kalamazoo features an illustration of a family and a mushroom cloud and is signed, "For Bill (her husband, Dr. William Venema, a Kalamazoo physician), Charlie and Amy (her children)...Love, Carrie.

In Grand Rapids, Mrs. Logie used a design suggested by her 16-year old son John. It includes pictures of a Christmas tree to represent the season, a can of Campbell's soup representing a food familiar to all Americans, a tricycle representing children and a cardinal representing wildlife.

When she told other members of her family including brother and sister-in-law Charles and Cynthia Newton, her husband John's law partner Joseph martin and her parents, the Duerrs, they all wanted to participate too so their names are all featured on the credit line.

Later, the Gannelt Outdoor Advertising Company was contacted and ended up donating space on four other billboards as a public service.

Anyone in the Charlevoix area wishing to contribute to the "Billboards to Washington" project is asked to call Mrs. Charles Duerr at 547-2603 or make a check out to "Billboards to Washington" and mail it to Mrs. Duerr at Box 61, Charlevoix.



This is the design of the billboards to be posted in Washington.

Charlevoix Yesterday

The intersection of Bridge and Antrim Streets once looked like this. The man in the lower center foreground is walking down the north side of Antrim Street. The building in the lower righthand corner is located on the present site of Oleson's Shopping Center. The business establishments along the lake side of Bridge Street were known as the Fagan Building and the Carpenter Building respectively. Absolutely no permits for new buildings were issued during January for County

New construction came to a halt in Charlevoix County in January. The Department of Building Inspection did not issue a single permit or a house, garage, or commercial establishment during the month.

The seven permits the Department did issue covered two residential remodeling jobs, two commercial remodeling jobs, one mobile home addition, one residential outbuilding, and one demolition.

In addition, the electrical permit division of the Building Department issued seven permits. The Soil and Sedimentation division did not issue any permits.

Women tour Big Rock

The Charlevoix Women's Club met at the conference room of the Big Rock Nuclear plant for its regular meeting recently.

Thomas Proctor of Consumers Power Co. led the group on a guided tour of the plant and presented a film which explained the operation of the plant. Many informative facts were related during the meeting and the question and answer period that followed. At the close of the business session refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Charles A. Duerr, Mrs. Jean Heininger and Mrs. William Brady.

INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT

WHAT IS AN IRA?
An Individual Retirement Account, which safeguards your retirement, pays interest on the money you save and lets you defer taxes until you begin receiving distributions from your account.

WHO CAN OWN AN IRA?
Any wage earner, including federal employees.

HOW MUCH MAY I CONTRIBUTE TO AN IRA?
$2000 of your annual earnings (or $2250 for yourself and a non employed spouse)

WHEN CAN I BEGIN RECEIVING DISTRIBUTIONS FROM MY ACCOUNT?
Any time from age 59½ to age 70½ even if you are still employed. You may withdraw in periodic increments or in one lump sum. You'll pay taxes on each distribution, but at that time you will probably be in a lower bracket and pay less tax.

ARE MINIMUM DEPOSITS REQUIRED?
Yes, to insure 15¼% I.R.A. for 18 months, a minimum deposit of $1,000 is required.

IS YOUR IRA INSURED?
Yes. Each depositor is insured up to $100,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

HOW DOES AN IRA SHELTER MY FUNDS FROM TAXES?
Two ways. First, it reduces your taxable income during your earning years, saving you tax dollars now. Second, it defers taxes on the interest earned on your savings, letting more money accumulate for your retirement.

WHAT HAPPENS IF I WITHDRAW MY FUNDS BEFORE AGE 59½?
Because these are retirement plans, unless you have become disabled, you'll pay both taxes on the amount withdrawn and a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal.

Compounded Quarterly, Annual Yield 16.14%.

Figures in for county equalization report

by PEG OHLE

When the various city and township Boards of Review meet early next month, they will have in their possession copies of the "Tentative Equalization Ratios and Multipliers for Real and Personal Property".

These figures were prepared by the Charlevoix County Equalization Department for each tax category – agricultural, commercial, industrial, residential, timber cutover, and personal – as a result of their equalization studies, which is really a sampling of about 10 percent of the property in each category in each taxing unit.

There is a column for "Tentative Ratio" and one for "Estimated Multiplier" for each category in each township and city. Equalization Director Joan Blanchard explains these figures as follows:

Tentative ratio is the percentage of true cash value at which the property is assessed, based on the Equalization Department's studies. For instance, as our report shows, we found in Bay Township that the agricultural land was assessed at 41.04 percent of its true cash value. The State says the property must be assessed at 50 percent, so we have to raise the tentative ratio. To do this, we determine what figure we have to use to bring the tentative ratio to 50 percent. In this instance, we found that it was 1.2183. That is called the estimated multiplier. Multiply 41.04 by 1.2183 and you get 49.999 – that's pretty close to 50.

The tentative ratio set by the Equalization Department is not necessarily the final ratio, however, according to Mrs. Blanchard.

"The figure on our report simply indicates, "This is what we found," she explains. "The figure could be changed by the assessor, the Board of Review, the County Board of Commissioners, even the State."

The importance of the tentative ratio and the estimated multiplier lies in the fact that they are used to compute individual state equalized valuation of real property and personal property for tax purposes.

The lowest tentative ratios shown on the Equalization Report are those for residential properties and timber cutover in Peaine Township. With figures of 21.81 and 21.77 respectively, the estimated multiplier is set at 2.2925 and 2.2967 to bring the properties up to the required 50 percent of true cash value.

Only one property category is listed as being assessed at over 50 percent of true cash value in the report. Commercial property in the City of East Jordan is given a tentative ratio of 50.67 by the Equalization Department, which results in an estimated multiplier of .0969.

THE ONCE PROUD Great Lakes cruise ship, the South American, of the Chicago-Georgian Bay Lines, is pictured on the ways at the old New York Shipyard which closed 10 years ago and which is now known as the Camden Marine Terminal on the Deleware River at Camden, N.J., across the river from Philadelphia. The picture was taken by Esther Kay Deltufo of Pitman, N.J., sister of Mrs. G. Donald Swinton. Mrs. Deltufo wrote "We have been seeing it lying there ever since I spotted it on our first trip up the river aboard our boat The SEK II, in 1975. I can't find out what plans they have for the 'carcass' of the old ship. Perhaps the New York Shipyards had plans for it before they closed down."

For years the South American and her sister ship, the North American, visited Charlevoix while on Great Lakes cruises.

Born-again Christians invited to study at local Bible teaching center

by PEG OHLE

It is called the "Berean Bible Teaching Center" and it conducts day classes five mornings a week, evening classes on Tuesday, and morning classes on Sunday.

It is part of an organization that has ministries in five other Michigan cities as well as in Oklahoma City; Marietta, Georgia; and St. Vincent, West Indies.

It has recently established other Teaching Centers in Traverse City and Petoskey.

Bob Reid, a large athletic-looking middle-aged man, brought the Berean Bible Teaching Center to Charlevoix in July, 1980, and set it up in his home at 219 Park Avenue. He had previously established ministries under the name "Faith Tech" after several years of searching – fighting alcohol problems, being born again, going through a divorce, and finally receiving the call to go out and preach the word.

It is not surprising, therefore, that only "Born-again Christians" are admitted to the Berean Teaching Center, and that graduates are moving to other places to open Teaching Centers.

Reid grew up in Hastings and graduated from high school in Nashville. He studied coaching at Western Michigan University and Central Michigan University, with Navy service in between.

Next followed a responsible job in a consumer finance corporation in Flint, but the "call" came. Reid was 29, married with three children when he entered Bible School in Springfield, Missouri. "I answered the call within 90 days," he says proudly.

After graduating from Bible School, Reid didn't believe he was ready for the ministry and instead took a coaching job at Southern California College.

"I was there five years," Reid recalls, "and the Lord ran the teams. We had exceptional success and produced several championship teams."

Finally, Reid decided he was ready for the ministry, so while being employed in private industry, he began a preaching career that led him back to Michigan and the establishment of his first Faith Tech – in an old high school building in Ludington – opening with nine students.

After two years, it was on to St. Vincent, West Indies to establish another Faith Tech, and again back to Michigan – this time Detroit, for TV work and setting up three more Faith Techs.

Reid came to Charlevoix from Detroit at the urging of Doug Way, who knew of Reid's ministries and had heard him preach.

Explaining how he establishes and then leaves his Teaching Centers, Reid says that he turns them over to his graduates to carry on the work so he can go elsewhere. Already, two graduates of the Charlevoix Berean Bible School have left to spread the word in other parts of the country and another will leave soon. Jim Boocher and his family have gone to Florida; Ed Powell, former pastor of the Wesleyan Church in Ellsworth, and his family have gone to Atlanta; and another family will leave shortly for Texas.

The nine students presently enrolled in the Charlevoix Berean Bible School day classes – seven women and two men – pay tuition of $300 a term for each of the three terms held in the Fall, Winter, and Spring. They are led in study by Reid and his wife, Karen, through such subject matter as "The Word of God", "Divine Healing", "The Moral Government of God", "New Testament Survey", "Occult", "Praise", and "Prayer".

The classes are called "College Level Bible Study Programs" to differentiate them from simple Sunday School lessons, according to Reid. However, only two colleges, Valley Christian University in California, and one other, offer students credits for their work at the Berean Bible Teaching Centers.

Sixteen local families are listed as "currently taking advantage of one or more the the teaching services offered by dthe Berean Bible Teaching Center".

Reid thinks he would like to stay in Charlevoix for a while. He has a new family now – his wife, Karen, and her two daughters, Danielle and Meagan, and they all enjoy living here.

Knight on the Town

The Flying Siringos

by Dave Knight

Hockey lore is filled with many tales of outstanding individual efforts and memorable events an the ice. But never has the story been odequately told of one of the sport's truly remarkable happenings known in private circlea as the "Clash of the Siringos", or, "The Big Bang of Skunk Cabbage Gulch".

It all happened not in the cavernous environs of the Boston Garden nor even at any of the hundreds of neighborhood rinks that dot the Upper Midwest. It happened on the rippled ice of a river slough, hidden in the woods by towering sandstone cliffs on one side and a muddy swamp on the other. This insignificant spot was known to locals as Skunk Cabbage Gulch.

During the warm months, the gulch was alive with squawks of dueling blackbirds and the buzz of hovering dragonflies. But winter's pall fell fast and hard when the snow flew. From January to April, only the whistling wind disturbed the peace.

That is, of course, until the River Hockey Association arrived one Saturday afternoon with its weekly floating hockey game.

The little-known and now defunct RHA had no commissioner, no league office and was unique to other associations in that it was not really associated with anything or anybody. What it really was was a ragtag troop of would-be jocks who may have played hockey when they were very young and probably should have quit right then.

This roving band would activate each weekend during the winter months. With sticks, skates, snow shovels and a wineskin or three, they would set off over the countryside to search for a smooth patch of ice.

Despite their organizational name, the group would only sometimes play on the river. The game often found its way to a nearby lake or an ice-coated parking lot. The players would bring two makeshift goal nets fashioned from scrap lumber and chicken wire which stood about waist high and provided a welcome seat for the goalie when action was at the opposite end.

The only requisite equipment needed to play was a stick and skates. Optional protection consisted of either two TIME magazines or one PLAYBOY wrapped around each shin, though PLAYBOYs were rarely used because of the damage a flying puck might inflict on the precious editorial matter inside.

Two regular RHA players were a pair of brothers whose real last name is not important but whose distinctive style on the ice was not unlike a circus act. That is how they came to be known as the Flying Siringos.

The Siringos did indeed fly. They flew figuratively when they bolted after a puck and flew literally when they got to it. Somewhere along the line they had managed to become fast skaters but the problem was that they had never learned how to stop. The result was an especially agressive and intimidating style of play, enhanced by the fact that, though not large physically, both were excellent wrestlers in school. Taking someone down on the ice was only second nature to the Siringos.

The Flying Siringos' finest moments were on breakaways. One of them would charge the net with the puck, scream, let fly a wild shot toward a horrified goalie, sail on neally past the goal, and, by then totally out of control, take a high, arching dive into the snow behind. There was actually a kind of gracefulness about the whole thing.

Their technique being as prone to collision as it was, the Siringos were the only two players in the group to wear helmets - motorcycle helmets - which only added to their menacing image.

Games in the RHA were just as contrived as everything else about the league. There were no set teams. In a rural answer to New York playground basketball, games were merely pick-up affairs. Each week, sides were chosen informally with the knowledge that they could be changed if the score got too lopsided. There were no referees thus no penalties, no offsides, no icing calls. For all purposes, there were no rules, another aspect thet suited the Siringos just fine.

Not having a referee posed one logistical problem, however. How do you start a game without an impartial party to toss out the puck at center ice for a faceoff? The RHA overcame this problem in its own, inimitable way. The puck was placed at center ice with the two teams lined up even with their own goals. At a mutual signal, each team would send a player or players racing to the center line to get the puck. The entire team could charge for the puck if they wished but that was a risky ploy that easily backfired. Normally each team chose their fastest skater to dash for the puck while the others took positions elsewhere.

On the Saturday afternoon that the RHA came to Skunk Cabbage Gulch and chose sides for a game, the Flying Siringos found themselves on opposing teams as was most often the case. The puck was placed at center ice and the teams huddled at their goals to decide who would make the dash to gain intitial control. As fate would have it, not to mention plain logic, each team gave the nod to their Siringo.

At the signal, the Flying Siringos sprang from their opposite starting positions like sprinters out of starting blocks. With legs pumping like pistons and sticks flailing the winter air, they converged on the puck with feverish determination. Neither bothered to look up from the ice as they skated. Safely helmeted, they knew no fear. The rest of the players froze, spellbound at the sight which resembled two hell-bent locomotivex bearing down on each other on the same track. Everyone knew that neither Siringo could stop even if he chose to.

The peaceful silence of Skunk Cabbage Gulch was shattered by the sound of the impact. Startled birds took wing and squirrels scurried up trees ax the blow reverberated through the woods. A half-mile away, a farmer repairing a fence took pause to wonder where the gunshot had come from.

The Flying Siringos had met at center ice, helmet to helmet, like two rams in a mating combat. The force of the impact had lifted each up off the ice, hurling them backwards. Eyes blinking and knees wobbling, the Siringos teetered for a moment before collapsing to the ice. Teammatex rushed to the fallen warriors who lay stunned on their backs, wondering why the stars had come out at mid-day. Despite the ferocity of the collision, the Flying Siringos were still both intact.

The most beautiful part of the whole story? The puck was never even touched.

Clockwise

A warming thought

by Bob Clock

Until this winter, I couldn't get too excited about either plastic wrap or aluminum foil, two 20th Century products that have muscled their way into every American home during the past generation.

I think my indifference stems from the fact that both products are used to preserve left-overs from the dinner table, and I really am not that enthusiastic about left-overs.

But my prejudices have evaporated since Judy introduced the household to aluminumized plastic sheets, which are the greatest invention since bed socks and night caps.

Now these plastic sheets are (or were) available at Crown Drugs for a mere $1.99. (They still may have some; I haven't checked lately). The sheets weigh only three ounces and come in a little plastic pouch. They are supposed to be kept in the car as "emergency blankets" or some such. Which probably makes good sense for anyone who spends much time on the road these winter days.

But it makes better sense to trot one of these little gems into your boudoir, strip the bed down to the mattress, and spread the plastic sheet on top of it. Then replace the mattress pad and make up the bed just as you normally would.

Then hop into bed and you'll be warmer than you ever imagined possible — even with the thermostat set at 50 degrees.

The theory seems to be that the aluminum coating on the plastic reflects body heat back into the bed, rather than allowing it to dissipate through the mattress. Five seconds after you climb into bed the air space between the sheets begins to warm up, regardless of the temperature of the room. Within a minute the entire bed is snug and cozy. You might even have to roll back a blanket or two before morning.

The only disadvantage is that the plastic tends to crinkle a little when you roll over, but you can put up with a little crinkling for all that comfort.

Why not a second plastic sheet between the blankets to keep the bed even warmer?

This was one of my first questions. But after the first few minutes I could see that two plastic sheets would be too much of a good thing. The bedstead would become a veritable sauna in nothing flat.

In fact, I doubt we'll be able to stand our aluminumized plastic sheet much later than mid-April. It's too doggone effective.

MANY OF US middle-agers are having a hard time dealing with the untimely death of Arnie Loper last week.

At 51, Arnie was too young to die. And be was too fine a gentleman to abandon this old world, which is sorely in need of fine gentlemen.

In all the years I knew him, I never heard Arnie utter a mean or spiteful word about anyone.

If Arnie had a mission in life, it was to help and encourage others — particularly kids. I never attended a sporting event — of a musical event — in Charlevoix without running into Arnie and his wife Jean somewhere on the premises — selling tickets, passing out programs, manning the coffee urn, driving the bus or just cheering from the sidelines.

All of Charlevoix shares the loss of a fine gentleman with Jean, Greg, Carolyn and Mike.

Letters: Warning system

Grim reminder

To the Editor:

The necessity of an Emergency Warning System is a grim reminder of the destructive side of nuclear power, the side Consumers Power would like us to forget. It is a reminder to residents and tourists that the Big Rock facility threatens the lives of our children and loved ones. It is a reminder that one accident could force us to leave our home forever. It brings to the mind questions we would rather not have to ask ourselves. "What if my child is in school?" "What if there is a storm like the terrible one we had recently?" "Would it be safe to go outside to find my children, to dig out the car, to evacuate?" "What if my husband is not home?"

Consumers Power admits that the chance of an accident at Big Rock is "somewhat higher than average". (Russ DeWitt, April 15th, Charlevoix) Emergency signals can only benefit the people when people have an accurate understanding of the harmful effects of deadly radiation, they can neither see, nor smell nor taste.

People can not be expected to act like blind sheep and follow impersonal instructions at a time when the lives of their children and loved ones are endangered.

The price of nuclear power is environmental pollution, toxic waste forever, soaring electric rates, and fear of nuclear weapons proliferation and fear of nuclear accident. How much more are we willing to pay?

Concerned Citizens for Charlevoix Area

What about the airport?

Charlevoix City Manager & Council and Citizens:

I just finished the community development survey that appeared in the Courier. I think your approach is right in putting out the survey but I was very disappointed to see one of our largest assets completely ignored in the survey.

Our city airport is extremely valuable to the area and supports all phases of our economy. I am sure thet if it were compared on a survey of income producing ability, it stands way above our city marina.

A survey by the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association (AOPA) came up with an interesting formula. They say, on the average, every transient aircraft that lands at an airport is carrying 3.2 persons. The average expenditure of each visitor per day is $25.00 according to the AOPA report; however, I checked with our local Chamber of Commerce who told me the average runs from $52.81 for the tourist type visitor to $25.55 for the summer resident visitor. I think we could safely use a $35.00 figure. Our airport records show we had about 5350 airplanes visit Charlevoix last year. The 5350 number doesn't include the landings by McPhillips Flying Service or Welke Aviation. If you plug the 5350 number into the above formula it shows thet our economy was enriched by $599,200.00 last year. If you add another 2900 landings that were made by Welke and McPhillips operations you get a total of $924,000.00, almost a million dollars.

Our up coming runway extension is going to increase the above numbers because it will provide for larger more expensive aircraft which carry more people. The fact that the people can afford the larger airplane means they are more affluent and will be more apt to spend more money. When a boat comes to town it usually brings the beds, the food, the booze, and often motorbikes etc. When an airplane comes they often rent cars, stay in motels, eat out and so on.

Our airport is a nice facility as it stands but it could use some improvements. We need a snowblower to clear the runways. It would be faster and cheaper than the loader now used and less apt to damage the runway lights. We need a taxiway to the new hangar and more hangars. We need a taxiway along the 8-26 runway for safety reasons so that the aircraft thet just landed can get out of the way of the next airplane.

We need a VOR station to replace our old fashion ADF station. The state has been willing to give us one but the interest has not been strong enough from the right people. The council, city manager, and most of all the airport manager should really go after this before we lose the chance. A VOR will allow aircraft to land here in more adverse weather which in turn will increase the traffic flow and money flow. Many times, airplanes trying to land here have gone to Pellston or Traverse City because of the lack of the VOR. Our runway extension will not be near the advantage it could be if we had the VOR.

Our airport is as much a highway into town as US 31. We don't expect the highway to directly pay it's own way. We don't charge a toll for every car and truck that comes into town and the same should be true of our airport. Airplanes pay fuel and sales taxes just like cars, trucks and boats. Our airport benefits us all even if we don't use it ourselves, just as the highway benefits us even if we don't drive.

I would like to see a new survey put out by the City including the airport. I would also like to see an active interest in promotion of our airport by the airport manager to make people aware of the benefits it gives us all. You don't have to be rich to make direct use of the airport, just interested. I am the perfect example.

I am sure not many people really understand how the airport contributes ot our area and I think a new understanding should start with our city council and city officals. I have heard it suggested at council meetings that the airport should be turned into an industrial park or housing development. This type of remark only shows how extreme the lack of understanding is. We don't need a large noisy airline coming into Charlevoix because the local flying services can connect with the airlines. We do need the airport where it is - close to town, for the same reasons you wouldn't want the yacht docks in Oyster Bay. With the runway extension, it is large enough. We just need to refine what we have, on a planned and continuing basis. There is a very large fund of money set aside for airport improvements by our federal government. It was collected from aircraft fuel taxes for this purpose and we should continue to go after it.

The airport deserves equal time and an equal opportunity to improve. It is an asset and economic contributor to Charlevoix in a big big way. I would be happy to discuss my ideas anytime.

Lymenstull should not be missed . .

Dear Editor:

This letter is addressed to the residents of Charlevoix and Emmet counties.

Crooked Tree Arts Council will present Thomas J. Lymenstull, faculty member of Interlochen Academy of Arts appearing in Concert at the Virginia M. McCune Community Arts Center Sunday, February 14, at 4 p.m., and will conduct a Master Class Monday evening, February 15 at seven o'clock. Concert tickets are $3.00 for adults, $1.50 for music students. The Master Class is free of charge.

We are writing to encourage both instrumental and vocal students to attend, for there is much knowledge to be gained from both events.

The Concert, all concerts, will demonstrate the ultimate artistry that will be attained thru lessons and regular daily practice. It will deepen the appreciation and love of music and that which goes into becoming a fine musician. It will foster a healthy respect for performances.

The Master Class is a student analysis. Teachers of our area will enter certain selected students to play for Mr. Lymenstull who will offer a critique, suggestions and advice, as to technique, pedalling, hand position touch, posture, approach, and summarize the points in need of practice and firming up.

Witnessing a Master Class is extremely beneficial to the observing music student. It answers many questions.

Max Aronoff, Director of the New School of Music, Philadelphia, and original member of the Curtis String Quartette for thirty five years said, "Music students of all ages must be provided with a musical climate. Surrounding the student at home with recordings, the piano or other instruments will create a love and appreciation of music. Don't worry about getting beyond their reach. I've seen children at grade school level enjoying Haydn, Ranel and Bach. There is music in everybody, every child has talent. It thrives according to his or her background. The ear is there if you feed it. Discipline plus exposure, this is my recipe. Give a child music training when they know the alphabet, and can count to five. It enriches the students whole life and channels them in the right direction."

We hope to see a great community response to Mr. Lymenstulls Concert and Master Class.

Beginning Experience Program to be held

The Beginning Experience Program (B.E.) designed to help widowed, divorced, single, and separated individuals deal with the pain of loss, will be offering an Information Night in the northern Michigan area in preparation for their next weekend on February 26-28, 1982 in Conway, Michigan. This information night will be held on February 15 at 7:30 PM in the Dialogue Room of St. Francis School in Petoskey (use the Howard Street entrance). Details concerning the B.E. weekend will be discussed and individuals who have participated in the experience will be there to answer questions.

The B.E. program was created by people working at the Catholic Renewal Center of North Texas and has grown to become a nationally recognized program for individuals of all faiths. The program hopes to create a space where individuals can come together to re-evaluate themselves and their lives and move on to the future with renewed hope. The experience offers support and direction in resolving the grief accompanying the pain of divorce or death. For some it will be an experience of closure —"closing the door gently" on the past relationship.

An expecially trained team will lead participants through the simple program. This consists of presentations by the team followed by private reflection and supportive dialogue in small groups. The weekend is not a sensitivity group, but rather is meant to help each person discover the wonder and beauty of living and putting all of one's life together.

For more information about the Beginning Experience program or Information Night, please call Linda at 347-0318 or Fred at 582-7545.

Library workshop is on candy making

by ANNE KELLY

If it seems incongruous that a member of the steering committee for the local "Food for Folks" co-op and the wife of a dentist should be conducting a candy-making workshop for kids, well, maybe it is. But anyone who has had the pleasure of sampling delights from her kitchen, can verify the fact that Beth Strawbridge is a connoisseur of good taste and elegant simplicity. And a little sweet can be just the final touch for the occasion.

Originally from Fort Wayne, Indiana, Beth was trained and received a degree in English and a Masters in Library Science. But while growing up, she was involved in 4-H.

"I won some blue and purple ribbons for food preparation," Beth recalls. "But I really got started in cooking after I got married."

Beth finds cooking a pleasant pastime. "It is a creative expression that I can share with other people, one that they seem to enjoy." She has recently prexented a food processor demonstration at the sorority's "Dimensions in Demonstations" Day.

Among her other interests are active involvement with the Little Traverse Civic Theater productions, and working with the Girl Scouts.

Beth will be offering thix candy-making workshop for youngsters age 9-13, She hopes to include some natural food ingredients in her "handx on" demonstation. Here is a delicious way to preface Valentine's Day.

Rayders drop first M-HSC game at Gaylord

The bubble has not burst for the Charlevoix Rayder cage team yet but their first conference defeat of the year Friday night at Gaylord has put a bit more pressure on the league-leading Rayders, especially with Cheboygan coming to town this Friday.

Charlevoix was actually 1-1 for the week as they trampled Kalkaska 79-46 in a non-conference game Tuesday before going to Gaylord Friday where they lost 56-50.

At Kalkaska, everybody saw action after Charlevoix took a commanding lead in the second quarter. The Rayders led 12-8 at the end of the first period but Craig Klooster, Jim Buchanan and Mike Loper combined for 25 points in the second to give Charlevoix a 38-20 lead at the half.

The Rayders continued to dominate in the third quarter when they built up a 63-36 lead before cruising in the fourth to the final score of 79-48. Klooster and Buchanan led the individual scoring with 20 and 21 points respectively.

Kalkaska's junior varsity squad salvaged the night with a victory over the Rayder JVs 48-42. For Charlevoix, Tim LaBlance had 12, Bill Tillen 10, Alec Sheets 8 and Oane Tollas 8.

Charlevoix went into Friday's game at Gaylord with an unblemished and unmatched 8-0 record. They were flat from the beginning though and managed only two field goals and a free throw in the entire first quarter; they trailed at that point 11-5. In the second quarter, shots began to drop for Charlevoix but Gaylord caught fire too and by halftime, the Rayders still trailed, 27-19.

The Rayders made a charge in the third period, outscoring the Blue Devils 18-14 and pulling within four points, 41-37, with Chris Putman coming off the bench to sink four of six from the free throw line and two field goals. It was not enough, however, to throw Gaylord off stride and the Blue Devils wnet on to seal the 56-52 win in front of an approving crowd. Leading scorers for Charlevoix were Klooster with 11, Putman with 10, Buchanan with nine and Loper and Ross Carey with eight apiece.

In JV action it was Gaylord over Charlevoix 54-42 despite 16 from LaBlance and 10 from Tillen for the Rayder cause.

Charlevoix still sits atop the Michigan-Huron Shores standings with an 8-1 slate for the year, 10-2 overall, but things tightened up considerably with the Rayders loss on Friday.

Four teams have a shot at the M-HSC title now. Boyne City is at 8-2, Cheboygan at 7-2 and Gaylord at 7-3. Cheboygan visits Charlevoix this Friday night for what could be the key game of the season for the Rayders.

Middle School teams busy

The Charlevoix Middle School boys' basketball teams had a busy week with the seventh grade winning two games and the eighth grade splitting with Boyne City and Petoskey.

The seventh graders posted a 30-28 win over Petoskey and a 39-29 victory over Boyne City while the eighth graders lost to Petoskey 39-31 after defeating Boyne City 49-36 earlier in the week.

This week the teams will be at Petoskey Monday and host Boyne City the following Wednesday to close out their season.

In their game with Petoskey, the seventh graders paced the contest 7-4, 14-12, and 24-16 before winning by a two-point margin. Terry Bonar accounted for 12 of the team's points. Eric Beer had 10 for the visitors.

In the meeting with Boyne City Kevin Shepard had 16 points as the team led 8-6 and 13-12 before pulling away to a 33-18 advantage at the third period. Bonar had 12 points for the game. Boyne City players, Stutzman and Shaney, were held to five points each.

In the eight grade game, Petoskey took an early lead and were ahead 12-7, 18-15, and 30-21 at the quarters. Scott Rosavear paced the scoring with 10 points. Joe Hayes had nine for Charlevoix.

In their meeting with Boyne City, Charlevoix trailed their hosts 12-7 at the quarter and 23-20 at the half before going ahead 32-31 at the third period. The team outscored Boyne City 17-5 in the final period for the win. At one time, Charlevoix was down by 12 points in the first half.

Jodi Putman had 17 points and Matt Lignell 12 for the victors. Redman had 15 for Boyne City.

Girls' ski team is first, boys second at Boyne

The Charlevoix girls' ski team placed first and the boys' team second in a four-way meet at Boyne Mountain Wednesday according to Coach Mercedes Mathers.

On Friday the teams will join Petoskey, Grayling and Bellaire in a meet at Schuss Mountain hosted by Bellaire. The following Monday they will travel to Nub's Nob for the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference meet.

In the meet at Boyne Mountain, the Charlevoix girls' team had 45 points followed by Boyne City with 73, Bellaire with 78, and Sault Ste. Marie with 79.

The Boyne City boys took first place with Charlevoix in second place with 59, Bellaire with 87 and the Soo with 121.

In the girls' slalom Sandy Miller placed second, Sally Westenbroek third, Cheryl Aull eighth and Karen Snizik 12th.

Miller came in third in the giant slalom followed by Westenbroek in fifth, Aull in seventh, Lenora Erber 14th, Snizik in 15th, and Christie Pace in 17th place.

In the boys division, Peter Cockfield came in second in the slalom followed by John Marsh in eighth place, Mark Trimper in 9th and Tom Egler in 12 place.

Ken Spiegl won the giant slalom with Cockfield fifth, William Ranger ninth, Marsh 12th, Trimper 14th and Egler 19th.

Muddy Waters coming to area

Michigan State's Head Football Coach Frank "Muddy" Waters, and Alumni Coordinator Jack Shingleton will address the members and guests of the Top of the State Alumni Club on February 20, 1982 at the Club's annual buffet. Wrestlers manage only two placements at conference meet

The Charlevoix Rayder mat team experienced a disappointing day at the Michigan-Huron Conference meet held at Petoskey Saturday according to Coach Greg Bryan.

"It wasn't our day. The boys lost to wrestlers they had defeated as much as twice during the season. In some instances, they defeated themselves" he added. He went on to say that the younger wrestlers tried and several, including Mike Steele (119), Tim Young (112), and Jeff Zednicek (155), showed great improvement.

Board revises A.D. job description

The Charlevois Board of Education approved a revised job description for the position of Athletic Director, appointed a board member to attend the budget meeting of the Char-Em Intermediate School District on Feb. 15, approved overnight tips for two groups and heard reports.

Approval was given the revised job description for the Athletic Director. Max Novak, president of the board, explained that descriptions of all positions in the system were up-dated from time to time and this was the reason that this job description was done at this time.

Ardeth Wieland was named to represent the Charlevoix Board of Education at the I.S.D. budget meeting on Feb. 15.

The high school Biology Class taught by Peter Spieles was given permission for an overnight winter campout at Wilderness State Park later this month. This is an annual event. A request for an overnight trip to Mt. Pleasant Feb. 4-6 for the debate team, as requested by Connie Ford, was also approved.

Supt. Gordon W. VanWieren reported on legislation now being considered that would affect the schools. Among them were those relating to summer tax collections, tax payments for senior citizens which would eliminate the payment, and return of monies if the taxpayer qualified for a tax break, the proposed rehabilitation of school buses and block grants through which the Charlevoix schools receive Title I funds.

The next meeting of the board is scheduled for Feb. 15.

Four canoes donated to local troop

by FRAN MARTIN

Boy Scout Troop 11 celebrated the 75th anniversary of the Boy Scout program which originated in England, the 72nd anniversary of Scouting in the United States and the 17th anniversary of Troop 11 at the annual Boy Scout banquet held Monday evening at the high school cafeteria.

Highlight of the meeting was the presentation of certificates of appreciation to representatives of the organizations that have donated four canoes to the troop. They are the Charlevoix Volunteer Fire Department, Round Lake Lodge No. 293, I.O.O.F., C.L.G.A.W. (Cement Limestone Gypsum Allied Workers) Local No. 400, and service clubs, the Charlevoix Lions and Kiwanis Club which shared in the cost of one canoe. The canoes were supplied at cost by Northwest Marina of Charlevoix. Harbor Industries of Charlevoix transported the canoes from Grand Rapids at no cost. The canoe paddles were donated by a former Charlevois resident, James Foster now of Conway, Ark.

The program included the presentation of merit badges and skill awards, badges of rank, and skits by the various patrols.

Two members of the troop, Gerry Chase, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Chase, and James Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith, were presented with badges of Star rank which requires volunteer community service.

Reports of the troop's activities including camp-outs during the year were also given.

Gerry Chase served as master of ceremonies. Scouts presented the colors and officiated at the opening ceremony.

Boy Scout Troop 11 presently has 23 members. The troop was first organized in 1938. Louis Edwards has been Scout Master since 1958. John Houting has been Assistant Scout Master for the past 10 years. Troop 11 is among the 72 troops in the 13 northwestern Michigan counties that make up the Scenic Trails Council headquartered in Traverse City. Camp Greilick outside Traverse City is the Council's official camp site.

Boy Scout Troop 11 meets every Wednesday during the school year.

Among the activities in which the troop is involved are the Klondike Derby to be held later this month at Alanson, a winter camp-out, the annual Northern District Camporee, Camp Greilick, various other camp-outs and trips and numerous community service projects.

Members of the Scout committee are Valois Avery, Gonnar Lundteigen, David Novotny, Frank Schuch, Jerry Paul, Melvyn Thayer, Robert Rajewski, Gerald Chase and Charles Bergmann.

Attending the annual boy Scout banquet were the Scouts, their parents, members of the Scout committee and the sponsoring organization, the Kiwanis Club, and guests including representatives of the donors of the canoes.

The dinner was made possible by the Oleson Food Store which provided the major portion of the food and the Kiwanis Club, the troop's sponsor, which underwrote the cost of preparing the meal and other expenses.

Scoutmaster Louis Edwards

Kiwanis Club started Troop 11 in late 1930s

by PEG OHLE

The Boy Scouts of America organization was founded 72 years ago this week, on February 8, 1910, and to recognize the occasion, Boy Scout Week is being celebrated throughout the country.

In Charlevoix, Troop 11 held its annual Awards Dinner Monday evening. Scout parents and sponsoring Kiwanians were on hand to witness the awarding of badges and pins and the acceptance of four canoes donated by local organizations. Next Sunday will be Scout Sunday, with Scouts being recognized in their churches. Charlevoix' Cub Scout Pack 11 will hold its Blue and Gold banquet next Tuesday evening.

Scouting didn't come to Charlevoix until the late 1930's, when the local Kiwanis Cub agreed to sponsor Troop 11. That Troop is still alive and well under the guidance of Louie Edwards, who has been Scoutmaster since 1958.

Edwards is proud of the fact that he now has the sons of some of his early Scouts in his troop. He himself was not a Boy Scout when he was growing up. "I just started learning with the boys when I became Scoutmaster," he says.

Five Scouts in Troop 11 have received the Eagle Award under Edwards' guidance. He remembers each one well: Terry Mol, Gerald Fochtman, Larry Anders, Alan Avery, and Walter Kroush.

The underlying basis of Scouting is learning good citizenship, Edwards believes, and that is stressed at all times. The main "fun" activity of Troop 11 is camping, which the

CHARLEVOIX COUNCIL MINUTES

February 1, 1982
8:00 P.M.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time with Mayor Staley presiding.

Present: Councilmembers Wood, Morris, Block, Porter, Timms, and Roloff.

Absent: None.

Councilman Morris questioned the City Attorney as to whether or not he agreed with the statement in the January 18, 1982 Council Minutes about hiring an alternate attorney should the City Attorney not be present. Since the arrangement mentioned met with Mr. Gibbon's approval the Minutes of the January 18, 1982 regular Council meeting as presented in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes Book were adopted by a voice vote.

The City Manager explained the details involved in the proposals from Granger Engineering Inc. and McNamee, Porter and Seeley for design services on the proposed stormsewer project. As the City did not get a firm price on construction related services from either firm the Council asked that the matter be tentatively held over for action at a Special Council meeting on February 8, 1982, provided all necessary information is available by that date.

Council discussed the City's policy which limits parking to one side of Belvedere Avenue from Alice Street to the Belvedere Club entrance during the winter (January 1 to April 1) each year. Peter Pace, owner of the Grey Gables, voiced his disappointment in having the ban as it caused great inconveniences to his clientele. He also asked the Council to what extent the City would aid his snow removal attempts and where they would expect him to dispose of the snow. Chester Otmanowski, a member of the General Public present, questioned the purpose of the Parking Ordinance and its enforcement. Dave Strawbridge, a member of the General Public present, outlined his objections as to the way the area is kept clear and mainly emphasized the inherent danger of people walking in the streets because of being forced to park some three blocks away. The City Manager asked Council for a motion to clarify their wishes in this matter.

Moved by Councilman Morris and supported by Councilman Wood to have the Grey Gables plow back the snow so that the curb on either side of Belvedere from Alice Street to the Belvedere Club entrance are visible. When the Police Chief has determined that the Grey Gables has complied with this provision, the parking ban on the North side of the subject section will be removed. The Police Chief may reinstitute the ban at any time he determines the Grey Gables is not complying with this provision. This program is to be reviewed by the City Council in 30 days.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Wood, Morris, Block, Porter, Timms, and Roloff.

Nays: None.

Absent: None.

Council discussed changing the City Council's Workshop Meeting Schedule to move the second meeting of each month (first work session) to Tuesday, rather than Monday evening to permit the Charlevoix Township Board members, who meet simultaneously, to attend City Council work sessions, while also permitting City Council members to attend the Township meetings. The Council generally agreed that no change was necessary but will take turns being absent from the Council work sessions to allow one Councilmember to attend each Township meeting.

Moved by Councilman Wood and supported by Councilman Porter to raise the compensation for the City Board of Review from $35.00 per day to $50.00 per day beginning with the Fiscal 1982-83 Budget year.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Wood, Block, Porter, Timms and Roloff.

Nays: Councilmember Morris.

Absent: None.

The Council, the City Attorney and the City Manager generally agreed to move Agenda Item III E, Site Planning Development - Settlement Agreement to the Executive Session.

A Public Hearing was held to consider the position of City Fire Chief. Councilmembers and members of the General Public present offered various suggestions to define the duties, responsibilities, qualifications and salary of the position. (Exit Councilmember Morris). Upon the request of the City Manager the Council directed him to prepare a draft of the job description for Council's perusal at the February 8, 1982 Committee of the Whole Meeting.

Mayor Staley adjourned the Session for a brief recess.

Council reconvened at 10:25 P.M. with all members present.

Moved by Councilwoman Roloff and supported by Councilman Timms to set forth the following criteria for hiring a new City Fire Chief:

1. The Chief is to be one of the three full time paid City professional fire fighters.
2. No internal command structure will be specified at this time.
3. Residency requirement will be as specified by Charter and Ordinance.
4. Selection will be based upon merit, as described in the memorandum presented by the City Manager.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Wood, Morris, Porter, Timms, and Roloff.

Nays: Councilmember Block.

Absent: None.

Council and members of the General Public present discussed the Central Business District snow removal problem. The City Manager after reviewing his explanatory memorandum on the subject had no recommendation except to comment on the lack of manpower or funds in the current budget. It was generally agreed that snow removal should be improved Downtown, and first the burden for doing so should be placed upon the merchants including those who are not currently shoveling snow off their sidewalks. The City Manager and City Attorney were directed to prepare a strengthened enforcement program along these lines for consideration later in the year and implementation next winter.

The City Manager reported that we seem to be making little headway regarding Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Hazardous Waste (Superfund) funding for relocation of the City water supply source. He also reported that we have been notified by the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Water Quality Division that their drilling rig should be in Charlevoix in the next couple of weeks and soon after private consultants from the EPA in Chicago are expected to arrive.

The Council adjourned into an Executive Session at 10:50 P.M.

The Council reconvened into regular session at 12:10 A.M. (February 2, 1982) with all members being present.

Moved by Councilman Timms and supported by Councilman Morris to ratify the City's negotiated Settlement Agreement with Site Planning Design providing that the City pay Site Planning Design a sum of $2,000.00 to satisfy their lawsuit against the City.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Wood, Morris, Block, Porter, and Timms.

Nays: Councilwoman Roloff.

Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Morris and supported by Councilman Wood that the ongoing litigation between the City of Charlevoix and the W. M. Building Co. be settled in compromise for $4,000.00.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Wood, Morris, Block, Porter, Timms, and Roloff.

Nays: None.

Absent: None.

Moved by Councilwoman Roloff and supported by Councilman Morris that the ongoing litigation be dropped between the City of Charlevoix and Douglas Bathey regarding costs incurred for a new sewer line on the Bathey property.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Wood, Morris, Block, Timms, and Roloff.

Nays: Councilman Porter.

Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Morris to reduce the measurement of 15' on the Seven-Eleven rear yard set back as approved in the Site Plan of November 2, 1981, to 13' 11" as requested on the Building Permit.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Wood, Morris, Block, Porter, Timms, and Roloff.

Nays: None.

Absent: None.

The City Manager explained his request to have Ronald F. Nino & Associates refund a $3,000.00 payment.

Middle Schoolers will participate in unique curriculum on human growth and development

by ANNE KELLY

Teacher Feature

Toni Felter

Norm Probert

Middle Schoolers in Charlevoix are being exposed to a new curriculum in Human Growth and Development this year. Approved by a nine member committee made up of parents, a local minister, a religious from St. Mary's, the school nurse, a school board member and teachers, the materials used in the sex-education segment of the course are both timely and explicit.

"We have had parents who were apprehensive at first come back and tell us how pleased they were with how it was going," reported Toni Felter and Norm Probert, teachers of the Health Education Program.

Parents were invited at the outset to preview films and materials prior to each session for the different grade levels. Attendance for students doring the ses education course is optional depending on parental preference.

The timetable for inclusion of the sex education material into the curriculum is progressive:

6th graders have a two-day general overview of the subject which touches on anatomy, correct terminology, what to espect in the process of growth from boy and girl into young man and woman, and where to seek help for problems and answers to questions they might otherwise be hesitant to ask.

By 7th grade more specifics are intorduced into the course dealing with anatomy, learning about the opposite sex, venereal diseases, and qualities to look for when choosing a friend of the opposite sex.

A more concentrated version of the cummulative information gathered from the 5th through 7th grade in the health education program offers 8th graders an estension of past information and places renewed emphasis on the aspect of assuming personal responsibility for actions where sex is involved.

The classes provide an atmosphere cundusive to getting questions answered which might otherwise be left to faulty or unwholesome sources or worse still, to haphazard experimentation.

"A big part of what we do is stress responsibility for personal action, the 'living with yourself' philosophy," explained Toni. "We try to emphasize the fact that middle school age kids lack the maturity needed for establishing sexual relationships," added Norm.

Both Norm and Toni agree that while the home should be the primary soorce of sexual information, the school must be prepared to supplement that information and in some cases take up the slack. As for parents who argue that their child is not ready for sexual knowledge, statistics of teenage pregnancies and promiscuity speak for themselves. "The ones that are ready for it will hear it as they need it if it is introduced gradually and with continuity," Toni explained. It has been proven statistically that schools which have good sex education programs have less problem pregnancies than those who do not.

Ignorance is not bliss in the area of ses education. It can fead to promiscuity, early pregnancy and even venereal disease. It is also important for kids to know the correct terminology for the anatomical parts so that they can apeak intelligently about sexual concerns without having to resort to slang.

"It was in working with high school kids and talking with them about their problems," remembers Toni who has coached girl's high school basketball and volleyball, "that I realized that their (sex-related) questions and problems can't wait that long."

Toni, whose husband Ted, and two preschool boys reside in Charlevoix, has been teaching at the Middle School since 1970. She graduated from Central Michigan University with a degree in Physical Edocation, Health and Recreation.

"I care about these kids," Toni atates simply. She is enthusiastically supportive of the sex education program in her school and for her part, instructs both boys and girls in being sensitive to their own, as well as to one another's personal growth process.

Norm Probert, has a fatherly attitued toward his role in sex education instruction. With two grown children of his own, and he and his wife about to become grandparents for the second time, Norm also feels concern for the students he comes into contact with. A full career in education, following upon earning his degree in Phys. Ed, Health and Recreation from Central Michigan University, has included graduate work in the area of sex education. He has spent his past 11 years in Charlevoix coaching and teaching on both the high school and middle school level.

Norm is careful to point out that he feels the primary responsibility for sex education belongs to the parents. He encourages his students to discuss problems with their parents regarding individual values. He tries to get the point across that sexual activity is not as prevalent in the middle or high school as we would be led to believe.

"Most of the talk that you hear," Norm tells his students, "is locker room bragging which doesn't amount to anything."

Both Toni and Norm assure their students that the majority of students will never engage in sesual activity while they are in middle or high school, so they should not be swayed by peer pressure to believe what is not in reality so. They stress the fact that students in this age bracket lack the maturity necessary for that kind of a relationship.

Their approach to the subject of human growth and development in general and sex education in particular, seems to be a realistic and reassuring one. They hope to give students the proper information since ignorance is the number 1 enemy. They advise students as to all the negative aspects of early sesual involvement. Students are encouraged to discuss problems with parents, ministers and teachers so as to get correct information. Finally, Toni and Norm present ses education as part of the total human growth and development program, in a wholesome, respectful way.

Children's House, Gym Club to hold joint open house

Charlevoix Children's House and the Charlevoix Gym Club together are holding an open house on February 14 from 12:00 to 3:00 p.m.

The two organizations are housed in the same building at 1004 Taylor Road off North Mercer Blvd. Charlevoix Children's House has been in existence since 1978 but this is the first year as a non-profit parent corporation in a new facility.

Troop does at all times of the year. A campout at Bell's Bay is being planned for this month. The Troop regularly camps in Southern Ontario with a Canadian troop, which, in turn, comes to northern Michigan to join Troop II in camping activities. Last year, the troop attended the Tulip Festival in Holland and camped out at Grand Haven. Other adventures in recent years included a snow train trip to the Agawa Canyon. With the new canoes, the troop is looking forward to some canoe trips.

John Houting, a teacher in the Charlevoix Elementary School, is Assistant Scoutmaster of Troop II. Others working with the troop are Frank Schuch, Val Avery, David Novotny, Jerry Paul, Gunnar Lundteigen, Charles Bergmann, Melvin Thayer, Robert Rajewski, and Gerald Chase.

There's room in Troop II for more boys, and Edwards and his assistants would welcome them. The troop meets Wednesday evenings at 7:30 in the Charlevoix Middle School. "They can join at any time," Edwards explains. "They don't have to wait until the beginning of the year."

Troop II has a younger brother in Charlevoix: Cub Scout Pack II. There are 49 Scouts in the five Dens and one Webelos group, each with a devoted leader. Sandy White is leader of Den 1, Jeff Pines of Den 2, Cheryl Thayer of Den 3, Jim Mansen of Den 4, Nancy Mathers of Den 5, and Dave Phillips and Paul Stephans of the Webelos.

There has been no Cubmaster in Charlevoix this year, but Mrs. Thayer and Phillips, along with Pack Treasurer Gloria Kirk, have carried the administrative load and kept the Dens active. Next year there will be a Cubmaster since one of the present Den leaders has volunteered to move up to the job.

Cub Scouts are celebrating Scout Week, too, and among their Scout Week projects are the posters being displayed in shop windows around town. They will be recognized for their accomplishments at the Blue and Gold Banquet next Tuesday at 6:30 in the Elementary School.

A large percentage of Cub Scouts join the Boy Scouts, so Charlevoix is assured of an active Scout organization for some time to come.

Scouts don't cause much commotion, — you'll see them in parades on Memorial Day or during the Venetian Festival, and other celebrations. They do civic jobs such as distributing Emergency Services literature. They do other things, too, but most of all it's nice to know there are some young people around who are committed to doing their duty to God and their country...to helping other people at all times...and to keeping physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight.

Paul Ivan is city's newest policeman

by PEG OHLE

Paul Ivan has been a member of the six-man Charlevoix police force since the end of last June.

Charlevoix is the second place of employment for the young Criminal Justice graduate of Lake Superior State College. His first job was a six weeks' stint as a police officer on Mackinac Island, which was great, he says, "except I had to walk all the time."

Ivan grew up in Midland and graduated from high school there. It was between his junior and senior high school years that he decided he wanted to go into law enforcement work, so his choice of studies at Lake Superior was easy, he explains.

Ivan's extra-curricular activities in both high school and college were on the serious side. In high school he played percussion instruments in the school band, and in college he participated in the affairs of the Criminal Justice Association and the Criminal Justice Pistol team.

When Ivan first came to Charlevoix, he worked the day shift for a month so he could learn his way around the City, then he worked the four to midnight shift for a month, and since then he has been on the midnight to eight shift.

Much of the night officer's time is spent watching for breakings and enterings and checking the security of downtown shops. Then, when traffic picks up in the early morning, he is concerned with traffic violations. He also checks the major routes to the hospital and reports any problems that might cause delays in reaching the hospital.

Officer Ivan was in the Courier office at 9 a.m. one morning last week. When asked what his sleeping schedule is, he indicated that "it all depends".

Sometimes, especially when he has Court duty, Ivan doesn't go to bed until late in the day. When he has the whole day and evening to himself, he usually gets his sleep early.

The only times the whole Charlevoix police force is on duty at the same time are during the Venetian Festival and concert nights at Castle Farms, Ivan says. Otherwise, they patrol alone in a police car or on foot.

In addition to his training at Lake Superior, Ivan interned with the Saginaw County Sheriff's Department and took Emergency Medical Technician's training.

He still sees law enforcement work as his future — except that some day he might want to go back to the farm where he was raised which is still run by his father and two brothers.

"I like Charlevoix", Ivan says. "It is a unique community. There's one thing, though. I'm a certified scuba diver and haven't dived even once since I've been here."

Officers on the Charlevoix police force are issued uniforms of jackets, shirts, pants, hats, ties — and tie tacks. The tie tacks are in the shape of handcuffs.

Expert witness 'fears' PBB is cancer cause

by TOM DAMMANN

Though he knows of no cases of cancer in humans who have PBB in their systems, yet, "I fear that it will cause cancer in humans," Dr. Walter Meester told the jury here Wednesday and Thursday, last week.

Director of the department of toxicology and research at Blodgett Memorial Hospital in Grand Rapids, Dr. Meester was testifying in the multi-million dollar PBB case in its seventh day of trial before Judge Martin Breighner in Charlevoix County Circuit Court.

An all-woman jury heard the opening statements by attorneys Thursday Feb. 4, as the trial of a multi-million dollar PBB suit got underway before Judge Martin Breighner in Charlevoix County Circuit Court.

The suit was filed in August, 1976, by Charlevois farmer Douglas Warner, his former wife, Marty Jo Aardema, and his mother Grace Irene Warner, a fourth grade teacher in Central Lake, against Velsicol Chemical Corp (formerly Michigan Chemical Co.) Farm Bureau Services Inc., the Charlevoix Coop and the Ellsworth Coop.

Involved in testing people for PBB and author of published studies concerning PBB and its effects on humans, Dr. Meester was called as an expert witness by Grand Rapids attorney Patrick Muldoon.

The trial began 2 weeks ago. For three days Warner answered questions by his attorney and by attorneys Thomas McNamara, Grand Rapids and Lansing Attorney "Red" Kenneth McIntyre, representing Farm Bureau Services, Charlevoix and Ellsworth Coops respectively.

Aardema was on the stand Monday and Tuesday.

Dr. Meester, the first expert witness called, said he had examined all three of the plaintiffs, the last time in November, 1980.

"I think it is too early to discover cancer," he testified several times in answer to questioning. "The risk begins immediately with the presence of PBB in the body."

"None of my series of patients has developed cancer because of the long delay" it takes for the cancer to develop.

"There is a 20 to 25 year latent period," he said. "Those that have greater exposure have the greater risk."

He explained that his predictions are based on what has been learned with laboratory animals which have been given various sized doses of PBB and examined at different periods.

He said that 46 per cent of one groups of rats that had been dosed,

PBB story first broke here seven years ago

by PEG OHLE

It was over seven years ago, on September 25, 1974, that the Charlevoix Courier ran a front page news story headed, "Local Cattle Poisoned?"

The story told of the problems being faced by Doug and Marty Jo Warner of Norwood Township because of the poisoning of their dairy cattle by a chemical that a supplier had inadvertently combined with animal food Warner fed his herd.

This was the first local indication that there was something wrong on many Michigan farms.

The chemical, the Courier was told, was polybrominated biphenal, abbrfeviated to what we thought was "PBP". It was called "PBP" in that first story, but in every story thereafter, it was "PBB", not only in the Courier but in newspapers, magazines, and books published throughout the country.

The toll taken by PBB throughout northern and central Michigan during the next several months ran into thousands of animals — cattle, hogs, chickens, and others — and into millions of dollars.

The Courier reported other cases within a giant arm's throw of Charlevoix. There were the John Graces of South Arm Township, the Charles Brittons of Norwood Township, the Paul Burks of South Arm Township, the Carl Conants of Central Lake, and the Louis Vannimans of Ellsworth. And there were others whose problems were never reported.

They all had livestock of one kind or another that had been contaminated with PBB. Some just died right on the farm and others were purposely destroyed and hauled away to a burying ground in Kalkaska County.

Then came the awareness that PBB contaminated even the walls of the buildings that housed the animals and the ground they walked on. The job of ridding a farm of the chemical was too overwhelming for some to contemplate.

It was only natural, therefore, that farmers whose families had been drinking milk from contaminated cows and eating meat from contaminated animals should become alarmed about the effects of PBB on the human body.

In December, 1974, Dr. Harold Humphries, environmental epidemicologist for the Michigan Department of Health, told the Courier, "There is no informative medical literature pertaining to human exposure to PBB, but the effects on animals is frightening."

Trying to cope with the problem, the Michigan Department of Health set up standards for maximum contents of PBB in milk and meat sold on the open market and began a health testing program for persons concerned about the damage PBB-contaminated foods might have done to them.

Doug and Marty Jo Warner were among the first to be identified as having traces of PBB in their blood, and Marty Jo was the first person in the State to have her body fat tested for PBB. Doug spent a week in the hospital in 1974 with severe stomach cramps, the cause of which was never identified, even though they continued over a period of almost a year. When the Warner's baby, Sarah, was born two years later, doctors advised Marty Jo not to nurse the child because of the mother's earlier contact with PBB.

Action will be on ski trails, slopes for Winter Cup

With a guarantee of plenty of snow and hopes for some healthy participation, Charlevoix's Winter Cup gets under way this weekend.

Featured in the traditional winter festival will be ski races for all ages, bump jumper competition and plenty of evening entertainment at local night spots.

Charlevoix High School's Winter Homecoming kicks off the festivities on Friday night. The Rayder basketball team faces Grayling in Friday night's game with the Homecoming King and Queen crowned at halftime. (Court has been chosen; see page 3.)

Friday is also the last day for regular registration for the USSA sanctioned cross country ski races to be held Saturday. The cross country races are to be held at Windmill Farms, five miles east of Charlevoix on the Boyne City Road. Chairman of the event is Julie Cordano.

Late registration for the 20-kilometer sanctioned race will be held Saturday morning from 8 to 10 a.m. This race, for USSA members only, begins at 11 a.m. and includes five age brackets between 16 and 45 and over.

Citizen races of ten kilometers and five kilometers will start at noon and 12:30 p.m. respectively and are open to everyone. Again, prizes will be awarded for several age categories. All cross country skiers will receive commemorative T-shirts. Trophies will be awarded to top finishers.

Sunday is downhill day at Charlevoix's own Mt. McSauba ski hill with Peter Pace heading up the race committee. Registration for downhill racing opens at noon on Sunday with the dual slalom races beginning at 1 p.m. Bump jumping competition starts at about 3 p.m. Racers and bump jumpers will both compete in several age categories from pre-school on up.

On both Friday and Saturday evenings, local restaurants and lounges will be hosting special festivities. The snow sculpture competition previously slated for East Park has been cancelled due to the breakdown of city equipment to make snow piles.

NRC wants to re-examine Consumers Power proposal to increase spent fuel storage at Big Rock

by TOM DAMMANN

Consumers Power Co. has received a setback in its two year quest for federal permission to nearly double the number of spent fuel assemblies in the storage pool at its Big Rock Point Nuclear Power Plant here.

Three judges of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) Atomic Safety and Licensing Board have reprimanded their staff for accepting without independent study analysis of the proposal by two engineers retained by the utility. They have ordered a more careful examination of the possibility of a nuclear chain reaction in the pool if more spent fuel racks were added to it.

The judges also denied the utility's motion for summary disposition of a contention dealing with calculation of criticality (the point at which nuclear chain reaction may begin) in the spent fuel pool. Copies of the order arrived here late last week.

In 1979 the company asked the NRC to ammend its license to allow Big Rock to increase the number of spent "fuel assemblies" it can store in the spent fuel pool, from 193 to 441. Unless this is granted Consumer's officials say the plant will have to shut down in 1983 for lack of storage space. Its license runs to the year 2000.

The company's plans are opposed by a group of "citizen intervenors" — mostly residents of the Charlevoix area — who assert that the expansion will endanger the health and lives of neighbors of the plant.

Represented by a group of young lawyers headed by Prof. Herbert Semmel of Antioch College of Law, of Washington, D.C., the "citizen intervenors" have testified before the NRC and filed numerous charges and arguments.

A date for the public hearing required by law has not been set yet.

In calling for re-examination of "criticality", the judges wrote in an order dated Feb. 5, "we have concluded that there is a genuine issue of fact, raised by an intervenor's contention," and that

Posse member seeks wages lost from injury at Castle

by PEG OHLE

Repercussions are still being heard from one of the concerts held at Castle Farms last summer.

A member of the Charlevoix County Sheriff's posse recently filed suit against the County Board of Commissioners to recover wages lost as the result of an injury sustained on July 16, 1981 while he was patroling the concert area with Sheriff George T. Lasater.

According to the complaint, Richard Gallant, Sr. was riding in a Sheriff's Department vehicle with the Sheriff when it was struck by two beer bottles. Gallant got out of the vehicle to pursue the bottle throwers and in so doing, twisted the muscles in a leg. The injury prevented him from working at his regular job at American Mold the following week so he lost $381.15 in wages.

A few weeks after the accident, Gallant asked the County to reimburse him for the medical expenses he had incurred, and the County did so. Some time later, with the approval of Sheriff Lasater, Gallant presented the County with a bill covering the lost wages. The claim was approved by the Sheriff's Committee of the County Board but was disallowed by both the Statutory Finance Committee and the Ways and Means Committee because the County's insurance carrier would not honor it.

The matter was brought before the full County Board of Commissioners last week. After much discussion, they voted to let the case go to Court rather than make a settlement because they did not want to "set a precedent which might later result in larger lawsuits". Also, it was the advice of the lawyer hired by the County to oversee contract negotiations with Sheriff's Department employees that the bill not be allowed.

Gallant is a senior member of the Sheriff's posse, according to Sheriff Lasater, and "if rated from one to ten, would be a ten". He, as well as the other nine members of the posse, serve the County without pay when their services are needed.

"The average posse member donates about 640 hours of time a year," Sheriff Lasater told the County Commissioners. "That is in addition to the 60 hours of training each one receives. I feel the work the posse does is equal to that of two full time deputies."

A final comment by a County Commissioner was that, "We want to see Mr. Gallant receive his money but we don't know just how we can do it."

Writing workshop a hit!

by ANNE KELLY

I think F. Scott Fitzgerald would have enjoyed being there. The young American short story was what the creative writing workshop for kids, held recently at the Charlevoix Public Library, was all about. Thirty-seven students aged 9-12 (with a 6 year old and a 16 year old thrown in for good measure) showed up on a blizzard-less Saturday morning to, of all things, write stories when they could have been watching cartoons.

It was enough to make a teacher proud, and a lot of interested writing enthusiasts excited to know, that creative writing, the unbridled pencil of the imagination, is alive and well in Charlevoix.

The teacher was Mary Ann Chew. But a teacher in a workshop is merely the facilitator, the person who gets the participants going on their project. So after a brief explanation as to what elements make up a short story, and the poresentation of an illustrated set of "story starter cards" from which to choose, the kids were pretty much on their own. There was time to write, time to make sure they were on the right track, and time to share what they had written.

What are the parts of a story? Simply put, there can be seven, according to Mary Ann. 1) setting the stage, 2) characters, 3) introducing the plot, 4) the main part of the story, 5) the climax, 6) the aftermath and finally 7) the title.

It would have been difficult to choose one or a few of the best stories of the day. All the stories were spontaneously written within the span of ½ hour to 45 minutes. Some children asked if they might complete theirs at home. The stories contained many spelling, punctuational or grammatical errors which have been corrected in the reprinting. The idea of the day was to let creativity flow, and here is what happened when the juices started moving.

Perhaps the most important part of any story is the writer's adeptness at setting the stage. Colleen Rosenquist, age 9½, demonstrated this point in her composition when she wrote,

One wet April morning the king of the land Onapoko called his soldiers into his throne. He was very upset. He said, there is a dragon coming to Onapoko. He will kill my people. I want a volunteer who will kill him.

Sean Henne, 12, described his charater's predicament at the outset:

I, Henry Walker, was lost. Why

the motion for summary disposition must therefore be denied. The motion is one of several the utility has filed.

"We decided to issue this separate opinion because of the seriousness of the issues raised by intervenors" filed last December and late in January, the judges stated.

In one of these contentions, intervenor John O'Neil of Glen Lake stated that the company's application failed to "adequately analyze the possibility of criticality occuring in the fuel pool because of the increased density of storage without a gross distortion of the storage racks."

"If this contention is true, its implications are serious," the judges wrote. "The attainment of criticality would initiate a self-sustaining nuclear reaction."

The judges point out that the analysis offered by Consumers Power was "apparently found acceptable by the staff" of the NRC Atomic Safety and Licensing Board which concurred in the motion for summary judgement.

The judges were also impressed by a contention by another intervenor, Christa Maria of Charlevoix, to the effect that the analysts had failed to consider how hot the water would become at the bottom of the pool under some 24 feet of water if it were boiling on the surface at 212 degrees Fahrenheit.

Further study indicated to the judges that the water in the pool would become much hotter than the staff's Safety Evaluation has accepted.

"These problems give rise to additional doubts," the judges wrote, concerning what might happen if a fuel assembly dropped or was inadvertently placed between a rack assembly and the pool wall.

In a telephone interview David P. Blanchard, the plant's technical engineer, said he could not comment now on the questions of water temperature at the bottom of the pool and the distortion of the racks because he will testify on these points at the open hearing.

"But I doubt the resolution of these questions will result in design changes of the spent fuel racks," he said.

He explained that "the analyses we performed are extremely conservative."

He said that using the numeral one as the point of criticality the NRC prefers to use .95 as the maximum safety level.

"Given all the conservatives we used in our analysis we want to design the racks to permit the maximum number of assemblies to be stored once the expansion is completed," Blanchard said.

In answer to another question, he said the analysts even considered the effects of storing fresh unused fuel rods in making their analysis. Big Rock tests different types of fuel, including plutonium, and combinations of them, as part of research and development contracts with the Department of Energy and Exxon Corporation.

STRAINING UNDER A ROOF-FULL OF SNOW, beams over the service department at Kusina Motors were hanging about four to five feet lower than normal when mechanics arrived for work last Friday morning. Friday evening, after a day of creaking timbers, the roof finally came down. One car that had been in the service area was able to be removed Friday morning but two others were still in service bays when the roof came down. No damage was done to the cars or any other valuable equipment in the area, according to owner Dennis Kusina. Kusina said that the remaining structure will be torn down and rebuilt. No dollar figure on the damage was available by Monday. Area residents are warned of possible roof cave-ins caused by several feet of accumulated snow that is beginning to melt this week. Those with flat roofs or sloped roofs with ice dams formed are asked to take particular caution.

Plates for Petunias

by Dave Knight

Ever since the state decided regulation license plates were unneccessary for the fronts of cars, we have seen an outpouring of creativity gracing all sorts of front bumpers. Now that creativity has been put to good local promotional use as well.

"We Love Charlevoix" license plates will be sold door-to-door in the city and Charlevoix Township on February 25 according to organizers of "Operation Petunia", the massive flower planting and city beautification project set for this May.

Sales teams of adults and young people will canvass the community from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. a week from this Thursday selling the custom-designed plates. The design features the Charlevoix logo in the familiar Wayne Belding script in Rayder-red on white. The Belding script has been around for about 50 years and can be seen on every welcome sign at the edges of town as well as the new water tower.

Plates will sell for $5 each during the door-to-door sale or for $6 by mail. Proceeds from the sale are expected to completely fund the purchase and planting of 600 flats (about 28,800 plants) of multi-colored petunias, according to Dale Boss who came up with the idea. The petunias are to be planted along both sides of U.S. Hwy. 31 for a mile in either direction of the center of town.

Bruce MacArthur, president of the sponsoring organization Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, acknowledged this week the receipt of several license plate orders already saying that many requests are accompanied by encouraging comments.

Wrote Stanley Nyquist of Spring Lake, "Being a big booster of Charlevoix, I will be proud to display the plates of a wonderful town...I am enclosing a check for two sets of plates."

"What a great idea!" wrote Patrick Donnelly of Charlevoix on his order.

Local banker Lou Hollow has offered a $500 interest free loan for the advance deposit on the plates, the manufacturer of which was located with the help of Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Jacquie Merta.

To order plates by mail, those interested can send $6 to Charlevoix License Plates, Box 123, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Clockwise

Here's hoping for repeat of '81

by Bob Clock

The awful winter of 1982 began to soften over the weekend — and with any luck at all, Northern Michigan could have a repeat of the glorious spring of 1981.

If you'll remember, it was mid-February last year when the thaw set in. Within two days, huge patches of lawn began appearing around town and by the end of the month the snow was pretty much gone.

Oh, we had a few flurries after that but not much snow accumulated on the ground and none of it stayed very long. March, which can be a humdinger, was beautiful, as I recall, with mild temperatures from beginning to end.

Is it possible to have two such years in a row? Of course it is.

And with the temperature in the 30's in downtown Charlevoix Monday morning, I'm ready to engage in a little wishful thinking.

With a blizzard every weekend in January, the winter of '82 to date has been one of the worst on record, likened by old timers to the winters of '05, '10, '34, '59 and '71. I think we deserve a break — particularly in light of our triple-digit heating bills.

THERE MUST HAVE been a great deal of jubilation around Detroit over the weekend as word spread that Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers (UAW) had reached agreement on a new 31-month contract designed not only to bail out the ailing company but to save untold Ford jobs.

At this point, no one outside the inner sanctum knows what's in the package — but both sides seem happy and the UAW is confident the contract will be approved by the workers.

What is so surprising about the contract is the fact that it was wrapped up in about two weeks. Normally, auto negotiations linger on month after month with a great deal of procrastination on both sides.

The big question, of course, is how much of the savings on the assembly line will be passed on to the consumer to breathe new life into moribund auto sales. Before the talks with General Motors were broken off, GM had agreed to pass on all of its savings to the buyer — a decision which caused a great deal of chagrin at Ford headquarters, which has chalked up losses totaling about $2 billion dollars in the past two years.

GM, on the other hand, was still showing a profit — albeit meager — at year's end, so was in a far less favorable bargaining position than Ford.

However, it seems almost certain that GM and the UAW will have to return to the bargaining table sometime before the scheduled resumption of talks in July — if only to prevent Ford from gaining too much leverage in the marketplace.

IT GOES WITHOUT saying that the early negotiations would not have been necessary if the companies had done their homework and had refused to sign the inflationary agreements under which the industry has labored for the past 30 months.

Management must be willing not only to talk tough but to act tough to prevent epidemics of "sticker shock" from destroying the domestic auto industry.

Labor unions have done an excellent job of securing wage and fringe benefits for their members. But management has reneged on its obligation to protect the consumer and the stockholder.

Letters: Still much for us to resolve

To the Editor,

Nuclear power made it's debut with much fanfare in Northern Michigan 20 years ago! That was back when nuclear facilities were built inexpensively and with little regulation. From the nuclear experiment has come well paying jobs and taxes amounting to millions. That has always been the good news. And new sirens, evacuation plans, NRC inspectors, and suave public relations does not really guarantee our future community-area safety, but it helps...maybe. It's like an umbrella in the rain.

In years to come, we the communities, rate payers and tax payers, not the nuclear barons, will be ultimately responsible for paying back all those millions through local nuclear plant decommissioning costs and guardianships of dangerous nuclear waste of endless cost proportions. The federal government has spent 3.6 billion taxpayer dollars on more than 5000 studies of nuclear waste disposal with no positive solution beyond inception of this "nuclear experiment."

In essence, nuclear power involvement is like having bought a car with short-term assumed benefit and being strapped into paying on it forever into the future. It lines up too with nuclear war wherein there will be no winners in the last act.

We are all involved, even those of us who say and do nothing within the realm of nuclear controversy. Nuclear safety issues touch all our lives sooner or later whether we be utility employers, residents, or tourists. It is to our mutual benefit as neighbors, friends, and concerned persons to look squarely and openly at facts, issues, and concerns. There is much for us to jointly resolve.

PBB may be cancer threat

with PBB had liver cancer at the end of six months.

"It is therefore possible that it will cause liver cancer in humans," the toxicologist testified.

"It is difficult to discover liver cancer in humans," Dr. Meester continued, explaining that "the liver is a large, regenerative organ. Only when there is a large disorder in the liver can you find the cancer. When the liver breaks down and begins to grow fat is one symtom. Once cancer is discovered in the liver it moves very fast."

He testified that for this reason he advises patients who have PBB in their system to undergo frequent examinations including a liver scan and enzyme tests.

"The earlier you can get to treating cancer the better," he said.

Defense attorneys easily got Dr. Meester to admit that as yet there is no evidence of cancer in humans as a result of exposure to PBB. But they could not alter his argument that the potential for cancer is great.

The trial which is expected to take many weeks recessed Friday afternoon, Feb 12, until Tuesday Feb. 16, at 8 a.m.

Since its start Judge Breighner has barred attorneys and others connected with the case from talking with reporters.

In his opening statement, Patrick Muldoon, a Grand Rapids Attorney representing the Warners, charge that the PBB which he asserts Velsicol and Farm Bureau services are responsible for – as well as the coops, because they delivered it to the farm – did in fact poison the Warners, causing them physical harm and mental distress, for which he expects the jury to award them damages. He said the PBB had been found in both the blood and fat of the Warners.

He said that not only had the PBB made the family ill, making in unadvisable for Marty Jo to breast feed their 5 year old daughter when she was born, but had also destroyed their herd of some 200 dairy cattle.

Muldoon said that PBB can cause cancer in animals and consequently in humans.

He said he would present expert medical and scientific witnesses to substantiate these charges.

"We don't claim the Warners are sick now," Muldoon told the jury. "But PBB is a persistant chemical in their bodies – a potential for delayed disease. Its target is the liver."

Lansing Attorney "Red" Kenneth McIntyre, representing Farm Bureau Services Inc. and the two co-ops told the jury that experts would testify that the Warners could not have been harmed and that in fact their cows had produced more milk in the year after they ingested the PBB.

McIntyre also revealed that his clients had paid the Warners $250,000 as a settlement of their claims, resulting from the loss of their cattle which were ordered destroyed.

Grand Rapids Attorney Thomas McNamars representing Velsicol told the jury that he would produce expert medical witnesses to support his contention that the ills the Warners claim to have suffered were normal, that the connection with PBB was stimulated by stories they read in the press or saw on TV about the reported ills suffered by other farmers whose cattle had been exposed to PBB.

"There is a claim here that there is an increased risk of cancer for people who have ingested PBB," McNamars said. "They do not now have cancer. There are no early signs. There is no study showing PBB causes cancer in humans, no study shows the presence of cancer in people who have been exposed to PBB."

Legion advised on date for Poppy Sale this year

The American Legion Auxiliary was advised in a communication that the annual American Legion Poppy Days would be held May 20-22. At the same time the local group voted to order the poppies that would be offered for sale on these dates.

The president, Mrs. Ray Wood, announced that 11 applicants have applied for the three openings for the annual Girls State to be held at Central Michigan University in June.

Members were also advised the the District Mid-winter rally would be held at Midland Feb. 27. More information may be obtained from Mrs. Wood.

The monthly Legion-Auxiliary joint potluck supper will be held at the post home Tuesday, March 2. Members are to bring a dish to pass and their own table service. The two organizations will then conduct their separate meetings.

At the recent meeting an announcement regarding the dinners the Auxiliary planned to serve was made; Mrs. Lester Smith said she had trimmed more than 1,000 U.S. postage stamps to be used for the state Auxiliary scholarship fund and Mrs. Josephine Bindi reported that 15 get-well cards had been mailed in January and that 20 Valentines would be mailed.

At the social hour that followed, Mrs. Lester Smith was honored with a birthday cake and Mrs. Gertude Holt, who is now a resident at Pine River Place, with a housewarming shower.

Youth Art exhibit planned

Letters have been sent to all the area schools to have the students submit their work for Crooked Tree Arts Councils Annual Youth Art Exhibit. This exhibit is scheduled in the McCune Arts Center Gallery from Monday, April 5 through Friday, April 23. Those students interested in this event, now in its tenth year, should contact their local art teacher. Last year students from twenty area schools entered their work.

A special feature of the yearly Youth Art Exhibit is a poster contest. This year area high-school students may submit a black and white drawing to their art teacher for inclusion in the Arts Center contest. The selected drawing will be used in all publicity for the show. Last year Shay Weston from the Petoskey Middle School won the poster contest, the year before two students, one each from the Petoskey and Charlevoix Montessori Schools, were featured in the shows publicity.

Diane Dryer of Charlevix has served as chairperson of this event for the past two years. For more information, please contact the Arts Center office at 347-4337.

Art classes for children offered at McCune Center

Beginning the week of March 1, Crooked Tree Arts Council is offering a wide selection of art classes for children and adults at the Virginia M. McCune Community Arts Center in Petoskey. In addition to the painting, drawing, pottery, music and dance classes that were so successful last year, the Arts Center is now making available to the community such fascinating courses as Puppetry - and Introduction to dramatics for children 9 - 12 years of age. This course will include construction and presentation of different types of puppets. Drama for children, ages 9 - 12, will also be offered with emphasis on body movement, acting and theatre technology. Ellce Alman will be instructing the Puppetry course, and Cheryl Winter the Children's Drama.

Among the other classes children ages 7 - 16 may select from, is Mixed Media taught by Sandy Selden. This class will address pattern concerns with various media including paint, fabric, string, and wire. A clay class is also being offered for children, with sessions focusing on hand built pottery and sculpture with an introduction to the potters wheel. Carla Deloria will teach the clay class.

Among the new courses for adults will be Mary Fink's watercolor painting class for beginning and intermediate students. In the area of drawing, Dawn Swaim will present basic drawing techniques, life drawing and design. Daniel Roache is offering Color Theory to educate and discipline the artists eye for color and heighten technical knowledge.

Creative Needlepoint for beginning and intermediate level adults will be taught by Sidne Wilson. Weaving, an introduction to basic hand looms as well as spinning techniques will be presented by Cathy Siterlit in a four-week course.

To compliment the expansion in the art program, the McCune Center has improved the drawing and painting room. The area has been enlarged to provide students with a more spacious and efficient studio environment. As the community responds with increasing interest in the class activities at the Arts Center, Crooked Tree Arts Council will continue to refine its' facilities and broaden the course selection. The success of this community oriented center rests with the involvement and enthusiasm of local residents.

The classes that will be repeated after a very productive first semester include a Saturday program for children. This class offers an opportunity for children to learn and practice a wide range of skills in three medias - clay work, painting and drawing. Carla Deloria, Cynthia Haynes, and Sandy Selden will direct these sessions.

Two additional adult painting classes are offered this semester. Sandy Selden will teach acrylic and oil painting. Stephen Kendall will repeat the class he offered last semester. Stephen's class will be an eight-week, three hour comprehensive painting class where both basic and advanced techniques in watercolor and acrylics will be taught.

James Deloria is the clay instructor for adult classes. A morning and an evening clay class is being offered and will involve hand construction, use of potter's wheel with an emphasis on firing and glazing of completed peices.

All classes have been rescheduled to begin the week of March 1. Registration forms are available at the McCune Arts Center, 461 E. Mitchell in Petoskey or you may call 347-4337 for more information.

Treat yourself or your child to a refreshing experience during the late winter season and register for one of the many classes at the Virginia M. McCune Community Arts Center. The days and times of classes vary to accomodate many busy schedules, so be sure to contact the Arts Center concerning any classes of interest.

GOLD AND JEWELRY PRICING
Colleen Tilsworth
Manager
Gold prices have skated up and down for the past few years, reflecting the state of the economy and the mood of the public. This precious metal shot up to about $850 an ounce at one point in 1980 and is now coasting at about half that amount.
When gold prices were fluctuating drastically, some jewelers chose to price their merchandise upon request. They would list the weight of the gold on the price tag and multiply this by the current market rate if someone was interested in knowing the price.
When prices are relatively stable, however, small fluctuations don't affect the price of a jewelry item. Here's why:
--Depending on the gemstones involved, the value of the gold may be proportionately small.
--Gold is rarely used in its pure (24 karat) state for jewelry because it's too soft. For strength it is mixed with alloys--usually 25-41% of various combinations of nickel, silver, copper and zinc.
--With gold-filled or gold-plated jewelry, only the outer layer of the metal is karat gold. The core is either silver or a base metal.
--The craftsmanship of the piece makes up a substantial portion of the selling price. This does not alter with the price of the metal.
You'd be totally confused if you tried to understand the jewelry market. That's why it's important to find a trustworthy jeweler to deal with. Our firm was selected as a member of the American Gem Society because we were able to prove a high level of gemological knowledge, professional bearing and high ethics. Rayders fall flat at hands of Chiefs

The chips were down for Friday night's varsity basketball game but, unfortunately, so were the Charlevoix Rayders.

With a chance to virtually wrap up the Michigan-Huron Shores conference title with a win over second place Cheboygan, the Rayders fell decisively to the Chiefs by a 68-55 margin. The loss gave Charlevoix a split for the week as the Rayders easily dominated Rogers City on Tuesday 69-38.

Now 9-2 in M-HSC action, Charlevoix is tied for the league lead with Boyne City, also 9-2. Cheboygan lifted themselves to 8-2 at the Rayders' expense while Gaylord is still alive at 8-3.

In Tuesday's game, it was Charlevoix all the way. The locals jumped to a 16-5 lead in the first quarter and were never threatened. By halftime the lead was 37-17 and by the end of the third quarter, Charlevoix led 53-30. The Rayders went on to the 69-38 rout with all 12 players seeing action. Mike Loper led individual scoring with 12 while sophomore Chris Putman came on strong with 11. George Smith and Gary Drury each had ten and Craig Klooster nine.

The Charlevoix junior varsity also triumphed by a 48-42 score with Tim LaBlance's pace-setting 18 points; Bill Tillen had ten and Dan Buday nine.

Friday night's game was a completely different story. While the Rayders were plagued by frigid shooting from the opening tipoff, Cheboygan, it seemed, could not miss. The Chiefs quickly ran up a 20-10 lead in the first quarter with Kirk Taylor and Chris Hudack leading the way. The Rayders managed to barely keep pace in the second but still found themselves down 37-25 at the half.

The momentum remained with the visiting Chiefs in the second half as Charlevoix Coach Dave Smith substituted freely to find the right combination. Every Rayder player saw action and every one scored; but not enough. By the start of the final quarter, it was Cheboygan up by a 56-37 margin and time was running short for Charlevoix. Nothing seemed to work for the Rayders as they frantically tried to get back into the game to no avail.

Taylor and Hudack led individual scorers with 23 and 20 respectively while Drury led Charlevoix with 12 points.

Rayder JVs came out on top in a close game 57-53. LaBlance had 21 and Tillen 12 in that contest.

Charlevoix now faces three more conference games, starting with Grayling Friday night. They host non-conference Onaway Tuesday. The Rayders can grab at least a co-title by winning their final three games.

Contest winners

James R. Ladd of Wixom, MI won first place in the Courier basketball contest and a $15 gift certificate missing only one game. Second place went to Kristen Ladd, also of Wixom, who won a three-way tie with Jim Buchanan and Harry Ladd of Charlevoix by coming closest on the tie breaker. She wins a $10 certificate.

County's first full-time probation officer reports to Board

by PEG OHLE

One of the cubby-hole offices in the County Building was taken over last October by Laurie L. Howell, the County's first full-time District Court Probation Oficer.

Mrs. Howell reported to the County Board of Commissioners last week on the accomplishments of the Probation Department during 1981 and some of the plans she has made for the coming year.

In all, Mrs. Howell and her part-time predecessor made 89 pre-trial investigations of law violators at the request of the District Judge. Seventy-six of these were men and 13 were women.

Following the pre-trial investigations, 66 of the violators were fined, 61 were put on probation, 21 were jailed, four received deferred sentences, and four were sentenced under Section 7411 (for possession of marijuana, this is much like a deferred sentence. The offender will not have a court record if he meets all the Court's stipulations over a period of time). In most instances, the offender received two or more types of sentences.

At the beginning of 1981, there were 79 probation cases pending in Charlevoix County. During the year, 188 new cases were added and a total of 128 cases were discharged. Therefore, at the beginning of 1982, there were 139 active cases pending. In addition to these cases, there were 16 deferred sentencing cases and 11 of the 7411 cases pending.

The ten most common offenses for which persons were put on probation were impaired driving, assault and battery, larceny under $100, driving while under the influence of liquor, malicious destruction of property under $100, disturbing the peace, possession of marijuana, being a disorderly person, impaired driving second offense, and entry without permission.

Persons on District Court probation in Charlevoix County during 1981 were referred to several different agencies for counseling, including alcohol counseling, drug counseling, alcohol highway safety classes, and personal counseling. They went to such places as Chip Counseling Center, the Halfway Home in Petoskey, the Michigan Indian Outreach Center, and Alcoholics Anonymous.

Most probationers also paid fines as part of their sentences. A break-down of distribution of these monies show that Court Costs of $18,094 was kept in Charlevoix County to help run District Court, $5,663 was kept in the County for distribution to libraries within the County; $2,904 was returned to the County as restitution for court appointed attorneys; $6,865 was turned over to injured persons for restitution in such cases as assault and battery, larceny, and malicious destruction of property; and $3,825 was paid to the County by probationers at the rate of $10 a month each to help pay for the upkeep of the Probation Department.

Many probationers who cannot pay fines are placed on the County Work Program as part of their sentencing. The City of Boyne City received 55 days of free service under this program last year, the Petoskey Humane Society, eight days, and the Charlevoix County Jail, six days. All three of these bodies are especially receptive to using this kind of help, according to Mrs. Howell.

"This program can be a savings to the County in dollar amounts because it takes the place of jailing and frees the Sheriff's Department to be used in other areas more effectively," she added.

The trolley proposed for Charlevoix.

Charlevoix may have unique trolley service this summer

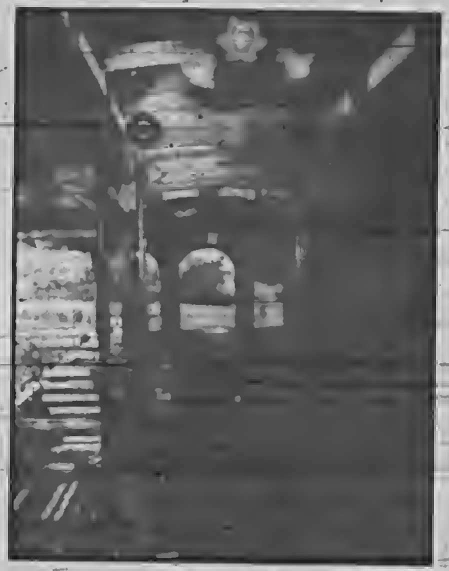
In an attempt to ease the downtown parking squeeze and add a touch of color to the Charlevoix scene summer, the Beaver Island Navigation Company, owners of the Bay Queen dinner boat, may intitiate a trolley service in the area this summer.

The proposed trolley would come from the Naples (Fla.) Transit Company. Twenty-six feet long, the trolley can accomodate 30 passengers sitting and 16 standing. It can be used for both highway travel and extended stop and go operation.

Space for advertising will also be available on both the inside and outside of the trolley, according to Ann Hendricksen of the Bay Queen office.

Ms. Hendricksen said that potential uses of the trolley might include transporting Bay Queen customers to and from outlying areas to relieve the shortage of parking near the downtown Bay Queen dock. She also said it could be used to give short tours around the Charlevoix area featuring the unique architecture and scenic beauty of the community.

The design of the trolley is fashioned after a turn-of-the-century motif, similar to the tradional trolleys that used to run through many cities, with an ornate interior of finished wooden benches.



A look at the quaint interior design.

Creative juices flow freely at library writing workshop had I ever left the spaceship to explore the strange jungle 300,000 light years from my own planet?

I tried to remain calm but I kept wondering if the planet was inhabited and whether or not my life-support system would last long enough for me to get unlost.

Megan Friedly is only 6, but from the pencil of this babe came,

"If I had a Brontosaurus for a pet, I would not take him for a walk, he would take me.

Characters make the reader feel as if he is really a part of the story. We identify with characters if they are believeable. Marty Joy, 11, tells about the two main characters in his story, "The Schnooner":

Sean who was a cautious, intelligent soul, didn't want to venture any further to the eerie, aged ship. Joe, on the other hand, was daring and would do anything for excitement.

Marci Center, 10, described the parents in her story by their actions:

I brought a special friend back with me (from her trip through the Galaxie) to meet my parents. Luckily my mother wasn't home or she would probably have fainted. When I introduced my friend from Jupiter to my dad, he jumped to the ceiling and wouldn't come down.

And could Tim Henne, 9, have been giving the reader an insight into his own personality when he wrote about his character Billy?

The argument lasted for over an hour. I don't know how I lost. I was good at things like that.

Introducing the plot can be a little more complicated for the novice. Here the problem or conflict should be described, so as to get the reader involved in its resolution.

Heather Dietrich, 10, attempted:

I saw a cat's heaven. I saw turkey cooling and mashed potatoes and cranberry sauce. I didn't mean to, but I jumped up and crash! went the turkey onto the floor.

Dawn Edwards aged 10½ had also been visiting outer space:

When the creature came in the house, he had a laser beam. At dinner time, when Mom finally came to the dinner table, she reached for the ham and the creature made it disappear.

And Mary Baillargeon, 9, makes the reader wonder what's going to happen as she introduced her plot:

One fine day, a girl named Kira and her horse, Marie, were taking a walk in the pasture. In it there was lots of grass and a few trees. When all of a sudden Marie fell to the ground.

Most beginning writers either work a story to death in the main part, or leave it out completely in their haste to reach a conclusion. A few who stopped to do justice to the "body of the story" were:

Web Friedly, 9, in his story about a boy who "had a wish to top all whishes," which turned out to be shrinking to the size of an ant. Web followed through well with the experience of shrinking, then returning to normal size.

Kristen Joy, 10, told a gripping tale of a boy who became the hero of his town by saving the townspeople from imprisonment by strange outer space beings.

Jennifer Kelly, 9, described an unusual predicament when she told about the day a crocodile swam out of the faucet and landed with Johnny in the bathtub, brush in hand!

The climax is, of course, the height of the story's action. Pat McKay, 10, in his story of intrigue involving two characters, Bill and Marion, who live on top of Mount Junkcap with other inhabitants called "Uglys" make the reader sit up and take notice:

Bill was cleaning off the very last strand of cobweb, when he heard the Ugly's screams. He ran out with a can of Raid and killed off all the spiders.

The Ugly was so grateful that he turned into a human being.

Then there was Kate Christensen's providential owner of a kitten who saves little pussy from a "goo bear" just as the latter was about to do him in:

...just as the bear was about to scoop up the kitten, her master drove up the drive and got out of the car as fast as he could and ran up to the goo bear and kicked him. Well, goo bears have feeling too, so he went yelping away.

Melanie Ross, 16, recalled her first time being left alone in her house when she was younger. It is easy to identify with the climax:

I heard a bang! and then a voice that said, "Good evening my friend."

The aftermath of a story sort of wraps things up, in layman's terms. Tonya Gruenewald, 10, says in succinctly:

If you do invent something, heed my warning. It may be bad luck!

In "The Fieldwalk's Mysterious House", a mystery by Karen Arnold, 10:

Susan, you've done a fine job. You deserve a hero medal.

Amy Tunnison, 9, concluded her "Journey into the Future", by ending with the twist:

And that's why I'm late for dinner, Mom.

Finally, the bow on the wrapped package, the title. The writer can name it after the story is written or reconsider the title he thought appropriate at the outset.

"A Few of my Many Fears" was the title of Erin McGarry's (9) story in which she worries, among other things about her family's dying from a lack of cookies.

Then there was Lisa Dixon's, 9, "Mary Jane Picks the Wrong Cave." (She sure did. It was a bear's cave and not a good place to take a nap).

Kallie Washburn, 9, in "My Egg", tries in vain to lay one herself before her story is through.

There were no ideas at the workshop that couldn't be scrambled around a bit to work themselves into a pleasing story. Every student has something of value to offer and to share.

Betty Henne preaches love for the written word

Teacher Feature

by ANNE KELLY

"I think literature was meant to be read aloud," commented Betty Henne. This statement is more or less a motto by which she lives, personally, as an individual who loves to read herself, as a mother of three school age (one pre-school) sons, and as a teacher in the English department at Charelvoix High School.

Betty's love of literature is apparent as she describes her role as a parent, first of all.

"We do a lot of reading in the evenings at home," Betty explained. No evening T.V. is a rule broken by only periodic exceptions. The family reads, sings along with Dad, Bill Henne, on the guitar and often puts on plays or skits for their own enjoyment.

"We have a tape recorder," she continued, "and the kids spontaneously write and act out original stories and plays."

The combination of Betty, who is actively involved with literature and Bill who enjoys participating in the theater and singing songs in the spirit of his Irish ancestry, provides a stimulating atmosphere for creativity. The Hennes own 50 acres of land, mostly woods and meadows on the Boyne City Road. Their farm is "a place where we're attempting to become self-sufficient." A wood stove, the renovation of a farm house, a garden and land to enjoy both summer and winter is something both Betty and Bill, an environmentalist with the Health Dept., have come to treasure in the twelve years they have lived in Charlevoix.

Betty holds a B.A. degree from Central Michigan University in American Literature and American History and an M.A. in Library Science also from Central. She has taught off and on for the past 16 years in various locations in both northern and southern Michigan and has been with the Charlevoix Public Schools since 1970, teaching on both the high school and middle school level. Since she has been with the high school staff, Betty has taught every subject in the high school English Department. And she has done that with dedication, one feels, as she describes her love of literature.

Betty would like to see children surrounded with books of every kind, on every subject and be doing lots of reading. "I think if we could just have that, our students could be independently educated," Betty philosophized.

The emphasis in the classroom is to give her students exposure to a variety of types of literature. Her classes deal with authors and their works, research skills, speech and oral interpretation and much reading of course. If she could identify with any special technique it would be that of introducing her students to the beauty of language through reading.

July and August of 1982 hold special appeal for Betty, as she and Bill anticipate a trip to Ireland, where she plans to attend a 3 week International Reading Conference is Dublin. A friend and colleague once advised her not to wait until she retired to travel, and Betty is heeding that advice with the hopes of sharing the fruits of her travel with her students.

"Bill teases me," Betty laughed, "that on my tombstone will be engraved: 'She was a lover of the written word.'"

Perhaps said in jest, this is a reassuring reflection on Betty Henne the English teacher and how she feels about her chosen career.

Betty Henne

COUNCIL MINUTES

February 8, 1982
8:00 P.M.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time in a Special Council Session with Mayor Staley Presiding.

Present: Councilmembers Morris, Block, Porter, Timms, Roloff, and Wood. Absent: None

Greg Shadko, a member of the General Public present, voiced an objection to local talent not being given a chance to bid on the design of the proposed City storm sewer project and stated that he could design the project for less money than either Granger Engineering or McNamee, Porter, and Seelye, the two firms that had been asked to bid on the design. The City Manager stated that professional service contracts are not bid out as a rule and that the two firms which had been contacted both have in-depth knowledge of this project and the City has had favorable experience with them in the past. Council reviewed the following proposals for engineering services on the proposed storm sewer project:

	Granger	McNamee, Porter, Seeyle
Basic Design	$13,290	$10,000
	a	b
Gen'l Eng. During Construction (4 months)	$4,100	$3,000
SUBTOTAL	$13,390	$13,000
	c	d
Inspection (4 months)	$12,400	$10,000
Staking	$1,650	$500-$900
TOTAL	$27,440	$23,500-$23,900

NOTES
a. Minimum $3,630
b. 3 months: $2,250; 5 months: $3,750
c. 2 months: $7,720
d. more than 4 months, $2,500/month additional

At the recommendation of the City Manager, it was generally agreed to consider awarding only the contract for the basic design of the project at this time and to retain the option to exercise the remainder of the bid at a later date as some of the work may be able to be performed by City employees.

Moved by Councilman Morris and supported by Councilman Timms to award the contract for the basic design of the City's proposed storm sewer project to McNamee, Porter, and Seeyle at a cost of $10,000.00.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Morris, Porter, Timms, and Wood. Nays: Councilmembers Block and Roloff. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilwoman Roloff and supported by Councilman Porter to accept the job description for the position of City Fire Chief as prepared by the City Manager with one amendment which would add the phrase "insure readiness of department personnel and equipment" to the list of the Chief's duties and responsibilities.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Morris, Block, Porter, Timms, Roloff, and Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Betty Potter

Library workshop will feature Betty Potter on 'Birds'

by ANNE KELLY

If books are a first love for elementary school librarian Betty Potter, then nature in general and birds in particular run a close second. Her interest was whetted when she herself, a student in a rural school in Grand Ledge, made bird books from her observations of the species which displayed themselves outside her classroom window. Then, as her own children were growing up, the nature study continued. At one point Betty planned to make a nest collection into a museum of sorts. Today, she and her husband observe and enjoy many Michigan species of wild birds on their property on the Marion Center Rd. They are in the process of building a home from lumber felled on their own land.

How to feed birds, what to feed them, how to recognize the various species and point them out to friends are some of the points of interest to be shared with young enthusiasts at the next "workshop for kids," offered through the Charlevoix Public Library. Children will see how a human can make the birds eat right out of their hands...ala peanut butter and bird seeds (or just seeds). They will also be making their own bird feeders to take home. This workshop is recommended for students ages 6 - 9 and will be held Saturday, Feb. 20, from 11 to 12 p.m.

Betty was a "pioneer" teacher in the old Horton Bay one room school house in 1947, complete with about 30 students grades K through 7 and the proverbial outdoor "privy". She has taught in various capacities with the Charlevoix schools since 1966 and has been the elementary school librarian for the past three years.

Loper scholarship established at CHS

A special scholarship fund, to be known as the Arnold Loper Award Fund, has been established at the Charlevoix High School as a memorial to the man whose name it bears, an avid sports supporter who died Feb. 2 after a long bout with Hodgkins disease.

The scholarship will be awarded to a high school senior who plans to continue his education in a higher institution of learning. To be eligible, the student must have participated in a high school sports program and have a need of assistance in order to continue his or her education.

The fund will be administered by an advisory committee composed of a member from administration, the coaching staff and the Charlevoix Sports Boosters.

It is the intent to finance the scholarship from the interest of the initial investment. A spokesman said that it is hoped the scholarship can be in the $300 to the $500 range.

Those wishing to contribute to the fund in memory of Mr. Loper may leave their contribution at the First State Bank, Charlevoix County State Bank, the Charlevoix High School or 104 E. Clinton St.

Jury rules for defense in PBB case; new trial may be sought

by TOM DAMMANN

An all-woman jury of six on Friday cleared the chemical company which manufactured PBB, the fire retardant accidently mixed with cattle feed, in the trial of a personal injury suit seeking some $650,000 in damages brought by a Charlevoix County farmer and his family.

In a vote of 5 to 1, the jury reached a verdict in favor of Velsicol Chemical Co., formerly Michigan Chemical Co., Farm Bureau Services Inc., and the Charlevoix and Ellsworth Coops, clearing them of any responsibility for the injuries, sickness and worries the plaintiffs charged they had suffered as a result of ingesting PBB in the meat and dairy products of their contaminated cattle.

The verdict wss given to Charlevoix County Circuit Court Judge Martin Breighner just before noon Friday at the end of three weeks of trial. The case went to the jury at sbout 3 p.m. Thursday.

Norwood dairy farmer Douglas Warner, his mother, Mrs. Grace Warner and his former wife, Marty Jo Aardema, of Ellsworth, were asking damages of $288,000 for Warner, $75,000 for his mother and $288,000 for Aardema.

Reached by phone several hours after the verdict was read, Grand Rapids Attorney Patrick Muldoon told the Courier "we definitely are considering filing motions for a new trial and will appeal the case if they are not granted."

The Warners' dairy herd was contaminated in 1974.

The next year Aardema became the first person in the state to have fat cut from her body for the purposes of determing whether or not she had PBB in her fat. The tests showed she had a little more than two parts per million of PBB. In five succeeding tests, since then, the level has remained about the same.

Warner also had fat biopsies and all three plaintiffs had periodic blood-tests which showed they still had PBB in their bodies.

The jury heard testimony from the Warners, Aardema and other witnesses to the affect that they had suffered joint pain, upset stomach, exhaustion, loss of sexual desire, which led to the Warners' divorce, and mental stress from concern about getting cancer or other illnesses from the PBB.

Dr. Walter Meester, director of toxicology and research at Blodgett Memorial Medical Center in Grand Rapids testified that while there appears to be no cancer in humans who have PBB in their systems now,

Planning workshop set

All area residents concerned with the development of the City of Charlevoix master plan are urged to attend an important workshop at 9 a.m. this Saturday, February 27 at the high school cafeteria. Results of the recently conducted citizen aurvey will be presented and discussed a will various "alternative futures" for the city. Among topics will be balanced growth, economic development and possibility of limited or no growth. Workshop participants will form teams to map out future land use in the city. Because of the crucial importance of the planning process to the future of Charlevoix, wide participation is being sought for Saturday's workshop. On hand will be several city officals along with representatives of the consulting firms working on the plan.

Increases in taxes, user fees proposed for 1882-83 budget

by DAVE KNIGHT

With revenue hard pressed to keep up with expenses, the City of Charlevoix finds itself with a budgetary dilemma not unlike just about every other level of government this year.

The proposed 1982-83 city budget was unveiled last week and came under close scrutiny Monday night when City Council members, meeting as a committee of the whole, entertained comments on the budget from city department heads and other interested citizens.

According to the proposal drafted by City Manager Robert Hunt and City Treasurer Robert Muma, Charlevoix will spend a total of $4,274,935 in fiscal 1982-83 while it can expect to receive $4,440,001 in revenue.

The total expenses proposed represent a 10.4 percent increase over last year's expenses of about $3.87 million.

Highlights of the suggested package include the creation of a new position, Public Works Director, and the elimination of the Depot Beach life guard, one swimming instructor and one equipment operator for the ice rink and cemetery.

A property tax increase of 1.5 mills is also part of the 1982-83 budget draft.

Major expenditure increases are proposed for the Fire, Police and Water Departments. The public safety increases are due, for the most part, to purchase of new equipment and increases in personnel expenses tied to upcoming union contract talks.

A 66 percent increase, up $52,000, is proposed for fire protection. This would include the purchase of a new 5" hose costing $8,650 and dedication of $10,000 toward a new truck. For the Police Department, a 19 percent, or $34,600, increase is sought which does not include funding for a foot patrolman requested for the summer by downtown merchants.

Increases in the Water Department are for such capital improvements as new, larger mains on West Dixon (to improve fire protection for LaCroft and the Dunes condominiums) and Eaton St. (to serve the large Northwest Marine project under construction). Funding for development of a new water source has also been included since the recent discovery of the industrial chemical TCE in the present city water supply. Test wells and water studies alone are budgeted for $25,000.

Personnel expenses, including salaries and benefits, for city employees not under contract are projected to increase by $36,000, up 10.6 percent over 1981-82. This is broken down to an 8 percent raise, a 2 percent increase in pension benefits and a 1 percent increase in other expenses such as social security.

To cover the expense increases, a $573,000 net increase in revenues is proposed.

The burden of generating the neccessary funds, heightened by the "New Federalism" concept of diminished state and federal revenue sharing, falls primarily on user fee increases though a tax increase is also in the picture. State and federal revenue sharing will decrease by $41,000, a drop of 10 percent.

If the budget proposal is followed, rates will go up for the municipal golf course, ambulance calls, Mt. McSauba summer day camp, swimming lessons and city dock space rental. Parking fines will go up. A user fee is suggested for the city ice rink as are rental fees for parking spaces at the Erber Building site.

Water and sewer rates were already boosted late last year and the increased revenue will show up in the new budget. Electric rates will show increases by this summer as a result of Consumers Power raising their wholesale cost.

Loss of CETA funds have also been felt; their elimination adds a $10,000 expense to the summer recreation program alone, even without the Depot Beach lifeguard and one swimming instructor.

The total increase in various user fees comes to $470,000, or, 18 percent.

That leaves $144,000 to be made up by a property tax increase of 1.5 mills. The increase would boost the total born by city taxpayers to 15 mills. That includes 12 mills for operating purposes, two mills for the water tower (authorized by voters in 1980) and one mill for stormsewer improvement (authorized by voters in 1981).

City Manager Hunt includes in the budget proposal several alternatives to both cut expenses and raise revenues. Having already eliminated $130,000 in General Fund expenses, Hunt says, "I am convinced that significant cost savings are not attainable without service reductions."

Hunt also provided in the proposal several optional expenses important to the city but not included in the budget in the interest of frugality. These include:

-$10,000 for repair of Pine River Channel

Plate sale is this Thursday

All Charlevoix city and township residents can expect to be called upon at their homes sometime this Thursday evening, February 25, when door-to-door sales of the "We Love Charlevoix" license plates will be conducted.

The license plate sale is being held to raise money for Operation Petunia, the proposed project to plant petunias along both sides Highway 31 all through Charlevoix.

Canvassing will begin at 5:30 p.m. Thursday when volunteers are asked to pick up plates and instructions at City hall.

Members of 23 area organisations will participate in the door-to-door sale. Those organizations include Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, the Boy Scouts, Business and Professional Women, Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild, Chamber of Commerce, Charlevoix Cancer Society, Charlevoix Democratic Club, Charlevoix Garden Club, Jaycees, Charlevoix County Republican Club, Sports Boosters, Charlevoix Yacht Club, Womens Club, Flying Club, Kiwanis, Lions, Masonic Lodge, Northwest Shrine, WKHQ, United Way, Charlevoix Merchants Association and the Charlevoix Ski Team.

Any individuals wishing to volunteer are asked to call Anna Bell Webb at 547-6315. Youngsters who participate will receive $2 gift certificates from the Pizza Hut. Refreshments will be available at City Hall following the campaign.

All residences in the city and township will be called upon between 6 and 8 p.m.; those residents who wish to purchase a plate may either leave a $5 check with a neighbor or order the plate by mail (Box 123, Charlevoix) for $6.

The four area car dealers, Kusina Motors, Fochtman Chevrolet, Village Car Care and Erber Auto, have offered to mount the plates free of charge and will donate the neccessary bolts brackets as well.

Bloodmobile coming to Charlevoix next week

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will visit Charlevoix from 1 until 7 p.m. Thursday, March 4, it has been announced.

The quota for the visit of the Bloodmobile which will be set up at the American Legion Post Home is 150 pints. This is higher than usual but the demand remains the same regardless of the weather. Unfortunately, snowstorms do not diminish the need fur the collection of blood and blood components even though many collection drives scheduled for January had to be cancelled. Those losses must now be made up thus the larger quota.

Previous donors will be contacted by a telephone committee urging them to make an appointment. Appointments, it was explained, are important as they help assure an even flow of donors throughout the day.

The men from the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite will be scheduled from 1 until 2 p.m.

Registered nurses are being recruited by Mrs. John Bradley to staff the Bloodmobile. Anyone wishing to volunteer in this capacity contact Mrs. Bradley. Anyone wishing to work in any other capacity at the Bloodmobile may call Mrs. Vernon Mathews, Jr., at 547-9896.

Big Rock receives safety awards

For the fifth consecutive year employees of Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point nuclear power plant have earned the utility's top recognition for safety, the President's Award.

Big Rock employees will again share the award with employees from the Company's Palisades and Midland nuclear plants. This is the second year the firm's Nuclear Operations has competed as a group. Previously, each plant competed as a single unit.

Big Rock has won the President's Award in 1977, 1978, 1979 and 1980. And the facility has completed four years without a lost-time injury. On January 18 of this year, Big Rock employees completed one-million man hours without a lost-time injury. The last lost-time injury was on August 3, 1977. In addition, in 1981, Big Rock Point did not have an injury which required any medical treatment. This is the first time a generating plant within the Company has accomplished this feat and only the second time any unit within the history of the Company has reached this type of milestone.

Big Rock Point had a Safety Performance Index (SPI) of .000 in 1981. This is the lowest SPI possible. Nuclear Operations finished the year with a winning SPI of .879 – a 70.48 percent improvement over 1980's performance. The lower the index, the better the performance. The index is determined under a formula which computes man-hours worked, number of medical cases, and severity of injuries and traffic accidents.

The President's Award was developed in 1948 as a part of the Company's accident prevention program. Its purpose is to stimulate enthusiasm for safety on-the-job, at home and on the highways.

The award was presented today during ceremonies at the plant. John D. Selby, the Company's chairman of the board, made the presentation.

Plant Superintendent, C.J. Hartman, lauded employees for their individual efforts and their enthusiastic teamwork in preventing injuries.

He also noted the importance of such a safety performance particularly at a time when employees, along with the Company, the nuclear industry and the public, demand greater emphasis on safety in the nuclear field.

"The employees at Big Rock continued to represent efforts being made to maintain overall safety in such a technical and demanding field," Hartman said.

"Devil's Invention"

A lesson from the past...

Almost a century has passed since Silvio Dolza heard a Sicilian clergyman assail the steam engine as the "devil's invention."

History, of course, has proven the clergyman wrong. But time hasn't erased the sermon from John Dolza's memory, for his father – Silvio – stressed it as an example of the dangers of ignorance and superstition.

"God made fire the enemy of water," the clergyman warned. "Great fires will make water disappear. He made water the enemy of fire, indeed, much water will kill a fire. The men that try to marry fire and water in engines are sacrilegious and are working against God."

"To us it sounds ridiculous, but the opposition to modern things of most of the Sicilian leaders proved to be a very, very serious handicap for many years," John Dolza says.

The lesson accompanied Dolza and his engineering skills when he immigrated to the United States as a young man. He worked for General Motors for many years, then began Dolza International Engineering. Credited with more than 120 inventions, he lives in Fenton.

Through his 80 years Dolza has seen countless technological changes. But although the machines change, nuclear power is on the energy front that steam power held a century ago – Dolza sees a disheartening similarity between his father's time and today's fight against nuclear power.

"The opposition to nuclear power is very, very harmful," he says. "With the price of imported energy, keeping these nuclear plants from being completed is just plain criminal."

He points out that Italy paid a high price for a similar mistake long ago, when 10- and 15-year-old children were forced to work in underground sulfur mines.

"These youngsters died of tuberculosis caused by malnutrition, no ventilation in the tunnels and sulfur dioxide," he says. Meanwhile, American ingenuity found a way to inject steam into the ground, melt the sulfur and make it float through nearby wells to aboveground collectors. This technique, besides discarding the dangerous child labor, was more economical.

John Dolza

In Italy, however, prejudice against steam power blocked the new technology. The opposition killed Italy's sulfur industry.

"When I see on television mostly young people opposing nuclear power plants, I realize with great sadness that ignorance is just as serious today as a century ago," he says.

"Imported oil is making us poorer and poorer, and the money spent abroad comes back to buy off our land and its resources. Oil for power stations will be even more prohibitive in the future than now.

"I've never seen anything so safe or so respectful of its surroundings as nuclear energy. I think the developers have to be congratulated for a step forward," Dolza says.

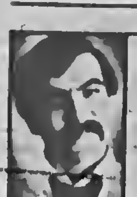
"If we are to follow the antinuclear power plant logic, then we would all go back to nature and live in caves.

"Nuclear power does not put smoke into the atmosphere. It does not put sulfur dioxide into the atmosphere. It does not put dust into the atmosphere. We need nuclear energy.

"It would show the future financial disaster if this nation permits itself to lose its muscles by accepting the intimidations of ignorance."

This advertisement, which is paid for by the share holders of Consumers Power Company, is based on a letter from Mr. Dolza to John D. Selby, chairman of Consumers Power Company.

Opinion



Knight on the Town

Fond farewell

by Dave Knight

Well, he's gone.

Known variously in the neighborhood as the Horned Prince of the North Side, Doctor Dump and Bob Barker, my faithful canine companion of some four and half years has gone on to the green (and soon to be greener) pastures of a new family.

Swifty is his real name.

He got it when, at the tender age of eight weeks, he came home from the kennel and proceeded to knock over one Boston fern, one scented candle and a glass of beer in the space of an hour.

He was acutally not that less coordinated than many of my other friends at the time.

Noting his paws which were the size of saucers, everyone said he was going to be a big dog, a good hunter and an impressive watchdog. They were right on one count, anyway.

For a golden retriever, Swifty is a fine specimen of the larger strains of the species. He is barrel-chested, barrel-stomached and barrel-butted. That's probably because he eats a barrel of food a week.

But he is anti-gun. The first time I took him out, I no sooner had popped at some squirrels with a .22 in our back woods than he was in the house and under the dining room table, more hyper than a treed possum. My wife thought I'd shot at him.

And as a watchdog, he's got some shortcomings. Oh, he watches trespassers just fine. Then he runs up and licks them. Anybody planning on burglarizing Swifty's territory better be prepared to be grossed out.

I'll miss the friendly golden retriever network in Charlevoix. Goldens, like most other dogs, get the urge to roam on occasion. We would often get calls from people who had found one and many times it was indeed Swifty. But when it wasn't, we would just refer the caller to a list of golden owners we had posted right by the phone.

Unfortunately, wives, babies and doggies don't always mix. In this case, I decided to keep the wife and baby.

Swifty has a wonderful new home that will provide him with his greatest love, children. He grew up at a 4-H camp and specializes in youth development.

It's always hard to part with a friend, especially one that doesn't owe you money. But the memories have been worth it and maybe someday I'll get another clumsy dog. Anyway, by then the baby will have taken care of all the breakables in the house.

Clockwise

Reagan the dreamer

by Bob Clock

POOR RONALD REAGAN! I think the fellow means well, but he sure has a way of alienating loyal supporters everytime he opens his mouth.

Take his New Federalism, for example.

New Federalism, as I understand it, is Reagan's scheme to turn over to the states those social welfare programs which the Democrats have propagated in Washington lo! these many years.

The reason they were spawned on the federal level is the fact that only the federal government, with its formidable taxing power, was able to afford them.

If such programs are turned over to the states, you can be sure many of them will dry up and blow away — something I am sure Reagan must realize. Dumping them on the states could be a back-handed way of getting rid of them once and for all.

Which is all well and good, unless you happen to be on the receiving end of one of the programs. Then New Federalism doesn't appear so red hot.

Reagan, I believe, is living in some kind of dream world in which all of his fellow citizens are self-sufficient individuals, providing for themselves and their families single-handedly, meeting and conquering life's storms with grit and determination, saving their pennies for a comfortable retirement in their old age.

It's a beautiful dream — but little more.

Reagan doesn't seem to understand that society has changed since his boyhood days. Thanks to computers and automation, the workaday world has become so highly technical that millions upon millions of Americans are no longer equipped for any kind of employment.

The simple, bull-labor jobs of yesteryear — digging ditches, hoeing potatoes, building roads, cutting wood — have disappeared in a cloud of dust raised by draglines, cultivators, bulldozers, chain saws, automatic transfer machines and the ubiquitous computer. And someone — somewhere — has to provide sustenance for those poor, bewildered fellows who once performed these tasksaod would still be performing them today if such jobs existed.

Retraining programs are fine, but it is a grim fact of life that millions of us will never be equipped to function in a highly technological society. Yet we must eat, we must have homes, we must be clothed, and we must be allowed to liveout our days with hopeand dignity.

Instead of trying to turn back the clock, a wiser course for America would be to own up to the fact that a certain percentage of the population will never again be self-supporting, and to include the care and feeding of these unfortunates in our national budget — just as Reagan's new budget provides for nuclear bombs and chemical warheads.

Reagan would have us believe that the states, with their limited taxing powers, are somehow better able to care for their indigents than the federal government.

He is dead wrong, of course; but who is going to tell him?

Letters: Come to the workshop

Letter to the Editor:

As a member of the Charlevoix City Planning Commission, I would like to urge everyone to attend the workshops being held by the City on the Master Plan, now being developed. It is our city, and if we don't make our feelings known, a few people will decide the direction our city will take. I, for one, think we who live in Charlevoix have an awful lot to be proud of. This is the reason people keep coming here, year after year. I think that most of us choose to live here because of the small town feeling, with its beauty and charm. If we want to retain these qualities, we have to make our feelings known to those on the Planning Commission and the City Council who represent us. Those people who want to change Charlevoix into a higher density type of living, will certainly be at the meetings and make their feelings known. Now is the time to become involved, not when a multiple housing unit is proposed for your neighborhood. As I understand the plan now being developed, it will support a mixed typed of housing units for all neighborhoods. Once the Master Plan is adopted, the developers who want to build condominiums or other multiple family housing in your neighborhood, will have a legal basis to do so, if it is shown in the Master Plan. I fear it will destroy the single family and low density type of neighborhoods we now enjoy. If a majority of the people want this type of change, then it will happen. If you want to know more about the Master Plan and want to have a say in what will happen to your city in the next few years, please attend the workshops, write your council person, or your planning commission members. The more input of ideas we have as a Planning Commission, the more chance we have of ending up with a Master Plan for the kind of City we want. I, too, want to have a good economic base for our City, but I don't feel the City's character has to be changed to get a better economy. The entire country is having economic problems, but Charlevoix has something that most other cities don't have. We have a beautiful city, good hard working people and the small town character, which brings tourists back year after year. Let's work to keep these qualities. The next workshop will be Saturday, February 27, at 9 a.m. in the City Hall. See you there!

Thank you,
Barb Fels

PBB trial

he fears PBB "will cause cancer in humans."

He emphasized that PBB's target is the liver and that it may be 20 to 25 years before cancer is discovered in the liver as a result.

Defense attorneys hammered away at the fact that there is no cancer in humans now and no proof that there will be.

At the beginning of the trial the eight attorneys involved prodded by Judge Breighner worked out an agreement that Velsicol and Farm Bureau Services do not contest that PBB "did find its way" onto the Warner farm and into the bodies of their cattle and themselves.

However, they reserved the right to contest that PBB did harm.

Defense attorneys, led by Grand Rapids lawyer Thomas McNamara representing Velsicol, stressed that there is no proof that PBB causes cancer and emphasized that the doses of PBB administered to laboratory rats which caused liver cancer in 46 percent of them were 4000 times greater than that ingested by the Warners.

Lansing Attorney Kenneth McIntyre, representing Farm Bureau Services Inc., disclosed that the Warners had been paid $225,000 in settlement for their claims resulting from the destruction of their 220 head herd of contaminated dairy cattle.

McIntyre insisted the release the Warners signed in June 1975 upon receiving the money covered any claims of personal injury. Muldoon and the Warners said it did not.

The Courier has learned from a source close to the matter that the release played a vital role in the verdict.

After reading it carefully and thinking it over Thursday night the majority of the jurors interpreted one clause of the release as meaning that in the event the Warners got cancer of some other disease they could sue Farm Bureau Services for damages.

During an interview with the five jurors who voted in favor of the defendants, they told the Courier "the door is still open for them further down the road, if somebody gets sick. We didn't close any doors."

In his closing arguement to the jury, Thursday, McNamara played upon the fact that the Warners were trying to get damages for something they fear will happen to them.

"You can say we cannot give you an award," he advised the jurors. "We don't know. It's too early."

Muldoon said in his rebuttal, "It's the fat levels that count. These people are being monitored for cancer. No one should be the ultimate contamination pit for PBB."

LaLeche will begin series of four discussion meetings on March 9

The Charlevoix Chapter of the LaLeche League will begin a series of four discussion meetings over a period of four months beginning Tuesday, March 9, it has been announced.

The meeting, like all others, will be held at the United Methodist Church in Charlevoix at 10 a.m. The topic for discussion will be "The advantages of breast-feeding to both mothers and babies". The meetings are open to all women interested in breast feeding their babies. Babies are welcome to attend with the mothers. More information may be obtained by calling Jenny Bellairs at 547-8255 or Jan Vanderwall at 536-7252.

LaLeche League International, a mother's self-help group devoted to the art of breast-feeding, celebrated its silver anniversary in 1981.

Today more than 50 per cent of this country's newborns are started at the breast with the majority of those babies nursing through the first half-year of their life. With so many mothers and babies sharing a breastfeeding relationship, the need for LaLeche League groups is clear.

LaLeche League International operates with no governmental support and relies primarily on volunteers. It offers a Board of Medical Advisors to its certified leaders who function primarily on a mother-to-mother basis. League meetings are open to all women and deal not only with the art of breastfeeding but also with some of the day-to-day challenges faced by parents in the 1980's.

The history of the LaLeche League dates back to a time when seven women began a neighborhood organization to share their experience in breastfeeding. At the time they had no idea that their idea would grow into an International organization which monthly reaches 100,00 women in 43 countries.

Ray Lavoie joins Social Services youth program

by PEG OHLE

Ray Lavoie has joined the Charlevoix County Department of Social Services as director of the Youth Diversionary Activities Program.

The new social worker has been a substitute teacher in the Charlevoix area schools for the last two and a half years as well as a basketball coach in the Middle School. In addition, he has taught in schools in three Iowa towns, all of which gives him several years of experience in working with young people.

The Youth Diversionary Activities Program, which is funded by the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners, is focused on diverting pre-delinquents and-or first offenders from the juvenile justice system. It is based on the belief that if these young people can be kept out of the court system, with its resultant stigma, by involving them in the Diversionary Program, many young lives can be straightened out.

During its first three years of operation, approximately 200 young people were referred to the Program, 165 of them for criminal or status offenses. The latter includes such things as curfew violations, running away, incorrigibility, loitering, etc. Criminal offenses could include crimes against property if it is a first offense — shoplifting, vandalism, breaking and entering. Crimes against persons are not included unless the act is minor, i.e., bullying or fighting with neighbors. Truancy is not included unless it is combined with another offense or all local resources have been exhausted.

Under other circumstances, these 165 young people would have gone through the Juvenile Court process. They were boys and girls between the ages of eight and 17 who did not have previous court involvement and were not on probation. They were referred by local police agencies, juvenile court, the prosecuting attorney, other public agencies, school administrators, neighbors, family, or by themselves. In some cases, they had not committed a crime of any kind — it was just feared they were headed that way, and the Diversionary Program kept them out of trouble.

Among the services rendered through the Program are counseling, crisis intervention, coordination with other agencies, and Hire-A-Teen job service.

Charlevoix County has budgeted $17,042 for Youth Diversionary Activities during 1982. This includes the salary of the director as well as his mileage, office supplies, printing, and similar expenses. The Department of Social Services provides office space and telephone service.

"We try to keep the expenses down as much as possible," Vasco Zuchlatti, of Social Services explained. "And when you think you are keeping kids out of foster homes, that's a big saving because the County now has to pay 50 percent of the costs of foster home care."

Ray Lavoie should relate well to the young people who are referred to him. He grew up on Long Island and attended Iowa Wesleyan College on a football scholarship, majoring in physical education and minoring in science and guidance. He likes to fish and play softball and basketball.

He and his wife, Sandra, have two children — Richie, five, and Shannon, three. They live in Charlevoix and have a rock shop in Petoskey which Shannon operates.

Cagers cruise to two more victories

The Charlevoix Rayders started what should be an easy coast through the tail end of their schedule with two convincing wins last week, one of them a Winter Homecoming victory over Grayling, 78-64, and the other a non-conference 69-43 drubbing of Onaway.

In the Tuesday night game against Onaway, junior forward Craig Klooster and senior Gary Drury accounted for eight and six points respectively in the first quarter to help Charlevoix establish a 14-10 lead by the end of the quarter, a lead they were never to lose.

At halftime it was Charlevoix up by a 28-22 margin. In the third quarter, the Rayders virtually ran away with the game, outscoring Onaway 27-8 and giving Rayder substitutes a 55-30 lead going into the final quarter. They went on to the 69-43 win with Drury ending up with 17 points and Klooster 14. Mike Loper and George Smith both had nine. Rick McDonald led Onaway with 15.

In JV action, Charlevoix completely buffaloed Onaway winning 60-28. Ten players scored for the Rayders led by Dane Tollas' 14 points.

Friday night's M-HSC action saw Grayling challenge the Rayders in the early going posting a 20-19 lead at the end of the first period following a last second shot. Klooster's 15 points in the second quarter ignited the Charlevoix offense, however, and the Rayders' defense did not allow a single field goal in the quarter. Any Viking hopes for an upset were thus doused as Charlevoix took a commanding 43-22 lead into the locker room.

At the end of three it was Charlevoix up 61-40 and the final was 78-64. Klooster had one of his personal best nights hitting eight shots from the floor and seven of nine from the line for a total of 23. Jim Buchanan added 14, Ross Carey 12 and Smith 11.

The Viking JV squad gave the Rayder understudies a scare in the preliminary game before Charlevoix eventually pulled out a 45-43 win. Tim LaBlance hit 14 for Charlevoix and Bill Tillen 12.

Charlevoix is now 14-3 overall and 10-2 in the conference which ties them with Boyne City for the M-HSC lead. The Rayders travel to Rogers City this Friday night.

Earlier in the week, the seventh grade had defeated the Petoskey seventh grade, 30-28, and the eighth grade had lost to Petoskey, 40-32.

The seventh grade's standing for the season is eight wins and one loss. The eighth grade won five and lost four.

In the final game with Boyne City, Charlevoix seventh graders jumped to a 10-2 lead and saw it trimmed to 14-10 at halftime before being outscored 13-10 in the third quarter for a slim 24-23 lead going into the final period. The final score was 38-25 as they held Boyne City to two points while scoring 14.

Terry Bonar had 11 points and Kevin Shepherd 10 for the victors. Weeks had eight for the visitors.

In their game earlier in the week, the seventh graders had to come from behind after trailing Petoskey 10-5, 16-11 and 24-22 by quarters. The final score was 30-28. Bonar had 11 points. Beer 10 for Petoskey.

In their final game with Boyne City, Charlevoix eighth graders had a seesaw game that saw the visitors lead 6-4 before Charlevoix took over 12-10 at halftime only to trail 17-14 going into the final quarter. The team managed to outscore Boyne 10-2 to take the game by a score of 26-19 in the closing minutes.

Frosh add two more

The Charlevoix Rayder freshman basketball team added two more victories to its list during the week, defeating Central Lake by a score of 58-39 and Boyne City 57-33.

The Charlevoix team was to play at Cheboygan Monday.

In the game with Central Lake, the young Rayders led their opponents 16-11, 29-17 and 48-17 at the quarter marks after holding the visitors scoreless as the second half got underway.

John Pearl had 13 points and Brent Cole 10 for Charlevoix. Keigh Batterbee had nine for Central Lake.

The Bone City game was equally as one sided as the team put forth a fine team effort according to Coach Chuck Wright. The scoring was scattered as everyone played and most players scored.

Charlevoix paced the game, leading by scores of 16-8, 32-15 and 46-24 at the quarter intermissions.

Doug Sloan had 18 points for Charlevoix and Norm Howard 13 for Boyne City.

Rayder matmen qualify for Regional meet

The Charlevoix Rayder wrestlers qualified for regional competition by placing first and fourth in the Class C district competion at Pine Lake Saturday Coach Greg Bryan has announced.

They are Gregg Whitley, a senior in the 145 pound class who placed first and Alan Bergmann, a junior in the 167 pound class who placed fourth.

Whitley scored three winning matches before going against Frank Mason of Onaway in the finals and winning by a 13-6 score.

Bergmann finished fourth, winning two matches before losing his last two. Bryan pointed out that his opponents had been Przyhyla of Rogers City who finished first, Jeff Knight of Rogers City, second and Frank Hale of Onaway, third with Bergmann, fourth, in the same order in which they had finished in Michigan-Huron Shores Conference competition.

"If they can finish in that order in the regional and the state meets it will certainly speak well for our league" Bryan said regarding the competition.

The pair will compete in the Class C regional meet at Lakeview Saturday.

Others and the classes in which they competed were Jim Harriman (98), Pat Curtis (105), Tim Young (112), Mike Steele (119), Rick Gallant (132), Joe Murphy (138), Jeff Zednicek (155), Scott Mervyn (185), and Shannon Reynolds (198).

The Charlevoix Rayder wrestling team lost to Traverse City by a score of 53-24 in the final dual meet of the season on Wednesday.

In the meet at Traverse City, the Rayders posted wins by pins in four of the 13 weight classes. Tim Young (112) won by a pin in 1:47; Joe Murphy (138) in 2:26; Gregg Whitley (115) in :33 and Alan Bergmann (167) in 1:38.

Other wrestlers and the results of their matches follow: Jim Herriman (98) lost by a pin in :49; Pat Curtis (105) lost by a pin in 3:55; 119 pound class lost by forfeit; Mike Steele (126) lost by a pin in 4:22; Rick Gallant (132) lost by a 23-4 decision; Jeff Zednicek (145) lost by a pin in 1:55; Scott Mervyn (185) lost by a pin in :38; Shannon Reynolds (198) lost by a pin in 3:07 and the heavyweight class was lost by forfeit.

The Rayder Junior Varsity squad scrimmaged the Traverse City and Gaylord JV squads.

Substance abuse counselor Bob Sell is next workshop speaker

by ANNE KELLY

Bob Sell

Bob Sell, Substance Abuse Counselor-Prevention Specialist for Chip Counseling Center will present the next "workshop for kids" sponsored by the Charlevoix Public Library this Saturday, Feb. 27, 11 a.m. - 12 noon. Bob hopes to focus this session on the positive, preventative aspects of drug and substance abuse. Questions like: "what to do in a situation where alcohol and drugs appear on the scene", and "how to be 'in' without giving in", will be posed and discussed. He will conduct "exercises" in problem solving situations that every middle schooler will face sooner or later. This workshop is recommended for all middle school age students grades 6, 7, and 8.

When and how does a parent help a child establish a health attitute towards the use of alcohol and drugs?

It's between birth and 5 or 6 years of age that a child develops his value system according to Bob. It is during those formative years that the child acquires values regarding the world around him and hopefully the positive self-image so necessary in coping with the extraneous influences which he will confront later in life. If this segment in his development is either neglected or distorted, if he learns confused values at home, there will probably be trouble later on.

When kids leave the influence of the home and enter school, they gradually learn to become influenced by their peers. The need at 8, 9, or 10, "to belong" is already very evident. There may be some contradictory values which arise at this point causing confusion.

By 11, 12, and 13, usually by the 6th and 7th grade, there may be some peer pressure to try smoking and drinking. Again, "it is the need to 'fit in' coupled with curiosity about these substances that causes decision making to be confusing and hurtful," Bob explained.

"I don't think there is an alcohol or drug abuse problem in our middle school", Bob spoke cautiously, if reassuringly. "However, I think that some 7th and 8th grade kids experiment, especially with alcohol."

By 16, alcohol is by far the drug about which to be concerned. This is because alcohol and beer are both socially acceptable and available.

"We take a hard line with our own kids," Bob continued. He and his wife Pat, are the parents of five children ages 3 weeks to 16. "Parental behavior and attitude is very important. The kids will model after their peers but we, as parents, have to monitor our kids."

Parents need to assert themselves and their guidelines as regards their values concerning language, smoke and drink.

"Kids need structure at all ages," Bob concluded. "As they get older the structure may broaden but shouldn't be abandoned. This is the parents way of showing love."

Other than the 1½ years Bob has been with Chip Counseling Center, he has served in various other capacities in the field of Drug and Substance control: he served as the former director of Substance Abuse Services for District Health Dept. No. 3. He holds a M.S. degree in Mental Health and Personal Counseling, a B.S. degree in Speech and Hearing Therapy. Bob has amassed over 200 hours of specialized training in the substance abuse field at Adelphi National Drug Institute, Ohio Drug Studies Institute and the Midwest Institute on Alcohol Studies.

This workshop is a "must" for kids who want to be in the know about the very important decisions they will be making in the near future regarding drugs, alcohol and how they feel about themselves.

California Boys Choir coming to area as part of concert series

The California Boys' Choir will be performing in Petoskey this Sunday. The choir, founded and directed by Douglas Neslund, with Robert H. Rogers, Co-Director, is composed of 26 Choirboys ranging in age from 10-15 years, who are selected from dozens of young Californians in the Choir's Training Program. The Concert Choir performs regularly with the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, the Los Angeles Master Chorale, Glendale Symphony and Pasadena Symphony. Visiting organizations often need Choirboys: The Joffrey Ballet, the American Ballet Theater, and the New York City Opera in its fall season at the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion of the Music Center of Los Angeles.

The talents of these youngsters will be on display Sunday February 28 at 8:00 p.m. in the Petoskey Middle School when they offer a concert sponsored by the Crooked Tree Arts Council.

Training classes are started for beginning boys in September and again in February, leading toward membership in the Concert and Touring Choirs. The Choirboys are exposed to singing in many languages, learning important cultural and historical aspects of each composition or opera studied, with particular emphasis on current performance practices.

The Choir is now celebrating its tenth anniversary. Choir headquarters are in the California State Museum of Science and Industry in Los Angeles, courtesy of William H. McCann, Museum Director.

The appearance of the California Boys Choir is part of the Northern Michigan Community Concert series sponsored by the Crooked Tree Arts Council.

A-95 reviews point up local dependence on federal funding

by PEG OHLE

The extent to which local units of government have become dependent upon federal funding is reflected in the "A-95 Reviews" considered by the Charlevoix County Planning Commission during 1981.

All agencies requesting federal assistance are required to follow a process known as A-95 Review. This function of the Planning Commission is to review each request for funding and recommend approval or denial, or take no action. The Planning Commission examined each request to determine if the use of the federal funds would result in duplication of services or otherwise be a poor use or misuse of public funds.

The Planning Commission made 16 A-95 Reviews. They are listed below with the name of the agency requesting the funding, the amount requested, and action taken by the Planning Commission.

East Jordan Health Center, $275,000, approved; Northern Michigan Health Systems, $372,970, approved; Boyne City Outdoor Recreation Program, $205,000, approved; East Jordan Housing Project, $724,000, approved; East Jordan Outdoor Recreation, $30,000, approved; City of Charlevois Coastal Management Grant, $30,000, approved.

Lorie Manker

Lorie Manker, like her fellow teachers out of the Char-Em Intermediate School District Special Services Office, is busy on the road much of the week. Lorie is a speech therapist in the Charlevoix Schools. Her official title is "teacher of the speech and language impaired". As such, Lorie services Charlevoix and Littlefield Schools, Fronton School for the severely mentally impaired, St. Mary's, Bergman Center and Beaver Island. She presently covers a school population of 2300 students of which her active case load is 62, and on a consultive basis, 16.

"Effective communication is the very basis of education," Lorie explained. "There is no education or growth without it."

Her role in this concern is to screen Kindergarten, first graders and new students each year and to work with all the students in her territory referred to their office by parents and teachers.

The types of problems that her discipline includes are: articulation, language, fluency, voice and hearing.

Until the last decade, speech therapy mainly dealt in the area of articulation. Recently the emphasis has been shifted to focus on language development and working with impared children who have been mainstreamed into the classroom but who still required help.

As a teacher of the speech and language impaired, Lorie is also part of a multi-disciplinary team which evaluates progress and discusses appropriate programming for kids. This team consists of, besides herself, a learning center teacher, a social worker, psychologist, teacher consultant and administrator.

Lorie holds a degree in speech pathology from Western Michigan University and an M.A. from Central Michigan University in Remedial Reading. She is presently doing course work through Central, earning certification in the area of the emotionally impaired and learning disabilities.

"I think it's important for people to know that we as teachers feel the importance of continuing our professional growth and training beyond getting a degree."

Lorie and her husband, Chuck, a former Methodist minister in Petoskey, currently owner and manager of a real estate franchise in Petoskey, reside there. They have four grown sons. Lorie enjoys the challange and variety of her job. The age and the handicap range of her clients, makes her job different every day. She feels a fulfillment working in the area of effective communication since it is a commodity that "is necessary for emotional adjustment and educational growth."

City budget

erosion damage which the Army Corps of Engineers contends the city must pay for.

-$5,000 to $10,000 to repair the sidewalk that is caving in near the Beaver Island Boat Company dock.

-$5,000 toward a new ambulance; at the rate funds are being reserved for a new ambulance, the city would not be able to buy one for about eight to 12 years which is longer than the present one will last.

-3,700 for the Chamber of Commerce; without this amount, it is doubtful the Chamber will be able to afford fireworks for the Venetian Festival.

-$13,000 for auxiliary power at all sanitary sewer lift stations as required by the state.

-$5,000 to $15,000 for landfill improvements required by the state.

-$4,000 for a summer police patrolman on foot.

-$5,000 for playground equipment.

-$21,500 for ice rink and cemetery services.

-$20,000 to $70,000 for a new billing computer to replace the present system which is near capacity and inefficient.

-$7,500 for a new police car.

-$5,450 for additional fire fighting equipment.

-$4,000 for a charter commission should the city and township progress to that step in the consolidation process.

Says Hunt of the arduous budget task, "Overall, preparation of this budget has been one of the more difficult tasks I have had to undertake. Despite increases in user charges and taxes, some services have had to be reduced and many necessary or desirable projects delayed or eliminated. In summary, the city is facing a cost squeeze; expenses are rising much faster than revenues."

The 1982-83 budget will be on the agenda of each City Council session until the formal public hearing and expected adoption on March 15.

Copies of the proposed budget are available for inspection at City Hall.

Port Huron-Mackinac race considering Chx.

by DAVE KNIGHT

Though he is mum on his sources for the time being, Charlevoix Mayor Kenneth Staley said this week that he has been contacted about the possibility of hosting the finish in Charlevoix of the Port Huron to Mackinac sailing race.

The event is one of the premiere sailing races on the Great Lakes and anoually attracts up to 300 participating boats.

Staley would not reveal by whom he had been contacted but said some serious consideration is being given to Charlevoix as a possible finishing point.

Sponsored by the Bay View Yacht Club, the race has traditionally finished at Mackinac Island but dissatisfaction with accomodations there has prompted organizers to seek a different finishing point.

Petoskey was seriously considered as an alternative last fall and that city went as far as to extend an official invitation to the yacht club. Problems with navigational aids eventually ruled that proposal out, however.

The race could mean a windfall for the city, according to Staley. Though estimates of a potential $1.4 million in increased business have been mentioned, Staley indicated that some firm committments would be neccessary before any serious consideration could take place.

Such factors as added public safety personnel must be weighed along with the benefits, said Staley.

The Port Huron to Mackinac race is held in mid-July which would be just before the annual Venetian Festival scheduled this year for July 22-25.

Staley pointed to the added exposure Charlevoix would receive as one potentially advantageous byproduct of hosting the race. The city's waterfront facilities have, in the past, been a key factor in attracting new businesses and industries.

The mayor will be soliciting as much public input as possible this week on the feasibility of inviting the race. He was scheduled to meet with area merchants Tuesday and said Monday night that any area residents wishing to express their opinion on the matter should contact him as soon as possible.

Budget cut in Chamber funding draws protest

by DAVE KNIGHT

Contending that the city says "no" to Charlevoix in its 1982-83 budget, several representatives of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce pleaded with City Council members Monday night to reinstate a proposed 42.5 percent cut in the chamber's funding by the city.

The current budget draft calls for appropriations to the chamber of $3,000. The amount requested for the coming fiscal year was $6,700. A major expense covered by the funding has traditionally been the Venetian Festival fireworks display which, according to chamber officials, may have to be eliminated if the city cuts its support as suggested.

In a letter to council members from Chamber of Commerce officers, the chamber's role as promoter of Charlevoix is stressed

"The State of Michigan has recognized that even in these troubled economic times, now would be the worst time to reduce the financial support and emphasis on tourism and promotion. The State of Michigan recently developed 'Say Yes to Michigan', a multi-million dollar promotional campaign to promote growth, tourism and interest in this state. We in the Chamber of Commerce also believe that now is the time to say yes to Charlevoix," read the letter in part.

Chamber president James McGarry told council members Monday night, "We recognize fiscal restraints but we need each other. To achieve our goal, we require the amount requested in our budget."

McGarry also pointed out that although its role has grown substantially in recent years, the Chamber's appropriation from the city has not. He cited a reliance on volunteer labor and increased membership as providing the neccessary funds.

Council member Jeffrey Porter supported the Chamber's request saying, "The Chamber is our advertising wing. We would be foolish to cut back on it now."

In another budgetary matter, a group of concerned north side residents appeared before the council to voice their objection to tha proposed elimination of the lifeguard position at Depot Beach on Lake Charlevoix.

Said Mary Lee Campbell, representing the group of about nine, "Our beaches are important both to city residents and summer visitors. They are important enough to keep the lifeguard at Depot Beach."

Petitions have already been presented to the council asking for reinstatement of the $2,200 part-time position.

Both the Chamber funding and lifeguard position will be taken up by the council at their work session Monday, March 8. The city budget was officially introduced Monday night and is expected to come before the council for ratification at its regular meeting March 15.

In other action this week, the council:

·Tabled until April a request by the Wayside Motel to be rezoned from R-1 residential to C-1 commercial.

·Approved a sideyard variance of six feet for Rose Mary Warner allowing her to build a garage on her property at 1111 Grant St.

ONE OF THE FIRST TEAMS IN for Thursday night's door-to-door license plate sale was Mrs. Nancy Fowler, right, and her daughter Meg. The Fowlers turned their results into Marilyn Boss, left. About 700 "We Love Charlevoix" license plates were sold by over 100 volunteers, including seven couples, according to project organizer Dale Boss. The funds raised will go toward the planting of petunias along Highway 31 through the city. Plates are still available at $5 apiece at Charlevoix County State Bank and First State Bank.

Does city need a public works director?

by DAVE KNIGHT

When the City Council rolls up its sleeves to hammer out the city's 1982-83 budget at a work session next Monday night, one item certain to come under close scrutiny is City Manager Robert Hunt's proposal for the creation of a new postion of public works director.

Tentatively budgeted at $25,000 a year, the proposed addition to the city's administrative staff has stirred considerable discussion since being included in a budget draft featuring various increased user fees, a 1 mill tax increase and some cutbacks in services.

The proposed budget also calls for the reduction of funds for the Chamber of Commerce and the elimination of a part-time summer lifeguard postion, a swimming instructor and an ice rink-cemetery employee.

Hunt is quick to point out, however, that these cuts from the city's general fund cannot be related to the addition of a public works director position.

He calls "fallacious" the contention that the Chamber support and above mentioned positions are being cut to allow funding for the new administrator.

"Only ten percent of the public works director's salary, five percent each from the major and local street funds, would be subsidized by the general fund," said Hunt, "Fifty percent of the salary would come from the electric department, 20 percent from water and 20 percent from sewer."

Does that mean another boost in utility rates which were just raised last year?

To the contrary, says Hunt, the increased efficiency and long range planning a public works director could provide may even result in lower customer rates.

"One of the reasons rates have had to go up so drastically is that so many major projects have been neglected over the past decade or so," says Hunt, "We are now having to pay for that neglect."

With a major stormsewer installation project coming up this summer, studies for a new water supply being conducted soon, fireflow problems having been discovered in some areas of the city and several alternatives for the purchase of electricity to study among other things, Hunt says the crunch is being felt sorely in his office.

"I won't last a year at this rate," says Hunt who has been on the job for approximately five months, "There are so many things I should be following up on such as grants and other programs the city should be taking advantage of but the way it is now I just don't have the time."

Hunt says he is currently working some 60 hours or more each week with over half of that time devoted to public works administration.

"The council tells me I am spending too much time in the office and I agree" he says. "Sometimes I feel like I'm in a dungeon. But until I get some relief, there's nothing I can do."

Under the job description proposed by Hunt, the public works

Many area supts. favor rewritten calendar

by SARA GAY DAMMANN

Should the school calendar be rewritten so students return to school in mid-August, have a four to six week vacation at Christmas time, skip spring vacation and begin summer vacation the first week of June?

For reasons of weather and education, many school superintendents in northern Michigan think this idea, or variations on it, worth pursuing.

The economics of operating schools in the historically harshest part of winter, when the greatest number of days are lost because of snow, argue in favor of the change, superintendents agree, according to Charlevoix School District Business Manager Vincent Olach.

By keeping the schools closed during most or all of January, savings would be realized in heating and other utilities, as well as snow removal, Olach reported.

Hugh Smyth, Superintendent of the Pellston Public Schools, located in one of the nation's most famous cold spots, has been suggesting a change to a two semester system of 90 days each, for the past five years.

"This year's weather has created more enthusiasm for the idea at the superintendent's level than past years," Smyth said in a telephone interview.

Smyth and fellow superintendents in the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, all said that any changes would have to be district wide, because of shared services.

"The idea is under discussion now with superintendents," Patricia Taylor, Assistant Superintendent of the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate District explained. "There is no time table for this, but the superintendents are taking it to their school boards and teachers for further discussion."

An alternative would be to change to a four day school week during January and February.

"Most of our snow days have been on Mondays because the county snow plows are not working Sunday due to their budget problems," Olach explained.

"If we went to a 4-day week, we'd add an hour to hour and a half to the school day," Olach continued, explaining that state law requires students to attend school 180 days for 900 hours of instruction. "A four day week might require legislative approval," Olach added.

Olach offered statistics supporting both change suggestions.

"Since 1974-75 school year we have had 37 snow days. In January there have been 21 snow days. Nine have been in February, 4 in March and 3 in December.

"Of all the snow days, 12 have occured on Mondays, 8 on Tuesdays, 4 on Wednesdays, 8 on Thursdays and 5 on Fridays," Olach reported for Charlevoix.

A survey of superintendents in the combined district showed considerable support for a change in the calendar, but no unanimity on the method.

Smyth at Pellston said that while the weather has given impetus to the idea, it is educationally sound.

"Our school calendar is based on a traditional agricultural society. Now less than 10 per cent of our population is agricultural," Smyth observed, pointing out few families still depend on their children to help on farms during the summer.

"Let's go to a meaningful educational system based on retention. We spend a month reviewing subjects at the end of the long summer vacation," Smyth continued, saying that in the 90 day semester plan, students would go to school for 90 days, taking four to six weeks off to digest what they have learned, returning for the next 90 days.

"This is a philosophically, economically and educationally sound idea," Smyth stated.

He received theoretical support from Dr. Frank Ronan, Superintendent of the Petoskey Public Schools.

"We are interested in a prolonged winter recess because it will likely produce greater opportunities for the students to be in school more consistantly, and it will save school districts funds in utilities, particularly heating," Ronan said.

Ronan also referred to "off-setting arguements," as did several other superintendents.

"Does it take away too much opportunity for high school students to get summer jobs to support their families or raise funds for college?" Ronan asked..

Richard Kelly, Boyne City Superintendent, who described himself as enthusiastic about Smyth's concept, raised other problems.

"Some districts would have problems negotiating this change because they have three year teacher contracts. Also, we don't want it to interfere with teachers in summer school, or student summer employment," Kelly outlined.

Kelly also suggested that while the schools might save money in utilities, the question has been raised if the public would incur more expenses in maintaining their children at home during the longer Christmas break, including their own utilities.

The superintendents interviewed said the idea was serious but still in the discussion stages. Most reported interest among school faculty.

Michigan Education Association Regional Director Len Staley said the idea had not been formally brought to the teachers. Staley pointed out that any multi-year teacher's contracts would have to be modified before the plan could be implemented. He cited several of the same problems as Kelly, while acknowledging the positive side of the idea.

Asked how soon any changes might be made in school calendars, Olach said, "It could be as early as the next school year, but it might take several years."

"This is in the talking and planning stage. We are asking 'What is best?' If we generate $1,000 savings in utilities are we costing taxpayers more in home heating? How could we arrange the curriculum? What do the teachers think? What about athletics?

"Any change must be universal in the district," Olach added. All the schools must play from the same sheet of music."

Harbor Springs Superintendent Jerome Allore, who described himself as "tending toward the idea," said "It has begun at the superintendent level, it must go the the school boards and union. The majority of superintendents tend toward it. But any time you have something on such a scale, with so many groups involved, it may be a couple of years off."

Austin will help kick off infant seat rental

Northern Michigan Hospitals has announced that Michigan Secretary of State Richard H. Austin will attend a kick off program for the hospital's new Operation: KIDSAFE, Wednesday, March 3, at 10:00 a.m. in the Little Traverse Division auditorium in Petoskey. He will explain Michigan's new Child Restraint Seat Law (P.A. 117) and his office's role in encouraging use of restraint seats by all Michigan drivers.

NMH's Operation: KIDSAFE, an infant restraint seat rental program, is designed to aid community members to comply with the new state law requiring such restraints for children under four years of age by providing seats at a minimal fee. The new law takes effect April 1, 1982, with Operation: KIDSAFE slated to get underway March 1.

Operation: KIDSAFE will provide only infant sests for children under one year of age and will be sponsored by the NMH Auxiliary. Charlevoix Yesterday

It was sometime during the years of 1914 or 1915 that this group of young women gathered at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Wilkinson for a doll party though they look a little old to be playing with dolls.

They are (pictured left to right) front row: a Cole girl from Beaver Island, Mildred Eckinger Scott, Nola Byers Shapton, Irene Gregory Crites, Annis Driggett Bennett, a second Cole girl from Beaver Island. (Beaver Island, at that time did not have a high school.)

Second Row: Emily Meggison Evarts, Marsha Goss, Edna Noble, Louise Walker, Marjorie Hall Breece.

4-H fashions to be featured in program

"North Country Livin'", an Emmet County 4-H program, is being held on March 15 at 7:30 p.m. at the Petoskey High School Team Teaching Room. This will feature fashions created or sewn by 4-H Youth from the Personal Appearance Clubs along with spring and summer fashions from the J.C. Penney store. This is the 36th year of cooperation between 4-H Programs and J.C. Penney. Isabel Jones, Clothing specialist from M.S.U., will be the highlight speaker. Her theme will revolve around the current trend in fabrics and style and wardrobe coordination so that consumers can look their best, dressing with less cost.

The mistress of ceremonies will be Jeannie Schwartzfisher, who recently participated in Petoskey's Junior Miss Pagent.

The 4-H Penney Party has been a harbinger of spring for a number of years. The public, 4-H youth, and potential leaders are cordially invited.

Call the Emmet County Cooperative Extension Service at 347-2596 for further information.

Billboard campaign goes way beyond all expectations

The "Billboards to Washington" campaign has succeeded beyond anyone's expectations.

The goal in the beginning was to raise enough money to lease ten billboards in Washington, D.C. to carry the message "Hear Us . . . Nuclear War Hurts Too Much". Carrie Venema, who originated the project and set it in motion signed a contract last week for sixteen billboards to be posted in locations from Bethesda to Andrews Air Force Base, with most of the billboards to be in the vicinity of Capitol Hill and the Pentagon.

It took just four weeks to raise $9,000 to pay for the signs. It was accomplished by word of mouth, by letters and by articles in local newspapers. The almost immediate response from total strangers as well as friends clearly indicated that there are a lot of people who are worried about the nuclear arms race and seeking a way to express their concern in a manner that will be noticed by government and military leaders and by the public at large. In contributing money, many made statements like "At least this is something we can do."

It will take approximately two months from the time the outdoor advertising contract was signed to complete the design and printing of the signs. The signs will be posted in the Washington, D.C. area between May 1 and May 5, on full size, illuminated billboards and will remain up for 30 days. Each sign will have a credit line across the bottom naming the Michigan group which paid for it, including one billboard 'sent' by people in the Charlevoix—Petoskey area that will say "Paid for by People in Northwest Lower Michigan."

It is hoped that the appearance of these signs will trigger other projects from coast to coast across the country, bearing witness to the strength of grass roots opposition to further testing, production and deployment of nuclear weapons.

Board acts on loggers, sport fishing future

by PEG OHLE

Land contracts, small woodlot loggers, and brown trout were all subjects of resolutions passed by the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners last week.

The first resolution asked that the Michigan Association of Counties "initiate action to restore equity and fairness to the property tax system by challenging Michigan equalization methods that include finance costs (creative financing -- land contracts) in the selling price of a property by the use of sales ratio studies."

The resolution further noted that due to the high interest rates charged by regular financial institutions, land contracts at lower rates were being used more and more to finance the buying of property. Then, to realize the desired income from such a sale, sellers were inflating the sales price of the property. This, in turn, inflates the value of all nearby property through the equalization process.

The second resolution brought to light the fact that woodlot loggers cannot sell their product to mill owners unless they (the loggers) are carrying Workmen's Compensation Insurance.

"This situation is limiting the ability of small woodlot owners to market forest products if they are doing the work themselves," the resolution states.

The reason for this is that existing law permits any second or third parties involved in producing forest products to sue for damages from any mills purchasing wood from uninsured suppliers, thereby threatening such mills with loss of membership in the self-insuring Workmen's Compensation fund.

The resolution asks that the State of Michigan enact legislation to prevent mill owners from being sued by second and third parties involved in the sale of forest products.

The third resolution requests that the Department of Natural Resources replenish the supply of sports fish in area lakes and streams with brown trout rather than lake trout.

The resolution notes that tourism is the second greatest asset of the State and that sports fishing plays a major role in tourism, especially in northwest Michigan. It further cites the indiscriminate and unregulated gill net fishing which has depleted the supply of lake trout and caused a loss in sports fishing income in Charlevoix County of $893,00, as well as a total loss of $1.8 million in direct spending from fishermen visiting the five coastal counties in the State.

"Brown trout are not considered commercial fish, therefore there is no commercial outlet for them," the resolution reasons. Other considerations given are that brown trout can live and reproduce in area waters and will serve the sports fishermen who come to the area.

BIG BROTHERS - BIG SISTERS WEEK was officially designated for this week by proclamation of Mayor Kenneth Staley. Staley is shown above signing his declaration with Jan Biddick looking on. Jan is the president of the Charlevoix County Big Brothers-Big Sisters. Big Brothers-Big Sisters Week is a nationwide observance. Biddick said that it is hoped the awareness created will encourage more adults to participate in the progam. She pointed out that currently there is a shortage of Big Brothers and Big Sisters in the county and a long waiting list of youngsters who have requested a Big Brother or Big Sister.

Second lady will chair March of Dimes

Mrs. Barbara Bush, wife of the Vice President of the United States, has accepted an invitation to be National Honorary Chairperson of the March of Dimes Reading Olympics, according to Marion Parker of Charlevoix, Executive Director of Northern Chapter of March of Dimes.

The Reading Olympics program is an educational means of raising funds to help the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation fight birth defects, the number one child health problem in the U.S. today. The program encourages students in grades one through nine to read books other than text books for pleasure. As the children improve their reading skills they also raise funds pledged by sponsors for each book they read.

In addition to Mrs. Bush as honorary chairperson, active co-chairmen of the reading Olympics this year are the well-known TV Magician Doug Henning, and athlete Bruce Jenner, winner of the 1976 Olympic Games decathalon event.

Mrs. Parker said "We are really delighted to have so many outstanding people volunteer to help publicize Reading Olympics. Here in Charlevoix County, we have Reading Olympic programs in Boyne Falls School and Charlevoix Elementary School.

"Cooperation from principals and school superintendents is really wonderful. The Reading Olympics are becoming a popular learning experience, as well as a fun event for the youngsters," Mrs. Parker said.

Ever since her husband's election as vice president, Mrs. Bush has taken an active role in promoting educational programs and in the fight against illiteracy. "I urge parents and teachers to encourage children to take part in the National Reading Olympics sponsored by the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation. The reward to young children as well as for children yet unborn can be enormous, and as long-enduring as life itself," Mrs. Bush says.

Local students excell in state tests

Charlevoix Public School students scored well above state averages in the State Assessment Tests given in September it has been revealed.

Test results show that students in the fourth, seventh and tenth grade who took the tests shortly after school opened in the fall were above the "acceptable" score of 75 percent in all but tenth grade math.

However, though Charlevoix tenth graders did not score well in this subject, they were still above the state average.

The results of the tests in both math and reading by grades are as follows: fourth grade math 83.5, state 74.2; seventh grade math 84.6, state 59.4; tenth grade math 61.0, state 58.5; fourth grade reading 81.4, state 72.9; seventh grade reading 84.6, state 76.3; tenth grade reading 84.8 state 76.3.

"We had 30.9 per cent of the students who could have boosted Charlevoix's averages to the 90th percentile had they answered only one more item correctly. This is true of the state averages as well" a spokesman for the school said in announcing the rest results.

The spokesman went on to say that every effort was being made to find why students score as they do in tenth grade math. One explanation is that they branch off into algebra as early as the eighth grade while others continue in general math but at the present time the search continues for the answer.

This, however, is not limited to the Charlevoix schools. It is state-wide as can be seen from the test results above.

In reporting the state results, the State Board of Education stated that scores improved on all levels compared to the previous year. Phillip E. Runkel said that it marked only the third time in 13 years that state assessment tests have been given to Michigan school students that all the test scores showed year-to-year gains.

Known as the Michigan Educational Assessment Program, the state tests are given each year in all Michigan schools in late September. Students are tested on what they have learned the three previous years of schooling. Test scores are then used to identify students who need help in math and reading.

Local scouting is older than first reported

John Sharrow dropped in at the Courier office last week with some well-worn Boy Scout manuals which he had used when he was a member of the Eagle troop in Charlevoix back in 1920 or 1921.

This refutes the information carried in the Courier three weeks ago to the effect that the first Boy Scout troop was started in Charlevoix in the "late 1930's".

According to Sharrow, other members of the troop included John Nordruin, Gilbert Saltonstall, Clair Usher, Walter Bergeon, and Harold Dutcher.

"There were eight of us altogether," Sharrow said, "and we met in the Congregational Church."

It was also Sharrow's recollection that the troop folded early in the 1920's.

Life on the night shift

"We get to spoil the babies on night shift," L.P.N. Mary Bowden smiled as she quieted a restless day-old baby, one recent midnight at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The night shift in the OB Unit can spoil the babies until those particular nights when several babies are delivered at once.

"The prime time for deliveries seems to be between 4 and 8 a.m.," L.P.N. Bowden added.

"But this is a very cooperative shift. If we need help, other nurses are here in a split second. If they need help, and we're quiet here, we go out on the floor."

Indeed, as a recent observer discovered, the dimmed lights in the hallways are deceptive.

Despite tranquil appearances, the night shift does not sleep. Nor do all the patients, newborns or adults.

The observer who visited Charlevoix Area Hospital one wintry night to learn about life between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m. at the hospital, soon learned any story would not be based on leisurely interviews, only observations – if she could keep the pace.

While OB was enjoying the lull, just around the corner in the Intensive-Coronary Care Unit two RNs and a physician were closely monitoring a patient with serious respiratory problems and preparing for the emergency admission of another with chest pains.

Further down the hall, on the surgical wing, RN Carol Gagnon was identified by the flashlight in her hand and the zig-zag path she was following between rooms, as she checked each of her patients. Seven were on intravenous fluids. Several were awake, confused and needed reassuring.

When a young patient in the pediatric ward let go a throaty yell, Gagnon was quickly joined by RN Supervisor Julie Ciuk. Together they calmed a robust two year old whose determination to bounce around his crib was endangering his IVs.

The night shift staff, two RNs and aides covering the medical and surgical wings, the Supervisor, who doubled as Emergency Room nurse, the two RNs and LPN in Obstetrics and the two RNs in ICCU, do not sit wondering how to stay awake while patients sleep. If they are not on the run, caring directly for patients, they are catching the hospital up on the past day's paperwork.

Interestingly, almost all the night shift staff said they prefer the shift.

Cooperation and flexibility are hallmarks of the night shift.

While the emergency room was quiet, RN Ciuk helped in other sections of the hospital. As soon as the emergency patient arrived she was joined in ER by ICCU RN Arlene Pardy to evaluate and admit the patient as ordered by the patient's physician.

The majority of the staff have been working the night shift for several years.

As Aide Ester Brown returned to the nurses' station after helping a colleague with a confused patient said, "This is a great bunch of girls. I've been on nights for 10 years and I wouldn't care to trade."

RN Winona Gee, a relative new comer to the night shift, having graduated from Nursing School in June, agreed.

"We have to work well together. In case of a crisis we are all there is. If there's an emergency in any department, one nurse stays to cover, everyone else goes to help. And backup personnel is always on call."

Along with the obvious camaraderie of the shift, the staff cites personal benefits of working nights. Almost all have school age children. At the end of their night shift they go home for breakfast with their families. Most sleep during the day, arising to rejoin the family in late afternoon for dinner, before leaving for work.

But close patient contact is the aspect of the night shift the nursing staff unanimously treasures.

Taking a break to catch up on paper work, Carol Gagnon observed, "You can be a nurse on this shift."

RN Ciuk expanded on the thought over a quick cup of coffee in the cafeteria. "We work closely with our aides. If a bed needs changing we do it. We change dressings, check vital signs, do the bedside nursing care. Other shifts are more compartmentalized, perhaps out of necessity.

"The night shift has a special opportunity to pass on a clear picture of our patients to the other shifts," she concluded.

Knight on the Town
We want our cake...

by Dave Knight

Charlevoixians want economic development...but they want to preserve their environment.

They want to maintain their peaceful way of life...but they want to encourage more visitors.

They will tolerate condominiums...but only in certain places, one of which is not the waterfront.

These are just some of the findings gleaned from a community attitude survey recently featured in the Courier. Its purpose was to solicit citizen input for the master plan currently being developed by Nino & Associates of Grand Blanc.

Planner Ron Nino reported on the survey results at Saturday's workshop session at the high school.

One-hundred fifty-four responses were returned and machine scored. The breakdown of respondent ages and localities from which the responses came was uncannily varied. Said Nino, "I don't think a scientifically run survey could have given us a more accurate response."

In scanning the responses, some predictable - and some surprising - conflicts become evident in our community consciousness. For instance, in ranking goals, the highest priorities were maintaining way of life, waterfront preservation and environmental protection. Right behind, however, was development of a year-round economy. Last out of 21 possible responses were limiting growth and improving residential areas.

Parking came first in a question on which improvements are most needed downtown along with improving traffic flow. Exterior building maintenance was high on the list as was sign regulation. An architectural theme, special street lighting and wider sidewalks, however, got the lowest marks.

When it came to the waterfront, people want to preserve the natural appearance and maintain the views more than anything else. Respondents did not feel the city needed more public beaches or boat docks.

On the question of the Highway 31 corridor, people seemed to think that the south side needed improvements such as sign regulation and fast food-convenience store limitation while the north side was basically okay as is.

When asked to specifically address waterfront areas, the often stated priority of balanced economic growth was conveniently forgotten. Everyone wants only parks, single family homes or nice restaurants on the waterfront.

Thirty-eight percent of the respondents said they would allow condominiums but with strict controls. Twenty-five percent said they should be discouraged, 29 percent allowed them in certain areas and five percent encouraged them with no strings attached.

Clockwise
Daniel Blizzard Clock?

by Bob Clock

IF ANY CONSTANCY at all runs through the long calendar of the year, it is the fact that March weather is unpredictable.

As a transition month, March can be as balmy as June, as rainy as April, as snowy as January or as bitterly cold as February.

Sometimes a variety of weather extremes can happen on the same day.

A good example is March 1, 1972. That day started with a sleet storm the evening of Feb. 29 (it was a leap year). As morning dawned, the sleet changed to rain and by noon thunder rumbled overhead and sizzling bolts of lightning lit the heavens.

By early afternoon, the rain turned to snow and the wind picked up, resulting in near-blizzard conditions.

Unless I'm badly mistaken, the weather was so foul that Charlevoix schools sent the kids home early because of treacherous road conditions.

Details of that awful storm are still vivid because that was was the day Daniel Winter (a family name) Clock bowed in Charlevoix Area Hospital.

"Winter!" snapped one of the nurses after I told her his name. "You should call him Blizzard. That would be a little closer to the truth."

Perhaps so. But how would I have explained a son called Blizzard to my Winter relatives?

HAD A CALL the other day from a friend who recently became disabled. Oh, he still gets around, but after heart surgery he is uncomfortable walking very far in cold weather.

He said before his operation he never gave much thought to parking spaces for the disabled which are now required of new businesses and old businesses which undertake major remodeling.

Since his operation he takes advantage of such conveniently located parking spaces whenever he can, but he claims that there aren't nearly enough of them around town.

True, firms in business before the advent of barrier-free design requirements in the mid-1970s don't have to provide parking spaces for the handicapped. But wouldn't it be nice if they did anyway?

It's something you really don't think about — until the shoe is on the other foot.

LAST FRIDAY when I returned home from work, Judy met me at the door with a bill from Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. in hand.

"Here's the gas bill for February," she said dismally. "If you don't mind, I'm going to wait on the front porch until you read it."

So saying she handed me the bill and stepped outside.

I opened the bill gingerly, surveyed the damages and emitted a primordial scream that shook the jelly glasses in the kitchen cupboard.

When the echoes faded, Judy re-entered.

"I can't believe we burned $210 worth of gas in a single month, regardless of how cold it was," I wailed. "Besides, we turned the thermostat down to 50 every night and had the wood stove going every weekend and almost every evening."

"You'll notice," Judy said as calmly as possible, "this is not an estimated bill. This one was read. This is what we actually burned."

Holy Mackinaw! When — oh when! — is it going to end?

City responds to Smith's ideas on merger study

To Oscar Stroud, Supervisor
Charlevoix Township Board

I have been directed by the City Council to write this letter to the Township Board in response to the letter by Don Smith appearing in the February 3rd edition of the Charlevoix Courier. We realize that Don was not necessarily speaking for the entire Board in this matter. Nevertheless, we believe that his comments merit the attention of both the City Council and the Township Board.

As we understand Don's position, it is that (a) issues relating to service levels, tax rates and user charges must be resolved before a consolidation can be fully considered; (b) it is preferable to address and resolve these matters prior to expending efforts drafting a charter for a consolidated entity; (c) equal representation between the City and Township on the committee(s) that address the service levels, tax, and user charge issues is more important that equal representation in the Charter Commission per se (although equal representation on both would be preferable). The City Council is in agreement with this position.

The City Council believes that the service level, tax, and user rate issues can and should be addressed in the context of the state-prescribed consolidation process. If it turns out that these issues cannot be resolved to the satisfaction of both parties, then consolidation efforts should cease. If it becomes possible to reach mutually satisfactory solutions, then it would be appropriate to complete the consolidation process.

The City does not support efforts resulting in the termination of the consolidation process prior to addressing these issues. A real waste of time and money would occur if the question of consolidation were to be settled prior to establishing a factual basis for looking at the pros and cons of the proposal.

The City Council calls upon the Township Board to:

1. Accept Don Smith's proposal to establish a study committee(s) for developing draft service levels, tax rates, and user charges for the consolidated entity.

2. Support continuing the consolidation process until this committee's findings are known, while opposing efforts aimed at terminating the consolidation effort prior to issuance of the committee's findings.

The City Council believes the time has come to address the matter of consolidation in a straightforward and factual manner, without prejudice. We respectfully request the active participation of the Township Board in this inquiry.

Sincerely,
The City of Charlevoix
Kenneth A. Staley, Mayor

Letters: Chemicals, economy

Need more tests

To the Editor:

The DDT, PBB, thalidomide, and love canal chemical contamination problems were all exposed by determined private citizens affected by them, not by the industrial corporations and government agencies involved. The PBB contamination problem was revealed by the persistent efforts of alarmed farmers, not by concerned government agencies.

By the time the PBB mystery had seen solved most of the people in Michigan had been contaminated.

Now medical experts believe that the most serious after effects of PBB contamination will be liver cancer. It is very important to diagnose liver cancer early. Experts believe all exposed persons should have frequent exams including liver scans and enzyme tests. The number of people involved would probably make the recommended prodecure impractical.

What are the enzymes tests for liver cancer? How effective are they in revealing liver cancer, and could the state provide mass testing for Michigan citizens?

If there were a serious increase in liver cancer in Michigan would state agencies be more inclined to conceal it than reveal it?

Money matters

To the Editor:

The economy revolves around the exchange of values by money. By political agreements in the past, the present Government has no real control over monetary values. The capitalistic system is said to be self stabilizing by monetary competition. But the all together lump dumping of invented values has created to many inflated exchanges in land and many other monetary manipulations by profit accumulating freeloaders.

This has been promoted by Reagans adherence to national and international profit systems which are a product of feudalistic capitalism with a money market of something for nothing. In a recent statement Reagan said that government shouldn't be involved in economic or social changes. Yet, the federal government debt pays over 100 billion dollars for the use of profit accumulated money which is a main standby investment for private insurance corporations and Wall Street bankers. These people also represent many foreign interest buying tax exempt bonds.

There is over 2½ trillion dollars invested by foreign interest and about 800 billion of that is owned by oil profiteers who do not want their people to know it. The present goverment policy of lowering income taxes to promote more investments in labor saving devices and to equalize competition against foreign labor, makes no sense at all in the face of over production of agricultoral and manofactored products. The self made American dream of social security by individual accumulation of money carries no responsibility for a true exchange of values, but rather dictates values by the power of ownership and high interest manipulations.

The federal money policy works fairly well for the benefit of the rich. When the money supply is up, the price of everything goes up. But when the money supply is down the cost use of money goes up. These kind of legalistic values bankrupt the creative working consumers in the exchange of values by money. Balancing the government budget by capitalistic standards will eventually get to the accumulaters of money. When there isn't any more credit by money left for the working consumer to give, it is called a depression.

This is what came to a head in 1929 and was only solved by government declaring a moratorium on all debts and backing the credit value of money and a redistribution thereof by public works. There is a real need for government to issue and control credit by money. This could be done through low interest loans to meet state and local government needs for public works, and value controlled by taxation on speculative and excessive incomes.

Save the tower

Dear Editor,

As the owner of a vacation home on the eastern shore of Lake Charlevoix I have always followed with great interest the happenings in your community. I am a subscriber to your newspaper, a customer of one of your banks, and most importantly, an observer of the old water tower which stands majestically on the south side of Round Lake Channel.

When our architect, Jackson B. Hallett, of Midland designed our vacation home in 1976 he and John Campbell of Site Planning Development, Inc. were very careful to orient it "dead on" the water tower which is clearly visible from our shore and house and really marks the City of Charlevoix for us and our neighbors. It is a great experience to stand on one or the other of our decks with a visitor and point proudly to this mark of your grand city. It also impresses people to be able to see across a body of water for almost twelve miles and recognize a structure.

The point of my letter is to urge your citizens through the Charlevoix Historical Society (if that is the correct name for the organization) to try to preserve this historic monument in as nearly its original condition as possible. I realize that safety precautions will dictate some alteration. I also have heard that there are plans to make the water tower an observatory. Regardless of essential modification of the tower, it will still be a beacon of pride and wonder to those of us who consider Charlevoix our second home and can literally point for twelve miles to an object within the city. I am sure I speak for other residents of the arc of shoreline on Lake Charlevoix who also get this view. As a matter of fact, just about in the middle of the summer on July 30, the sun begins to set near enough to the tower from our view that we get a gorgeous silhouette which slowly dims and merges into the twinkling evening lights of your city. . .

Big success

To the Editor:

Thursday night in Charlevoix was a success. The license plate sale was well received, thanks to the effort of 107 adults and students who turned out to sell the new Charlevoix the beautiful plates.

A special thanks to Jim Withers of Village Pizza, who provided a $2.00 discount for over 50 individual pizzas to those young people who did the selling. Also, thanks to Lou Edwards who furnished the coke and the Yellow Submarine, who furnished the cookies.

The winning team was under the direction of Gunnar Ludtelgen, and the two students who won the season pass at Mt. McSauba, were Sam Supernaw Jr. and Jim Morgridge. The students from the middle school are to be commended for their enthusiasm.

We sold 700 plates for a total of $3,500 in receipts. We had 40 routes laid out, and I am aware of several homes who were missed. However, the Charlevoix County State Bank and the First State Bank have graciously consented to make available to you, more plates at $5.00 each. You may pick them up there during banking hours. We have to sell about 200 more to make our goal to cover "Operation Petunia".

The petunias have been ordered, and are being grown by the Renolds Greenhouse in Harbor - Springs. These plants will be of the very highest quality and are being grown in the following colors: light pink, dark pink, white, red and lavender. They will be ready, in full bloom on May 22, the date of planting. That day, we will need a minimum of 700 people to prepare beds along the 2½ mile roadway along U.S. 31, which goes from the north city limits through town, to the M-66 junction. Be sure to mark this date on your calendar. The people of Charlevoix have proved one thing: that though times are tough, we can all work together to beautify our town, and have fun doing it. There is nothing like friendliness in a small town. This is something you cannot buy.

Thanks again,
Dale Boss
Chairman, Operation Petunia

Economy poses health problems

by PEG OHLE

District Health Department No. 3 is trying to combat some of the special health problems created by current economic conditions.

"What we are trying to do is promote the use of current programs to the unemployed and economically distressed," says Gerald Chase, administrator of the Health Department.

"When a woman is out of work, she's less likely to see that her children get the necessary shots and she may not be able to afford the kind of food they need. We can help her," he explained.

One way the Health Department can help is through its W.I.C. (women, infants, children) program, a special supplemental food program for women and infants and children. It is available to all low income pregnant or breastfeeding women and to infants and children under the age of five who are certified to be in nutritional need.

Under the program, mothers and-or their children are provided with coupons redeemable for particular foods, such as fruit juices, cereals, cheeses, milk, and eggs.

"We are trying to supplement the nutritional needs of these persons and also provide an on-going educational program on the value of foods and making the best use of the food dollar," Chase added.

The Health Department now has approximately 1,100 persons on its W.I.C. program and could handle at least 200 more, according to Chase.

Family planning is another aspect of family life that is often neglected in time of economic distress, the administrator pointed out.

"They don't have the money to seek family planning advice from their doctors so they let it go. If an unwanted pregnacy occurs, it just adds to the problems of an already over-burdened family."

District Health Department No. 3 operates four family planning clinics — in East Jordan, Bellaire, Petoskey, and Gaylord. The clinics provide counseling services, physical examinations, laboratory tests, and contraceptive devices as deemed appropriate.

"We doubled our family planning caseload last year, but we can still handle more cases," Chase remarked. "We charge only a nominal fee — $1 per cycle for pills. That's about what they cost us."

Vaccination against childhood diseases — diptheria, whooping cough, tetanus, polio, mumps, measles, and rubella — has long been a service of the District Health Department. While the Department asks for a donation to cover at least part of the cost, no one is turned down.

The Health Department recommends that such vaccinations begin at two months of age and that children who are not vaccinated in their infancy receive the shots as soon as possible.

"If your children are not vaccinated, they run the needless risk of sickness and serious complications," a Health Department leaflet warns.

In addition to these immunizations for children, the Health Department provides flu shots on a seasonal basis through the Commission on Aging, as well as blood pressure and TB screening. The Department hopes to be able to re-instate blood pressure screening for younger persons, along with diabetes screening and breast self examinations.

"We want to do all we can to help our people in these difficult times," Chase concluded.

Telephone numbers for District Health Department No. 3 are 547-6523 in Charlevoix, 536-7371 in East Jordan, and 347-6014 in Petoskey.

Garden Club to meet

"Let's Be Show Girls" will be the subject of the program at the meeting of the Charlevoix Garden Club to be held at the home of Mrs. Charlotte Kline at 1 p.m. Tuesday, March 9. Mrs. Gordon Rower will be the co-hostess.

Mrs. Anna Belle Webb, a star judge in flower show circles will relate in her message to club members the direction to take to sponsor a flower show of their own.

For gardening, one thinks ahead for months. The majority of gardeners have long had plans for this year's gardens. One of the most agreeable parts of gardening is the certainty of change. No garden or even an individual plant is the same from year to year. This winter with all its snow could result in a long wet spring to provide flower blooms and lawns of exception.

Looking ahead to fall, a wise English plant man named Calverly suggests dropping a Grape Hyacinth (muscari) bulb into the hole with each daffodil. It takes but a moment and pays dividends for years.

At a recent program which featured Reg Sharkey of Petoskey speaking on the subject "How Do You Feed The Birds?" club members learned that feeding birds is an optional task. Birds, he said, can fend for themselves from nature's store. However, should you chose to feed them try using the small black sunflower seeds that are filled with an oily content that benefits the birds more than the larger stripped sunflower seeds. He also said that birds will come to the feeder all year if food is provided.

Several types of simple feeders as well as suet feeders were shown. He noted that the simplest forms were the best. Feeders with a good sized overhang serve as a shelter space for the birds as well as protect the feed from the weather.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson hosted the meeting with Mrs. Clifford Biddick, Sr., serving as co-hostess.

VISIONS OF THE SEA

The aquamarine has been a favorite gemstone for centuries because of its relaxing and refreshing color. A fine colored stone resembles the shallow waters that skirt the Caribbean shores — a clear and cool, greenish-blue. In fact the word "aquamarine" is Latin for "sea water."

At the height of the Roman Empire sea voyagers carried a piece of aquamarine to guard against seasickness. Other powers attributed to the gem over the years were the abilities to quicken the intellect, bestow courage, cure laziness and produce happiness and peace.

Aquamarine has long been regarded as a birthstone for March, sharing the honors with the brightly mottled quartz, bloodstone. However, aquas are certainly suitable for everyone no matter when they were born. If you wear a lot of blues, grays or other neutral colors, you should consider aquamarine jewelry to accent your wardrobe.

Aquamarine has greatly increased in value over the past decade, but in the sizes most often use in jewelry, it is still within reach of most jewelry lovers. It is a beautiful and valuable gem that is truly a fine investment in beauty and pleasure.

If you are interested in adding an aquamarine to your jewelry collection, please come to Reusch Jewelry and consult me first. I'd be happy to answer any further questions you may have about this beautiful gemstone and the care it requires to stay beautiful.

Cagers tune up for season finale with big win over Rogers City

Balanced scoring and no let-ups powered the Charlevoix Rayder varsity basketball squad past the Rogers City Hurons Friday night by a 67-40 margin.

The win keeps the Rayders, at 11-2, in a deadlock for first place in the conference with one game remaining. Boyne City beat Gaylord Friday and thus also improved its record to 11-2.

At Rogers City, Charlevoix took command early and never lost momentum. At the end of one quarter it was the Rayders up by a 17-8 score. Rogers City barely kept up in the second quarter and was behind 31-20 at halftime.

In the third quarter, the Rayders outscored the Hurons 18-8 to take a 49-28 lead and in the final period they dominated 18-12 for the final score of 67-40.

Gary Drury was high man for the Rayders with 15 points including seven baskets from the floor. Craig Klooster had 14, Jim Buchanan 11, George Smith nine and Dave Buday eight.

The Charlevoix junior varsity team was tripped 60-51 by the Rogers City JVs despite a 31-point performance by Tim LaBlance for Charlevoix. Bill Tillen added ten points for the Rayders.

Regular season action comes to a close this Friday night when Charlevoix hosts St. Ignace for its final conference match. A win will clinch at least a tie for the Michigan-Huron Shores championship.

In the eighth grade game, St. Ignace took a commanding 12-2 first period lead and never lost it as they led 22-12 at halftime and 34-14 at the three-quarter mark. Packy LaBlance had eight and Jody Putman seven points for Charlevoix. Peters had 14 for St. Ignace.

In the first round games, the Soo defeated Cheboygan 37-35 in an overtime; Petoskey defeated Rogers City 33-19 and Cheboygan Catholic won over Rudyard 35-24 in the seventh grade bracket.

Volleyball team plays Bellaire, Boyne City

The Charlevoix Rayder volleyball team was to close out its regular schedule at East Jordan Monday night before going into the Class C District tournament to be held on the local court beginning at 10 a.m. Saturday.

This week Charlevoix lost a match to Bellaire and split matches with Boyne City on Wednesday, Parents Night.

In the match with Bellaire, the visitors won the first game 15-1. Charlevoix came back to win the second by a score of 15-7 before dropping the third 17-15.

Rhonda Buchanan who, with Angia McClanaghan, was moved up from the JV to Varsity status, and Colleen LaBlance were named as top servers, Holly Taber the spiker, Colleen Sell the setter and Margo Smith and Buchanan the defensive players.

On Wednesday, Charlevoix played two matches with Boyne City. The locals won the first 15-7, 15-8. Boyne City, however, won the first and third games of the second match by scores of 15-9 with Charlevoix taking the second 15-10.

Coach Mary Lieberman named McClanaghan with 19 and Smith with 15 as the top servers; Taber with 12 and Smith with five as the spikers; LaBlance with 19 as the setter as well as defensive player.

The JV squad won by scores of 16-14, 15-10 over the Bellaire JVs and won over Boyne City by forfeit. In the meeting with Bellaire top servers were Linda Cluk, Meg Fowler and Beth Jones; spiker, Linda Hilton; setters, Fowler and Maureen Buday and defensive player, Amy Sell.

Whitley and Bergmann advance

The Charlevoix Rayders top wrestlers, Gregg Whitley in the 145 pound class and Alan Bergmann in the 165 pound class qualified for the Class C state finals at Middleville this weekend after placing first and fourth respectively in the regional meet at Lakeview last weekend.

Whitley pinned his first two opponents and defeated the third by a 4-0 decision to win a ticket to the finals. He is a senior.

Bergmann, a junior, was one of three wrestlers from the Michigan-Huron Shores conference to qualify in the 167 pound class. Bergmann finished fourth after losing by a 6-3 decision to Jeff Knight of Grayling who finished in third place. John Przybyla of Rogers City finished first in this division.

Coach Greg Bryan said both wrestlers did well. "Whitley, especially, was impressive. This was definitely his best meet."

Whitley now has a 35-2 record and Bergmann a 26-8 record for the season.

The pair will travel to Middleville Thursday for the meet scheduled for Friday and Saturday.

Frosh end great season with win

The Charlevoix Rayder freshmen closed out their season with a 31-1 record after defeating Harbor Springs 77-32 in action here Thursday.

Earlier in the week the team suffered its only loss of the season at Cheboygan by a score of 58-55.

In Thursday's action, the scoring was scattered as young Rayders headed the visitors 16-8, 31-17 and 57-30 by quarters behind the scoring of John Pearl who had 15 points and Doug Sloan and Brent Cole who had 14 points each. Mike Exrlaben had 14 for the Rams.

At Cheboygan, the Rayders lost the game on the free throw line as the young Chiefs scored 12 of 18 from the line to the Rayders seven of 18 after Charlevoix had outscored their hosts 24-23 from the floor.

Charlevoix managed to head the Chiefs only once, 32-31 as Cheboygan led 15-13, 30-25 and 42-37 by quarters. The young Rayders were able to close the score to 50-49 and again at 56-55 but lacked the punch to go ahead in the closing minutes, Coach Chuck Wright said. He went on to say, "They beat us on the boards and from the foul line."

Cole had 14 points, Pearl and Thad Morgan 13 points each and Doug Sloan 10 for the game.

Dan Patric of Boyne City was the big winner in the last Courier basketball contest of the season last week. Dan missed one game and will receive the first place prize of a $15 gift certificate.

Fittingly, LeRoy Buchanan snuck into the money one more time to take the second place prize of a $10 certificate having missed two games.

Workshop was well attended

About fifty people turned out high school cafeteria Saturday morning for the second workshop session designed to implement citizen input in the Charlevoix master plan currently being developed.

Participants heard Ronald Nino of Nino & Associates, the firm contracted to do the master plan, report on findings of the community attitude survey distributed through the Charlevoix Courier last month.

Nino also presented conceptual maps drawn by landscape architects of the M.C. Smith firm targeting potential areas of conflict and future development possibilities.

After Nino's presentation, the workshop was broken down into seperate teams which discussed specific planning concerns and developed land use plans of their own.

The working maps drawn up by the individual teams will now be consolidated by the Nino firm into a comprehensive reflection of citizen concerns.

Saturday's session was videotaped with volunteer assistance from Topper Carey, Chris Papineau, Tim Moore and Terry Salmonson. The tape will be broadcast on local cable television Channel 13 in about two weeks.

Residents are asked to check newspaper listings for the exact date and time.

Masons lead in cribbage

The Masons scored 231 points in play at the Masons-Oddfellows Cribbage tournament Thursday night to wipe out the Oddfellows' slim 59 point lead and go ahead by 172 points Robert C. Heise, tournament secretary, has announced.

Mike Johnson had 953 points for the Oddfellows. Clem Olach had 945 for the Masons. Seven and one-half tables were in play.

With only two nights of play remaining, action this week will be at the Masonic Temple.

Band shines at District Festival

The Charlevoix Symphonic Band received a First Division rating in the District II Class C Band Festival at Petoskey Saturday.

Appearing under the direction of Terry Isenbarger, the band received straight I's in both concert and sight reading for the first time in several years.

The top rating qualifies the band for state competition May 1 at a site to be named.

The band played "March Lamar" by Clayton Williams as its warm-up number; the Prelude to the First Act of Verdi's "La Traviata" as the selected number and "Imperatrix" by Reed as the required selection in Class C.

"I was satisfied with their performance" Isenbarger, a tough critic of his band, said of their performance at the festival.

The District tournament is sponsored by District II of the Michigan School Band and Orchestral Festival.

The Boyne City and East Jordan bands, also playing in Class C, received II rating. Petoskey's top band received a I rating and the second and younger band a II rating.

Cantata rehearsal planned

Rehearsals for a cantata to be presented under the sponsorship of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association on Good Friday will begin Tuesday and continue each Tuesday until the presentation Steve Stargardt, director of the presentation, has announced.

The cantata will be a community effort and anyone wishing to sing is invited to attend rehearsals at the Assembly of God church at 7:30 p.m. each Tuesday Stargardt said.

The cantata is the "Alleluia" by William Gaither. It will be presented at the Assembly of God on the evening of Good Friday.

One house after another keeps John Sharrow busy

by PEG OHLE

John Sharrow's life has been "one house after another", and he remembers each one in detail.

The reason is that John doesn't just go out and buy houses - he builds or rebuilds them from the bottom up, doing just about every job required to make a house a home.

The house where John now lives, at 406 Sheridan Street in Charlevoix, is a fine example. The exterior is of stone, which he collected from all over the area, and the interior has all the amenities of a modern residence.

"I applied for the building permit on June 1, 1971," John recalls. "I was four years building the house (part time). It is a 30x50 foot house with full basement, two fire places, and gas hot water heating system, which I installed myself.

"The basement is made of 12-inch blocks. Most of the lumber was trucked from downstate, where I tore down houses, selling part of the lumber and bringing the better lumber up here to build the house. I also did all the wiring and insulating and the plumbing."

John Sharrow

This house, which is John's retirement home, was the fourth one he built. He tells about the beginnings of his building career as follows: -

"I built my first building, which was a two-story garage with a gambrel roof, about 1924, while still going to school. My Dad helped me. The lumber came from the old lime kiln located on what is now Medusa Cement Co. land. Dad and I hauled it home with horse and wagon. I got cedar out of the woods and took it to the mill to make shingles for the outside of the house. Before I got married, Dad and I dug a basement and moved the building closer to the road and added a front room and a bedroom above. The garage part was made into a kitchen and dinette. This house is at 603 Norwood Road, and Mr. Timms now owns it."

Next followed two houses in the Detroit area -- rebuilding a dilapitated house in Van Dyke and using lumber from a house he tore down to build a new one in Warren.

This imaginative builder just "kind of picked up how to build" by himself. There were no building trades classes in Charlevoix High School when he graduated in 1926.

Born in Charlevoix in 1907, John caddied on the Chicago Club golf course as a young man and later worked for his Uncle Bert Sharow's Concrete Company. In the early 1930's, he took up a two-job routine of working at the Belvedere Club as a yard man in the summers and going to Detroit to work as a die caster in the winters.

"There were about 200 of us who used to go down there every winter from Charlevoix," John recalls.

The two-job routine came to a halt a few years later when the unions began prohibiting members from working only part of the year. Then followed the pattern of coming back to Charlevoix every other week - "when we got our paychecks", John explains. He and other Charlevoixans would leave Detroit Friday night and return on Sunday.

"It took us about six hours," John remembers. We had to go through every little town."

John returned to Charlevoix to live permanently in 1974. Since then, he has rebuilt a house at 222 Antrim Street and is presently working on another house at 611 Norwood Road. This house is a real project.

"So far, I've dug out the basement with a shovel and wheelbarrow, put in new windows and put siding on and painted it. I tore down two unsafe chimneys and put up a double chimney. I tore off the old roofing and put on a new roof. I insulated the house, put in all new wiring, put on dry wall and paneled it, changed some walls and widened the stairway. I am now putting in kitchen cupboards and drain boards," John reports.

The job which probably gave John the greatest satisfaction was that of remodeling the "old homestead" at 601 Norwood Road, where he was born, now owned by his brother, Louie.

"I spent one winter helping him (Louie) remodel it," John says. We tore out all the lath and plaster, insulated it, put drop ceilings on downstairs. Also put dry wall on all walls and paneling on and new trim around doors and windows.

"If everything goes right, I hope to enclose the front porch with stone and windows."

John grew up at 601 Norwood Road with his brother, Louie, and sister, Elizabeth, who later married Curtis Dixon. Their father, also named Louie, was a rural mail carrier on Charlevoix Route No. 3, north and east of town. Explaining the difference in the spelling of their name by his father and Uncle Bert Sharow, John says they "just wanted to keep their mail straight".

John has supplied the Courier with many pictures for its "Charlevoix Yesterday" feature. However, pictures apparently are not the only things he collects. He tells of his collection of old books - Horatio Alger, Zane Grey, Tarzan among others - as well as "different antiques".

"I just kept all the old belongings," he says.

John and his late wife had two daughters. Virginia Kay Short lives in Detroit and Rae C. (for Charlevoix) Sharrow lives in California. His second wife, the former Sylvia Stanley, shares the stone house at 406 Sheridan Street with him.

Asked for memories of his childhood, John quickly responded with the birthday parties he had every October. "All the kids in Home heating assistance now available

Home Heating Assistance is available to income eligible households who are experiencing extremely high home heating costs in relation to their income. Northwest Michigan Human Services Agency is currently operating the Targeted Fuel Assistance (TFA) Program, one of four components of Michigan's 1981-82 Home Energy Assistance Program administered at the State level by the Department of Social Services and Department of Labor-Bureau of Community Services. TFA will provide a one-time-only fuel assistance benefit up to $200 per eligible household. NMHSA has been allocated a total of $141,000 to be spread across the ten county service region which includes Antrim, Benzie, Charlevoix, Emmet, Grand Traverse, Kalkaska, Leelanau, Missaukee, Roscommon and Wexford Counties.

Eligibility for this assistance is determined by: 1) the total annual gross income, before taxes and other deductions, and the number of people residing in that household. For a household of ONE the gross total income must be less than $5,387 per year. For each additional household member, add $1,725 per year. The maximum gross income for a household of FOUR, for example, would be $10,562. 2) the annual cost of all fuels used for heating the home (minus the Department of Treasury's Home Heating Credit or "Special Needs" equivalent) must exceed fifteen (15) percent of the total gross annual income. Electric costs can be included ONLY if electric heat is used.

Because the eligibility calculations are difficult and somewhat confusing, it is recommended that those who want to apply for the program contact NMHSA by phone to help determine whether or not they qualify. For those areas where the local office is a long distance call, (Cadillac 775-9781; Traverse City 947-3780; Petoskey 347-9070) the NMHSA Targeted Fuel Assistance toll free number is 1-800-632-7940. Those who do qualify for the assistance must be able to provide proof of income and documentation of fuel costs.

Crooked Tree Arts Council to bring Interlochen dance troupe

Dancers from Interlochen Arts Academy will bring the energy of modern dance and the timeless elegance of ballet to the Petoskey High School Auditorium at 8:00 p.m. Saturday, March 8, 1982.

The Petoskey concert, sponsored by Crooked Tree Arts Council is part of a five-day "Outreach" tour which will take the young dancers to five Michigan cities. "Outreach" is supported each year by the Michigan Council for the Arts.

The 15-member dance ensemble performs both modern and ballet dance pieces choreographed by the Academy dance faculty and guest instructors. Included in the tour repertoire are works ranging from "Western Sketches", choreographed to the music of Aaron Copland, to "Octet", performed to music by Bach.

Also on the program is an original version of "Alice in Wonderland", choreographed to the music of William Walton. This delightful children's classic features narration and colorful costumes.

During their five-day tour, the dancers will present concerts in Detroit, Roscommon, Flint, Mt. Pleasant, and Petoskey.

Members of the ensemble represent eight states and two foreign countries. They are among nearly 400 high-school age students who come from all over the world to study arts and academics at the Academy, part of the Interlochen Center for the Arts. Located 15 miles southwest of Traverse City, the Center also includes the Academy's summer counterpart, the National Music Camp.

For further information regarding the concert, contact the Arts Center office at 347-4337 or 347-7870. Admission is $3.00 for adults and $1.50 for children.

Also that evening is scheduled the opening of the Gallery exhibit at the McCune Community Arts Center. During the month of March there will be an excellent exhibit of Crafts produced by local artists. Pottery, fiber, woodworking, glass, metal and leather works will all be represented in this Gallery exhibit.

The afterglow for the Interlochen dance recital will be held at the Arts Center immediately following the performance. Plan to attend and meet the dancers, have some dessert, and enjoy the new March Crafts Invitational Gallery Exhibit.

Ballet will be offered in the program...

...As will some creative modern dance numbers.

John Sharrow's many memories

school were invited, as well as the teachers", he recalled. "It was a good idea because the teachers could help keep order. And when the kids went home, they were all given a pumpkin to take with them."

Other recollections were:

Linley's Cider Mill on Loeb Road, where cider cost 25 cents a gallon.

High school basketball teams traveled by train to other towns for games, and if the town had no hotel, the players stayed overnight in the homes of townspeople.

Halloween was a special time. Two nights before was "clothesline night", when the boys stole all the clotheslines in town. On Halloween night, they tied them all together and attached one end to the bell in the Congregational Church and ran up the hill to the water tower with the other end so they could ring the bell without being caught.

The Fourth of July was celebrated in Charlevoix every three years – taking turns with Boyne City and East Jordan. One really fun thing to do was to get on top of a downtown building and drop lighted fire crackers on old Jeff Wikel, the police officer.

The Charlevoix garbage dump was located about a mile west of town on Carpenter Street. It was full of rats, so the County paid 10 cents for every rat tail turned in. The boys shot the rats, and if the tails were long, they were cut in half. There was also a two-cent bounty on sparrows.

Perch in Round Lake were so plentiful that a catch of 50 was permitted. The boys would catch their 50 limit, go out and sell them, then come back and catch another 50 to take home.

Caddies at the Chicago Club were paid 65 cents for 18 holes if rated second class and 75 cents if rated first class. Carrying double was worth $1.20.

Public works director

director would have direct administrative responsibility over streets, sewers, parks, cemetery, ice rink, electrical system, water system and wastewater treatment.

The type of background sought would be in management or administration with ideally some engineering and-or municipal operations experience.

With a capable public works director, says Hunt, the city would be able to greatly reduce its dependence on outside consultation. A direct savings would come from being able to do things in-house rather than having to contract an outside firm. He points out that preliminary inspection and staking for the stormsewer project alone cost the city $14,000 to $18,000.

"I hate to see the city pay thousands of dollars to these consulting firms typically from downstate who spend months doing their studies, give us a stack of papers and then take all the knowledge they accumulated in that time with them when they're done," said Hunt, "For the $30,000 we are spending on the master plan, for example, we could have had hired a permanent planner for two years."

Perhaps the major benefit to the city of a public works director, however, would be the savings realized by increased efficiency through better management, claims Hunt. A public works director would be able, he says, to oversee the numerous major projects now being undertaken as well as do a better job of planning for future needs.

And one very important future need, he stresses, is the need to lessen the tax load on city residents. With costs rising steadily and federal and state assistance drying up, the only answer for the future is to make municipal services more efficient and foster new sources of revenue, says Hunt.

"In 1978, property tax paid for 34 percent of the city's general fund. In 1982, it will pay for 60 percent. We cannot expect the taxpayers to continue to bear this increasing burden," said Hunt, "We have to look at our revenue-producing departments such as water electricity and sewer as one of the keys to correcting this imbalance."

How has Charlevoix gotten along so far without a public works director? What is different now?

The most crucial development according to Hunt is the crunch befalling the city caused by neglect of years past.

"For a good part of the Seventies, the city was not renewing their assets," he said, "Equipment was not replaced and projects were put off. Now we find ourselves having to catch up. Not only would a public works director help greatly with these overdue matters but he would prevent such neglect from happening in the future."

Hunt also points to the sudden elimination of CETA and the "New Federalism" concept of diminishing state and federal funds as recent developments that have changed the financial picture for local government.

To criticism that he is adding "just another bureaucrat" to the city hierarchy, Hunt responds that he expected initial reaction to be unfavorable when he proposed the new position. But he contends that if people study the benefits of a public works director and realize that the city's long range goals would be better served, they will see the advantage.

"Right now I am city manager and public works director and I just don't want to have to work what should be two full time jobs," said Hunt, "I care too much about doing one job, that of city manager, well."

Paygi Wilson teaches students to enjoy and share music

by ANNE KELLY

Teacher Feature

Paygi Wilson

Paygi Wilson would like her students "to learn many kinds of songs and to participate in all kinds of music so that other people can enjoy and share it." Paygi teaches music twice a week at St. Mary's School in Charlevoix. This week she took her 3rd and 4th grade class for a performance at the Pine River Place, senior citizen center. Beginning with "Let Me Entertain You", and concluding their performance with "It a a Small World", it's hard to say who enjoyed the concert more, the residents or the performers. And Paygi is pleased with her role as the music teacher that brought them the sharing and caring experience. Her life has been dedicated to music, and this present position which she has held since last February, gives her the opportunity to be working with young people again.

Mother of two married daughters and grandmother of an 8 year old grandson, Paygi resides with her husband in Boyne City where she is organist at the Presbyterian Church.

"When I was in high school, I earned most of my spending money by playing piano as part of a family group that entertained at local hoedowns and square dances." Later she studied organ in Grand Rapids and with Professor August Huyhrecbts in Petoskey. She has taught piano for 20 years. "This," Paygi reports, "is my 50th anniversary year of playing piano myself." When her daughters were teenagers, she directed a singing group of 12 youngsters who performed locally in much the same way as her 3rd and 4th graders did recently at the Pine River Place – for the pleasure of people who like music.

Pine River Place residents are looking forward to a return visit from Paygi and her students nest month when one of the classes will feature some Irish fare in the spirit of St. Patrick's Day.

KHQ to add radar weather forecasting

In a move to increa accurate weather reporting, KHQ radio has reached an exclusive agreement with Sperry Company's Marine Radar Division to equip KHQ's main studios with radar.

"We're very proud to have been the one to bring real radar to northwestern Michigan weather reporting" says Tim Moore, President and General Manager of KHQ and WVOY radio. "For a long time we've been aware of the need for vastly improved weather reporting. Up to now, people in the communications business in northern Michigan have had to rely on wire service reports or a subscription service several hundred miles away. We have not felt the existing types of weather reporting would adequately assure the safety needs of the area during extreme weather such as blizzards in the winter, or tornado conditions in the warmer weather," says Moore.

The new radar unit will reach out over 150 miles of the upper Michigan-Wisconsin area and help the station's news people actually "see" weather developing. It will be possible to tract thunder storms or fog and actually tell listeners how long it will be before their area is hit or missed by the weather. "It's so accurate that our people will be able to spot a waterspout over Lake Michigan some 50 miles away! We truly feel we've made a major weather reporting breakthrough for upper Michigan," says Moore.

Typically, the wire services have had to classify areas of upper Michigan by different zones; thus creating confusion about which area the forecast applies to. "People don't realize that there is a tremendous difference between the Straits area forecast and the Grand Traverse region. There can be great differences in temperatures and sky conditions."

KHQ and WVOY's "Skywatch" will be broadcast regularly throughout the 24 hour day of both stations, although Moore adds that during times of any severe weather, the operators will watch the radar continuously for minute-by-minute storm tracking.

Singers to appear here

The Campus Life Singers will present a concert of sacred and contemporary music at the Community Church of God, 202 West Hurlbut Street in Charlevoix, this Sunday, March 7 at 7:00 p.m., according to Rev. Walter G. Hastings, pastor.

The Campus Life Singers are a group of forty highschool students from six surrounding communities, and are conducted by Mr. Jim Laffoon and Miss Diane Laffoon. The Singers are sponsored by the Petoskey area Youth for Christ. Mr. Laffoon has been a Youth For Christ staff member for twenty years, and has seved in Petoskey the last thirteen years.

The gourp sings both contemporary Christian music and well-known hymns. They give approximately twenty concerts each year, and have made their first recording album this year, entitled "I Will Praise Him".

The community is invited to attend the concert, the admission is free of charge.

Rayders hopeful for co-championship

by DAVE KNIGHT

It has been a fruitful year for Charlevoix basketball.

With one game remaining against 4-8 St. Ignace this Friday night, the Rayders, at 11-2, have an excellent chance to clinch at least a share of the Michigan-Huron Shores conference title.

Chebbygan takes on St. Ignace this week Tuesday in a makeup game and, in all probability, will join Boyne City and Charlevoix atop league standings with 11-2 record. Either Boyne City or Cheboygan will be bounced from the championship deadlock Friday, however, when they play each other.

The Rayders put together an impressive season that started out with a six-game winning streak. They didn't lose a game until their first post-Christmas vacation match at Harbor Springs when the Rams caught them flat-footed in a 74-63 non-conference win.

Title hopes really came alive after a crucial 70-53 Rayder victory on Boyne City's home court January 22. At that point, with away victories over both Cheboygan and Boyne City under their belt, the Rayders had clear visions of a sole conference championship.

The nest week, however, a struggling Petoskey squad almost became giant-killers when they scared the Rayders thoroughly before bowing 43-40.

Perhaps the most disappointing game of the season was at Gaylord February 5 when the Blue Devils knocked off Charlevoix 56-52 for the Rayders' first conference loss. The following showdown with Cheboygan a week later found the Rayders' bio-rythym off again; a 68-55 Cheboygan win threw the M-HSC race wide open.

Statistically, with two games left to play, the team led the conference in defense; they allowed their opponents only 840 points for a 49.4 per game average while scoring 1048 points, 61.6 per game.

Rebounding has been somewhat sporadic. Charlevoix has averaged 15.5 defensive rebounds a game but only 9.5 offensive boards for a per game total average of 25 rebounds.

The Rayders have also averaged 15 turnovers per game.

The team shot at a 40.5 percent clip from the floor in its first 17 games hitting 419 of 1,034 attempts. Free throw percentage was better. Out of 352 chances at the line, 210 went in for a 59.5 percentage.

Drawing puts Chx. in first game

Drawings for the Class C District tournament at Kalkaska were held Monday and placed Charlevoix in the opening game.

The Rayders will play host Kalkaska at 7:30 p.m. Monday, March 8 in the first game of the tournament. The winner of that game will then play East Jordan, which drew a first round bye, on Wednesday, March 10.

On Tuesday, March 9, Boyne City will play Traverse City St. Francis, the winner of which will then play Elk Rapids on Thursday, March 11.

The championship game will be played on Friday, 12. All games start at 7:30 p.m.

In his first year, Smith saw peaks and valleys

by DAVE KNIGHT

If nothing else, Dave Smith's first year as head coach of the Charlevoix Rayder varsity basketball team has been exciting.

"It's been a real rollercoaster year," says Smith who has seen his team play well enough to trample co-league leader Boyne City 70-53 on their court one week and barely squeek past conference doormat Petoskey 43-40 at home the next.

With two games left against Rogers City and St. Ignace Smith felt assured that the Rayders would be going into District competition with at least a co-championship under their belt.

As of last week, Charlevoix was tied for the Michigan-Huron Shores conference lead with Boyne City, both teams with 10-2 league records. Cheboygan was a half-game back at 9-2.

Naturally, Smith would have been much happier had the Rayders not dropped two crucial games in a row to Gaylord and Cheboygan. Going to Gaylord on February 5, Charlevoix was still undefeated in conference play.

"At times this year we have played way over our heads," said Smith, "And then other times we have not played to our ability at all.

If there is any word to describe the Rayders as a team and the players individually this season it is "unpredictable". One never knows who will be hot on a given night – or if anyone will be at all. Each one of the five regular starters has had outstanding individual games; but no one has been able to consistently overachieve.

Smith likes to play seniors

"To be really great, a team needs individual consistency and that is something we just have not been able to establish," said Smith.

"As a group, we have a tremendous amount of talent and considering the coaching transition and other factors, we have accomplished quite a bit this season," he added.

The team is dominated by seniors with eight of twelve on the roster and four of five of the starters playing their last season for the Rayders.

Smith pointed out that sometimes a coaching change can be particularly difficult for a senior-dominated team since they have been used to playing under a different system for their first three years.

It has not been a problem this year, however, according to Smith.

"The seniors have been very cooperative. They have adjusted well to my rules and my coaching philosophy," he said.

"I believe strongly in having a team dominated by seniors. Part of my philosophy is that the senior players have been in the system the longest and thus should be able to contribute the most on the court. If you don't have strong seniors on a high school team, something is wrong with the whole program," said Smith.

Dave Smith

Smith's coaching philosophy is definitely team-oriented.

"I don't believe in concentrating on just a few talented kids, letting them have the ball and turning them loose," he says, "My first objective, of course, is giving the team its best chance to win. And the best wsy to do that, I think, is to play team-oriented basketball where every member of the squad has the same goals and the same desires. As we look back over this sesson, I think the games when we really pulled together as a team were our best games."

Smith, who by day is the principle of the Middle School, also favors a tightly structured system with emphasis on rules snd discipline. Again, he thinks his players have responded well to his ways.

Regardless of the emotional ups and downs of the season, Smith has thoroughly enjoyed his first campaign as Rayder head coach.

"Sure there are trying times," he says, "But that's all part of it. What it comes down to is that I love coaching."

Good Luck Rayders in Tournaments.

Council turns thumbs down on public works director position in budget

by DAVE KNIGHT

Charlevoix's proposed city budget went under the knife Monday night and at least one major provision - that of a new public works director position - appears to have not survived the surgery.

Meeting as a committee of the whole, City Council members trimmed approximately $28,000 from the 1982-83 budget proposal. Council members polled themselves informally on some 14 items either increasing or decreasing the budget, one of which was the $25,000 per year public works director position sought by City Manager Robert A. Hunt.

Two other budget requests left out of the initial draft, $3,700 for support of the Chamber of Commerce and $2,200 for a lifeguard at Depot Beach, were reinstated at the work session while $4,000 previously budgeted for expansion of the Mt. McSauba ski lodge was cut.

Nothing is yet final on the 1982-83 budget.

Council will meet this coming Monday, March 15 in regular session to hold a public hearing on the budget. They are expected to approve it at that time.

By incorporating the cuts agreed upon at this week's work session, the council reduced millage required for operating purposes by the proposed budget from 12 to slightly under 11½, according to Hunt's unofficial calculations Monday night. This does not include two mills for the new water tower and one mill for storm sewer improvement approved separately by city voters.

Elimination of the public works director position was a setback to Hunt who argued that his heavy work load was preventing him from following up on many council directives such as grant acquisition and long range planning.

Opposition to creation of the position was led by council member Shirley Roloff who said, "I think we should ask ourselves if we really want to pursue all these grants at this time. Maybe we should just concentrate on day to day business."

Hunt contended that by hiring a public works director, the city would realize a savings by eliminating the need for outside consulting and making city operations run more efficiently.

He acknowledged the unpopularity of adding an administrative position at this time saying, "Politically this is not a good year to do this but financially, there couldn't be a better time." Hunt listed such current major projects as the storm sewer improvement, new well development, master plan, consolidation studies and others as being too time consuming for one person to handle adequately.

Council member Jeffrey Porter supported Hunt calling the position "a good investment". Council member Robert Timms also backed the suggestion saying that Hunt needed relief and that the project load was too much even for city department heads to help with.

Joining Mrs. Roloff in opposing the idea was council member Joseph Morris whose position was that adding a public works director would only add to city government at a time when the city should be reducing its role in many areas.

Also against inclusion of the position in the budget were council members Ray Wood and James Block.

Added to the proposed expenses for fiscal 1982-83 were the following items:

-$7,500 for downpayment on the Newman property next to the post office on Mason Street for future parking use.

-$7,500 for a second new police patrol car; one new car was already budgeted but council members felt the additional car was needed because of the high mileage on the back-up vehicle.

-$2,500 for two more air packs for the Fire Department; two had previously been in the budget thus bringing to four the number to be acquired.

-$1,500 for ten new coats for the fire department.

-$3,700 for the Chamber of Commerce which fulfills the Township, city start courting

Two emissaries from Charlevoix Township appeared before the Charlevoix City Council this week to respond to council proposals regarding consolidation of the city and township. Also addressed over the weekend was township involvement in the city's master plan now being developed.

Charlevoix Township Supervisor Oscar Stroud and Trustee Don Smith were on hand at the City Council's work session Monday night to report on action taken by the township board which also met Monday night.

Smith told the council that the board had appointed a committee of three to study the effects of a merger on such issues as utility rates and taxes as per the city's wishes. Smith originally proposed such a study in a letter published February 3 in the Courier. Charlevoix Mayor Kenneth Staley, on behalf of the council, later responded favorably to Smith's suggestions.

Smith also said that the board had gone on record as favoring an appointed consolidation commission rather than an elected one. This, he said, would avoid a board weighted in the city's favor without conflicting the one man-one vote principle.

He added, however, that the township board stopped short of taking action to prevent an effort to stop the consolidation process before a commission can be formed. Formal approval of the city-township merger concept is expected to be granted by the state Boundary Commission at its meeting March 18.

At a meeting of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful Saturday morning, Stroud referred to township involvement in the master planning process saying, "I feel we now have a city administration we can work with."

He warned, however, against dictating to the township saying, "Don't bring us the master plan after it's set in concrete and expect us to accept it."

Planning Commission Chairman David Strawbridge proposed a joint meeting with township officials to update them on the planning process before the next workshop scheduled tentetively for March 20.

Mr. and Mrs. John Curtis

Curtis answers last fire call

by FRAN MARTIN

As all of the community's fire fighting and ambulance equipment paraded through the city Saturday night, Charlevoix and its staff of volunteer firemen bid a fond farewell to their fire chief, John Curtis, who was retiring after 28 years.

The firemen, with horns blasting and sirens sounding, arrived at the Curtis home at 1212 State St. at 7 p.m. Saturday to escort Chief and Mrs. Curtis to the party in their honor. However, it wasn't until after they had taken the couple on a trip through the city did they deliver them to the American Legion post home where city officials, fellow firemen, retired firemen and fellow city workers and their spouses had gathered for a retirement dinner.

Following the dinner, Curtis, who had joined the fire department in June, 1955, as assistant to Martin Elzinga and who assumed the position of Fire Chief the following fall following Elzinga's retirement, was honored with several gifts.

On behalf of the volunteer firemen, Clifford G. Riley, a veteran of 34 years with the department, Don Meggison, 33 years, and William Lusk, 32 years, for a total of 99 years service, presented the honoree with a purse; Dan Genelt, in behalf of the ambulance drivers, gave Curtis a miniature fire nozzle for use on his garden hose and Mayor Kenneth A. Staley, in behalf of the city, commended Curtis for his years of dedicated service and presented him with a watch.

City Manager Robert Hunt and other representatives of the city and the department also spoke briefly. Ann Cunningham, a retired city employee, gave the invocation.

Dancing to the music of Jasper and his Tag-alongs followed.

Curtis, a native of Charlevoix who has always resided here, has no definite retirement plans. "I'm just going to play it day by day. After so many years it's going to take me a little time to get used to this new way of life," he said Sunday.

He did say, however, that he and his wife, the former Elinor Oeder, hope to do a little traveling. "Perhaps a trip to the World's Fair as a starter," he added.

Asked about the most memorable instances of his 28 years as fire chief, he said there were many. "The job was never dull. Every call was a new experience. There were the sad times when lives were lost and there were other times that you felt great because you were able to help someone."

There were many fires. The Lexalite fire last fall, that represented great monetary losses he said but he recalled the fire which completely destroyed Bultars' Sunset Lodge where the LaCroft condominiums now stand as the most spectacular.

"It was in October, 1966, the owners, Mr. and Mrs. William Buttars, were absent from the house for the evening when the fire started. It had a good start before it was discovered and by then the big windows overlooking the lake were blown out and this served to make the three story building a huge chimney. Gale winds were blowing off Lake Michigan, everything was tinder dry and, for a while, we feared for the entire north side. Cinders from the fire were found as far away as the Chicago Club. Fire departments from Petoskey and cities in Charlevoix County came to assist. As I said, cost-wise it wasn't the most destructive but it could have been bad," he reminisced.

Joining the Curtises at the dinner were their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Steven (Mary) LaFortune of Petoskey, and their sons and daughter-in-law, James of Pontiac, Mr. and Mrs. William Curtis of Traverse City and John, Jr. of Charlevoix as well as other members of his family.

Breighner rules against Township

In a decision handed down March 4, Circuit Judge Martin Breighner ruled against Marion Township in their effort to force Castle Farms Music Theatre to comply with the township gathering ordinance.

The township first sought temporary restraining orders to prevent Castle Farms rock concerts last spring when the township board was prompted to take action by concerned Marion Township residents.

Concert permits were denied Castle Farms on the basis that recommendations by Sheriff George Lasater to limit concert crowds and erect fencing, among other things, were not met.

Castle Farms owner Arthur Reibel argued that the sheriff's recommendations were not economically feasible and that by basing their decision on his suggestions, the township was, in effect, legislating his business out of existence.

Breighner agreed, saying in his decision, "The clear conclusion to be drawn is that (Marion Township)'s adopted rules and regulations...not only do but were intended to regulate (Castle Farm)'s activity out of existence. As such they are unconstitutional and unenforceable."

Marion Township Supervisor Michael Bonar said Monday that the board had been advised of the decision and that they were "greatly disappointed" at the outcome of the suit. He refused to comment on how the township will proceed in the matter.

Said Reibel, "We feel the decision is fair, well reasoned and fully supported by the numerous recent U.S. Supreme Court cases pertaining to the constitutional rights and constitutional law."

Date set for Big Rock spent fuel hearing

by TOM DAMMANN

A public hearing on Consumers Power Company's request for federal permission to increase the number of spent fuel assemblies in the spent fuel pool at its Big Rock Point Nuclear Power Plant near here has been set for June 7 - 20 in Petoskey.

The COURIER has learned that the date was agreed to during a telephone conference last Tuesday participated in by representatives of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NCR) Atomic Safety and Licensing Board, Consumers Power Co., of Jackson, and John O'Neill, of Glenn Lake, one of four intervenors who are protesting the granting of the amendment to Big Rock's operating license sought by the utility.

On April 23, 1979, Consumers asked the NRC to amend the license to enable it to increase the number of spent fuel bundles it can store in the waste pool, from 193 to 441. This would be accomplished by redesigning, refabricating and rearranging the racks in which the bundles are placed, thus eliminating the need to expand the concrete pool itself. The pool's dimensions are 30 by 20 feet, and 38 feet deep.

Consumers is one of many utilities throughout the nation which made such requests for their nuclear power plants because of an embargo on offsite reprocessing and shipment of nuclear waste imposed by President Jimmy Carter in 1977.

In May, 1979, four area residents, O'Neill plus Christa Maria, Jim Mills and Joanna Bier, of Charlevoix, petitioned the NRC for the right to intervene as citizens fearful of the harmful impact on the health oand life of Big Rock's neighbors.

The NRC Licensing Board granted them the legal status of intervenors and at a preliminary public hearing in Petoskey in December 1979, the general line of their attack was staked out and agreed to by the panel of judges of the licensing board.

Since then the intervenors have filed a number of contentions. These were challenged by Consumers which filed motions for summary disposition, about half of which have been denied by the Licensing Board, leaving the balance to be argued before the Board at the Petoskey hearing in June.

According to NRC sources, the three intervenors in this case have scored a better batting average than intervenors in other similar cases.

"However, so far no intervenor has won a spent fuel case," says Professor Herbert Semmel, of Antioch College of Law, Washington, D.C., who heads a team of law

Local woman killed in Atwood car accident

A local resident was killed and a second injured in a two-car head-on collision on US 31 one-half mile south of Atwood at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, March 2.

Dead is Mrs. James R. (Patricia) Crowell, 49, who was a passenger in a car driven by Mrs. Earl (Winifred) Weir, 45, also of Charlevoix. The Weir car was traveling south on the highway and reportedly collided with a northbound vehicle driven by Mrs. Flossie Peters of Eastport.

The accident remains under investigation by the Antrim County Sheriff's Department which declined comment on road and weather conditions at the time of the accident. The injured women were taken to Munson Medical Center in Traverse City via ambulance. Mrs. Peters was treated and released. Mrs. Weir was hospitalized for treatment of a fractured pelvis and ribs. She is reportedly in satisfactory condition.

Mrs. Crowell's body was returned to the Winchester Funeral Home and later transferred to the Denhere Funeral Home in Pauling, Ohio, for services and interment.

Mrs. Crowell came to Charlevoix approximately four years ago from Ohio. She and her husband, a counselor in the Boyne Falls School system, resided at Boulder Park. They were members of Christ Episcopal Church where she served as secretary.

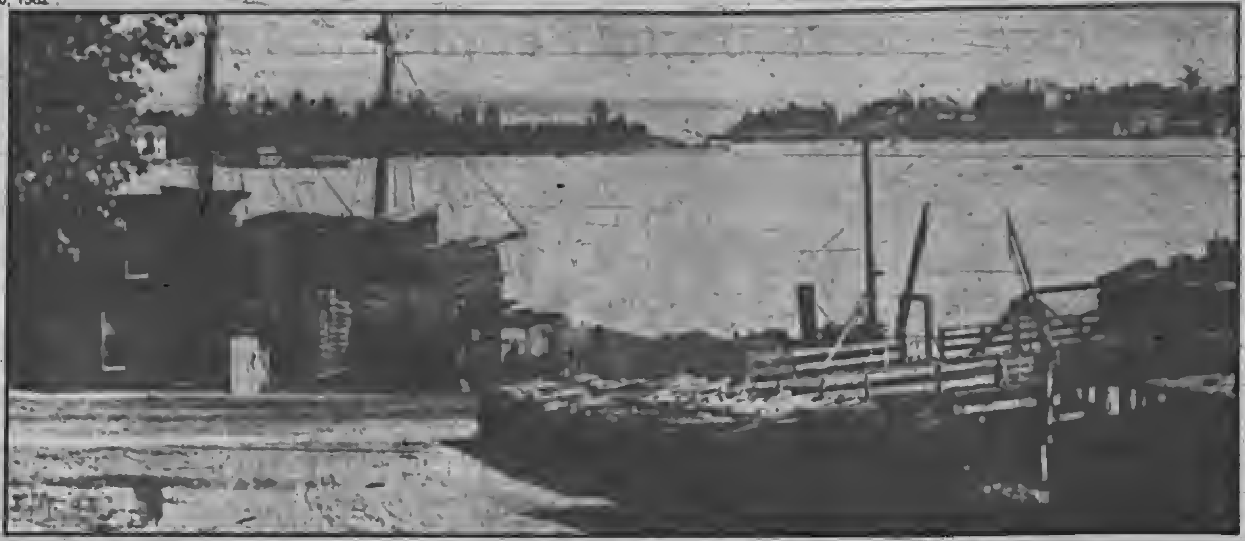
Women Club plans meeting

The Charlevoix Women's Club will meet at the Fellowship Hall of the Community Church of God at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 16, Mrs. Ray Wood, club president, has announced.

Mrs. Bruca MacArthur will present the program. Her topic will be "The National Peace Academy Campaign". Mrs. MacArthur was a former reporter of city and township government and volunteer coordinator of an environmental organization for 14 years.

Officers for the coming year will also be elected at this meeting. Mrs. Wood said she is hoping for a good attendance at this meeting in order to finalize the club slate of officers.

Plans are also being formulated for the annual tea honoring the girls in the graduating class of the Charlevoix High School and their mothers to be held early in May.



Charlevoix Yesterday

A traveler entering Charlevoix from the north in the early 1880's would have been greeted by this scene. The small building and stacked lumber are on the site of the present Finn Lumber Company. Note the horses and wagons next to the lumber pile and the sailing ships behind it. Several early buildings on the Belvedere Club grounds are visible in the background across Round Lake.

Board will advertise for bus bids

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Board of Education, at its regular meeting March 1, voted to advertise for bids for two buses to be delivered this fall.

The board also approved job descriptions for class and club sponsors and heard several reports.

Vincent Olach, business manager, advised the board members that no purchase of buses had been made since 1980 and that, despite the change over to propane gas for fuel, there was a definite need to supplement the fleet at this time. He recommended that two buses be purchased this year, one to replace one of the three 1972 buses and a second to replace one of three 1973 vehicles. The purchases would be paid with funds on hand. The 1972 bus will be offered for sale; the 1973 bus will be kept as a spare. "With the number of older vehicles in the fleet, it is important to have an extra spare on hand," he recommended to the board. He explained further that the fleet is composed of 19 vehicles including the six mentioned above. The vehicles are depreciated out at seven years and even with the use of propane gas as the fuel source which extends the life of the vehicle it is not feasible to repair the buses past nine or ten years, he said.

Permission was granted by the board to advertise for bids. Specifications are available at the business office.

The board policy regarding students transferring into the school district to live with someone other than a parent was discussed at length. Vane Smith, high school principal, who had asked for guidance from the board regarding such a situation, was advised to follow the proposed plan of action in dealing with the problem.

Mrs. Doris Pearl presented a report on curriculum and Kenneth Boss reported on the meeting of the extra-curricular committee which recommended that the usual spring sports be offered this spring. They are both boys and girls track, girls softball, boys baseball and tennis with decisions regarding other sports to be made this summer.

The board adjourned to an executive session to discuss a personnel situation within the system.

The next meeting is scheduled for March 15.

Building permits totalled 18 last month

Business for the Charlevoix County Department of Building Inspection picked up in February with the issuance of 18 permits. Only seven permits were issued in January.

Included in the permits was one for a residential retreat center on the grounds of the Lake Louise Christian Community in Hudson Township. The only other new structures were a residence in Peaine Township and a commercial building in St. James Township.

The other 15 permits issued in February covered two residential additions and remodeling jobs, three residential garages, one residential deck, two commercial additions, one demolition, and six mobile homes.

Three Middle Schoolers are winners in local essay contest

Three students from Charlevoix Middle School have been named local winners in the 13th annual America & Me Essay Contest, sponsored by Farm Bureau Insurance Group.

The three, who earned the first, second and third place awards for their school, are Andrew Stewart, first; Danielle Louise Johnson, second; and Lisa Seymour, third.

All three received award certificates for their achievement. And, as the school's first place winner, Andy's name will be angraved on a plaque for permanent display in the school.

Andy's first place essay, based on the topic "America & Me", now advances to the state level competition from which the top ten essays in Michigan will be selected. The top ten statewide winners, who will be announced in March, will receive plaques and U.S. savings bond ranging in value from $200 to $1,000 totalling $4,000 in prizes for the top ten essayists.

Local Farm Bureau Insurance agent Charles Elzinga awards certificates to Andrew Stuart and Danielle Johnson.

In addition, the top ten winners will be honored at an awards luncheon in Lansing Mid-April, followed by a visit to the office of Governor William Milliken, who will personally congratulate each winner.

Gov. Milliken heads the team of celebrity judges that will determine the top statewide winners.

Several thousand eighth grade students from over 450 Michigan schools participated in the 1981-82 America & Me Essay contest, which was conducted with the help of Farm Bureau Insurance agents across the state.

Started in 1968 and open to all Michigan eighth grade students, the annual contest encourages Michigan youngsters to explore their roles in America's future through "America & Me" essays.

As sponsor of the contest, Farm Bureau Insurance Group has received ten national awards from the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge.

Girl Scout Week prompts search for local roots

(Carolyn Olinger, public relations representative for Charlevoix Girl Scouts, furnished the Courier with the following short history of their beginnings and early activities).

The first Girl Scout troop in Charlevoix was formed in 1935 by Mrs. Harry Ladd. That was the year Mrs. Ladd, a former school teacher and Girl Scout counselor in Oakland County, moved to Charlevoix with her husband.

Records indicate that eight girls belonged to that pioneer troop: Louise Young Gill, Roseann Partridge McPhillips, Billie Meyers Smith, Vernice Holland, Margie Wood Lucas, Margie Edwards, Estella Hahn, and Martha Craig Wigglesworth.

The troop was called a "lone troop" because it was not sponsored and was not part of a council. Mrs. Ladd sent to New York headquarters for the girls' handbooks.

Later on, the Dickens Club agreed to sponsor the troop and assigned a committee of three women to work with the girls. They later became registered leaders. The troop met in the Middle School one day a week for an hour and a half and apparently had such a good time that they continued meeting during the summer months, when there were bike trips to Ironton and campouts on Lake Charlevoix "to watch the sun rise".

In 1940, Edith Aloke Close, a senior in high school, began helping Mrs. Ladd with troop activities, and in 1944 she became a leader herself. That same year, Mrs. Hazel Reed became the first Brownie leader. Other leaders were Mrs. Charles Bleha and Mrs. John Cross.

Mrs. Harry Ladd

Mrs. Ladd was once asked, "What personal reward did you receive out of Scouting?"

Her reply was, "A great deal of happiness that resulted from the happiness the girls showed. I started many on the road to their careers. Ruth Edwards captured a special place in my heart. I receive a Christmas card from her every year." In her card this year, she stated how she had been inspired to what she did in her adult life from being a Girl Scout."

In 1948, a city Girl Scout Council was formed in Charlevoix, consisting of Mrs. Lloyd Arnold, Mrs. Charles Duarr, Barbara Gallagher, and Mrs. Gene Smith. The Council was supported by local people until 1952, when the City of Charlevoix appropriated funds to Girl Scouting in the sum of "$1,000 to $1,200".

In 1954, an attempt was made to keep the Charlevoix Council from being moved to Traverse City, but the attempt failed and Charlevoix became a part of the Crooked Tree Girl Scout Council.

Bloodmobile falls just short

The recent visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile to the community resulted in 122 pints of blood Mrs. Nancy Fowler, general chairman, has announced.

"Although we did not meet our quota of 150 pints, the Red Cross people thought we did well despite the inclement weather and many cases of flu and colds in the community" Mrs. Fowler added.

A total of 139 people responded. Seventeen were unable to give because of colds or because they were on medication. Twenty-five prospective donors did not keep their appointments. Eight of those who gave were first time donors Mrs. Fowler said.

Volunteers staffed the Bloodmobiel under Mrs. Francis Left who organized the nurses; Mrs. Vernon Mathews, Jr., who organized other workers and Xi Epsilon Gamma and Kappa Sigma chapters of Beta Sigma Phi sorority who were in charge of the canteen. The JayCees unloaded and loaded the Bloodmobile. The Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226 donated the use of the American Legion post home. Coffee was donated by the First State Bank. Cookies were donated by area residents.

The Student Council at the Charlevoix High School will sponsor a visit of the Bloodmobile at the high school on Friday, March 12. Those who missed the visit of the Bloodmobile may donate at this time. The hours are from 1 to 7 p.m. Seventeen year olds may now donate without parental permission.

Date set for hearing on spent fuel at Big Rock students representing the intervenors. Nevertheless, in a telephone interview, Prof. Semmel said, he is encouraged because of the nature of the contentions the Board is allowing to be argued.

In fact, he pointed out that the board has complimented the intervenors for their hard work in uncovering serious issues concerning the safety of the espansion and the plant itself.

The compliment is contained in a memorandum and order (concerning motions for summary disposition) served Feb 22, by a panel of the three judges of the NRC Atomic Safety and Licensing Board.

The same document lists the allegations presented by the intervenors which creat "a genuine issue of fact that requires that we conduct an evidentiary hearing."

Among the issues the Board said it wanted facts and answers to is the question of the effects of the expanded spent fuel storage on fish in Lake Michigan. The 3 judges pointed out that while the intervenors interpretation of the radiation rates in fish might differ from the Commission's, data on the subject "ought to be available, thus permitting ... the public to reach their own conclusions about the effects of Big Rock Point on local fish."

The Board wrote that another issue of concern is how much exposure to radiation will contract workers suffer while they are installing the new storage system. What precautions are being prepared to train these workers?

The Board is also concerned about flights by Air Force bombers and Air National Guard fighters performing low level maneuvers over water and land areas around Bay Shore.

Bay Shore is the location of the highly sophisticated Air Force Radar tracking base used in recording the accuracy of military aircraft in practice bombing runs and simulated low level combat held over Lake Michigan and land terrain, which resembles parts of Europe west of the Iron Curtain.

Basic to the board's concern is the effect of an aircraft (any aircraft, military or civilian) crash on the containment shield. The shield, a dome of ¾ inch stainless steel, is not supported by concrete. A B-52 bomber crashed in Lake Michigan off Big Rock in 1970.

Among more technical issues is the ability of the cement walls to withstand intense heat and the effects on them of radiation resulting from the heat.

On another issue the Board states, "We find that the discrepancy about wall dimensions (of the south wall of the spent fuel pool) is a genuine issue of fact and is important enough to explore." The intervenors have raised questions about the amount of radiation from that wall, it being the thinnest.

Among other questions which Consumers must answer: "Is the spent fuel pool safe from a rupture which might be caused by a drop of a spent fuel transfer cask or of the overhead crane?"

These are examples of the issues the Board has ordered be argued at the public hearing. Both the utility and the intervenors are expected to present testimony by scientests and other experts on nuclear power.

The Board's final statement is "This is an interlocutory order and is not subject to appeal."

According to Big Rock spokesman Phil Loomis, there is only enough room left in the spent fuel pool to hold 61 more bundles of spent fuel, which means the plant will have to shut down in 1984. The reactor uses 84 bundles and if for some reason Big Rock has to unload all 84, it would have to shut down until it secured spaces to unload.

Opinion

Knight on the Town
Need more than a phrase

by Dave Knight

Win or lose, one has got to admire the chutzpah of City Manager Bob Hunt.

Imagine...to suggest adding another administrator, in the person of a public works director, at a time when enlarging government bureaucracy is about as popular as drafting grandmothers.

Obviously the political climate around the country and around the block is somewhat less than receptive for such ventures and, for many reasons, rightly so.

Administrators in the public sector have been tagged with a non-productive image. People see them as overpaid and unneccessary. People see a lot of governmental expenses as unneccessary in these times when so many families face hardship and sacrifice.

It is almost too easy to taka potshots at the suggestion of adding a public works director and, indeed, the idea was shot down handily by the City Council Monday night as they made some final adjustments in the city budget to be formally addressed next week.

Trouble was, those opposing the position used only the trendy argument of "reducing big government". They failed to specifically address the situation which prompted Hunt to propose creation of the position in the first place.

While Hunt repeatedly listed areas where a public works director could save the taxpayers' money, such as reducing dependence on outside consultants and freeing the city manager from time-consuming chores for more valuable and productive work, the majority of the council still saw the position as too expensive but did not elaborate.

It may be that the council was so intent on cutting the short term expenses for political expediency that they failed to adequately consider any merit the proposal had as a long term investment. American car makers, to name one group, are just now experiencing the consequences of short-sighted planning.

The facts are that Charlevoix has one heck of a lot going on right now in the area of public works. Included on the list is the storm sewer project which will tear up virtually all of State St.; the neccessity of new water mains for the Northwest Marine complex on the south side and fire protection on the north; the pending multi-million dollar investment into new electricity sources; the development of a new city water supply; the master plan being developed and the study of consolidation with the township.

These are all major projects, vitally important to the future of Charlevoix. None of them should be given the short shrift. But, with Bob Hunt working 60 hours a week now, who is going to address them adequately?

If the council has the answer, then what they have done is right and proper.

But to fall back on the blanket assumption that big government is bad just because of its bigness is too easy a cop out. We have some specific needs at hand and we'll need more than catch phrases when it comes to dealing with them.

Clockwise
Historic view from the inside

by Bob Clock

I suppose every well stocked library should hava a copy of Henry Kissinger's new book on Richard Nixon, Years of Upheaval, scheduled for publication March 25.

But if the $24.95 price tag is too steep, don't miss the synopsis of the book which has appeared in the last two issues of Time magazine and will continue this week.

Kissinger not only has a superb command of the English language but also is in a position to give a first-hand view of Nixon and the people who surrounded him during his White House years. Kissinger trots them out one by one and examines them in the context of their personal lives and their relationship with the president.

"Even Alexander Haig, who emerged as a central figure during the dying days of the Nixon administration, is covered at some length. And Kissinger's evaluation of him could well allay the fears of many who see Haig him as a formidable figure in the present administration.

"During the Viet Nam talks of 1972, Haig drew closer to Nixon," Kissinger writes, "— partly from the conviction (he probably would have preferred a military outcome), partly from the conflicting pulls of loyalty to me and duty to his Commander in Chief. This caused moments of exasperation. Yet in the end they were always superseded by my admiration for Haig's integrity, courage, intelligence and and patriotism.

"At the start of Nixon's second term, Haig was made Vice Chief of Staff of the Army, a four-star rank culminating a spectacular rise from colonel in four years. When he was caled back in May 1973 as White House chief of staff, his strength and discipline helped the Government traverse Watergate without disintegrating. Haig kept faith with his President, and he kept faith with the nation's institutions. It was a unique and indispensable service."

After listening to Kissinger, I feel a lot bettter about Haig. Let us hope he continues to live up to Mr. K's high evaluation of him.

THE CALENDAR said March 8 — but the weatherman hadn't heard the news and served up below-zero temperatures in double digits Monday morning. The thermometer on our front porch registered 10 below and it was much colder elsewhere in Northern Michigan.

The forecast, fortunately, is for a warming trend and hopefully the high snowbanks that have been with us since New Year's Eve will begin to diminish.

Last year at this time our snow was pretty much gone and everyone was poring over seed catalogs. This year the snow still lies several feet deep on the city garden plots — and our backyard garden is an arctic wasteland.

I imagine that with our hefty snow cover very little frost is left in the ground. When the weather does warm up, the snow should disappear in a hurry.

Let us pray.

Letters: Consumers Power responds

Dear Mr. Knight,

Your edition of February 10, 1982 contained a letter from JoAnne Bier, which attributed fear of radiation accidents to a lack of understanding of radiation effects. The same edition, on Page 2, reported on the Charlevoix Women's Club meeting and tour of the Big Rock Nuclear Plant. We were most happy to host the Women's Club meeting and answer a wide range of questions from that group. We encourage groups, such as the Charlevoix Women's Club and individuals, to continue their contacts with us in order to improve their understanding of nuclear power, radiation or emergency planning.

The types of questions asked in Ms. Bier's letter are typical of questions asked, from a personal point of view, by citizens throughout the area: questions which are addressed to us, to the Emmet and Charlevoix County Emergency Services Directors, and various other local and State authorities who hold responsibility in all types of emergency situations.

Answers to Ms. Bier's questions would be similar for any emergency situation - windstorm, flood, firestorm, enemy attack, volcano eruption, earthquake or nuclear plant accident. With few exceptions, a major nuclear plant accident would affect far fewer individuals and has a significantly lower probability of occuring than any of the other disasters.

The probability of an accident, large enough to cause evacuation of residents within two and one half miles of the Big Rock Point Plant, is one chance in 10,000 to 100,000 years of plant operation. This is a calculated number and is not meant to be interpreted as real. The point being that there is a risk involved in whatever you do, including living next to a nuclear plant, but put into perspective it is a calculated, extremely low number.

The emergency signals installed by Consumers Power Company are operated by local law enforcement authorities and are designed to increase public safety in all types of emergency by providing warning prior to the point of critical action. The system also has capability for public address to describe the reason for the alert, and actions which should be taken. In addition, public radio and TV stations would be broadcasting emergency instructions. These include: WJML Radio, Petoskey; WVOY-WKHQ-FM, Charlevoix; WCLX-FM, Boyne City (5:30 AM to 11:00 PM); WWTV-WWUP-TV, Cadillac, Traverse City, Sault Ste. Marie; and WPBN-TV, Traverse City.

Blomberg is new skipper of Mesquite

by PEG OHLE

Lt. Com. David H. Blomberg has been in command of the Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite, home-ported in Charlevoix, since last August. This week the Courier talks with him about his job and about himself.

Meet Charlevoix

Lt. Com. David Blomberg

COURIER: What assignments did you have before coming to the Mesquite?

BLOMBERG: I came here from the Merchant Marine Industry Training program of the Chevron Shipping Company in San Francisco. Backward in order before that, I was the Marine Safety Officer in Duluth, Commanding Officer of the Coast Guard Cutter Loran stationed on the Island of Yap in Micronesia, Executive Officer on the Coast Guard Cutter Woodthrush in Duluth, Port Safety Officer at the Port Safety Station in Boston, and Deck Watch Officer on the Coast Guard Cutter Edisto, a polar ice breaker which had its home port in Boston.

COURIER: Where did you go to school?

BLOMBERG: I went to the Coast Guard Academy in New London, Connecticut. I graduated in 1969.

COURIER: When did you become interested in the Coast Guard?

BLOMBERG: In my senior year in high school. A friend of mine had a Coast Guard Academy catalog and I sent for one.

COURIER: Where did you grow up?

BLOMBERG: In Chicago. I went to Lane Technical High School there.

COURIER: You've been around the Great Lakes most of your life, then.

BLOMBERG: Yes, I like the lakes. I've had a couple of tours on salt water but I'm always glad to come back to the lakes.

COURIER: You sound as if you intend to make the Coast Guard your career.

BLOMBERG: Yes, I do. I'm enjoying it.

COURIER: What sports do you like?

BLOMBERG: Sailing and cross country skiing.

COURIER: Do you live aboard the Mesquite?

BLOMBERG: No, I live in town. Only about 10 of our crew of 60 live aboard.

COURIER: How old are the men in your crew?

BLOMBERG: I would say the average age is in the low to mid 20's. The oldest man aboard is 36.

COURIER: How many are married?

BLOMBERG: About half.

COURIER: How long do they stay in one place, like on the Mesquite?

BLOMBERG: They usually serve two to three year hitches. Some of them may leave after six months or so to go to school for additional training, then go off to another unit.

COURIER: Are there any special advantages or disadvantages in serving in a small unit in a small town?

BLOMBERG: The advantage of a small unit is that everybody knows everybody else. It's easier to work together as a team. It's a closer knit group. The disadvantages of a small town are that there aren't many recreation facilities — no military exchanges, clubs or commissaries.

COURIER: What kind of a winter has the Mesquite had so far?

BLOMBERG: As far as operating goes — slow. We haven't been out much except for a week at Sturgeon Bay. However, the District inspectors were here for our bicentennial inspection and we were busy getting ready for them. The crew did well. There was a lot of teamwork and professional attitude displayed. Everybody pulled together and did a good job. We have an exceptionally fine group of people.

COURIER: Have you done any icebreaking?

BLOMBERG: Very little. On our way back from Sturgeon Bay we assisted the Amoco Wisconsin, but the wind came up and we had to be assisted by the Biscayne Bay. Once shipping starts we'll have more icebreaking to do.

COURIER: What's your next job after the ice breaks up?

BLOMBERG: We'll have to get our buoys back in. Our principal jobs are maintaining aids to navigation and search and rescue. We take care of western Lake Huron, the Straits of Mackinac, and northern Lake Michigan. We have about a half dozen off-shore lighthouses in our area and fuel five of them two to four times a year. Sometimes we take maintenance personnel out to the lighthouses.

COURIER: What's yoor favorite time of year as far as work is concerned?

BLOMBERG: The operational time of year. There's more activity.

Cagers cop M-HSC crown

As expected, the Charlevoix Rayder cage squad won their first conference title in five years with a 76-54 waxing of St. Ignace Friday night in Charlevoix's final regular season game.

The Rayders must share the crown with Cheboygan, however, who trampled Boyne City the same night 76-56 to end their league schedule with a 12-2 record, identical to Charlevoix's.

St. Ignace had a chance to go ahead Friday night evn before the game started when they were awarded a free throw for a Rayder stuff during warmups. But they missed the gimme and things went downhill from there for the rest of the evening.

The Rayders took advantage of string of turnovers early in the game to jump to a first quarter lead of 15-8.

Eight points from guard Jim Buchanan, six from outside shots, helped Charlevoix cruise to a 36-19 advantage by halftime. In the third quarter, the Rayders continued to dominate and were up 58-36 by the start of the fourth. Both teams scored 18 in the final period enroute to the 76-54 final tally.

Junior Craig Klooster hit six of eight from the free throw line and six baskets from the floor for 18 points and high scoring honors for the game. Klooster thus ends the season as top scorer for the team with 235 points and a 12.3 points per game average.

In other individual scoring Friday night, Gary Drury and Buchanan each canned 12 while George Smith added ten.

Dane Tollas's 18 points and Alec Sheets' 14 helped the Rayder junior varsity squad to a 61-53 victory over the St. Ignace JVs.

Rogers City wins District Class C VB tourney held here

The Rogers City girl's volleyball team, rated first in state standings last week, captured the Class C District title here Saturday Jim Glynn, tournament manager, reports.

In winning the title, Rogers City topped Kalkaska rated sixth and Elk Rapids, rated seventh in the state.

Rogers City and Kalkaska clashed in the finals with the Hurons taking the first two of three scheduled matches by scores of 15-8, 15-4. Glynn said the matches were closer than the scores indicated. "The matches were marked by many long volleys and fine defensive play on the part of both teams. In fact, these were by far the best in the tournament" he added.

Rogers City will advance to the finals after defeating seventh ranked Elk Rapids 15-2, 15-2 and sixth ranked Kalkaska made it to the finals after defeating Charlevoix in two other very good matches 15-3, 15-13.

It is interesting to note that all games were won by 2-0 margins throughout the tournament.

In the opening matches Charlevoix defeated East Jordan; Kalkaska won over Boyne City; Rogers City over Grayling and Elk Rapids over Traverse City, all by 2-0 margins.

In the consolation bracket he won by a pin in 3:55 before bowing out by an 8-4 decision which was much closer than the score indicates Coach Bryan said.

Whitley who wrestled in the 145 pound weight class, closed out his high school career with a record of 103 wins, 34 losses and one tie. His 1981-82 record was 38-4.

Alan Bergmann, a junior who wrestled in the 157 pound weight class, lost his first matches by 8-1 and 6-5 decisions in the toughest of all weight classes Coach Bryan said. His season record was 28-10.

Nancy Nagurka stresses skills students will use in later life

by ANNE KELLY

Nancy Nagurka

"I think it's important for middle school kids to begin to acquire skills that they will use the rest of their lives," believes Nancy Nagurka. Nancy teaches 7th grade English and Social Studies at Charlevoix Middle School and makes it one of her goals as a teacher to consistently train her students in these skills. Beyond teaching study skills, Nancy works on helping her classes gain a sense of responsibility for getting work finished, courtesy, and respect for authority.

A native of Lawrence, Michigan, Nancy graduated from Western Michigan University with a B.S. in secondary education in the area of Communication and Sociology. At that time, she aimed at a career in counseling, a background which Nancy considers most beneficial in working with middle school students. After marrying, she and her husband, Tom, who is a teacher in the Boyne City Schools, moved to the area where Nancy substitute taught. She also became involved with teaching reading in the Boyne adult education program and in the "Right to Read" program which provides tutors for adults who need help with reading.

Nancy has accumulated 18 hours of reading certification through both Western and Central. Her interest in this subject area was further encouraged by being offered the position of 7th grade English and reading with the Charlevoix schools. Nancy has been teaching 7th grade at the Middle School since 1977. Today she teaches English and Social Studies. Regarding those subjects, Nancy enjoys the structure of the curriculum in English and the freedom, on the other hand, of the Social Studies syllabus. She relates that she is constantly looking for new ways to approach teaching problem areas, for example in grammar.

"Students will do what they think they can do," Nancy says of the importance of the positive approach to learning. "If they think something can be learned easily, they are not apt to form a defeatist attitude before they get started."

In Social Studies, she enjoys using the subject matter as a guide to research, memorization, how to study and even how to read a textbook.

Because 7th grade is departmentalized, students being esposed to a variety of teachers for their subjects, they will probably find at least one teacher during the course of their day that they "click" with. This she feels is important to the middle school student who is quite often ambivalent in his moods and feelings and needs modeling and guidance.

"We try to help kids feel good about themselves here at Middle School," Nancy explained. "Their appearance and feelings about themselves are two factors closely related to their work performance."

Nancy feels strongly about providing a good model for her studeats. "I try to be a good listener for them," she concluded.

One can't help but feel that Nancy is a successful teacher because of her tenacity to the goals she sets for herself and her students.

Harbor Springs will host the next meeting of District 13, American Legion and Auxiliary on Sunday, March 14, members of the local auxiliary were advised at a recent meeting.

The meeting followed the potluck supper attended by members of the Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226 and its Auxiliary. The two organizations then held their separate meetings.

A dinner will be served at 1 p.m. It will be followed by meetings of the Legion and the Auxiliary. Those planning to attend the meeting are asked to call Mrs. Robert Walters at 526-2714 for dinner reservations.

Poppy Days to be held in May were discussed.

Prior to leaving, auxiliary members prepared the post home for the Bloodmobile held Thursday.

At the social hour Mrs. Gertrude Holt and Mrs. Lillian Hull were the hostesses.

Cribbage scores

The Masons took their biggest lead of the season Thursday night, scoring 583 points to increase their advantage to 755 points in the annual Masons-Oddfellows cribbage tournament.

Charlevoix Council Minutes

March 1, 1982
8:00 P.M.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time with Mayor Staley presiding.

Present: Councilmembers Timms, Roloff, Wood, Morris, Block, and Porter. Absent: None.

The Minutes of the February 15, 1982 regular meeting and the February 22, 1982 special meeting were approved as presented in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes Book.

A Public Hearing was held regarding the City's proposed 1982-83 fiscal year budget. Representatives of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce were present to request that the City's financial support of that organization not be reduced as presently proposed. Several other members of the General Public present expressed their opposition to eliminating the City-employed lifeguard at Depot Beach as proposed.

A Public Hearing was held regarding the request for rezoning of the property at 844 Petoskey Ave. owned by Oscar and Margaret Stroud from R-1 to C-1. Norm Probert, a property owner in the area, spoke in opposition to the proposed rezoning and asked that the matter be tabled until several other property owners in the area, who are presently on vacation, are back in the City and can state their opinions in the matter.

Moved by Councilman Block and supported by Councilwoman Roloff to table the request for rezoning of the Stroud property at 844 Petoskey Ave. from R-1 to C-1 until the regular Council meeting scheduled for April 5, 1982 to allow time for further evaluation of the matter.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Timms, Roloff, Wood, Morris, Block, and Porter. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council adjourned to the Board of Appeals.

Following the Board of Appeals meeting, roll call of the Council was again taken with all members being present.

A proposed Ordinance to adopt the 1982-83 City budget was introduced and discussed with formal adoption of said Ordinance scheduled for March 15, 1982.

Council discussed the City's snow removal policy with Street Supt. Leonard Dubey and Police Chief Jack Mol. It was generally agreed to institute a policy of not hauling snow which is removed to clear intersections on side streets of the City but to dump the snow on City right-of-ways in the vicinity of the intersection in an effort to reduce costs and prolong the life of equipment whenever possible.

Council reviewed the newly instituted program permitting parking on either side of Belvedere Ave. during the winter months as requested by the Gray Gables.

Moved by Councilman Morris and supported by Councilman Wood that the Police Chief shall ban parking on the northside of Belvedere Ave. from Alice St. to the Belvedere Club entrance, during the winter months, at any and all times the Police Chief determines that accumulation of snow on either side of Belvedere Ave. has caused a safety hazard to exist, by narrowing the affective travelled surface of the Ave. to less than the width encountered during the summer months. The City crews shall not undertake any special snow removal program in this area. The Grey Gables may undertake whatever plowing or snow removal program within the public right-of-way it deems appropriate, within the limits of the law, to prevent or contain said accumulation.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Timms, Roloff, Wood, Morris, Block, and Porter. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council discussed the application of Garb-Ko, Inc. (7-11 Store) for a new Resort class liquor license. No objections to the application were voiced.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Wood to designate the City Manager as the Council's representative for the purpose of conducting a Third Step procedure in response to the February 24, 1982 grievance filing by CWA Local 4106 in the matter of former City employee; James K. Baker.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Timms, Roloff, Wood, Morris, Block, and Porter. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Timms to contribute a sum of $100.00 to aid in supporting the legal expenses of Delta County in their suit against the State regarding solid waste management requirements.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Timms, Roloff, Wood, Block, and Porter. Nays: Councilman Morris. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilwoman Roloff that a tax assessment settlement with the owners of the Captain's Corner Shopping Center be authorized in the true cash value amount of $1,030,000 for 1981 and $1,100,000 for 1982, and that the Mayor and City Clerk be authorized to sign whatever documents the City Attorney finds are required to execute the settlement agreement.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Timms, Roloff, Wood, Morris, Block, and Porter. Nays: None. Absent: None.

The following Resolution was offered by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Wood.

Layoffs, budget cuts avoid added millage

by DAVE KNIGHT

With the message to curb local taxation ringing loud and clear in their ears, City Council members approved a 1982-83 budget Monday night that will require work crew layoffs and other funding cuts to avoid any additional millage in the coming fiscal year for operating purposes.

Going into the meeting, the council faced a budget proposal that featured a nearly one mill increase to 11.477 mills from the present millage of 10.5 mills. With the total assessed value in the city anticipated to be $52,460,000, the council had to cut approximately $52,460 from General Fund espenditures, previously totaling $1,061,227, to eliminate the one mill tax increase.

The bulk of the budget cuts will be accomplished through employee layoffs. Council instructed City Manager Robert Hunt to take the neccessary action to pare approximately $27,000 from budgeted labor costs. Hunt will report back to the council at a later date on which and how many layoffs will be required.

Also eliminated from the budget package were a $10,000 sinking fund for a new fire truck, a second new police car added last week by Council at a cost of $7,500 (purchase of one new car is still in the budget) and $7,500 put in the budget last week to cover a downpayment on the Drew Young property adjacent to the Post Office which is proposed to be used for downtown parking.

Recreation Commission members appeared before the council to report that by eliminating funds within their budget for grills and picnic tables, the $4,000 has been restored for expansion of the Mt. McSauba ski lodge. Council members voted last week to cut the $4,000 from the Recreation Department budget earmarked for the project.

Urging the council to tighten the budget belt, city resident Peter Phillips said, "While it's financially tough for everybody else right now, government seems to be insulated. Your credibility is at stake."

Former council member Ivan Whitley also pressed for more spending restraint saying, "I know our assessed valuation will be going up but what I want you to do is at least hold the line on millage."

Transferring funds from the utility departments to the General Fund to avoid additional millage was suggested by Council Member Robert Timms. Hunt strongly opposed that tactic, however, pointing out that not all the utility reserves are readily convertible to cash.

"Besides," he said, "You're just robbing Peter to pay Paul."

Hunt advised that the most "viable alternative" for avoiding the added millage was employee layoffs.

With the cuts enacted Monday night, the 1982-83 budget calls for a total tax levy of $550,458, (approximately 10.5 mills) required for operation; not less than $105,340 for water tower debt retirement, (app. two mills) and one mill for sewer improvement.

General fund espenditures are budgeted in the amount of $1,008,766. Totai city expenditures are budgeted to be $4,153,502 in fiscal 1982-83, an increase of about 7.3 percent over the $3.87 million budgeted for 1981-82.

The city budget was approved on a unanimous vote.

In other action, the council:

-Accepted the resignation of Thomas A. Duke, whose three-year term had espired, from the Planning Commission and approved Mayor Kenneth Staley's appointment of Robert C. Miles to the position. Walter Hufford was reappointed to a three-year term on the commission.

-Named Michael Greeley, John Campbell and Joseph Morris to a six-member committee to study consolidation with the township. Township representatives include Mrs. Shelby Goss; Davis Herboldsheimer and Donald Smith.

-Postponed action on naming a new fire chief until all references of candidates under consideration can be checked.

Workshop set for Saturday

Another master plan public workshop will be held at 9 a.m. this Saturday, March 20 at the Charlevoix High School cafeteria. At this week's workshop, planning consultants will present two or three alternative land use plans compiled from input taken at the last workshop session. All interested citizens are urged to attend.

Two school board positions to be on June 14 district ballot

By FRAN MARTIN

A resolution calling for the annual school election in the Charlevoix School District on June 14 was adopted by the Charlevoix Board of Education at its regular meeting Monday night.

The last day to register in order to vote in the June 14 election will be May 17.

Deadline for filing nominating petitions as candidates for the board is April 12. There will be two vacancies on the board to be filled at that time. The terms of Mrs. Ardeth Wieland and Mrs. Elaine Martin Buddle will expire June 30. They will be candidates for re-election. Petitions for the offices may be obtained at the business office at 208 Clinton St. or at the office the county clerk.

A request for an overnight trip to Lansing on May 1 and 2 by the Charlevoix Symphonic Band and its director, Terry Isenbarger, was granted. The band will make the trip to participate in the annual Classic C State Band and Orchestra Festival after winning a straight I rating in district competition.

Vincent Olach, business manager, advised the board that the city had approved the construction of two homes on a 150x300 ft. lot on May St. presently owned by the school district.

Supt. Gordon W. VanWieren presented a long range enrollment projection for the Charlevoix schools which showed that enrollment would continue to decrease for the nest few years before leveling off. In discussing the future enrollment figurea, he said that a decrease affects the curriculum and the staff with the high school grades suffering the most because of specialized classes.

Doris Pearl presented reports on the library committee and the curriculum committees. She said that the latter committee was presently studying lestbooks for the World History course which is now a required subject for graduation.

Mrs. Connie Pointner, a member of the board, and Heather Woods, directress of the Charlevois Children's House, a nursery school which uses the Montessori philosophy in its teaching methods, presented a report on the school which now has 25 students. The school is licensed for 31 students. Mrs. Woods has one assistant, Lilly Donaldson, and two aides.

The next meeting of the school board is scheduled for April 5.

The board adjourned to esecutive session to discuss negotiations.

If buses are to keep running, county will have to chip in

by PEG OHLE

If the Charlevoix County Transit System is to remain in operation, it must be partially subsidized by the County beginning August 1 of this year.

Two years of the contract with the State Department of Transportation providing total funding end on July 31. The third year of the contract calls for 75 percent funding by the State and 25 percent locally. If the Transit System operates beyond the third year (which expires July 31, 1983), local funds must provide 50 percent of the operational cost.

When the State Department of Transportation announced the beginning of operation of the bus Transit System in July, 1980, it noted that the three-year grant would amount to $864,490. Of this amount, $205,500 was for "set-up espenditures and for vehicles and other needs", and $658,990 for operating espenditures. Since that time, the Transit System has been receiving regular payments from the State to cover terms of the contract. However, the automatic payments will cease as of July 31, 1982 unless the County provides its 25 percent share of operating costs.

This fact was brought before the County Board of Commissioners last week by Marvin Loding, who represents the Board on the Commission on Aging, operators of the Transit System. Loding told the Board of Commissioners that they would have to provide between $8,750 and $5,250 (depending upon the availability of about $2,500 from an obscure Federal funding source) to keep the Transit System going to the end of 1982. No mention was mada of necessary funding after that date.

This would not provide the full 25 percent of operation costs, but with the inclusion of farebox revenues, it is believed it would meet the required aubsidy.

In an attempt to add more farebox revenue, the Commission on Aging has decided to raise its fares 10 cents "across the board" beginning April 1. This means that one-way trips within three miles will be raised from 50 cents to 60 cents; longer in-county trips will be raised from $1 to $1.10; and trips to Petoskey will be raised from $1.75 to $1.85. However, senior citizens and handicapped persons are charged only half fare for all trips.

The February report of the Transit System indicates that during the month it provided 7,625 rides for passengers and collected $4,450 in fares, for an average of just over 58 cents a ride.

The 10 cents across the board fare increase could provide approximately $762.50 a month more in revenues. However, each working day between 25 and 30 clients of the Bergmann Center ride Transit System buses from their homes to the Center in Charlevois and return. The Center has a contract with the Transit System to provide this service at a cost "averaging 44 cents a ride", according to Art Saworski, Transit manager, and the additional 10 cents a ride cannot be added to their fares until a new contract is negotiated. This means that well over 1,000 fares a month cannot be increased.

Since its inception, the Transit System has not attracted a large number of riders, so revenues have fallen far short of espenses.

During February, the Transit Systems's administrative and operating espenses amounted to $22,741. Subtracting that $4,450, the net loss was $18,291, or an operating deficit of $2.39 for every ride provided. This deficit is now being paid by the State, Department of Transportation, but soon – before May 1, to be exact – the County Board of Commissioners must decide if they are willing to pay for part of that deficit.

It will not be an easy job because the small corps of riders the Transit System has – especially senior citizens and handicapped persons – are a voral group. Fifteen of them appeared at the Commission on Aging meeting last week (arriving on Transit System buses) to urge continuance of the Transit System and to tell of their own personal needs for it. They told of using the buses to keep appointments with their doctors and dentists, visit friends and relatives, shop, and get to the Commission on Aging meal sites. They all agreed that the service was worth an extra 10 cents a ride.

This picture of Bridge St. was taken in 1908, shortly after the street was paved. The scene is from Antrim Street looking north. Bob Miles, who furnished the picture, writes of the times: "The automobile was still a rarity. Horses were everywhere and parking on either side of the street was permissible. There were no traffic rules at that time. No snow was removed from the streets until much later. The big removal problem then, in summer, was due to the horse."

Davis office has new 800 number

Northern Michigan residents can now call Congressman Bob Davis' office from anywhere in Michigan without running up a long distance phone bill.

Davis' new constituent hotline began operation last week. The new toll-free number is 1-800-682-8982.

"The calls will come directly to my Marquette office," said Davis, adding that a toll-free number to his Washington office was his first choice but costs were too high.

"I hope people won't hesitate to call with any problem, question or concern," Davis said. "It will be here as a resource to the people of Northern Michigan."

Callers within the Marquette area can continue to reach Davis' Marquette office at 228-3700. The office in the Old City Hall Building on Washington Street in Marquette is open each weekday from 9 to 5. Davis also has part-time offices in Sault Ste. Marie (906) 635-5261, Alpena (517) 356-2028, and Gaylord (517) 732-3151 where constituents can call with problems.

The number for the Washington, D.C. office is (202) 225-4735.

Char-Em holds Winter Games

by ANNE KELLY

Last Tuesday found over 140 learning center students from East Jordan, Petoskey, Pellston, Charlevoix and Harbor Springs participating in a unique and enjoyable experience. The 1st annual "Winter Games" was a project of the Char-Em Learning Center Sports Program and was sponsored by Kiwanis in conjunction with Windmill Farms.

Weather conditions were ideal, and from all reports, the day was a huge success. Kids competed in a variety of events including a 4 km. cross country ski race in their age groups, a ski soccer game and touring on Windmill Farm's beautifully groomed trails.

Students brought their lunches, enjoyed the lodge's facilities and snacks and received a T-shirt advertising their participation in the "Winter Games" as part of the day.

District Board of Health focuses on young children at March meeting

The Board of Health for District Health Department No. 3 took action during their March meeting to help families with young children. Board members from Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties approved a program that will help to assess the overall health of young children entering school for the first time this fall.

The Health Department's Administration is concerned that the area's high unemployment rates and depressed income levels have resulted in the delay or elimination of routine primary health services in many households. The delay or absence of routine health examinations in particular age groups will result in the delay of detection of treatable conditions which may have lasting consequences.

"It is of primary concern that routine physician and dental visits have been delayed for much of the preschool population. It is possible to utilize a health department team to provide health assessments to school enterers as a means of detecting health problems in this age group. The assessments will include physicals, health histories, hematocrits, urinalysis, vision and hearing screening and Denver Developmental Tests. The team will consist of a registered nurse, two health screening technicians, and a clerk receptionist and can screen at the rate of between 16 and 18 children each day."

According to Gerry Chase, Administrator for the District Health Department, "The local school administrators that I have talked with so far like the idea. They agree with the concept of taking care of a child's health before serious problems develop."

The health department will be offering this program and other programs such as Family Planning, Immunization Clinics, a Supplement Food Program, Blood Pressure Screening, and other personal health services. The overall goal of these programs is to minimize needless illnesses and financial loss at a time when most individuals can least afford them.

Information about Personal Health Services from the District Health Department is available by calling the nearest office. Bellaire 533-8670, Charlevoix 547-6523, East Jordan 536-7371, Gaylord (517) 732-1794 and Petoskey 347-6014.

County renews Rec. Div. funding DNR

by PEG OHLE

There is at least one State agency whose work the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners appreciates. It is the Recreation Services Division of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

Last week, the Board of Commissioners passed a resolution asking that the Recreation Services Division continue to be funded. The reason is that the local lawmakers are happy with the funds and advisory services provided by the Division for recreational facilities in Charlevoix County.

Boyne City resident Mike Davis, who serves on the Governor's Advisory Board on Recreational Services, presented a report to the County Board last week which summarizes the help provided to the County by the Division during the last decade.

The report indicates grants and expenditures amounting to $1,110,909 which have benefited County residents and the tourist industry. They include financial assistance for Whiting County Park, Veteran's Park in Boyne City, tennis courts in East Jordan, City Park development in East Jordan, and tennis courts in Charlevoix.

Also, Depot Beach Park in Charlevoix, Third Ward Park in East Jordan, Lake Michigan Park in Charlevoix, Dam Pond Park in Boyne Falls, Rotary Park in Boyne City, and tennis courts in Charlevoix Township.

And last, but not least, Young State Park and Fisherman's Island State Park.

The Recreation Services Division of the DNR helped local units of government receive these grants by assisting and consulting with them on grant applications and procedures, design and facility development, construction estimates, local consultant coordination, and local recreation planning.

In other instances, where financial assistance grants were not the major objective, the Division worked with residents of Norwood Township in their park project, with residents of Walloon Lake on their lakefront park program, with residents of Beaver Island on development of their lighthouse program, with residents of Boyne City in identifying potentials of Barn Mountain, and with the Lake Louise Community and Methodist Camp to develop their beach facilities.

In addition, the Division prepared several recreation documents, including a comprehensive inventory file of recreation sites administered by state, federal, county, regional, city, village or township agencies in Michigan. This is consulted by vacationers from all over the United States and Canada.

With tourists and summer residents providing the base of Charlevoix County's economy, members of the County Board feel it is necessary that grants and advisory services for recreation programs be continued.

They hope that as more and more people say "Yes to Michigan", Charlevoix County will have the recreational facilities to serve them.

Bust arrests highlight Sheriff's annual report

Last summer's drug bust, increased exposure of substations and a new policy on vehicle inspection all show up conspicuously on the recently released Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department 1981 annual report.

One of the biggest statistical increases on the report is in the total of felony arrests which jumped from 33 in 1980, (54 in 1979), to 172 in 1981.

The major factor for this increase was the under cover drug buying investigation of last year which resulted in the arrest of 71 county residents, almost all of whom were charged with felonies.

Total activity complaints were up almost 22 percent from 4,230 in 1980 to 5,155 in 1981. Sheriff George Lasater attributes this development to increased use of the Sheriff's Department substations in Boyne Falls and East Jordan.

The Boyne Falls substation has been operational since 1978 and the one in East Jordan since 1979.

Despite substantial increases in felony arrests and activity complaints, the comprehensive activity report, which includes all activities logged by the department (general complaints, security checks, traffic citations, accident investigations, etc.) is down by slightly over 20 percent for the year.

In 1980 the department logged 11,078 activities in the report wile in 1981 there were 8,837 such entries.

Only one township had more sheriff's department activities logged in 1981 than in 1980; Chandler Township went from 46 to 56.

The most activities in 1981 were in Charlevoix Township with 1,645 (down from 1,982 in 1981); Hayes Township with 1,348 (down from 1,471 in 1981) and Marion Township with 1,060 (down from 1,165 in 1981).

The jail division of the department booked more inmates last year according to the report and those booked had considerably longer stays than the previous year. The total number of inmates booked was 509, up 18.6 percent from 1980. Among those were 41 females, over twice as many as the previous year.

The longer stays were reflected by meals served to inmates which totaled 11,573 in 1981 as compared to 7,785 the year before which comprises a 48.6 percent increase.

Traffic accidents investigated numbered 410 for 1981, up from 353 in 1980 though traffic arrests were down by half from 43 in 1980 to 22 last year.

One responsibility new to the Sheriff's Department last year resulted in a major jump in traffic citations and warnings issued. Public Act 416 required road patrol officers to conduct closer vehicle inspections on routine stops for the first time and the result was 300 citations issued for equipment violations over the year where only 21 had been issued the year before.

That boosted the total number of traffic citations to 785 which represents a 94.7 percent increase over 1980.

Other statistics of note in the report include $190,885 worth of stolen property recovered (up from $145,879 in 1980) and 5,800 hours volunteered by posse members (up from 3,120 mainly because of the mini-academy held last year attended by most posse members).

MEL LARSEN, above, Republican State Chairman, will speak to the Charlevoix County Republicans and other interested citizens Thursday, March 18 at 7:30 p.m. at the Charlevoix County Courthouse in Charlevoix. Larsen will also be speaking to students at Petoskey High School that afternoon. Larsen, 44, is a former coach, educator and three term legislator in the state House of Representatives. He was named to head the state Republican Party at the party's convention in 1979.

Frey appointed to committee

John Frey, a Marion Township farmer, has been appointed to the County Solid Waste Planning Committee by County Board Chairman Clyde Cunningham.

The Solid Waste Planning Committee consists of 13 County residents representing the solid waste disposal industry, the cities, the County, the Northwest Region, environmentalists, and the County at large. Frey's appointment is an environmentalist. He succeeds Doug Way of Norwood Township, who recently purchased the Charlevoix Garbage Service. However, Way will remain on the Committee to represent the industry rather than environmentalists, his original assignment.

Wes Beebe, former owner of the Charlevoix Garbage Service, who served on the Committee as an industry representative, has resigned.

The Committee is charged with the responsibility of preparing a plan for the disposal of all solid waste (garbage and other materials) generated within the County.

Case goes to federal court

A civil rights case involving a former Charlevoix County resident, the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, and the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners will be heard May 26 in the United States District Court in Grand Rapids.

The plaintiff is Mitchell Patrick Pearl, formerly of the the Boyne City-Boyne Falls area, who is charging members of the Sheriff's Department with violating his civil rights by using unnecessary force in arresting him for being a disorderly person.

The complaint, which was dated May 26, 1981, names as defendants Sheriff's deputies William Cousineau and Wayne Barnett (now District Court Administrator), as well as Sheriff George Lasater, the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, and the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners.

Charlevoix County Prosecutor Scott Beatty will defend the County Board in the case and Petoskey attorney Steven Barney, representing the National Sheriff's Association, will defend the Sheriff's Department, the Sheriff, and the Sheriff's men.

But Spring comes gracefully and is welcomed by all. Granted, there are some false starts. Many a daffodil has been fooled into pushing through the warming earth only to be buried again by a cold, wet snowfall.

When it comes to stay, though, Spring brings relief and renewal. It is just reward for those stubborn survivors of Winter's harshness.

It is little wonder that in the hedonistic days of early man the vernal equinox was observed with all the vigor and debauchery of a major orgy. Where was the tradition lost?

Perhaps we came to realize that the coming of Spring should be met by reverence, not revelry; that it was a season of gentle stirring, not harsh awakening. Spring is subtle.

Enjoy.

This will require a corps of volunteers who are presently being organized by Boss and his cadre of assistants.

Like anything new, Operation Petunia has raised many questions in the minds of Charlevoix residents. These questions have been compiled and in the weeks leading up to May 22, Community Spirit Day, efforts will be made to answer them all in this column entitled "Operation Petunia" identified with its own logo designed by Marilyn Boss. The logo? Why, a petunia. What else!

...I have labored under the assumption that small town city officials are kindly gentlemen (and ladies) who are keenly aware of the financial circumstances of their fellow citizens, sensitive to their desires and genuinely concerned for their welfare.

But, of course, I was dead wrong.

The Charlevoix City Council announced last week that — in addition to whopping increases in our property evaluations — it is seriously considering a tax increase of one and one-half mills for the coming year.

You'd have to go back a half-century or more to pick a year in which the citizens are less able to afford a hefty tax increase than they are in 1982. Our new assessments alone should generate sufficient new income to cover the city's inflationary expenses, without going after additional millage. If not, then there is something seriously wrong with the budget.

Of course, we won't know until later this week what the city's final SEV will be, but from all indications the increase over 1981 will be substantial.

In announcing the proposed tax increase, the city pointed out that the new 12-mill levy will still be 3 mills less than the 15 mills allowed by the city charter and 2.6 mills less that the 14.6 mills authorized under the Headlee Amendment. Which is all well and good.

But I think that the council should be reminded that the charter commission set the tax levy at 15 mills not as something for the council to shoot for but as a realistic limit that the city could levy under the most dire emergencies.

I — for one — would like the city council to hold the line on millage increases until the economy recovers, even if it means decreased city services. To impose an additional tax burden in these difficult times of high unemployment and depressed business activity is unconscionable — and the city fathers should know better.

Letters: Taxes high enough

Lower taxes!

An open letter to...
The Mayor, City Manager and Common Council
City of Charlevoix

I am writing in reference to the articles in the Feb. 24 and March 3 editions of the Charlevoix Courier about the proposed 1982-83 budget for the City of Charlevoix. I was astounded to read that the city proposes expenditure increases of 10.4 percent over the current year and an increase in user fees of 18 percent. These increases are after recent increases in water, sewer, and electric rates.

Unless I am reading, and listening to, all the wrong media information the United States is in a major recession right now and the State of Michigan may actually be in a depression. Michigan leads the nation in unemployment and Charlevoix County leads the State with a rate that is approaching 25 percent (one of every four out of work). With all of this in mind little old Charlevoix is going to spend a whole lot more money this year? Doesn't make sense to me!

President Reagan is trying to cut the National Budget while smaller governmental units all over the country are trying to cut their expenses too (even in the sunbelt where the economy is much better), but Charlevoix has decided to keep right on spending more! Tell me you were just kidding. You don't really mean it? Do you?

In case you are really serious about spending more money and raising taxes again I am herewith making some suggestions:

1. You want to add two new positions. A public works director and a foot patrolman for the central business district. Charlevoix is too small a town for the first job. Reagan says we have too much government now and too many government employees. I tend to agree and so don't think you need this position. As for the patrolman...you already have a meter (boy) cop in the summer so why can't you combine the two jobs? I know it can be done because I had the job myself in 1952-53. Conclusion...don't add any people.

2. $5-15,000 for landfill improvements required by the State. Skip it this year and don't worry about Lansing.

3. $13,000 for auxiliary power at sewer lift stations, required by the State. Same answer here, skip it this year.

4. $10,000 for Pine River Channel repairs. Don't pay it as the Army is responsible. Go after them.

5. $10,000 for sidewalk at Beaver Island Boat Company dock. Have the Boat Company pay for this as they are "practically stealing" the entire facility now at the rates they are paying.

6. $5,000 towards a new ambulance and $10,000 towards a new fire engine. Skip them this year.

7. $7,500 for a new police car. Make an old one run at least one more year.

8. From $20,000 to $70,000 for a new computer. You say the present one is working but inefficient and nearing capacity. The census indicates Charlevoix is not growing so you don't need more capacity. Scratch it out for this year.

9. A 66 percent increase for fire protection? Too much at one time and I don't see how Charlevoix can afford it this year.

10. $3,700 for the Chamber of Commerce and Venetian Night fireworks. I have always been in favor of this in the past but don't know how we can justify it this year. Harbor Springs seems to be able to get projects funded by Summer residents so I think Charlevoix should try that tactic this year.

11. A 10.8 percent wage increase ($95,000). Wages should (at the very least) be frozen. Unions such as the UAW and Teamsters plus many others are taking their lumps this year and freezing wages. Some unions are even taking pay cuts. Today's (3-10) national news states that thousands of federal employees have begun giving up one day's pay in every 10. Thousands of people are out of work so I don't think city employees should expect any raise, in fact if the economy remains poor they should take a 5 to 10 percent temporary wage reduction. Most small businessmen have been making less money now for three consecutive years so the hourly and salary people all over may have to take cuts.

If you feel that you need new revenues to replace lost revenue sharing funds I do agree with your concept of increasing user fees such as: golf course fees; ambulance calls; summer camps and swimming lessons; yacht dock fees; parking fines; ice rink fees; Erber building site parking.

In addition how about tie down fees and parking fees at the airport? Also you should look at the Beaver Island Boat Company lease and bring it up to a reasonable amount.

Personally I think you should be cutting the budget and reducing some services which should result in a tax reduction for the property owners. Property taxes are already too high in Charlevoix. This has been driving people and business from Michigan (and Charlevoix). You must wake up to this fact. Bite the bullet and take some action that will help the poor tax payer. People are moving to the sunbelt where the cost of living is considerably less and taxes are much lower.

Here is an example of taxes on my own personal homes: Charlevoix home built in 1967 had a valuation of $19,400 in 1968 and $90,000 in 1981. The 1968 taxes were $674 and in 1981, $4,238. My Tucson, Arizona home was built in 1979 and the valuation in 1981 was $85,000 with taxes of $745.

As you can see I have had to endure a horrible increase in both evaluations and total taxes paid in Charlevoix. The property taxes on the Charlevoix house total $353.17 per month. If your millage increase goes through my taxes will raise to $4,463.00 ($371.92 per month). This is just for taxes. The Tucson home tax at $745.00 ($62.08 per month) on a nearly identical valuation is actually slightly lower than in 1980 as the community actually reduced their budget (as you should).

If you go through with the increase to 15 mil the city portion of my taxes will increase by 16.7 percent which is double what the inflation rate will be!

Many people in Charlevoix are unemployed and some of them have exhausted their benefits. If something doesn't happen fairly soon you will see a dramatic increase in both business and personal bankruptcies. There could be a huge increase in home, property and equipment repossessions which shortly thereafter would really hurt the city, county and schools.

Charlevoix is truly beautiful and a wonderful place to live, but, eventually only the super rich will be able to afford it. The city has high utility rates with the sewage rates being the highest that I personally have ever seen in my cross country travels! The taxes are also (already) among the highest in the country. Keep this in mind and make a real effort at reducing the budget, services, and taxes.

Dick Donaldson
Tucson, Arizona

Ditto!

Dear City,

I'm your average middle classed person who goes to work every day just so Uncle Sam can have his cut of my paycheck (which is not very much in the first place.)

Then along comes City Assessors and City fellows raising taxes. They talk about the Chamber of Commerce not having enough in the budget so why not raise utilities. I would like to know when does all this come to an end?

Michigan unemployment rate alone is 16.1 percent. That is no jobs for a lot of people. Who takes care of these people out of work? Well there goes another cut of my paycheck.

The city should bring in more new businesses and industries etc, not worring about the summer people who are here for only three or four months and start worrying more about the people who live here year round. We know they can take care of themselves.

The city better think about the people who pay there salaries each week. Without us they would be out in the snow and also one of the 16.1 percent out of work.

Mrs. Leisa Slone
A concerned citizen

Important Issues

To the Editor:

Here are two issues of concern that I feel are not only shared by me, but also others within the readership of the Charlevoix Courier.

1. In the next few days (March 18), the Senate will vote on an amendment offered by Senators Gary Hart (D-CO) and George Mitchell (D-ME) to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission Authorization bill, S. 1207. This amendment would prohibit the transfer of plutonium generated by commercial nuclear power plants to the Department of Energy (DOE) for the manufacture of nuclear weapons.

In other words, if you do not like the fuel inventory of Big Rock, Palisades, Fermi or Midland to end up as more nuclear bombs contact your Senators from the State of Michigan immediately.

2. Dr. Helen Caldicott, speaking to the Cambridge Forum and Dr. Michio Kaku, speaking in Ann Arbor (U of M Physic's Dept.) mention that according to the Department of Civil Defense the USSR has poised their nuclear devices at nuclear reactors for the ultimate destruction. Since Charlevoix County is destined to be the host relocation county for the people of Hamtramak it seems ironic to have them relocated or tax monies being wasted to even plan for a fate one doesn't even want to imagine.

Sincerely,
Christa-Maria

Ask for help in designing quilt

Emmet and Charlevoix county residents are being sought to help design and create a Centennial Quilt for the County Fair. The County Fair will be held August 23-28 this year.

Mrs. Eleanor Buck of the Michigan Association of Extension Homemakers Clubs is chairwoman for this special project. While watching a TV program on quilting, Mrs. Buck, was inspired to suggest this project as one for the county. Folks from the agricultural community, people with an interest in historic events, and anyone nimble with a needle is invited to participate. Church groups are also welcome.

An initial meeting for quilters will be held on March 17th at 2:00 p.m. at the Petoskey Public Library. Come with ideas, old photographs or other memorabelia to inspire design and form. New cotton-polyester fabric scraps are also being sought. If you have questions or ideas, call the Cooperative Extension Office, 347-2596.

Personal growth workshop set

The Women's Resource Center will be aponsoring a Personal Growth Workshop starting on Thursday, March 18, 1982. The workshop will run for six consecutive Thursday mornings (last class would be April 22) (from 9:30 until 12:30. Connie Fisher, staff person at the WRC, will be the leader.

Group discussions and exercises lead to greater understanding of how we perceive ourselves, how others perceive us and how we respond interpersonally.

Cost of the workshop is $15 for non-members and $10 for members. Scholarships are available, so don't miss the class because you don't feel you can afford it right now. Call the center to discuss a scholarship at 347-0067.

Charlene A. Way and Scott A. Martin

Way-Martin

Charlene Anne Way and Scott Alan Martin will be married on May 15.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Richard and Lois Way of Charlevoix and her fiance is the son of William and Joan Martin of Sparta.

Local library will benefit from acquisition of large print collection

Public libraries of Emmet, Charlevoix and Cheboygan counties shared in the opening Monday, March 1, of a 2,000 volume large print collection valued at $25,000 owned by them and other public library members of the Northland Library Cooperative headquartered at Alpena.

Low vision patrons of northern Michigan public libraries will be able to select books to read from the collection housed at Alpena County Library using catalogs at their local libraries or rotating mini collections from the central collection, if interest warrants. Home bound patrons with their librarian's certification can apply for large print service mailed to their address.

Strong support for the collection's purchase and development was given by the Northeast Michigan Community Foundation, Alpena, $3,108; Northern Michigan Bowling Proprietors Association, $500; northern Michigan Lions clubs as a group, $1,000; Northern Michigan Wisconsin Pipeline Co., $500; and Sherman Canning Co., East Jordan, $100.

Many individuals, smaller organizations, patrons and volunteers with the Northland Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, which services the tri-county area, donated funds, memorials and technical processing time, including Alpena Aid by the Dozen Club, Atlanta Friends of the Library, East Jordan Lions, East Jordan Lionesses, Ellsworth Lions, Glennie Friends of the Library, Mio Lions Club, Ossineke Lions Club and Alpena Lions Club ($200 kick-off donation).

Sparking the fund raising was the shutdown of the State Library's large print collection due to that library's funding cuts. Northern Michigan readers with impaired vision had been dependent on that collection. As the donated funds began to come into Northland, State Library officials in recognition of the region's strong support of its Library for the Blind and large print materials needs, contributed a core collection of 1,200 juvenile and adult large print books worth $12,000.

In December 1981, the original fund raising goals of $2,500 and 500 books were topped a $7,500 and 2,000 books necessitating a larger than planned book selection catalog. The Alpena Lions garnered the support of northern Michigan Lions clubs to cap the project with $1,000 to provide selection catalogs which are being distributed now to Northland libraries, area schools and health care institutions and home bound readers who need large print books.

Northland Assistant Director Sue Williams, in charge of the large print project, says Northland officials plan to continue using the funds donated by area organizations and memorials to the Library for the Blind to build and maintain the collection. Representing area libraries on Northland's Board of Trustees are Chairman Bernard Beethem (Mackinaw), Vice Chairman Margaret Duerr (Charlevoix), Trustee Arthur Curtis (Cheboygan), Trustee Henry Dombrowski (Cheboygan), and Trustee Nancy Hodgkiss (Petoskey).

Participating public libraries in the three county area are: Alanson Area Public Library, Boyne City Public Library, Charlevoix Public Library, Cheboygan Area Public Library, Crooked Tree District Library, East Jordan Public Library, Indian River Area Library, Mackinaw Area Public Library, Petoskey Public Library, Topinabee Public Library and Wolverine Community Library.

Kappa Sigma plans summer home tour

Members of Kappa Sigma sorority are busy planning their summer fund-raising project – a house tour for the benefit of the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

According to Suzi Reis, chairman of the house tour, five Charlevoix residences will be open for public viewing on Saturday, July 10.

"We have already selected four homes representing four different types of architecture, and we are trying to decide on the fifth home," Mrs. Reis explained.

"We have a contemporary house of the 50's, a modern house of the 80's, a Victorian summer cottage which has been totally renovated for winter living, and a house of traditional design," she added.

Sorority members working with Mrs. Reis included Lucille Ingram, ticket chairman; Kerr Tallberg, publicity chairman; and Alicia Christoph, Janet Riley, Charlotte Kline, Lilly Malye, and Eileen Heck, hostesses.

The locations of the homes will not be revealed before tickets are put on sale so an air of mystery will surround the event, committee members have decided.

The Charlevoix Garden Club, Frank's Florist, and Greenleaf Country Gardens will also participate in the event by furnishing floral arrangements for each home on the tour.

Mothers' March to be held

The Charlevoix Area Mother's March for March of Dimes takes place March 17-19, according to Mrs. Clara Loomer and Mrs. Penny Gregory, co-chairwomen of the event.

Volunteers participating in the drive will pick up their kits downstairs at the Charlevoix Public Library on Monday, March 15 from 7 to 9 p.m. and from 1 to 3 p.m. on Tuesday at Mrs. Gregory's residence, 506 Meadow Lane.

March of Dimes was one of the first health organizations to base its entire structure on the volunteer at both the national and the local level. It is the only voluntary health agency to conquer the disease it was organized to combat.

Twenty-five years ago, the Salk vaccine was declared safe, potent and effective against polio. Since then March of Dimes has taken on an even greater challenge, the area of birth defects through research, education and medical care.

Bids to be taken on highway and airport improvement

The Michigan Department of Transportation will take bids on highway and airport improvement construction for Antrim and Charlevoix Counties on March 17 at the Lansing Civic Center at 10:30 a.m., according to One Hundred and Sixth District State Representative Steve Andrews (R-Wolverine).

Andrews reported that 1.35 miles of County Road 620 in Antrim County will be paved from one mile northeast of Bellaire at Derenzy Road east in Kearney Township. The paving will begin in July.

The Michigan DOT will also take bids for the extension of Runway 8 and the installation of lighting at the Charlevoix Municipal Airport. That project is planned for June of this year.

Andrews explained that these two projects are included in a list of 33 projects of the Michigan DOT has planned for highway and airport construction this summer throughout the state.

Masons are 1982 cribbage champs

After 10 weeks of play, the Masons won the 52nd annual Mason-Oddfellow cribbage tournament for the first time in five years according to Robert C. Heise, tournament secretary.

The Masons had trailed throughout the tournament until two weeks ago when they took a slim margin and, in just two weeks, increased it to 1,016 points.

With 7½ tables in play, Tim Bergmann had 962 points for the Masons. Bruce Reinhart and George Smith each had 932 points for the Oddfellows.

The tournament will now be climaxed by a dinner at the American Legion Post Home hosted by the Oddfellows at 6:30 p.m. Thursday. At that time awards for the tournament will be given.

Extension plans health program

The Cooperative Extension Service of Emmet County in cooperation with the American Red Cross and District Health Department No. 3 is presenting a health program for interested consumers. "To Your Good Health", is scheduled for March 18, 1982 from 7:30 to 9:00 p.m. at the Presbyterian Church in Petoskey.

With health care costs escalating, the emphasis of this program will be on staying well. The film "Body Talk" will be shown.

Guests speakers include Steve LaMontagne, Field Representative of the American Red Cross. Steve will provide information on the following topics: blood services in northern Michigan; disaster assistance; vital signs (1) and (2); first aid; and C.P.R.

Nancy Bottomley, R.N., Home Health Care Coordinator, will also inform consumers of the availability of services from District Health Department No. 3.

Carole Leiber, Emmet County Health Chairman of the Extension Homemaker Clubs, invites everyone to attend. Carole expresses her concern that it's valuable for families and individuals to know what help is available to them locally before a family emergency occurs.

Rayders top Boyne for District title

It's on to the Regionals for the Charlevoix Rayder basketball squad following a thrilling Class C District championship game Saturday in Kalkaska.

Boyne City watched its last chance of the season to knock off Charlevoix ring the rim of the basket with no time remaining Saturday thus sealing a 53-51 Rayder victory.

The championship game put the Rayders at 3-0 in post-season play including wins earlier in the week against Kalkaska and East Jordan.

The big game against Boyne City, further jeopardized by the absence of center Ross Carey who injured his leg in the East Jordan game, was not so tight in the early going. Charlevoix grabbed the momentum in the first quarter and held onto it through the half thanks to some hot shooting and tough defense against Boyne City All-State candidate Brian Vroman. At the end of the first quarter it was Charlevoix up 14-11 and by halftime the advantage was stretched to 32-20.

The second quarter alone saw both Jim Buchanan and Craig Klooster score eight points apiece.

Boyne started to gradually chip away at the Rayder lead midway in the third period and had closed within nine, 44-35, by the start of the fourth.

A wild fourth quarter saw Boyne finally take the lead at 1:21 on a Todd Rickard free throw that made the score 49-48 in favor of the Ramblers. With just less than a minute left, however, Gary Drury hit from the outside to regain a one-point advantage and Buchanan added two free throws and Dave Buday one shortly after to make it 53-49.

But Boyne City still fought back into the picture with another basket at the :02 mark. The Ramblers had one last chance when they took the Charlevoix inbounds pass away and Brad Musser took the shot but it rimmed the basket and was actually ruled to have been taken after the buzzer anyway.

The 53-51 win is Charlevoix's third over the Ramblers this year. Buchanan led in individual Rayder scoring with 18 points; Klooster added 12, Drury, George Smith and Mike Loper six apiece and Buday five.

Charlevoix will play its first Regional game Wednesday at Gaylord against Rogers City. Tickets for the game are now on sale at the high school from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

In the tournament's opening game Monday night, March 8, host Kalkaska was beaten for the third time this season by the Rayders. Gary Drury had one of his finest nights of the year canning 27 points, including nine of 12 shots from the free throw line for a hot 75 percent.

Charlevoix dominated from the start jumping to a 17-10 lead in the first quarter. By halftime, the Rayders had stretched their lead to 37-23.

In the third quarter Charlevoix kept the pressure on with most of the starting five still playing; by the start of the final period, the score was 55-33. The Rayders outscored Kalkaska 24-9 in the fourth quarter for the runaway 79-42 victory which pitted them against East Jordan in Wednesday night's game.

Other high scorers against Kalkaska included Craig Klooster with 18 and George Smith with nine.

East Jordan came on strong in the first quarter of Wednesday's game but was shut off like a water faucet for the next three stanzas for another Rayder rout.

The Red Devils brought a 3-16 regular season record to the District tourney and held slim hopes of an upset against Charlevoix, hopes that were momentarily buoyed in the first quarter of Wednesday's game. At the end of the quarter, a surprised Charlevoix squad found themselves at the short end of a 17-16 tally.

In the second quarter, however, the Devils went dry scoring only two points in the period while the Rayders pumped in 15 for a comfortable 31-19 lead to take into the locker room.

The drought continued for East Jordan in the third quarter while Charlevoix only got hotter. The Rayders outscored East Jordan 24-6 in that period for a commanding, thirty-point, 55-25 advantage by the start of the fourth period.

With reserves taking over in the fourth, Charlevoix went on to a decisive 78-39 win which gave them another crack at conference rival Boyne City. Klooster duplicated his individual scoring output of Monday night hitting 18 once more against East Jordan and taking high honors for the game. Drury added 14 and Jim Buchanan 12 against the Red Devils.

Music is a way of life for Elementary School's Marina LaBlance

by ANNE KELLY

Marina LaBlance, Charlevoix Elementary's sparkling music teacher, feels very fortunate in having evolved from a family which was surrounded by music at an early age.

"My parents," Marina recalled, "are from a little island in Greece, Paxo, where the people are actually noted for their singing. My father had a lovely singing voice. My sister's voice is very operatic. I have been playing piano since I was three years old."

Perhaps this is why she feels so strongly about the fact that children should be exposed to a variety of music right from the start. Her students learn singing activities, rhythmic activities, theory, creative activities, and playing and listening activities. "No one of these areas is given more emphasis then the other because all of them are necessary to produce an intelligent consumer of music."

Originally from Iron Mountain and later Saginaw, Marina graduated from Western Michigan University with a major in music and a minor in elementary education. She has been teaching music in Charlevoix since 1972. If she had to give herself a "label" it would be that she is a "contemporary traditionalist." She loves modern music and dances and incorporates them into her program much to her students delight. But she also is very sensitive to tradition and exposing children to their musical heritage.

"I want the kids to have a good time," Marina says of her classes, "but I also want them to leave the school with a knowledge of every kind of music." Her children learn to draw to the Great Masters, to dance, to appreciate classical music, to enjoy Gilbert and Sullivan and music from Broadway shows. They learn how to do the Virginia Reel. And very importantly, Marina's students learn to have a comfortable feeling about music, how to perform it themselves and how to have proper audience etiquette. It's all part of the total program.

But if Marina LaBlance is to go down in Charlevoix history, it is the direct result of her annual school-wide Spring Musicals. These extravaganzas are undoubtedly among the best attended events of the community year. Spectators and proud parents literally pack themselves into the high school gym each year for the show. Past performances include themes such as: the Bi-Centennial, Shirley Temple and the Little Rascals, Marlo Thomas' "Free to be You and Me", Walt Disney, famous Broadway musicals, the 50's, and last year's "Oliver" (conducted by Pat Carland).

Marina reports that this year's musical will have a country-western theme and will include square-dancing, a jug band, the Suzuki fiddlers, and of course, a little John Denver. The performance will be held on Wednesday morning April 14 and Thursday evening, April 15.

In her "spare time" Marina and her husband Brendan are parents of two small children, Maro and George. She has given private piano lessons, and conducts a select group of fifth grade students who form the singing group known as "The Lost Chords" who perform during the school year.

She has also been known to grace the Grey Gables Inn with a song or two and is an enthusiastic supporter of the Little Traverse Civic Players musicals. Also, last year's Venetian Festival found Marina as chairperson of the parade committee.

Lift-A-Thon will raise funds for high school weight training program

Charlevoix High School students, faculty, and community members are conducting the third annual Lift-A-Thon on Saturday, March 20, 1982, from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. in the high school gym. Each weight lifter will be securing sponsors to pledge a certain amount of money per pound lifted. Lifters will compete in three events: the bench press, the military press, and the dead lift. Last year fifteen participants hoisted a total of 9,605 pounds. This year's goal is to go over the 10,000 pound mark.

All sponsors will receive a receipt for their donation, which is tax deductable. Funds raised by the Lift-A-Thon will be used to maintain the weight room at Charlevoix High School, a program that has been developed primarily through private donations and events such as the Lift-A-Thon. A portion of the money raised will also be used to help defray the cost of the high school athletic program.

The public is invited to the Lift-A-Thon. There is no admission charge.

Skiing clinic enjoyed by elem. students

by ANNE KELLY

4th and 5th grade students at Charlevoix Elementary School are fortunate to participate in a cross country ski clinic segment which has been incorporated into their winter physical education program. Instructor Jim Glynn announces that students have enjoyed the seven weeks of instruction and skiing and have done remarkably well in mastering the sport. Watching them duck-foot run up the inclines and ski down the same on one knee, one can't help but agree.

"Kid's of your age can become excellent skiers," he told the assembled 4th grade nordic enthusiasts on Thursday afternoon. "Younger children can become excellent skiers. Even people who are 90 can cross country ski. You have learned a life-time sport," Jim concluded.

After saluting themselves and their instructor with the Austrian ski salute "Ski Heil!" they were off and skiing into the woods and around a cut trail which eventually ended up on the golf course near the new water tower.

Fresh air, exercise and the experience of learning a new skill are obvious pluses of the ski program.

Approximately 30 pair of skis and ski boots have been donated to the school as a result of funds raised by the Parent's Advisory Council.

High school band to perform in concert

The Charlevoix High School Symphonic Band under the direction of Terry Isenbarger will present an early spring concert at the high school gymnasium at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, March 21.

The band will play the selections performed in the District II Band and Orchestra Festival recently which resulted in the group receiving straight I's in both concert and sight reading and qualifying them for participation in the State Festival May 1. The selections are a march "Lamar" by Clayton Williams, "Prelude to the First Act" of Verdi's "LaTraviata" and "Imperatix" by Reed.

Several other numbers will also be presented by the band.

Winners in the District II Solo and Ensemble Festival who will participate in the State Solo and Ensemble Festival at Big Rapids in April will be featured during the concert. Ten of Charlevoix's 15 entries in the Solo and Ensemble Festival were awarded first division ratings in the district festival.

Proceeds from the concert will be used to help purchase badly needed sound and recording equipment for use by the music department, Mr. Isenbarger said.

Registration, open house at Kids' Corner

A combination open house and registration session will be held at the Kids Corner Nursery School from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday, March 23.

The school is located in the basement of the First Congregational Church on the corner of State and Park in Charlevoix.

Kids Corner, under the direction of teacher Linda Behringer, is a Christian nursery school featuring indoor and outdoor play with emphasis on development in the children of a positive self-image.

Further information can be obtained by calling Phyllis Hess at 547-4245.

Dr. Joy to head hospital program on childhood ills

Common childhood diseases, what to look for, practical advice on management and when to see the doctor will be the themes of a free public discussion session led by Dr. Dennis Joy at the Charlevoix Area Hospital, Tuesday, March 23 at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Joy, whose medical specialty is family practice, will discuss the common types of childhood diseases of children in infancy, as toddlers, during preschool years and as school age children.

He will offer pointers to parents on how to assess the seriousness of their child's illness as well as basic management techniques.

"For instance," explained Dr. Joy, "I'll talk about what to do when the child has a fever and what are the more common possibilities. We'll discuss common diseases and what to look for."

The session will also touch on common fallacies surrounding such things as teething, tonsillectomy and fever.

A question and answer period will conclude the evening.

The discussion, open to the public, is part of the Charlevoix Area Hospital's continuing program of preventive health education held monthly in the classrooms of the lower level of the new wing.

The Health Education Committee, consisting of hospital employees who sponsor these public sessions, urge those who wish to attend to make reservations by calling the hospital switchboard at 547-4024.

Jazz great to appear in concert

Friday, April 23, at 8 p.m., area residents are invited to the colorful world of jazz when pianist Marian McPartland will be presented in concert in the Rosa Stoakes Theatre of the Virginia M. McCune Community Arts Center in Petoskey.

Marian McPartland takes her place on jazz charts and polls with Teddy Wilson, Dave Brubek, George Shearing, Andre Previn and other jazz greats.

The Washington Post's Richard Harrison wrote of Marian, "It is elegance, not loudness, that has made McPartland one of the most successful women in jazz today."

In 1943 she signed on with the USO, entertaining Allied troops in France and Belgium. There, she met traditional jazz legend, American Jimmy McPartland, a Chicago-school cornetist and protege of the immortal Bix Beiderbecke. They were married in Aachen, Germany and continued with their band, playing in G.I. behind-the-lines tent jams.

She played in her husband's Chicago and New York bands for several years. In 1950 she formed and went out with her own trio, experimenting with the many changes that are always evolving in jazz. She was also becoming involved in the history of women as instrumentalists in jazz, a project that will eventually translate into a book for Oxford University Press.

Marian has appeared in the Annual Newport-New York Jazz Festival, as well as in the festivals in Monterey, Detroit, Salt Lake City and Nice, France. She has also toured South America in a series of concerts with Earl "Fatha" Hines, Teddy Wilson, Ellis Larkin; and with John Lewis and Hank Jones. She recently went on a concert tour of Japan.

After years of recording for Capitol Records, Marian started her own record company in 1971 called Halcyon.

She has performed on the night club circuit, in festivals, concerts, cocktail rooms, hotel lounges, auditoriums and universities.

She has conducted music workshops in schools all over the United States.

In 1978 she applied her classical training and refined technique to the Grieg A Minor Piano Concerto and launched into a new career as guest soloist with symphony orchestras in America. Her initial appearance in this role was with the Rochester Symphony. She has combined this new phase in her profession with continued jazz concerts, radio and television concerts.

Advance tickets are now available at the McCune Arts Center in Petoskey, Hovey's Drug Store in Harbor Springs, Hite Drug Store in East Jordan, and the Appletree in Charlevoix. Tickets are $6 per person. For more information phone 347-4337 or 347-7870, Monday-Saturday, 10 to 5.

Still no fire chief as council rejects committee choice

by DAVE KNIGHT

There was a lot of smoke but no fire at Monday night's special council meeting where the appointment of a new fire chief was again delayed.

A recommendation by the ad hoc Fire Chief Selection Committee to appoint William Bammer to the position was rejected unanimously by the four council members present.

Bammer, 41, who was on hand Monday night, is a resident of the Battle Creek area. He is a 19-year veteran of the Penfield Township fire department there and has been fire chief for the past ten years.

Bammer's name was one of eight applicants interviewed by the selection committee of City Manager Robert Hunt, volunteer fireman Lee Moerland, local insurance agent Dick Martin and Egleston Township fire chief John Parrot. A total of 57 applications were received to fill the position of former chief John Curtis who retired this month. Over 20 of the applications were from local residents, according to Hunt.

The other seven candidates to make it to the final interview stage included Fenton Prewitt of Albion, Richard Baukema of Kentwood, Frederick R. Gill of Wayne, Rex (Rick) Davis of Charlevoix, William L. von Zehle, Jr. of Kalamazoo, John F. Martin of Charlevoix and Bruce A. Moore of Kalamazoo.

Bammer's appointment was endangered when council members expressed disappointment that a local applicant was not chosen.

Said Councilman James Block, "I don't think we have to go outside to get a fire chief. The people we have here in town deserve a little more consideration. I wonder if qualifications were set so high that local people would not have chance?"

Criteria for the postion were established by the council at their February 1 meeting and later amended February 6. At that time, the council directed that the chief be one of the three full-time fire department employees and that his selection be based upon merit.

The actual job description drafted by Hunt included requirements for background in various areas such as fire prevention, training, building inspection, vehicle management, ambulance services and other areas.

Mayor Kenneth Staley chided the council for not following the selection committee's recommendation saying, "We set the criteria. We can't change it now... You (the council) have delegated the authority to a committee and that committee has made a recommendation. It should be settled right now."

A motion by Block to table the decision was withdrawn after Staley's urging to act upon Bammer's appointment without further delay.

Committee members Martin and Moerland were both present at the meeting and told council that the decision to select Bammer was unanimous. Council member Shirley Roloff was unsuccessful in her request for the names of the top three candidates considered for the appointment.

Said Mrs. Roloff, "I have nothing against Mr. Bammer's resume but I would like to know who else was under consideration... People on the street know more about this than I do."

Hunt responded saying that the committee was charged with submitting only one name as their choice and not a ranking of the top three or top eight candidates.

Mayor Staley's request for a motion on Bammer's appointment was honored by council member Ray Wood and seconded by Block. Both, however, voted against the appointment as did Mrs. Roloff and council member Robert Timms. Joseph Morris and Jeffrey Porter were absent from the meeting. Block then suggested that three names be submitted for the council's scrutiny at their April 5 meeting. The measure passed without objection.

Layoffs averted

City employee layoffs which would have affected the police, street, recreation, and city assessor's departments as well as City Hall clerical workers were averted Monday night when the City Council opted instead to reduce work hours. At their previous meeting, the council mandated a cut through layoffs of about $28,000 from the general fund expenses in order to avoid a millage increase. The amount became $33,000, according to City Manager Robert Hunt when

Morris stricken

Second Ward Councilman Joseph G. Morris, Jr., above, underwent brain surgery at Munson Medical Center in Traverse City Sunday for a subdural hemorrhage. Morris was transported to Munson Saturday after collapsing at home Friday evening. Subsequent CATSCANs revealed the hemorrhage, which required immediate surgery. As of Monday evening, he was still in the intensive care unit but showing slight improvement.

EDC bonding package for LexaLite is complete

by DAVE KNIGHT

In simpler times, when a farmer's barn burned down, he had little to worry about. Neighbors would be over before the hay stopped smoldering to help build a new one.

LexaLite International's new 53,500 square foot manufacturing plant is no barn. But it has been the "neighbors", personified by the Charlevoix County Economic Development Corporation, (EDC), who were the first to offer help following the disastorous August 2 fire that destroyed most of the plant and without whose help the plant may never have been rebuilt at all.

On Tuesday this week officials from the EDC will be downstate to complete the final paperwork for issuance of $3 million in limited obligation revenue bonds for the LexaLite reconstruction and expansion project. Final authorization for the bonds came at a special March 10 meeting of the EDC's board of directors.

The LexaLite bonds represent the first successful financial assistance program brought to fruition by the EDC since its formation almost a year ago by the Charlevoix County Board.

"This is the perfect first project for the EDC," says Charlevoix County Prosecutor and EDC legal counsel Scott Beatty, "We could not have planned it better. LexaLite has always been involved in the community and of course is one of the area's major employers."

EDC treasurer Don Voisin added that LexaLite's impact as an employer extends far beyond the City of Charlevoix.

"This is truly beneficial to the entire county," he said, "Many people from Boyne City and other communities depend on the plant for jobs."

LexaLite employs about 130 people in the manufacture of plastic optical components. Those jobs, precious to a county with a current unemployment rate of over 20 percent, were placed in jeopardy last August 2 when fire almost completely destroyed the manufacturing wing of the plant.

Even as the fire burned that Sunday afternoon, the helping hand was extended. EDC president Lee Moerland was one of the Charlevoix volunteer firemen who respinded to the call. He approached LexaLite president Josh Barnes right on the scene.

"He had a pretty long face at the time," recalls Moerland, "But I told him we were ready and able to help."

As it turned out, that help played an instrumental role in LexaLite's recovery and the saving of 130 jobs for area residents.

At a meeting only three days after the fire, the EDC board took the first steps toward issuing bonds by passing a resolution of inducement and appointing the legal firm Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone as bond counsel.

In the months since, then laborious process has proceeded steadily with the full support of the County Board of Commissioners. The $3 million in limited obligation bonds will go on sale this week in $5,000 denominations and, according to Beatty, the market timing is ideal.

"We have already been contacted by people interested in purchasing the bonds, some locally," he said Monday.

Interest rates for the Series A bonds will begin at 10 percent in 1983 and increase by .25 percent each year over a ten-year period to 13 percent in 1992. The letter of credit for the bonding has been issued by Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit.

Proceeds from the program will be allocated as follows: $70,000 for acquisition of 1.75 acres of land to accomodate the addition of 12,500 square feet of floor space; $1,250,000 for reconstruction of damaged buildings and construction of new buildings; $1,530,000 for repairing damaged equipment and buying new equipment; $150,000 for underwriters' discount and cost of issuance.

LexaLite marked a return to full production on December 19 when its new facility was dedicated.

How important was the EDC in the recovery effort.?

"It's been nothing less than vital," says Josh Barnes, "There was absolutely no other governmental assistance available whatsoever. That would not bother me except it seems that the government is assisting private business everywhere else such as in Detroit where it is helping to build car plants where some people don't even want them."

"Actually the EDC is not government at all," he added, "It is an excellent device that enables free enterprise to do its job."

Barnes seriously considered rebuilding in another area of the country at one point because of the stifling economic climate in Michigan. It was largely the initiative of the EDC, however, that persuaded him to stay in Charlevoix County.

"If it were not for the good graces of the EDC and Manufacturers Bank, we'd be out of here," said Barnes.

For the EDC board, comprised of ten members from throughout the county, the LexaLite experience has been a satisfying one.

"This has been a learning process all along," said Moerland, "It's been quite an experience for all of us."

Moerland also expressed hope that the success of the LexaLite bonding will shore up the EDC's image as an viable factor in the county's economic rehabilitation efforts.

"I think we are seeing a change in philosophy in many people," he said, "We are not regarded so much any more as just another source of government assistance but more as members of the community helping out others in need."

CHIP survives financial trauma with services intact

by DAVE KNIGHT

Despite rumors to the contrary, CHIP Counseling Center is alive and well and offering basically the same services it set out to provide some six years ago.

That is not to say there have not been changes, however, in how those services are provided. For one thing, the Center's primary source of funding has been transferred from a private source to a state agency.

For another, the directorship of the Center has changed hands for the first time since its formation.

Terry Smith is now clinical director having replaced Oren Schroeder. Schroeder was hired as the Center's first director in 1976 and was instrumental in its early development. A major budget crisis forced the Center's board of directors to reluctantly release Schroeder late last year and he has since taken a social services administrative position in Austin, Texas.

"We found ourselves in the same position as many other similar agencies who have had to severely cut programs and staff," said CHIP board president Pat Sherman, "At least we were fortunate enough to preserve our basic programs."

Behind all the recent turmoil at CHIP was a long awaited financial day of reckoning which finally arrived last fall.

Subsidation from the Woodbury Ransom family was the lifeblood of the Center from its inception in 1976 until last September when notice was received that no more funding could be expected from the Ransoms. Over a five-year period, Woodbury and Christiana Ransom contributed over $262,000 to the Center which they established thorugh the First Congregational Church as a memorial to their son, Charles A., or "Chip", who was killed in a Lake Charlevoix boating accident.

"For many years a myth prevailed," says Terry Smith, "That the Ransoms would finance the Center indefinitely. What they actually wanted was the Center to become a self-supporting agency."

But with the average client paying about $10 an hour for services that cost the Center up to $50 an hour to provide, self-support was virtually impossible. Chip Counseling Center has always operated at a deficit. Until just a few months ago, the Ransoms could always be counted upon to make up the difference.

In 1980, Chip was awarded a contract by Northern Michigan Substance Abuse Services, (NMSAS) to administer state-funded drug and alcohol counselling for the Emmet-Charlevoix-Antrim County area. That created two budgets, one for substance abuse and another for general counseling.

When the budget crunch came to a head last fall, it was the general budget that was over $6,000 in debt and losing about $3,000 a month.

Thus the Board of Directors had little choice but to suspend the budget for general counseling and lay off both Schroeder and Dennis Priess who was also on the general counseling staff. Unaffected were three other counselors working under the substance abuse contract.

The subsequent restructuring of the Center has resulted in some important financial changes, not the least of which is a balanced budget. Services, however, are largely the same according to Smith and co-administrative staff member Elaine Plackner.

The Center is serving just about as many non-substance abuse clients as before. Said Mrs. Plackner, "We are not turning anyone away just because their problem is not directly related to substance. Our only limitation is lack of staff."

While the staff has been reduced, demand has remained strong. There is presently a three to four week waiting period for people seeking the Center's services.

Smith emphasized that the Center's new funding arrangement under the auspices of NMSAS has in no way altered the purposes set forth in the Center's bylaws in 1976. CHIP still provides "counseling services to persons in need thereof" and "educational programs for families and others with the aim of strengthening marital and family relationships and of helping all clients to achieve good mental and emotional health."

The Center also continues to accept referrals from many sources within its geographic boundaries. The Department of Social Services, the Sheriff's Department, local police, the courts, friends of potential clients and family members are all constantly referring cases to CHIP Counseling. And CHIP Counseling is accepting them on a time-available basis.

In addition to one-on-one counseling, the CHIP staff has found itself becoming increasingly involved in more prevention and classroom work. Smith calls these new approaches "different spokes of the same wheel.

One measure of the CHIP staff's growing professional reputation is the number of training and inservice programs staff members have been involved with lately. They have been called upon to lend their expertise to several prestigious workshops throughout the state in recent months and will be the host agency later this month for a meeting of all program directors in the NMSAS 27-county region.

Not only have the outstate activities of the staff increased the Center's visibility, says Smith, but they have also brought in hundreds of dollars to CHIP's coffers. These varied sources of income are important to the Center's future he said.

"Learning from our past experiences, we have to make sure our funding is varied enough so that we do not have to rely so heavily on one source," said Mrs. Plackner, "Even a state contract is no solid guarantee these days."

It is the area of public donations that the CHIP board and administration would like to see take a larger role.

"Any local support would help the Center serve the many people who are not presently able to benefit from the Center's services because of lack of staff," said Mrs. Sherman, "Local support is aso important to the Center's identity as an agency started by and for the people of Charlevoix."

"When someone is helped by CHIP Counseling Center," she added, "It is the entire community that is helped."

Chamber board acts to improve communication and community involvement

by DAVE KNIGHT

Better communication, more participation in local government and involvement in long range economic development planning were the three major goals for the coming year set last week by the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors.

Goals for 1982 were among the discussion topics at the board's two day retreat held March 13 and 14 at the Grand Traverse Hilton.

According to Chamber President James McGarry, board members felt strongly about improving communication with the Chamber's membership and with the community at large.

As a result, Chamber members will be categorized into six divisions and each will have a board member appointed as its representative. The divisions include Industrial, Retail, Professional, Service, Hospitality and Agriculture.

Explains McGarry, "Each representative is to consult with each of his members to secure input neccessary for adequate representation."

Divisional representatives will also be responsible for developing brief statements of purpose for their respective divisions.

On other communication fronts, the board opted for more general membership meetings and a more frequent newsletter. No less than three general membership meetings will be scheduled for this year with the emphasis on topical, informativ programs and membership input.

The Chamber newsletter, which has been published with no set frequency in the past, will now be sent monthly.

Increased one-to-one dialogue between board members and the membership was also endorsed by the board as a means of improving communication channels.

In an effort to improve the Chamber's public visibility and governmental involvement, the board directed McGarry to establish a rotating system by which at least one board member will attend each regular meeting of the City Council.

Chamber involvement in economic development through the master plan process was another major topic at the retreat.

Charlevoix City Manager Robert Hunt joined the board for their Saturday afternoon session to discuss how the Chamber figures into long range economic development planning.

St. Pat's Day potluck, Irish songs, highlight activities at Pine River Place

by FRAN MARTIN

Everyone at Pine River Place had a bit of Irish about them recently when more than 40 of the 56 residents at the facility gathered for a potluck supper in the lounge to celebrate St. patrick's Day.

Topping off the observance was a sing-along of familiar Irish songs with Bob Clock at the piano as a guest at the gathering. Mrs. Florence Dundas, a guest, sang her traditional "Hello, Dolly" and other numbers accompanied by Mrs. Lillian Swinton.

The potluck was only one of the activities at Pine River Place.

The students at St. Mary's School, located nearby, have 'adopted' the residents and come regularly to entertain with a brief program of songs.

"They will be visiting the facility a couple more times before cclasses are dismissed for the summer.

The Welcome Wagon Club comes to the facility regularly, offering some form of entertainment and always delicious refreshments.

In addition, club members offer numerous services to residents needing assistance such as shopping or transportation.

Their most recent entertainment was the appearance of Jasper (Warner) and his Tag-alongs, national Grange winner, who played and sang for the residents.

Stanley Floyd, one of the residents at Pine River Place, recently donated a pool table which is located in the roomy first floor lounge. Old-timers at this popular game are enjoying the use of the table and are busy teaching others the fine points of the game.

A variety of books are now in the book case to offer reading material to those interested. A supply of National Geographics along with other current magazines are also available so residents have reading material on hand.

The magazines and books as well as the book case have been donated.

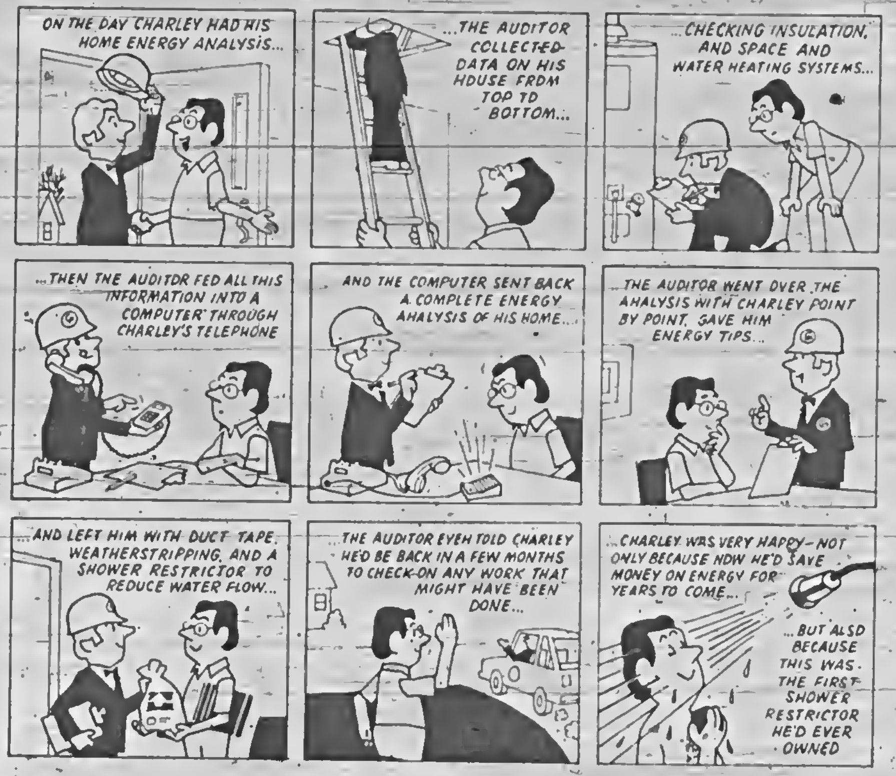
The Home Energy Analysis: A Way to Save on Your Energy Bill.

The Home Energy Analysis is a new service provided by Consumers Power Company, under guidelines from the Department of Energy and State of Michigan. Its purpose is simple: to help you identify specific things that add to your energy bill and the steps you can take to reduce the amount of energy you use.

The Home Energy Analysis costs only $10 and it will show you how to use less energy. You'll even get a do-it-yourself energy saving starter kit.

To arrange for your personal home analysis, call your local Consumers Power office. And then before long...



ON THE DAY CHARLEY HAD HIS HOME ENERGY ANALYSIS...
...THE AUDITOR COLLECTED DATA ON HIS HOUSE FROM TOP TO BOTTOM...
...CHECKING INSULATION, AND SPACE AND WATER HEATING SYSTEMS...
...THEN THE AUDITOR FED ALL THIS INFORMATION INTO A COMPUTER THROUGH CHARLEY'S TELEPHONE AND THE COMPUTER SENT BACK A COMPLETE ENERGY ANALYSIS OF HIS HOME...
...THE AUDITOR WENT OVER THE ANALYSIS WITH CHARLEY POINT BY POINT, GAVE HIM ENERGY TIPS...
...AND LEFT HIM WITH DUCT TAPE, WEATHERSTRIPPING, AND A SHOWER RESTRICTOR TO REDUCE WATER FLOW...
...THE AUDITOR EVEN TOLD CHARLEY HE'D BE BACK IN A FEW MONTHS TO CHECK ON ANY WORK THAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN DONE...
...CHARLEY WAS VERY HAPPY—NOT ONLY BECAUSE NOW HE'D SAVE MONEY ON ENERGY FOR YEARS TO COME...
...BUT ALSO BECAUSE THIS WAS THE FIRST SHOWER RESTRICTOR HE'D EVER OWNED

Watch for more information with your next Consumers Power energy bill. You'll save money on energy for years to come. We Can Help.

Knight on the Town

Back to the mat

by Dave Knight

In one of the longest wrestling matches on record, the City Council continues to grapple with the city's charter adopted some four years ago. There have been some escapes and reversals but the fight seems far from over.

The most worn battle ground is over the role of the City Manager, a role that has virtually been redefined by each of the three people to have held it for any length of time. Monday night the turmoil surfaced again.

Said council member Shirley Roloff of current City Manager Robert Hunt, "We aren't heading in the same direction. He recommends things and then we turn around and disagree. The communication is just not there."

First Ward councilman Ray Wood tagged the problem as one of acclimatization. "Bob Hunt sees this as a larger community; he's not yet acquainted with the atmosphere of a small town," said Wood.

Said council member Robert Timms, "Bob is looking at the job as a manager of a business but we don't look at it the same way."

The operative words in all these sentiments are communication and definition. The charter defines the city manager's position but it is the job of the council to communicate that definition, in its day-to-day actions, to whomever holds the position. Every council since the charter was adopted, and every city manager as well, has had problems with that step.

If I was all-knowing and all-wise (just if), I would tell the council that when they hire a professional with the credentials and managerial style of a Bob Hunt, they must expect a very businesslike, efficient approach and the sometimes hard decisions that accompany it.

And I would tell Bob Hunt that when he takes a city manager's job in a small community where radical change does not come easy and where more business is conducted with handshakes than documents, he must likewise adjust.

But I'm not all-knowing and certainly not all-wise so I guess I'll just have to take my humble place in the back and watch the rest of the wrestling match; win, lose or, hopefully, draw.

Clockwise

Prom time

by Bob Clock

MY FRIEND Steve Schmidt, president of the junior c[illegible] at Charlevoix High School, tells me that the junior-senior prom will be Saturday, May 8, at Stafford's Bay View Inn, and he wants me to pass the word along. This means, of course, that celebrants have less than seven weeks to shake the wrinkles out of their party clothes, polish their shoes, save up for corsages and make myriads of other arrangements...depending on their gender.

Wouldn't you love to be 18 again — on prom night?

PRESIDENT REAGAN, according to the news services, is dissatisfied with some of the press he has been getting lately. It seems as though the media, principally television, has been playing up the hardships that have resulted from the nation's economic downturn since Reagan took office.

There certainly is no denying that Americans are suffering more than usual from the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune. Millions are unemployed and are surviving on jobless benefits or welfare. Additional millions have lost or are about to lose educational opportunities and other benefits which have flowed for generations from the federal fountain.

Hundreds of businesses file bankruptcy every month and dismal economic news is a glut on the market.

There is also no denying that such stories make highly readable — and listenable — news copy. You can't beat human misery as an attention-getter.

None-the-less, Reagan feels he has been treated unfairly and he is probably correct. I know of one television newscaster whose contempt for President Reagan is so obvious that I find it embarrassing to watch him, even in the privacy of my own living room. The same fellow felt the same way about President Nixon, only with a great deal more justification. He seems incapable of presenting cold, hard facts without an editorial sneer.

Lately I have found his nightly news casts so objectionable I have switched to another network. The news is still bad — but it is presented in an even-handed, objective manner which allows me to draw my own conclusions.

Fortunately, President Reagan has no recourse to his treatment by the media other than to complain — which he has done. Censureship has no place in a free society.

However there is nothing in the Constitution that requires us to saturate ourselves with televised venom every evening. If you think your commentator is being unfair, switch channels. The networks will soon get the message, thanks to the Nielson ratings.

I think the average American is a pretty level-headed critter, even in these desperate times. We may disagree vehemently with the president and his policies, but we do not enjoy seeing him brow-beaten night after night on television by two-bit political analysts.

FEW OF US I am sure blame President Reagan for all of our economic woes. President Carter lost control of the economy years ago and inflation was a household dilemma long before Reagan became president. The administration is attempting to correct long-standing problems as expeditiously as possible. But you cannot raise the ship of state without throwing some of the ballast overboard.

Nobel prize winning economist Milton Friedman tells us we are on the right track and that brighter days lie just ahead if we only follow the principles of Reagonomics a while longer.

Of course, I think Reagan has made his share of mistakes, particularly when he attempts to put down peasant revolts in Latin America. But I think he and Uncle Milty have a better idea of how to lead the nation out of its economic quagmire than any of the hot-shots on network TV.

Letters: nuke freeze, buses

Support the freeze

Dear Mr. Knight;

The Michigan Nuclear Weapons Freeze petition is being circulated in this area but little information has been printed about the campaign. There seems to be some misunderstanding about what the petition says and what it is intended to accomplish.

It is a citizens' initiative calling upon the Michigan legislature to transmit a written communication to the President of the United States, the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Defense and all members of the U.S. Congress asking them to propose to the Soviet Union that both countries agree to halt immediately the testing, production and further deployment of nuclear weapons, missiles and delivery systems in a way that can be verified by both sides. It would also urge that Congress transfer funds that would have been used for increased nuclear weapons systems to civilian use. Similar "freeze" petition drives are under way in over 40 other states.

In Michigan, 230,000 signatures of registered voters are needed by May 26, in order to place this proposal on the ballot in November. If the proposal passes, it then becomes binding on the Michigan legislature to transmit this message from the people of Michigan to our federal government.

A Gallup Poll last June indicated that 70 percent of Americans would favor a bilateral moratorium on nuclear weapons. Bills sponsored by 185 members of Congress have been introduced in the House and the Senate, calling for a nuclear weapons freeze. The petition drive is a way of insuring that, whether or not these bills are brought to a vote, the general public has an opportunity to express its wishes on what is probably the most important issue facing the country today.

Your signature on a "Freeze" petition says only that you wish an opportunity to vote on this proposal. Other states will also be polling their voters and sending their messages to Washington.

Anyone who believes in the Democratic process should support this effort to register grass roots opinion. Petition forms may be obtained from: Margaret Duerr, 209 E. Dixon Ave., Charlevoix, Michigan 49720. Phone: 547-2603.

Time is growing short. The deadline for getting 230,000 signatures is May 26. Help is needed to get this crucial question on the ballot.

Thank you,
Margaret Duerr

Some corrections

Dear Editor:

In response to an article a few weeks ago about the Charlevoix County Transit, I would like to make a few comments.

I am sure the information printed was inaccurate, and a few things need to be corrected. The transit has a fleet of eight buses, with four of them lift equipped.

The article left the impression that the Transit system was used only by Senior Citizens and the Handicapped; not so. The Transit also transports workers, people to the supermarkets, laundromats, school children, packages, and people to the doctors offices. They also deliver all the meals on wheels for the county and, if time permits most of the drivers will help people with packages.

There are several of the drivers who are certified by the American Red Cross in Multimedia Standard First Aid, and Cardiopulmonary Resusciation.

Again the article names travel expenses for the drivers as a high expense; not so. In a two year time period only three drivers were paid travel expenses. The rest of that expense most likely went to the transit manager and his assistant.

In the two years the transit has been in service how many times have you seen an advertisment in the paper or heard one on the radio telling about the service? I feel safe in saying none.

The transit is for the use of the whole county, anyone can ride, if that ride can be scheduled. We have a good service going for the county. The best way to keep it is to work out the bugs in it, to make it better. This could be done by starting from the top. This seems to be where most of the problems of the transit can be found, in the management.

Layoffs averted

one city employees union contract was reinterpreted.

Hunt provided the council with two alternatives: a layoff plan and a plan to reduce work hours. Under the layoff plan, one police officer would have been laid off beginning October 1, 1982, one street department employee laid off April 1 (to be reinstated on a seasonal basis), the shuffleboard attendant in East Park eliminated, the Recreation Department secretary's time reduced 20 percent and salaried ski hill position cut back two weeks, assessor's secretary position cut back two weeks and various work reductions for clerical staff at City Hall.

Union steward Mike Reinhart, representing 22 employees who belong to Local 4106 of the Communication Workers of America (CWA), endorsed a plan where all city employees would take one day of unpaid vacation a month to avoid eliminating any positions.

Said Reinhart, "We're interested in saving jobs."

Council member Ray Wood agreed and made the motion to initiate a plan reducing enough work hours by all city employees to balance the budget. The motion passed unanimously.

Commemmorative cantata being composed by local musicians

by PEG OHLE

Meet Charlevoix

Last week, the Courier invited Elizabeth Humphries and Ellen Addington to come to the office to talk about the cantata they are preparing for the centennial celebration of the Charlevoix Congregational Church, which will be held later this year. The conversation expanded into many other subjects, as the report below indicates.

COURIER: What part will each of you have in producing the cantata?

ADDINGTON: Elizabeth has been commissioned to compose the work and I will train the chorus.

COURIER: What will it consist of?

HUMPHRIES: It is a choral composition beginning with a prophesy and continuing through scenes depicting Palm Sunday, the Last Supper, the Crucifixion, Easter, and the Resurrection. It is written mostly from the viewpoint of Mary Magdalene and the text comes from the Bible, an anonymous poem, and my own thoughts. There will be several solo parts and a large community chorus. It is our hope that it will be imaginative and fresh.

COURIER: You are both obviously well trained musicians. What route brought you to Charlevoix?

HUMPHRIES: I grew up in Springfield, Illinois and studied music at MacMurray College. After that I was awarded a fellowship in voice to the Julliard School of Music in New York, where I studied under Queena Mario and Victoria Gianinni, among others. Then I traveled with Community Concerts out of New York. I sang with the Detroit, Indianapolis, Chicago, and Cleveland Symphony Orchestras and spent five years at Bay Shore working with Fred Patton. Next, I taught for 20 years at Redford High School in Detroit and served as choir director and organist for the Monteith Presbyterian Church. Finally, I retired (was pink-slipped) as a school teacher and came up here as organist for The Congregational Church. That was about three and a half years ago.

COURIER: How did you choose this part of Michigan?

HUMPHRIES: I love the topography. I used to visit the Addington cottage on Torch Lake, and, of course, I had spent those years at Bay View.

COURIER: Do you have any hobbies other than music?

HUMPHRIES: I work with the Little Theater in Ellsworth, I like to garden, and I've done some writing - my father was a newspaper man - but writing takes more time than I can spare.

COURIER: What about the other half of the team?

ADDINGTON: I was born in Kalamazoo. My Dad was superintendent of schools in several different places - Rapid City, Midland, Davison. Then we moved to Detroit and when I was six I started taking flute lessons. I played with the old City Orchestra as a child. I remember taking the street car to lessons and practice. My brother was a cellist and my mother an organist. I played with one or both of them on many occasions. My mother always encouraged me.

COURIER: Where did you go to school?

ADDINGTON: I went to Redford High School and after graduation I enrolled at Adrian College, where I worked as assistant to Dr. Spencer, head of the music department. I did manuscripts and orchestrations for him. I was asked to leave Adrian because I went up and down a fire escape when there wasn't a fire, so I transferred to Western. After that I spent some time at Bay View - where I met Elizabeth - then went to New York. In New York I studied privately with Thelma Votipka and coached with Walter Taussig, who is now conductor of the Met. I had done some conducting in college. I also trained the chorus that performed with Leonard Smith's concert band, and sang at St. Bartholomew's Church.

ADDINGTON: I went to Chicago and studied voice with Edith Mason for about five years. At the same time I ran a thrift shop. I also sang with Leo Sowerby. Finally, I came back to Detroit as choir director at Swedish Lutheran Church and took a job teaching inner city kids who had behavioral problems. When that was over, I came to Traverse City as a teacher-consultant in the Traverse Bay Intermediate School District. I remember one boy we had there who was having trouble learning but who loved planes. I used to have a plane, so I had some old flight maps which I took to school to work out some math problems for him. We asked how long it would take to fly from one place to another, how many gallons of gas it would take, what it would cost - similar problems. He solved them all easily. After this job, I retired.

COURIER: How long have you been in this area?

ADDINGTON: I've been music director at the church for three years. I'm also involved with the problems of hunger and nuclear disarmament. I'm coordinator for the Grand Traverse Hunger Task Force for the Methodist Church. I'm going to Africa in the fall to study the hunger problems first-hand, and in May I'm taking a group to Washington for a seminar on the subject, "Wage peace - fight hunger".

COURIER: We wish you both well in all your endeavors.

Ellen Addington and Elizabeth Humphries

Ellsworth Lioness Club to sponsor diabetes clinic

A free diabetes testing clinic is to be conducted by the Ellsworth Lioness Club with the cooperation of Charlevoix Area Hospital, Thursday, April 1 at the Banks Township Community Center on Center Street in Ellsworth.

The clinic, open to anyone in Antrim and Charlevoix counties wishing to be tested for diabetes, will be run from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Intended to help people who do not know if they are diabetic, the clinic will also have on hand important literature on diabetes; its symptoms, treatment and diet.

"We hope anyone in the area who is not already diagnosed as diabetic and wishes to be tested will come to our clinic," Donna Harris, Lioness Secretary said. "Part of the clinic will be aimed at showing peole that diabetes can be treated, that those who are diagnosed as diabetic are not alone. People who find themselves diabetic can expect to lead normal lives with proper care," Mrs. Harris continued.

The blood tests will be conducted by the laboratory staff of the Charlevoix Area Hospital. Lab Chief Ralph Corwin explained the procedures for people wishing to participate in the testing: "They should eat a meal high in carbohydrates with large amounts of starches and sugars two hours before the tests. Breakfast could consist of fruit, cereal with milk, sugar, two pieces of toast with jam and coffee or tea. A lunch should be soup, sandwich, cake or pie and a glass of milk," Corwin said.

"It is important that the meal be eaten quickly, within 15 minutes and then nothing else should be eaten before the test. Following these procedures will insure the most accurate results," Corwin emphasized.

Mrs. Harris said that the Lioness Club will help arrange rides to the testing center for anyone needing transportation. Mary Jean Kundee, Lioness President will make transportation arrangements for anyone calling 588-7221 or Mrs. Harris at 588-2822.

The American Diabetes Association will follow up the tests, notifying those participants and a physician they designate if diabetes is found.

The Diabetes Association estimates that over 200,000 Michigan residents have diabetes and don't know it. Clinics such as the Ellsworth Lioness' Clinic help detect these cases. The Diabetes Association urges everyone to be checked for diabetes but most especially people over forty, overweight and those related to diabetics.

The clinic is one of the Ellsworth Lioness Clubs many public service projects in keeping with their motto, "We Serve Too."

Rev. Williams to speak here

Rev. Emery C. Williams will be speaking in special services, March 28-31, at the Community Church of God in Charlevoix, 202 West Hurlbut Street, according to Rev. Walter G. Hastings, pastor. Rev. Williams has actively served as a pastor and evangelist for the past thirty-five years. He has been in demand as a speaker at camp meetings, youth camps and conventions, Youth for Christ rallies, and city-wide revivals all across the nation. He has pastored churches in Lansing, Michigan; San Antonio, Texas; Cleveland, Ohio; Jamaica, New York; and has recently resigned from a church in the Detroit area.

Rev. Williams is a graduate of Anderson College in Anderson, Indiana, and of Christian Seminary in San Antonio, Texas. He and his wife, Lillie Mae, have four children, and seven grandchildren.

Rev. Williams is presently serving as chairman of the General Assembly of the Church of God in Michigan. Among his previous revival services was an engagement in Charlevoix as speaker at the Church of God Family Campmeeting in the late 1960's.

Izors' new 'foster child' awaits future of service to the blind

by PEG OHLE

Herman and Marilyn Izor of Clipperview have a new baby. The baby came to live with them in mid-January at the age of 11 weeks and will stay until next October or November.

Marilyn says, as have many other foster mothers, "It will be hard to give him up, but we know it will be for a good cause."

The situation with the Izors is a bit different from that of other foster parents, however. The baby is a Golden Retriever called "Clipper" and the "good cause" is Leader Dogs for the Blind.

Clipper came from the kennels of Hugh and Mary Juday in Boyne City, who breed dogs for Leader training and adopt them out to local people until they are 12 to 13 months old, at which time they are ready to go to the Leader Dog School for the Blind in Rochester.

Already preparing for the time they will have to give up Clipper, the Izors rationalize that it probably won't be as hard as it was to put their own two pet dogs – a Collie and a "mostly Collie" to sleep because of the infirmities of old age.

In the meantime, they are thoroughly enjoying their new baby. "He was trained in about a week and a half," Marilyn reports, "and he loves everybody.

"He also understands such commands as 'Sit', 'Go potty', and 'Get on your blanket'. The blanket is the one we wrapped him in when we brought him home. It has become his security blanket."

Following instructions from the Leader School, Clipper accompanies the Izors everywhere – to the shopping center, on automobile trips, to visit friends, and even to the offices of the Courier to be photographed. Reaching the Courier offices, which are on the second floor, was a new experience for Clipper, who had never before encountered a stairway.

However, he met the challenge easily – both up and down.

Foster parents of future Leader Dogs are supplied with written guidelines on handling the puppies. They cover details from feeding and exercising to punishing and praising. Foster parents sign a "Raising Agreement" accepting the responsibility for the puppy and promising to take proper care of it. Unlike foster parents of real babies, though, they receive no money to cover the cost of food and other necessities.

Herman Izor is helping to take care of Clipper as a Community Service Project of the Telephone Pioneers of America. He is presently Community Services Project chairman of the Petoskey branch of the Pioneers, and is trying to interest other Pioneers in becoming foster parents of future Leader Dogs.

When Clipper leaves the Izor home next fall, he will go to Rochester, where he will be trained in such Leader Dog responsibilities as stopping at the curb, obeying hand and voice signals, and lying quietly while his trainer stops for a cup of coffee.

If Clipper passes all the tests he is given during the early months and is still with the training group after four or five months, he will be taken to Detroit to "work" the busy streets, trolleys, elevators, and swinging doors. And, after he has gone through this routine several times, his trainer will blindfold himself and trust Clipper to guide him around the city.

After passing this test, Clipper will be paired with a blind person for a four-week training session before going to his new home with his new master. Matching dogs to masters is a delicate process with every consideration being given to similar personality traits.

The lucky person who becomes Clipper's master will not have to pay a cent for the dog. Lions Clubs throughout the country and some foreign countries support the Leader Dog Program to almost 80 percent of its cost. The rest comes from such sources as the United Way and individual donations.

Locally, the Boyne Valley Lions Club has been involved with the Leader Dog School for the Blind since 1972, when the first dog from the area graduated.

The Boyne Valley Lions Club works closely with the Judays, paying any veterinary bills they might have and helping with the cost of food.

The local puppy-raising program includes an arrangement whereby members of 4-H Clubs can adopt a puppy and raise it until it is ready for Leader Dog training.

Right now, the Judays have a litter of Labrador Retrievers ready for placement in foster homes and another litter of Golden Retrievers which will be ready within a few weeks.

Any 4-H Club member or other individual who is interested in becoming a foster parent of a future Leader Dog should contact Hugh or Mary at 582-9115. They will furnish all necessary information. The Judays also put on programs for clubs and other groups telling about the Leader Dog program and showing films of the Leader Dog School for the Blind.

Marilyn and Herman Izor with Clipper.

Forensics students to perform

The Charlevoix High School Forensics class will present an Evening of Entertainment at the high school cafeteria from 7:30 until 9 p.m. Tuesday their coach, Mrs. Connie Ford, has announced.

The special program is being presented to give the students public appearance experience prior to the district competition at Gaylord on April 5, Mrs. Ford said.

Featured in the novice night will be students specializing in story telling, multiples, serious reading, sales, oratory and classical drama.

Forty-nine students are involved in the program.

Jobs are the issue says GOP's Larsen

Any Republican candidate who hopes to win in the upcoming elections will have to sell the electorate on the idea that he can devise ways to provide more jobs.

That thought was expressed by Mel Larsen, Republican State Chairman, at a meeting of local Republicans last week.

Following unemployment, Larsen sees inflation and a poor business climate as factors of prime importance in all political campaigns.

"But the one thing you can all do is help get out the vote," Larsen told his audience. "Republican votes in the upper Lower Peninsula and in the Upper Peninsula have been declining in recent years and we have to get them back," he warned.

About the number of Republican candidates seeking the jobs of senator and governor, Larsen said he believed the "spirited primaries" were a good thing because they get people to think and give the candidates visibility and exposure."

On the local level, County Republican Chairman Don Hufford announced that the party would support all Republican candidates in the primaries who are members of the County unit, and "of course, go all out for them in November."

Wily Coyotes spoil Rayders' bid for Regional championship

Jim Buchanan drives around a Reed City player.

The party's over for the Charlevoix Rayder basketball following a disappointing loss Friday night to Reed City in the Class C Regional finals at Gaylord.

The Rayders bowed by a 62-57 score thus ending the season with a 20-4 win-loss record.

Early in the season, Charlevoix developed a pattern of starting slowly and coming on strong in the third and fourth periods of their games. Friday night, however, that pattern was reversed as Charlevoix stormed to a big lead in the first half only to see it dwindle as the game progressed.

The Rayders took advantage of the Reed City Coyotes' frigid shooting in the early going to build a 10-4 lead by the end of the first quarter. Charlevoix held on to the momentum for part of the second quarter also and at one point led 20-6.

The Coyotes chipped away at the Rayder lead in the waning moments of the half and when the buzzer sounded for halftime, they trailed by only three, 27-24.

Reed City eventually pulled even at 32-32 with about three and a half minutes left in the quarter. At the end of the third it was Reed City up 42-40.

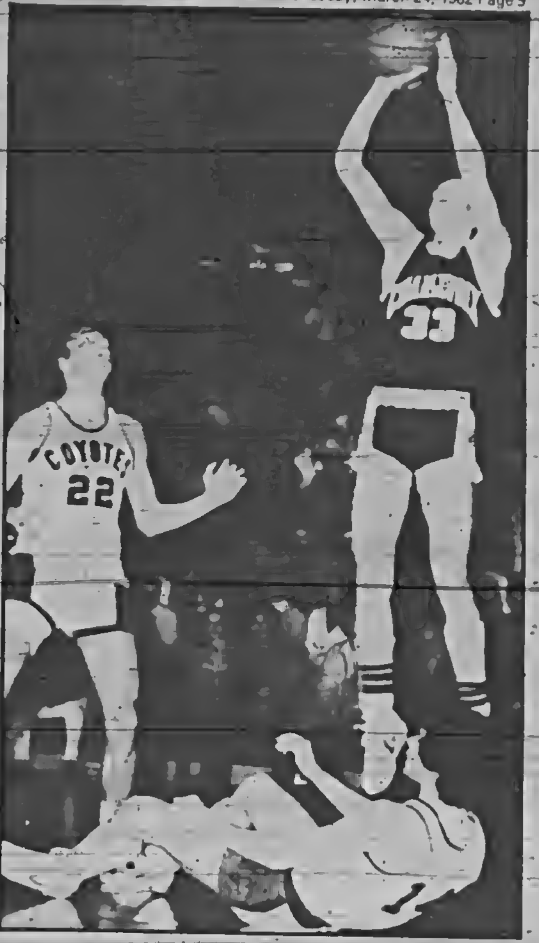
Charlevoix kept right on the Coyotes' heels through the final quarter and with 1:35 remaining to play, had a chance to even the score again when they trailed 53-51 and had the ball. An offensive foul on Mike Loper cancelled that opportunity, however, and Reed City's Layne Brower, a 6'5" All-State candidate, took over with some crucial rebounding and two clutch baskets that iced the victory.

Junior Craig Klooster was Charlevoix's top individual scorer with 20 points. Seniors Gary Drury and Jim Buchanan added 13 and 12 respectively in their high school career finales. For Reed City, Brower was the dominant factor with 21 points.

To make their way to Friday's Regional finals, the Rayders hung a 65-41 loss on Rogers City last Wednesday night in the Gaylord gym.

The Rayders were never seriously threatened in that game; they led 12-10 at the end of the first quarter and were up 28-14 by halftime. Loper's five out of seven free throws in the third helped widen the lead to 51-29 going into the fourth.

Loper came away with individual scoring honors against the Hurons with a total of 17 for the night. Klooster had 14 while Buchanan and George Smith each added 10.



George Smith shoots as Hengesh from Reed City hits the deck.

Dave Buday comes to the aid of Craig Klooster who went down hard but was not badly injured during the Reed City game.

Operation Petunia weekly update

by FRAN MARTIN

Plans for the execution of Operation: Petunia continue daily as spring approaches.

Figuring that it is less expensive to learn from someone else's experience rather than by the trial and error method, Bruce MacArthur of the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful committee consulted with Chamber of Commerce director, Jill Kruger, and City Treasurer, John Deidering, of Frankenmuth, a community that has had 18 years of experience in petunia planting.

It was learned that a 15-member city beautification committee appointed by the mayor with a budget of $15,000 has the responsibility, along with the assistance of clubs and local businesses, of planting 10,000 petunias in early May and decorating for the holiday season. Of the total, $6,000 is budgeted for summer projects and $9,000 for the winter. The city contributes $5,000 toward the beautification program and helps with watering the petunias.

Most of the watering and weeding is done by the property owners. All labor is done by volunteers. Local clubs contribute monies and the women's club conducts chartered bus tours through the community as a fund-raising project.

The objective is to beautify the city of Frankenmuth for its annual festival, which attracts 250,000 visitors, every June.

Why petunias for a similar beautification project in Charlevoix?

Because this flower has been recommended by floral experts for its show quality, hardiness, resistence to wind and to auto exhaust. It also requires little weeding.

Watering the plants once they are planted will be one of the major requirements. Volunteers have already been rounded up to do this when necessary. Plans are also afoot to offer awards to those people who continue to take care of the plantings on their property.

If you have any questions relating to Operation: Petunia, you are urged to submit them to Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Inc., P.O. Box 123, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Kof C Tootsie Roll sale coming up

The Father Pierre Charlevoix Council of the Knights of Columbus will sponsor its annual Tootsie Roll Drive to assist the mentally retarded Jack Gebott, Grand Knight of the local chapter, has announced.

The Tootsie Roll drive will be held Friday and Saturday, April 2 and 3 under the direction of Frank Camilleri, general chairman.

During those two days members of the local council will be at Oleson's, Edwards' and Glen's markets with the tootsie rolls. Under the program carried out in most of the 245 councils in the state of Michigan, people are asked to donate money to the mentally retarded and, in return are given a Tootsie Roll candy in appreciation of the gift.

Eighty per cent of the net income from the donations are retained by the local council for distribution to area groups and agencies. The remainder is forwarded to the State K C Council to meet expenses of the program and to make donations in behalf of all 68,000 Knights in Michigan.

Locally, funds are donated to Bergmann Center, a sheltered workshop for mentally handicapped adults, and to Charlevoix House, where a number of the clients in the workshop program reside.

IRA'S certainly are not all alike!

We cannot sit idly by and let you be confused.
Ask yourself these questions:

- Who pays you more money for your money consistently?
- Who's there when I need them?
- Who's 77 years young and growing with security?
- Who is locally owned with their prime interest in this area?

IRA Plan's:

1. Highest earnings available because the interest rate floats weekly with the money market rate. (Minimum deposits of $50 and deposits of $50 thereafter)
2. Fixed rate certificate of deposit (15.25%). Minimum deposits $50, for 18 months compounded quarterly, annual yield 16.14%.

Fate of county buses likely up to voters

by PEG OHLE

The future of Charlevoix County's Transit System will probably be determined by the voters in either the August primary elections or the November general elections.

The transit system's state funding will be cut by 25 percent at the end of July and by 50 percent at the end of next December. In action taken by the County Board of Commissioners last week, the county agreed to help support the System for the five months from August through December by taking monies from the county's general fund in an amount estimated at approximately $8,500.

However, there was no support from board members to continue general fund financing beyond that five months, and most agreed that a millage vote either in the summer or fall was called for. The final decision will be left to the board's Ways and Means committee.

Board member Lee Moerland expressed the opinion that four-tenths of a mill on present land valuations would provide enough revenue to keep the transit system operating for a while.

The County Board discussed the transit system problem before five busloads of senior citizens, handicapped persons, and other interested individuals who rode transit system buses from East Jordan, Boyne City, and all over Charlevoix. Many of them told of their dependence upon the buses for their everyday activities. One man questioned the possibility of a millage proposition passing and another stated that if it is put on the ballot it will have to be fully supported by all senior citizens and their families.

County commissioners were unprepared for the influx of citizens to their meeting, and after opening the meeting in their regular room in the County Annex, were forced to move to the Court Room in the County Building, which provided more room.

One commissioner was heard to remark, "This is senior power."

The Charlevoix County Transit System officially started operation in July of 1980. It consists of eight buses, four of them with lifts for handicapped persons in wheel chairs. For some time, round trip fares have been 50 cents for up to three miles, $1.00 for over three miles, and $1.75 for out-county (Petoskey). However, senior citizens and handicapped persons are charged only half these amounts.

With these fares, the transit system has operated at a substantial loss per ride, so beginning April 1 they will be raised 10 cents across the board.

CG airlifts patient from icebound tug

Donald Anthony of East Jordan was transported by Coast Guard helicopter from the fishing tug The Bear to the Charlevoix airport and by ambulance to Charlevoix Area Hospital Monday noon after suffering a possible heart attack while on board The Bear about 600 feet off the Charlevoix pierheads.

The tug was entrapped in heavy ice at the time. It was the second time in three days that the Coast Guard came to the rescue of The Bear as the Friday before, the Cutter Mesquite helped winch the vessel out of the water for emergency hull repairs. (See page 3.)

Sexual child abuse is one of those topics that nobody wants to talk about. Certainly nobody wants to believe that it happens here in Charlevoix County. The grim reality, verified by child welfare professionals at a recent media meeting on the subject, is that sexual child abuse is happening, it is happening here, and it is happening on all socio-economic levels.

Representatives of the Sexual Abuse Family Education Committe (S.A.F.E.) were on hand to promote an upcoming event to be held at Boyne Mountain on April 19th. The event is a S.A.F.E. seminar entitled "I Out Of Every 5 Children Is Sexually Misused." Speakers for the day include Robin Zollar Smietanka and Gloria Gillespie, Assault Recovery Associates from St. Joseph, Mich.

The S.A.F.E. Committee was formed for the purpose of promoting a suitable program for school age children. The committee has been meeting since Dec. reviewing films, literature and programs offered around the state.

Lucia Kadzielski, social worker for the East Jordan Family Health Center explained the role and the concerns of the S.A.F.E. committee. "This program is not to be confused with existant sex education programs," she pointed out. "This is sexual abuse education."

Incest is probably the most prevalent form of sexual child misuse according to Lenore Landon, Protective Service Worker with the Charlevoix County Department of Social Services. She reports that she in presently working with 15 families in which sexual child misuse has been substantiated.

D. Bradley Campbell, Juvenile Court Officer in Charlevoix County, believes that the referred cases are only "the tip of the iceberg." He could add at least 15 more cases to the roster as a result of his investigations including those involving run-aways.

Beyond incest, there may be misuse inflicted by baby sitters, children down the street or child pornagraphers. Parents and teachers tend to warn children about "strangers". Unfortunately the problem often lies closer to home.

"We have to hope that we can intervene in the family pattern of child abuse for the sake of the child," Brad Campbell explained. "It is an uphill task (in incestuous situations). But children have the right to know that certain actions are not the norm and are not healthy."

The S.A.F.E. committee is hopeful that programs for the school age child will provide information for the victimized child, supply a knowledge of what is appropriate and what is not appropriate and encourage him-her to seek help from the proper sources.

Should the committee continue, Gail Wiemer, professional development consultant at Char-Em Intermediate School District, is hopeful that the schools will cooperate in incorporating the S.A.F.E. information into their curriculum considerations. Teachers, it was pointed out, have the unique opportunity of observing children everyday and can play a vital role in diagnosing the symptoms of the sexually abused child.

The April 19th seminar at Boyne Mountain will provide the opportunity for teachers, welfare workers, parents and the concerned community to learn more about the implications of sexual child abuse - its detection, its correction and its prevention.

The day will begin at 9:00 A.M. with a presentation by Ms. Smietanka and Gillespie, "Sexual Abuse and the School Age Child - Everything you never thought was happening." A panel discussion at 1:30, features representatives of police, schools, mental health agencies, the legal system, medical and protective services.

Pre-registration by mail is $6.00 and may be mailed to East Jordan Family Health Center, P.O. Box 718, East Jordan, Mich. by April 2. Registration on April 19 will be $10.00.

Firemen battle a losing cause Friday as strong winds fan the flames at the Dietrich home Friday.

Fire destroys rural home

Fire whipped by gusting winds completely destroyed the Marion Township home of Mr. and Mrs. William Dietrich and their two daughters Friday. Nobody was home at about 11 a.m. Friday when the fire was reported. The Dietrich home is located on Mascho Road just off Marion Center Road.

Firemen from the Charlevoix City Fire Department, assisted by tankers from Charlevoix Township and Ellsworth, responded to the call but were unable to save the home which was engulfed in flames when they arrived. According to Dietrich, the structure was over 100 years old but had undergone extensive remodeling over the past four years, including a new wood heating system and chimney.

Both Dietrich, a member of the Charlevoix Properties staff, and his wife, a teacher in Ellsworth, were at work at the time. Their two daughters, Heather, 9, and Heidi, 6, were not at home either but the family's two pets, a dog and a cat, were lost in the fire.

Only survivors: a pair of ice skates.

Hundreds of thousands of gallons of water were poured on the fire requiring several trips by tankers back to Charlevoix to refill.

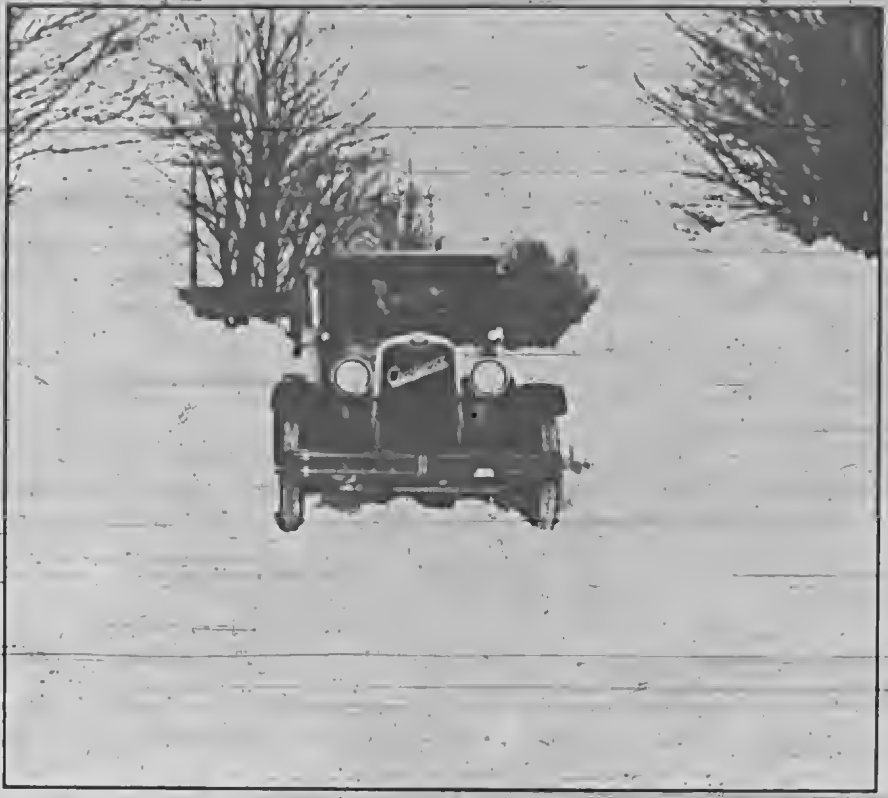
Only one wall remained of the large, two-story structure following the fire.



Charlevoix Yesterday

As far back as the 1920's, Charlevoix auto owners could buy a special identification plate for their cars. The "Charlevoix" plate shown on the radiator of the car above was made of metal, probably aluminum, about an eighth of an inch thick. The plates were the brainchild of Clarence and Forest Wood of Wood Bros. Hardware and were quite popular, according to Bob Miles, who furnished the photo and the information.

Lunch with seniors sheds light on county's nutrition program

by PEG OHLE

This is a report.

Last week, we ate lunch at three different restaurants in the County – one in Charlevoix, one in East Jordan, and one in Boyne City.

Well, they weren't really restaurants. They were the places where senior citizens in each city gather to eat the nutritionally balanced meals provided by the County Commission on Aging.

There was no such thing as a cash register at the meal sites. Money for the meals was collected by passing around a tin container with a slot in the top. A label on the outside read "60 cents", indicating that amount as the desired "contribution" for the meal.

Many of the diners arrived by County Transit buses (fare 50 cents a round trip), and most of them seemed to be "old hands" at finding a place to sit, lining up for food, and packing leftovers from the table into paper cups or napkins to take home for future snacks.

We joined 48 other senior citizens on Tuesday for lunch at the Senior Center in Boyne City, located in the City Hall. The food was good – liver (or spaghetti and meat balls for those who don't like liver), was beans, cabbage and carrot salad, peaches, bread and butter, and beverage. There was also cheese and crackers on the tables – part of the recent "cheese give-away" by the Federal government.

Although the Boyne City Senior Center has a schedule of activities which take place in connection with the meals, last Tuesday was an "off day", with only a hearing clinic on the calendar. Three people took advantage of the clinic, which convened at 11 a.m. So, with nothing going on after lunch, the dining room was empty well before 12:45.

Meals are served in Boyne City on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays being prepared in the kitchen of the East Jordan Senior Center by cook Phyliss Legatto, and bused to Boyne City. The schedule of activities includes a blood pressure clinic once a month, a nail-cutting clinic once a month, bowling, bingo, preparation of Senior Identification cards, and crafts, as well as the afore-mentioned hearing clinic.

Meals are served in East Jordan five days a week, cooked and served at the Senior Center. The group eating there Wednesday was larger than in Boyne City. Seventy-nine men and women partook of a meal of meat balls, au gratin potatoes, peas, bread and butter, an apple, and beverage, all of it tasty. The apple provided an easy "take home" item, as did some scraps of cheese and crackers (the same federal surplus cheese served in Boyne City).

Again, there was no scheduled after-lunch activity although the Senior Center tries to arrange for a speaker on Wednesdays. On other days they have bingo games, bowling, blood pressure clinics, and arts and crafts. Ruth Moore, an assistant to the Director, had offered a prayer before lunch was served and announced the time buses would be leaving for the Transit System hearing in Charlevoix that evening. (See separate bus story).

Only 29 senior citizens showed up for lunch at the Charlevoix High School cafeteria last Thursday, where the Commission on Aging meals are served three times a week. This time we noted the ratio of men to women – five to 24.

The meal was preceded by a blessing and recital of the Lord's Prayer, led by the site coordinator, Louise Pop. Liz Meadow, manager of the high school cafeteria, hires and supervises the Commission on Aging cook, prepares the menus, buys the necessary food, and bills the Commission on Aging on a per-meal basis. Our compliments to the cook for last Thursday's meal – meat balls, mashed potatoes and gravy, green beans, bread and butter, fruit jello (the best we ever ate), and beverage. The cheese give-away had not yet reached Charlevoix.

Following the meal, a piano was rolled out for a sing-along and a table of pinochle players assembled. Sometimes there are physical fitness exercises and domino games.

"People tend to do things in groups," the site coordinator esplained. They usually sit together to eat and play the same card games."

The high school cafeteria is available to the senior citizens two hours, from one to three o'clock on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays. Perhaps it's because the group is smaller and more cohesive that people tend to stay around for a while after eating.

So it went – Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday in Boyne City, East Jordan, and Charlevoix. Different groups of senior citizens, different menus, different activities, but all with the common bond of a nutritionally balanced meal served for 60 cents by the County Commission on Aging through a Federal grant.

Some housebound senior citizens even had their meals delivered to them at home – 13 from Boyne City, 12 from East Jordan, and 10 from Charlevois on the days we were in those places.

During February, the Commission served 2,744 meals at the three meal sites. Of these, 419 were served in Charlevoix, 1,454 in East Jordan, and 871 in Boyne City.

Total cost of the meals served in February was $4,482.34, which was offset somewhat by contributions of $1,803.03 (an average of 66 cents a meal which was more than the requested 60 cents). The deficit of $2,678.71, or 98 cents a meal, was paid for by the Federal grant from taspayers' money.

With this knowledge at hand, we contributed $1.65 for each of the three meals we ate last week so we would not add to the deficit. Casual conversation with other diners, however, indicated they had no idea what the meals cost to prepare. Some even believed that their contributions of 60 cents paid the cost.

It should be pointed out that the number of meals served does not indicate the number of senior citizens participating in the meal program.

Dorothy Pelton of the East Jordan Senior Center says that the 1,454 meals served there in February were eaten by between 250 and 300 people. Leanna Hardy of the Boyne City Center estimates that their 871 meals were served to between 150 and 200 different senior citizens. Louise Pop of Charlevoix thinks her 419 meals went to between 65 and 70 people. This is because some people eat at the meal sites every day they are open.

Taking the maximum estimate in each city, apparently only 570 senior citizens in Charlevoix County are presently being benefited by the nutrition program. There were an estimated 3,512 people over 60 in the County in 1980.

As in all social welfare programs, there are inequities in the meal program. We recognized many who did not need subsidized lunches while we looked in vain for neighbors who did. In all three cities, we were told that the lunch groups would be larger when the rest of the people got back from Florida. Suntans on a few last week indicated that the return had begun.

The budget for the nutrition program for the fiscal year which began last October 1 is $65,447. Of this amount, $44,447 will come from Federal taspayers and the rest from "project income" (contributions). Obviously, the meal program will last only as long as Federal funds are available. With greater competition for fewer and fewer funds, every facet of every program is going to be questioned.

COMING TO THE AID of a locally based fish tug that was taking on water Thursday was the U.S.C.G. Cutter Mesquite. The tug apparently ran into some rough ice on Lake Michigan and was pumping constantly from a damaged hull. Since all the area marinas were still locked in by ice the Mesquite was called upon to lend its crane to haul the tug out of the water so that welders could work on the bottom of the hull.

Legislation introduced to even charter commission

At the request of the City of Charlevoix and Charlevoix Township, State Senator Mitch Irwin (Sault Ste. Marie) and State Representative Ralph Ostling (Roscommon) last week introduced companion legislation (Senate Bill 769 and House Bill 5593) designed to permit equal representation of affected governmental units on consolidated charter commissions.

"We're pleased to be able to assist this particular local unit by simply amending the existing public act," said Irwin and Ostling. "As the law currently stands, the township would be unfairly represented in the consolidation effort in the Charlevoix area," explained the area legislators.

"The City of Charlevoix and Charlevoix Township have been approved for consolidation by the State Boundary Commission, and a charter commission now needs to be elected in order to draft a proposed charter and governmental services plan for the consolidated unit," said Ostling.

"The commission is composed of representatives from the affected governmental units; and existing law mandates that representation be based on population," continued Irwin. "In Charlevoix, city members would disproportionately outnumber the township members of the commission," he said.

Irwin and Ostling said the bill amends the Boundary Commission Act of 1968 to allow alternative plans for representation. This proposal would permit governmental units involved in consolidation efforts to accept a plan involving an even number of charter commissioners, with equal representation from each affected unit. This bill would serve to aid other communities as well, according to Ostling and Irwin.

The goal of presenting non-partisan education on the threat of nuclear war does not mean that particular points of view have no place in the week's events, but rather, it means that there is opportunity for all viewpoints to be expressed in an atmosphere of shared concern.

Locally a Ground Zero Group has been meeting to make plans for a week of informational activities in Charlevoix. A calendar of events has been put together which will be announced soon. The next planning meeting will be Friday, April 2 at the First Congregational Church at 4:30 P.M. Anyone wishing to participate will be welcome.

Some doctors attribute the nation's new awareness of physical fitness for the phenomenon.

Others say preventive medicine has turned the tide.

Still other credit improved diagnosis and treatment of heart ills.

However, I think a good deal of the credit should go to the U.S. government's farm price support program which has inadvertently kept such artery-clogging foods as creamery butter and well-marbled steaks just beyond the price range of the average consumer.

I'll never forget the day my mother was forced to serve oleomargarine at the dinner table instead of butter because the high-priced spread had become too high priced. She almost cried — and it wasn't just because in those days oleo looked like Crisco and the color (thanks to the dairy lobby) had to be added by hand.

As time went on, steak also became a sometime treat rather than daily fare.

Another big plus, I believe, is the trend toward the consumption of skimmed, low-fat and powdered milk over homogenized milk — which is so heavy many milk drinkers find it cloying.

If the incidence of heart disease has indeed dropped, I think our improved diet is probably largely responsible. But I don't know how one would go about gathering information to prove the point because the change has come about over a period of many, many years.

4-H Notes

Fair planning under way

by Program Assistant Leah Green

Charlevoix county residents are going to be partners at the Emmet County Fair this year. On behalf of ALL county residents, 4-H parents and leaders - via a spokesman, Jim Nelson, and a delegation, last December presented a rationale and some facts and figures about Charlevoix county 4-H and open participation at the fair.

Based on a growing number of youth entries and the fine results Charlevoix county 4-H youngsters are getting there, our county has pledged $3,500 to support the Emmet County Fair in 1982.

But, that's not just support for 4-H. Fairs in general need public interest and support more than ever, and we in this county need a fair to be a part of. The 120 kids with their 300 plus exhibits in 1981 are just the tip of the iceberg. We know that many folks from our county already enjoy or would enjoy showing at the fair.

We want to continue to be involved in a quality event and encourage you as well to come along with us. We'll keep you posted as plans develop. It's your fair - and the centennial year, too. Look for special plans for this 1982 Emmet County Fair.

Exploration Days at Michigan State University are set for June 23-25. Books detailing the 230 options available are now in the Cooperative Extension Office in Boyne City. 4-H'rs 12 and over, including adults, have been eagerly awaiting notice about this annual event. (If you don't believe that - ask anyone who has ever been!) You can pick from lots of things under headings like: the Arts, Communications, Health, Natural Resources, Folk Patterns, Shooting Sports and so many others.

Call the Extension office at 582-6232 to see about going too. Adults really enjoy this few days as well. In 1981 19 youngsters and 6 adults from Charlevoix County joined with 4-Hrs from Emmet and rode their 4-H bus down and back together. Lots of fun!

We have a short slide-tape about Exploration Days here now. You can see it - it will explain pretty well - March 23 at 7:30 p.m. in the Auditorium of the City Hall in Boyne City. That same evening at 7 p.m. the planners of the Charlevoix county 4-H horse show will be meeting in the same place. Following the Exploration Days slide-tape, about ten minutes in length, the 4-H council will have its regular meeting. Come along with us: Exploration Day is worth experiencing.

Our whole 4-H family will be working to make the first 4-H council sponsored horse show a big success. If you come to see or participate you'll find 4-H folks opening gates, registering riders, passing out ribbons, cooking and serving food etc. Our horse show will be held June 19, 1982 at Charlevoix Farms which has been most generously offered by owner Bill Price.

There should be time for a swim in Lake Charlevoix and overnight camping will be available. We'd like to have contests and exhibits for those who attend. Come along with us - attend, participate, help out - whatever you can do and have a fun day with the Charlevoix County 4-H family. Proceeds will be used by our council, as are most of their funds, to scholarship 4-H kids and grownups to 4-H events and for 4-H awards. Come along with us and enjoy the horse show.

Watch for a Folkpatterns display and collection spot at the June 19 4-H horse show, at senior centers in Charlevoix county, at the Emmet County Fair and other places over the next few months. Folkpatterns is a way for young people to learn about their heritage or the way people used to do things long ago. They might want to know about folk medicine or homemade cosmetics or handcrafts. It is a way to preserve the past in those who will occupy the future. There are folks who know about all sorts of things - things which might seem ordinary to them, but serve as a source of wonder and information to youngsters.

Folkpatterns cut across all other 4-H project lines. It can be applied to you (family heritage or family tree), to your community, or to an ethnic group. There is no end to what imagination can do with 4-H Folkpatterns.

The Extension office would be happy to help you with ideas for a Folkpatterns project. Ask for Penny Lewis at 582-6232.

Penny, Kris Foster, Charlevoix, Heath Green, Charlevoix, and myself attended a Folkpatterns Craft Workshop at Kettunen Center near Cadillac earlier this month. We were able to see how a number of things used to be done by hand. A blacksmith had three forges set up outside and the clank of tools on hot iron rang out all day. Inside some folks were carving simple duck decoys, others were making old fashioned apple head dolls - and up stairs were people braiding rugs and learning to do tin smithing. Quite an eye-opener. Other crafts were taught as well - we saw some beautiful baskets and some very clever cedar fans being made. In the fall a similar workshop was held to show foods can be part of Folkpatterns. Come with us and explore with Folkpatterns.

Operation Petunia: Staley makes it official

by FRAN MARTIN

Operation: Petunia received the official approval of the city last week when Mayor Kenneth A. Staley, by executive proclamation, designated May 22 of Michigan Week as "Pride Day" in Charlevoix and asked the citizens to support Operation: Petunia.

In signing the official proclamation, Mayor Staley said "I do proclaim May 22 as 'Pride Day'. I hereby urge all citizens to give proud recognition to their city, 'Charlevoix the Beautiful' and to join in supporting the efforts to make Pride Day..Operation: Petunia..on May 22, 1982, a success."

Thus, Operation: Petunia is officially launched by executive proclamation. Mrs. Shirley Roloff, third ward councilwoman, was named to serve as liason between the city and Operation: Petunia sponsors.

Meanwhile, Operation: Petunia and Keep Charlevoix Beautiful planners are awaiting the disappearance of the snow under the warmth of the spring sun before a survey of the route along which the colorful blossoms are to be planted can be made.

In the interim, residents from Mercer Blvd. on the north to M-66 on the south along US 31 are being contacted by volunteers asking the cooperation of those bordering the route.

Bruce MacArthur who represents the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful group said one of the questions presently being asked is "What happens to Operation: Petunia another year?"

MacArthur said that that would depend on the support the program receives this year. "If the plants are set out, if people along the route join us in caring for them, if they take enough pride in the project to make it a success I am certain they will support the project another year. The future of the program depends entirely on you, as residents of Charlevoix the Beautiful," MacArthur said in answer to the question.

If you have further questions, please address them to Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Inc., P.O. Box 123, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Charlevoix Courier:

Fortunately I received the picture of a party back in 1914 which I attended. That has been quite a few years ago and the picture brought back many happy memories. So many of the young women I do remember, although I only attended Charlevoix High School for six months and graduated with the class in 1912.

Thanks again for the picture.

Caroline Cole Teeling

(On March 3, the Courier ran a picture of a group of young Charlevoix women attending a "doll party" back in 1914 or 1915. Two of the young women were identified only as "a Cole girl from Beaver Island". Mrs. Teeling apparently is one of them. Her address is 311 Walnut Ave., St. Charles, Ill. 60174).

Sheri Rhoads joins county extension office

Sheri Rhoads is the new Extension Home Economist for Charlevoix and Antrim Counties.. This week the Courier talks with her about some of the services her office provides and some of the new activities the Extension Service is fostering.

COURIER: How long have you been on the job here and where did you come from?

RHOADS: I started January first. I came here from Ingham County where I was a program assistant in Family Living Education in the Extension office.

COURIER: What is your background for this kind of work?

RHOADS: I graduated from MSU with a degree in Consumer-Community Services from the College of Human Ecology. But, really, I grew up in Extension work. We lived in Iron Mountain and my Dad was the County Agent for Dickinson County. I was a 4-H member and then a leader. It's just part of me.

COURIER: What are your specific responsibilities?

RHOADS: Helping to find answers for homemakers and others to problems involving spending money, budgeting, credit, saving, energy conservation, housing and home maintenance, nutrition and health, cooking and preserving food, leadership training, family relationships and child development, clothing, fabrics, stains, and even legislation affecting the family.

COURIER: How do you go about getting this information for homemakers?

RHOADS: For one thing, we have a computer hookup with MSU which furnishes several programs just for the asking. This includes things like budgeting for retirement, the costs of raising a child, dollar stretching, dollar watching, dollar decisions in the supermarket, house hunting, conserving energy, nutrition analysis, among others.

Meet Charlevoix

Sheri Rhoads

COURIER: How is the Extension Service structured?

RHOADS: It's like an umbrella. At the top is the U.S. Department of Agriculture; below that is the Extension Service, which is really part of Michigan State University; and below that are the four service divisions - Family Living, 4-H-Agriculture, Natural Resources, and Public Policy.

COURIER: We've already covered Family Living and most people know about 4-H Clubs and Extension Services for farmers, but what about Natural Resources and Public Policy?

RHOADS: Well, some Natural Resources concerns would be oil contracts, mineral rights, management of deer herds, and erosion along shorelines. We could help with problems like that. Public Policy has to do with explaining legislation or any activity insofar as it affects individuals. We believe in the "Power of Knowledge".

We try to get people to think for themselves. We can tell them whom to contact for specific information.

COURIER: In these days of economic problems, are you promoting any new or different techniques of getting along?

RHOADS: "Cottage industries" are one answer for the unemployed. There is growing interest in them - people doing things or making articles at home. Articles like quilts or picture frames or jewelry. The problem here is marketing. In some places, people are getting together in cooperatives and selling their merchandise in the cities. Then there is bartering, or trading. Many people are trading things like firewood for dental work or babysitting for carpentry work. Just about any product or service can be traded. Even the cost of recreation can be cut. In Antrim County we're promoting a Family Camping Day, where the family may just drive a few miles to a park and spend the day the same way they would if they had traveled a longer distance.

COURIER: And you still provide your regular old standby services, don't you?

RHOADS: Oh, yes. Information on home gardening and preserving food for instance. Even that comes down to learning how to get by with what you have. And we're going to have a pressure canner checking program this year so canners will be assured that the seals on their equipment are tight.

COURIER: What kind of fun things do you promote?

RHOADS: We're going to have a 4-H Camp on Beaver Island again this year so the kids can sleep out in tents. We had it for the first time last year and it was a big success. We've even taken over the kids' basketball program in Boyne Falls that was previously run by CETA people. That's been very successful, too.

COURIER: We usually think of all Extension services as being used by rural people, not townspeople. Is that true?

RHOADS: Extension started with agriculture so farm people are the ones who contact us most often. However, the services are available to everyone no matter where they live, and more and more city kids are joining 4-H Clubs and more city people are using our services.

COURIER: How can the average person best use the Extension Service?

RHOADS: By calling the County office with their questions, by subscribing to County newsletters and being placed on the mailing list for notices of special events, classes, or workshops, by getting Extension bulletins on any number of topics, by getting Extension speakers for his club or group meeting, by using our personalized computer programs, by becoming a member of a study club, and by attending workshops or special classes.

COURIER: That's a lot. What are your telephone numbers?

RHOADS: In Boyne City, 582-6232, and in Bellaire, 533-8607.

COURIER: Do you have any hobbies?

RHOADS: Pottery - I have a wheel but no kiln. I also like to read and sew (because it's economical). I guess I'm just the stereotype home economist.

Auxiliary names delegates

The next meeting of District 13 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and their Auxiliaries will be held at Kalkaska in May. Mrs. Joseph Seidel, president of the local V.F.W. advised the membership at a recent meeting held at the post home.

Delegates named to attend the meeting are Mrs. Thomas Hodgkinson, Mrs. Albert Russell, Mrs. Jack Warner, Mrs. Clarence Goldstick, Mrs. William Farkas and Mrs. Seidel. Alternates are Mrs. James Whitley, Mrs. Kenneth Staley, Mrs. Donald White, Mrs. Melvin Plum and Mrs. Robert Rajewski.

Members were also urged to attend the April 1 business meeting of the auxiliary at which officers for 1982-83 will be elected. Other important business issues will be discusses.

Mrs. Seidel also urged members to continue working on comfort items for V.A. Hospitals. Knitted boots, cast socks, lap robes, and other useful items are needed. Patterns for the items are available from Mrs. Seidel or Mrs. Goldstick.

It was also announced that the Auxiliary, in cooperation with the Telephone Pioneers of America are assisting with the Special Olympics and with the distribution of free Vials of Life. These are vials which persons may place in their refrigerators with pertinent information regarding medications, who to notify in the event of an illness and similar information in the event of an emergency.

Plans for the sale of the sixtieth anniversary of the Buddy Poppy were discussed. The local auxiliary will sell the poppies, made by veterans, on May 22-24. Proceeds are used to aid veterans, children of veterans at the National Children's Home at Eaton Rapids and local veterans and their families.

The auxiliary voted to send donations to the National Home for its Health, Happiness and Christ Cheer fund, to Camp Trotter and for tickets for National Home Carnival. The tickets are then distributed to the children.

Plans to hang portraits of all past post commanders and past auxilary presidents were discussed. Any past officers who have not been contacted are asked to contact Mrs. Goldstick. Plans call for all these framed portraits to be placed in the recently completed club room.

The local auxiliary now has 66 paid memberships. It is among the 13 auxiliaries in District 13 which have a 100 percent paid membership. The District 13 president, Mrs. Dorothy McManus of Grawn, was honored recently as head of the district that is in first place in the membership drive.

Mrs. John Curtis and Mrs. Florence Dundas were named to membership at the meeting.

Forensics team is 'outstanding' says coach

—The Charlevoix High School has an outstanding forensics team this year Coach Connie Ford said of the 19 students presently in the program.

She added that there are some exceptionally fine beginners who compliment the veterans on the team.

She went on to say that the three times they participated in a brief pre-season competition, the team placed eighth at Essexville-Garber and second at Gaylord and at Standish-Sterling. In all three tournaments the team held up well against Class A and B competition.

Individual awards were received by the following students: Martha Staley, second in oratory at Standish-Sterling and fourth at Gaylord and fourth in radio news at Essexville; Matt Landon, semi-finals in radio at Essexville; Jim Crinion, finals in radio at Gaylord and Standish; Chris Peterson, semi-finals in serious at Standish.

A cast of Paul Stangis, Jacque Erber, Mike Ford, David Staublin, David Buday, Mariko Regier placed first at Gaylord and second at Standish with their multiple, "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty". A second multiple group of Dawn Sitzema, Laura Grooters, Debbie Seelye, Missy Walker and Beth Jones received a third place at Gaylord for their presentation of "Lisa, Bright and Dark".

In the 9-10 storytelling, Ann Wagner placed first at Gaylord and second at Standish; Dianna Loder, third at Standish; Norman Carlson, finals at Gaylord; Lara Thomas, semi-finals at Standish; Lenore Erber, first at Standish.

In the open storytelling division, Gary Carson placed first at Gaylord and second at Standish and Jim Gleason, finals at Gaylord.

Dramatic duo, Kathi Dillon and James Boggs placed third at Gaylord and semi-finals at Standish; Judy Mabee and Donna Lavasseur, fourth at Gaylord; Maureen Buday and Melina Morgan, first at Standish.

Humorous division: Shawn McClelland placed first at Gaylord and second at Standish; Steve Schmidt, finals at Gaylord.

Other team members are Katie Clock, Tim Noirot, Karyn Mayhew, David Umlor, Beth Ford, Tammy Boggs, Cathy Shepherd, Laura Henry, Diane Tollas, Craig Shepherd, Darren Olach, Craig Glass, Ron Archey, Kyle Bermmeyr, Lisa Hoffman and Kim Novotny.

Mrs. Ford said the thing that pleases her the most about this year is that the students are trying a variety of events which has resulted in a versatile team. She added that though some team members have not reached the finals, they have seldom been far behind those that have.

The debate team concluded the season by participating in the state finals. The drama group, she said, did the impossible by receiving an ensemble award which was a first for Charlevoix.

Borths stationed on computerized floating supermarket

by ANNE MARIE WAGNER

Charlevoix Navyman James T. Borths works on a 581-foot floating supermarket which carries enough provisions to keep 20,000 sailors supplied for close to six months.

The son of Angeline Borths, 1002 May St., Charlevoix, is stationed aboard the combat stores ship USS Concord, homeported in Norfolk, Va.

During deployments to the Mediterranean, Borths' ship is responsible for providing provisions, consumable supplies and repair parts to ships of the 6th Fleet.

The Concord has five cargo holds that contain the majority of the cargo. One of these is dedicated to refrigerated and frozen provisions. Some of the holds contain thousands of racks, bins and drawers for spare parts stowage.

Cargo handling operations are simplified by the use of sophisticated electronically controlled winches for transferring supplies on a "highline" to another ship while at sea. Two helicopters are also embarked on the ship to move cargo by air, called vertical replenishment.

"I'm a data processing technician," the 1973 Charlevoix High School graduate stated. "I must know at a glance what, and how much cargo we have on board, and where it is."

"We keypunch all this information into a centralized computer. I am a shift supervisor who oversees the operation. We work on a lot of different machines. We must be precise and accurate.

"I like the job," Borths continued. "It's a challenge - if I don't do my job right the ship will not be able to conduct its mission."

Named in commemoration of all 16 municipalities called Concord throughout the nation, the USS Concord is the fifth Navy ship to bear the name. The ship's crew is know as the "Minutemen," after the historical Minutemen of early Concord, Mass. They are symbolic of the readiness to serve.

"I like this ship," the petty officer second class stated. "It's got a small crew, less than 500, and you learn to depend on each other."

On its most recent Mediterranean cruise, the Concord steamed 29,300 miles making 41 port calls, including cities in Portugal, Spain, Italy, Greece, Sicily, Tunisia, and Gibraltar.

"I like to travel overseas to see and learn about the different people and places," Borths said, "but I still believe there's no better place to live than the United States.

"One place I'll never forget though is the Holy Land. A couple of Christmas Eves ago when I was in Israel, I visited Jerusalem, Bethlehem, the Sea of Galilee and Nazareth. I had always heard about these places so it was great to finally have a chance to see them."

Borths joined the Navy in 1977 after working at Oleson's Supermarket for four year.

"I had a good-paying job and I like it," he said, "but I really wanted to see what else was happening in the world. I knew I'd never forgive myself if I didn't take advantage of the opportunity.

"I've grown up a lot since I joined," Borths continued. "I've learned a trade and I know I could find a good job if I decided not to stay in the Navy."

James T. Borths

Charlevoix Council Minutes

March 22, 1982
8:00 P.M.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time in a Special Council Meeting called by Mayor Staley for the purpose of considering a proposed Downtown Development Authority Ordinance, the status of the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful Organization's "Operation Petunia", the appointment of a Fire Chief, the consideration of increase in wages for Non-Union employees, a Lay off Plan for City employees, and a discussion of the City Manager's role.

Present: Councilmembers Wood, Block, Timms and Roloff. Absent: Councilmembers Morris and Porter.

David Turner, from the State Department of Commerce, explained the general concept of a Downtown Development Authority for a small community. He enumerated the DDA's powers and limitations, and at the same time outlined for the Council's information the steps necessary to implement the program. He emphasized that the Council could tailor the Ordinance to suit any particular need they so desired.

Mike Greeley presented the Charlevoix City Merchants' proposal for providing for funding of the Drew Young property, and stated that all of the work so far had been voluntary.

The City Manager reviewed the schedule necessary if the Council wished to implement the Ordinance in time to permit funding of the property acquisition this year. City Manager Hunt also provided an explanation of how the Tax Increment Financing (TIF) Plan would work in concept.

Members of the General Public and the Council asked for further clarification on different aspects of the proposed Ordinance. The Council generally agreed to direct the City Attorney to prepare an Ordinance requiring specific restraints as well as reserving Council's right to review and authorize the DDA's budget.

Moved by Councilman Timms and supported by Councilman Wood that a Public Hearing be held on April 12, 1982, at 8:00 P.M. regarding a proposed Downtown Development Authority Ordinance, for the purpose of adopting a plan to provide funding for purchase of the Drew Young Property, 107 Mason St. through Tax Increment Financing.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Wood, Block, Timms and Roloff. Nays: None. Absent: Councilmembers Morris and Porter.

Sheri Sheldon, Chairperson of the Activities Committee for the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful Organization summarized the group's plans for "Operation Petunia". After she had introduced several members of their organization and had them comment on various phases of the KCB's work, she asked the Council to a) declare "Pride Day" on May 22, 1982 and b) appoint a Councilmember as a liaison member of their group. Councilwoman Shirley Roloff will attend their meeting at 4:00 P.M., March 24, 1982, at the Charlevoix City Library. Mayor Staley, after signing the Proclamation to designate May 22, 1982 as "Pride Day", complimented the K.C.B. for their enthusiasm and thanked them for their efforts.

Council recessed for a brief period.

Following the recess, the City Manager presented, as directed by Council in the regular Council meeting of March 15, 1982, the candidate recommended by the Fire Chief Selection Committee. Mayor Staley and the Councilmembers reviewed William Bammer's resume and listened to the City Manager's report on Mr. Bammer's qualifications. A discussion followed with members of the General Public questioning the Council and the Council soliciting information from Mr. Bammer.

A motion by Councilman Block and supported by Councilman Wood to appoint William Bammer as Fire Chief for the City of Charlevoix, as unanimously recommended by the Fire Chief Selection Committee was discussed. When a suggestion to table the motion until the regular meeting on April 5, 1982 was made Council generally agreed to continue. Finally the motion was withdrawn by Councilman Block and Councilman Wood.

The Council questioned Lee Moerland and Dick Martin, members of the Selection Committee if they had followed the criteria as set forth by the Council. Mr. Moerland and Mr. Martin said that the criteria had been followed and that Mr. Bammer was the committee's first choice. The Council also discussed the matter of salary with members of the General Public participating.

Moved by Councilman Wood and supported by Councilman Block to accept the candidate as recommended by the Fire Chief Selection Committee.

Motion was defeated by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: None. Nays: Councilmembers Wood, Block, Timms and Roloff. Absent: Councilmembers Morris and Porter.

Moved by Councilman Block and supported by Councilman Timms to consider Mr. Bammer and the next two names eligible for the position of Fire Chief at the next regular Council meeting on April 5, 1982.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Wood, Block, Timms and Roloff. Nays: None. Absent: Councilmembers Morris and Porter.

Dave Knight, a member of the General Public present questioned the confidentiality of the selection process. The City Manager promised him the names of the eight candidates for the position of Fire Chief at the conclusion of the meeting.

The City Manager reviewed the information pertaining to non-union wage increases as outlined in a memorandum presented the Council on April 12, 1982. He also presented the Council with a plan for reducing General Fund-related personnel expenses by $33,000.

The Council listened to union and non-union employees who were members of the General Public present. The discussion considered alternatives, methods and various proposals for accomplishing the reduction.

Moved by Councilman Wood and supported by Councilman Block that the non-union employees of the City of Charlevoix, be granted the 10% rate increase in wages and that all City employees and Department Heads take the necessary days off without pay as a sacrifice, to reach the desired 1982-83 Fiscal Budget reduction.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmembers Wood, Block, Timms and Roloff. Nays: None. Absent: Councilmembers Morris and Porter.

In response to the City Manager's request the Council discussed his role as manager. They cited areas particularly relating to visibility, leadership, and time available for staff and the public, and offered suggestions for his consideration. Two members of the General Public, as well as members of the Council complimented Mr. Hunt on several aspects of his performance as City Manager.

The Council generally agreed to appoint Councilman Robert Timms as Council Alternate for Councilman Joe Morris, to serve on the Charlevoix Township Consolidation Committee.

The Council directed the City Manager to have an appraisal made on the Wyckoff property, 204 State St.

The City Manager informed the Council, in answer to Councilwoman Roloff's question, that while no re-surfacing of streets is planned, the pot holes will be repaired.

Council adjourned.

Deanne Balch, City Clerk   Kenneth A. Staley, Mayor

He makes computers fun

by ANNE KELLY

Teacher Feature

Ken Bartley

Ken Bartley, recently of Rubik's Cube fame, is Charlevoix High School's enthusiastic math instructor. The day of our interview, he was scheduled to give his first computer in-service session for the high school teachers. I arrived after the final bell, but the room which houses the equipment for his computer classes was still populated with students. They were either waiting their turn to enter a program which they had been working on or to play one of the games already programmed for one of the micro-computers.

Ken explained the popularity of his course in terms of current fascination with the medium of computers. High school students who take his computer classes usually do so for one of two reasons. Either they are interested in learning more about the games they have been exposed to, or becuase they have a well-defined interest in computers and computer programming in themselves. Students who persist beyond primary fascination, find that computers can be fun, but more importantly, they require a certain amount of intelligence and diligence. Actual programming requires the discipline of strict logic.

Young Bill Horton, Ken pointed out, is a senior this year and is one of Bartley's most talented programmers. A second year student in the area of computers, Bill plans to enter the University of Michigan next fall in math and physics, and looks forward to a possible career in computer engineering. Bill is an example of how some of Ken Bartley's students "take off" on an aspect learned in class. Recently during one of Ken's adult education classes, an article was pointed out which discussed the Commodore PET's (one of the school's micro computers) ability to be programmed to play music. Ken showed the article to young Bill, who is also a music enthusiast. Over night Bill wrote a program for the computer which plays Handel's "Sonata No 1 in B'Flat Major for Oboe Solo, Movement IV." He did this by feeding the computer information needed for registering pitches and the amount of time each tone must be sustained. Last year Bill wrote a program for playing the game of Yahtzee.

Ken is ostensibly proud of bright students like Bill who show signs of becoming both adept and creative in the field of computers. Besides his regular math courses, Ken instructs two high school computer courses, two adult education classes and two night classes at North Central Michigan College (Introduction of Data-Processing). He also offered to teach a class in solving the Rubik's Cube as part of the community education program.

Originally from Detroit, Ken received his B.A. from Kalamazoo College with a major in Math. He attended John Hopkins University in Baltimore earning his M.A.T. teaching certification. His actual teaching career began with four years of high school teaching in Livonia in the area of math and physics. Subsequently he entered the doctoral program at the University of Michigan in Physics. During this period he first became interested in computers and launched his experience in the area of computer programming. This was before the age of the micro computers and Ken gained his programming ability working with the IBM 360 and the PDP 10.

In 1973, Ken moved to Charlevoix and got a job as a teacher's aide in the building trades program. From there he accepted a position at the middle school teaching math and science. He has been teaching math at Charlevoix High School since 1975. In 1979, Charlevoix purchased their first micro computer, a Radio Shack Commodore PET in 1980. Bartley's first computer class was run with 12 students working on the TRS-80 Radio Shack computer. Since then, the high school has acquired three more computers, a disc drive (a device which stores programs) and a line printer (a device which prints output on paper).

"Presently," Ken explained, "schools into the area of computer science teach two things: 1) basic computer literacy, and 2) programming skills. Students receive experience in operating the computers which are becoming such an important part of our way of life. Those who will eventually end up in the field learn to do the actual programming."

"The act of programming is very rewarding in itself," Ken continued. "I would like to see our kids designing programs for use in other buildings."

Ready-made programs, called "soft ware" in the trade are very expensive. Programs for teacher use in remedial work such as math can be made up on one of the schools micro computers and stored on the disc drive which looks like a little record but stores up to nearly 200,000 characters on a 5¼ inch piece of plastic.

"I have three kids writing programs for tutoring math in the elementary school right now." The possibilities, in Ken's opinion, are endless. He foresees the use of computers in the schools as an indispensable aid to better teaching. Students can be drilled in skills by the computer and get immediate reinforcement on the screen. This will free the teacher up to plan for and monitor individual progress.

This the third area that schools should be engaged in according to Ken. It's called C.A.I.: Computer Assisted Instruction. It can be utilized in any class on any level for learning ideas presented by the computer and subsequent drilling.

The fourth area is that of classroom and administrative management. Keeping records, grades and monitoring test results are only a few tasks the computer can be made to perform in this capacity.

With Bartley's background and experience, one would expect to find him at home surrounded by a computerized existence including a program for bringing him his slippers after a hard day in the classroom.

But Ken confesses that he, his wife Carol, and three daughters live very comfortably in the natural medium of solar energy. Ken is also a builder and in 1978 built a passive solar home.

As for the hard day in the classroom, if anything, Ken Bartley appears to be stimulated by the experience of teaching.

"The mental block against computers can be alleviated," Ken hopes, "by disseminating the proper information and knowledge and through communication."

High school art students are 'chipping away' on sculpture

by ANNE KELLY

Mercedes Mathers, Charlevois High School Art teacher, reports that her students are doing quite well with their latest sculpture project, "chip-away mold" or chisled plaster sculpture". The procedure involves several carefully executed steps in order to achieve a pleasing final product.

Dean Hartnett works on his lion head

First comes the molding with clay. Students then coat the clay head, bust or whatever, with blue plaster. The mold is then thickened with white plaster. After the plaster has dried, the mold is inverted and the clay dug out. Nest comes the washing of the clay residue out of the mold and the coating of the inside of the mold with a parting agent such as tincture of green soap. Now the prepared mold is filled with new plaster and a wire armature is sunk into the center of the wet substance. The plaster dries for about two days, whereupon the mold is turned upright and the chisling away begins. It's tricky to chip away the outer layer down to the blue plaster layer and on very cautiously until the pieces fall away from the sculpture molded underneath. Finally comes the sanding and, if desired, the treating with metallic paint which simulates bronze casting.

Dean Hartnett, an art student involved in independent stody with Ms. Mathers, has a particularlly fine sculpture nearly completed. His lion's head has esceptionally fine detail, especially in the mouth area. Dean had to be extremely careful to chisle away the plaster without damaging the teeth.

Dog obedience classes to be offered in county

Dog Obedience classes will be offered under the sponsorship of the Charlevoix Humane Society, Mrs. Vernice Smith has announced.

The classes, to be taught by Chuck and Vicki Robinson, will be given at the Boyne City Elementary School gymnasium for nine weeks beginning Tuesday, April 6.

Persons wishing to register their animals for the course may do so at 7:30 p.m. April 6. However, the animal is not to be brought to the class at this meeting.

Proof of immunization for rabies, distemper and Parvo are necessary to participate. A $20 donation will be accepted for the classes.

IRA'S certainly are "not" all alike!

We cannot sit idly by and let you be confused.
Ask yourself these questions:

- Who pays you more money for your money, consistently?
- Who's there when I need them?
- Who's 77 years young and growing with security?
- Who is locally owned with their prime interest in this area?

I.R.A. Variable Rate: 1. Highest earnings available because the interest rate floats weekly with the money market rate. (Minimum deposits of $50 and deposits of $50 thereafter)

Planning for Ground Zero Week started

The following report on local activities leading up to Ground Zero Week, April 18-25, was prepared by Margaret Duerr.

Ground Zero Week activities are the result of several individual initiatives. A number of local people have planned events to get everyone thinking about and discussing the realities and probabilities of nuclear war. Together they have assembled an impressive calendar of events that will center around three days of films and slide shows and a panel discussion, in the community room at the Charlevoix Public Library.

"To Freeze Or Not To Freeze" is the discussion topic for 7:30, Wednesday, April 21, with Tom Shea, administrator of a community family and children's services agency in Traverse City, as one of the panelists. He is currently teaching a course on nuclear war, its effects, history, cost and avoidance, at Northwestern Michigan College. He has a master's degree in history from Loyola University and is a former trustee of the Cleveland Council for World Affairs. Also on the panel will be Richard Georgi, Sr., recently retired to the Charlevoix area after serving as Chief of Inspection and Review for NATO in Brussels, Belgium. In that capacity he dealt with nuclear weapons systems. He also served as Special Assistant for NATO affairs for the Atomic Energy Commission. Third panel member will be Dr. Gerald Drake, Petoskey Physician and member of Physicians for Social Responsibility. They will present background information and there will then be a question and answer period.

The films and slide shows will include: "The Last Epidemic" (on Thursday and Friday only), "The Race Nobody Wins", "Whose Budget Is It Anyway?", "Peace in Search of Makers", "John, Mary, Mirv and Marv", "Acceptable Risk", "Hiroshima-Nagasaki", and "The Threat of Nuclear War". These films and slide shows will be shown in the community room of the Library on Wednesday, April 21, from 11:00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M. and on

Hunt resigns

City Manager Robert Hunt announced early Tuesday morning that he will resign his position effective May 6. Hunt did not elaborate on his decision other than to say that the City Council took positions at its Monday night meeting that were "180 degrees" from what it had indicated to him at a special closed meeting March 26.

"They (the council) are not going in the direction they told me they would," said Hunt. The former assistant city manager of Steamboat Springs, Colorado has held the position since October, 1981; he will have been city manager for seven months when he leaves in May.

Search for new fire chief is over; Council says Martin's the man

by DAVE KNIGHT

John F. Martin, a native Charlevoixan and 18 year veteran of the Charlevoix Fire Department, was appointed Fire Chief Monday night by the City Council.

Martin's was one of two names up for consideration by the council. The other was that of William Bammer of Battle Creek who was recommended to the council by a special Fire Chief Selection Committee two weeks ago but rejected when council members indicated preference for a local candidate.

Martin, 39, succeeds former chief John Curtis who retired March 1. Martin has been employed most recently as an insurance agent for the Metropolitan company. He is the former owner of Tri City Asphalt. He and his wife, Sonja, have two children, Mike, a high school junior, and Julie in Middle School. Martin will now become one of the three fulltime firemen employed by the city though his salary was not specified by council Monday night.

The appointment passed on a 4-1 vote, with First Ward council member Jeffrey Porter dissenting and Second Ward member Joseph Morris absent. It marked the end of a long, and often controversial search for a new chief. Over 60 applications for the position were received initially. Eight candidates were interviewed from which the two finalists were selected.

Layoffs of city employees versus reduction of work hours was also debated again Monday night.

At their March 22 meeting, council members opted to reduce work hours across the board for all city employees to save the approximately $30,000 needed to balance the 1982-83 city budget without additional millage.

City Treasurer Robert Muma told the council this week, however, that by reducing work hours for some employees in revenue producing areas such as seasonal workers at the ski hill, yacht basin and golf course, the city would defeat the purpose of saving money.

The action was thus amended to include only permanent, full time employees, including department heads, and will tentatively involve each employee taking one day off a month without pay.

In other action, the council tabled for a second time a request by Greg Bryan, owner of the Wayside Motel, to rezone that portion of his property in the city from R-1 residential to C-1 commercial. Council indicated a desire to solicit the feelings of nearby property owners before action on the request.

Snow, brutal wind pummel area

Six inches of snow driven by winds gusting over 50 knots gave Charlevoix area residents a rude reminder over the weekend that winter in the north never gives up without a fight.

Conditions were at their worst Saturday afternoon when wind velocities of up to 56 knots were recorded at the Charlevoix Coast Guard Station. Driving conditions Saturday and Sunday were pronounced extremely hazardous by local law enforcement agencies due to the slippery road surfaces and lack of visibility.

Several cars were observed along area highways that had been either abandoned or stuck in ditches. Ice floes driven by the northwesterly gale completely filled the Pine River Channel and Round Lake, both of which had been almost entirely open last Friday. Open water also disappeared on Lake Michigan.

Severe drifting, reminiscient of January, occurred in some areas such as downtown where three foot drifts blocked several store fronts on Bridge St.

Board to study millage needs

Millage needs for the 1982-83 school year were discussed by the Charlevoix Board of Education at its regular meeting Monday night.

Final figures on the valuation of the school district, however, are not available at this time so no firm decisions were made. Vincent Olach, business manager, said that enough information would be available by the next meeting on April 19 so a recommendation will likely be made at that time.

DDA proposed to help ease parking shortage

—by DAVE KNIGHT

Downtown Charlevoix's parking crunch has spawned an effort by several merchants to create a Downtown Development Authority (DDA) for the purpose of buying property for parking.

The DDA concept was first discussed by members of the Retail Merchants Association early this year and came under serious consideration when it became unclear whether the city would follow through with plans to purchase the Drew Young property next to the Post Office and create a parking lot on the site.

The process of establishing a DDA is also being accelerated by the fact that unless it is in place by the last week of May, no funds can be accumulated through the Tax Increment Financing plan proposed by the merchants.

According to Mike Greeley, co-owner of Wharfside Market and coordinator of the drive for a DDA, efforts to compile the neccessary documentation in time has been frenzied but a workable timetable has been set up to meet the deadline.

Council has set a public hearing on the matter for April 12 as part of its meeting agenda that Monday evening at 8 p.m. A legal description of the area involved has been drawn up and affected property owners either have been or will be notified.

If council acts favorably upon the DDA ordinance April 12 a DDA Board will be appointed that evening. The board consists of eight to 12 members and would be expected to include primarily downtown merchants as well as representation from city government.

The board will then have to meet that same week in order to formulate a plan for Tax Increment Financing (TIF) to present to council at its April 19 meeting. A public hearing for the TIF plan would then be set for May 19. Approval on that date would then permit the DDA to proceed with the acquisition of the Young property this year.

Though the City Council has opted for an outside appraisal of the property, it is expected to cost somewhere between $50,000 and $60,000 to purchase and an amount yet undetermined to take down the existing house and pave for parking. It will accomodate 30 parking stalls which is just about the capacity of the public parking lot adjacent to the property.

Use of DDAs as catalysts for downtown redevelopment dates back to 1975 when the state legislature created them through Public Act 197. The intent was to provide urban communities with a means of revitalizing older business districts.

According to the Office of Economic Development in Lansing, a DDA "may levy, with municipal approval, an ad valorem tas of up to one mill levied on real property in districts with populations of over one million. Cities with populations under one million may levy up to two mills. Income raised through these taxes must be used for the day-to-day operations of the DDA."

Proponents of the Charlevoix DDA, however, have no intention of seeking either a special tax assessment or issuance of revenue bonds which are also allowed in the DDA legislation.

The funding mechanism to be employed is tax increment financing. (See accompanying story.)

A DDA can do several things. It can purchase real estate. It can construct, reconstruct, restore, preserve, equip, maintain and operate buildings. It can develop long range plans to promote the general economic health of the downtown.

But it can do nothing without approval from the City Council.

Each development plan it proposes must face council scrutiny before implementation. Though future projects such as development of other potential parking facilities have been discussed, the only action proposed so far is acquisition of the Young property.

Boundaries of the proposed DDA are roughly the following: from the center of Hurlbut St. on the south to the center of Dixon Ave. to the north; it includes Park Ave. to Grant St., the east side of State St. from Park to Hurlbut along with Winchester Funeral Home, the First Congregational Church and the Historical Society on the west side of State but not the First State Bank or the former site of Haggard's Plumbing; to the east of Bridge St. it estends about halfway down Belvedere on the south side of Round Lake and an equal distance along the north shore of the lake.

According to Greeley, the boundaries were drawn up hurriedly because of the pressing deadline and represent no calculated design. At this point in the process of forming the DDA, the council may delete any portion of the DDA district but not add to it without another publication and hearing which would prevent it from taking effect this year.

Endorsement of the DDA concept has come from both Mayor Kenneth Staley and Planning Commission Chairman David Strawbridge.

What is Tax Increment Financing?

Tax Increment Financing, TIF, is simply a way for cities, towns and villages which have established a Downtown Development Authority to finance the redevelopment of their downtown business districts. Money needed to finance such redevelopment in this manner comes from local property taxes and is used for public improvements such as buying land, constructing and improving streets, sidewalks, lighting or construction of parking lots. The money is raised from the tax dollars that are generated by proposed new private property developments and improvements.

To determine the amount of money available for tax increment financing a simple plan is drawn up. The plan shows the area to be redeveloped by TIF; that area is called the tax increment district - in Charlevoix's case it would be the area encompassed by the DDA. The plan also shows the assessed valuation of the district before any private development or improvement takes place, what the assessed valuation is expected to be after the development occurs and what the difference of the old and new valuation is. That difference is known as the captured assessed value.

To determine the actual amount of tax increment revenue available in any one year, one multiplies the captured assessed value by the total tax rate of the municipality.

In brief, the municipality dedicates whatever increase in tax revenue occurs over a given period toward a public improvement project. The idea is that, by encouraging private improvement and development with such aids as improved parking, the municipality will come out ahead in the end when the assessed valuation of the district is higher because of the stimulated economic growth.

Those born in '64 must sign up

All men born in 1964 are reminded that they must register for Selective Service within 30 days of their 18th birthday, which will occur this year. Those living in the Charlevoix area may register at the Charlevoix Post Office.

Paul D. Frakes, State Director for Michigan of Selective Service, further advises that all young men, U. S. citizens as well as aliens residing in the United States, born after January 1, 1960 are required to register. Those born in 960 and 1961 were scheduled to register during July, 1980; those born in 1962 were scheduled to register in January, 1981; and those born in 1963 were scheduled to register during 1981.

Anyone who was scheduled to register previously but has not yet done so is encouraged to register immediately in order to avoid any possible penalty, according to Frakes. These forms are also available at the post office.

A list of men who have registered in Charlevoix County or a nearby county is posted outside the office of the Charlevoix County Clerk in the County Building in Charlevoix. It includes all registrations processed through September 30, 1981 and includes men born in 1960, 1961, 1962, and 1963.

Easter arrives early at Pine River Place

Easter arrived early at Pine River Place last week when a beautiful Easter egg tree, designed and made by the members of Kappa Sigma chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority, was delivered, not by the Easter bunny, but Janet Riley representing the chapter.

The tree, decorated with eggs in all the pastel colors with various designs and matching velvet ribbons, has brought a touch of the holiday and spring to the lounge.

The following day, the Community Choir directed by Steve Stargardt, accepted an invitation to conduct their rehearsal at Pine River Place.

Though the choir was without some of its members who were vacationing, the music of the Easter cantata, "Halleluia!", filled the lounge and corridors. The joyous melodies which relate the Easter story were highlighted by numerous soloists and readers.

In appreciation for bringing the cantata to Pine River Place, the choir members were served homemade cookies and a choice of beverage. Mrs. Ivy Woodcock who had made the cookies was assisted in serving them by Mrs. Gertrude Holt.

More than forty residents of Pine River Place and some of their guests gathered in the lounge and lobby to listen to the Easter story so beautifully told in music and song.

The cantata will be presented at the Assembly of God Church at 7:30 p.m. Good Friday.

Mrs. Juanita Erber of Boyne City was elected president of the Past High Priestesses and Past Watchman of the Shepherds organization at a meeting held recently at the Holiday Inn in Petoskey. She succeeds Mrs. Raymond Wood of Charlevoix in the office.

Mrs. Herbert Gould of Boyne City was named vice president and Mrs. John Borton of Wolverine, secretary-treasurer.

The next meeting will be held at Duffy's in Charlevoix at 1 p.m. April 28. Mrs. Wood will host the meeting.

Mrs. McClure is to purchase the material.

Ray Wood of Charlevoix and Betty Saxton of Petoskey won the gypsies during the meeting. Devotions were led by Ronald Saxton of Petoskey. The secretary and treasurer's reports were read and accepted at the business session.

Paul Haines, Valetta Steel to address local missions convention

Paul Haines, missionary to Korea with OMS International, and Valetta Steel, OMS International home meeting coordinator, will both speak at the third annual Faith-Promise Missions Convention, April 15-18, at the Community Church of God in Charlevoix, 202 West Hurlbut Street, according to Rev. Walter G. Hastings, pastor.

Paul Haines

Paul Haines directs the Every Creature Crusade and church planting ministries in Korea. Headquartered in Seoul, this evangelistic outreach begins with gospel distribution to every home. As residents respond to the good news, crusade team members organize new believers into churches. Pastors are assigned (often one of the team members) to nurture and lead the new believers. The teams then move on to begin a thrust in another area.

At the present time 12 teams of men, all seminary graduates, carry out this ministry of evangelism and church planting. Paul enthusiastically reports "all goals reached in 1978-1979." At present he is endeavoring to challenge the church in America for the urgent need of training nationals in reaching their own people, the most effective method for missions today.

Paul's wife Florence, graduated from Asbury College and earned a Master's degree from Asbury Theological Seminary. She later received a nursing degree from the Medical College of Virginia, and is staff nurse and teacher at Seoul Theological Seminary. This school is the largest of its kind in Asia and produces all members of the crusade and church planting teams Paul directs.

An ordained minister, Paul graduated from Asbury College and Asbury Theological Seminary in Wilmore, Kentucky. He and Florence have served with OMS in Japan and Korea for a total of 30 years. They have four children, Terry, Doug, Lowell, and Jody (Shively), who are each involved in various ministries to teenagers.

To some, the life of Valetta Steel might seem like an overwhelming series of tragedies. Married to Henry Steel, a brilliant and successful young pastor, she discovered that their first child had leukemia. After this son's death at the age of two, her husband fought a courageous but losing battle with Hodgkin's Disease. (His life story, "Mission Accomplished Under Sentence of Death", is now in its eighth printing.) Then, in 1972, her two teenagers, both Christian witnesses, were instantly killed in an auto accident.

Valetta Steel

Turning her loneliness and heartache into a springboard, however, Valetta has ministered to thousands. Today, as director of the Home Meeting Department of OMS International, she challenges men and women to get involved in God's global purposes. Featuring missions by the means of "neighborhood coffees," she presents a training program for evangelism as an outreach of the home. Her interest in young people has led her to numerous college campuses and youth retreats where she shares with them their opportunities to become involved in missions.

Valetta feels that the dynamic of a one-to-one ministry is an often overlooked facet of the church today. A booklet, "Home Meetings–Your Link to Your World", which she co-authored, outlines this approach to world missions.

Valetta has visited the OMS mission field of Europe, the Orient, and Latin America. She is in demand as a retreat and luncheon speaker.

OMS International, formerly The Oriental Missionary Society, is an undenominational faith mission with work encircling the globe.

Two local counselors open their own office

Gerry Brindel and Duane Taylor

Announcing a new counseling service for the Charlevoix area are professional counselors Duane Taylor and Gerry Brindel both of Charlevoix. Northern Michigan Counseling Consultants, as their joint endeavor will be known, was formed for a twofold purpose, Taylor and Brindel explained. Both feel a need for personal growth in utilizing their professional capacities to the fullest, and both share a common interest in helping people.

"We provide comprehensive professional counseling affordable to anyone," Taylor remarked. "Fees are reasonable in keeping with the professionalism involved." There is a sliding scale for payments according to the client's ability to pay, and a free 15 minute consultation prior to setting up further appointments for the purpose of determining the course of action to be taken, or if in fact, such services will be necessary.

Taylor's role in the Northern Michigan Counseling Consultants enterprise is that of personal counselor while Brindel will specialize in divorce counseling and divorce mediation.

"Attitude is the key when it comes to coping," Taylor would say. Holding a B.S. from Michigan State University in Physical Education and Social Studies, he taught and coached 4 years in the area before earning his M.A. in Guidance and Counseling from Central Michigan University. For the past nine years, he has served as guidance counselor at Petoskey High School as well as coaching J.V. football in Petoskey and for the past 4 years, varsity football in Pellston. An avid outdoorsman, Taylor enjoys hunting, hiking, fishing and boating. His family includes wife, Patricia, and 3 children.

As guidance counselor and coach, Taylor "has become interested in attitude and motivation not only as it relates to athletics, but also as it relates to the individual needs of the child and the adult." He has pioneered a course at Petoskey High School called "See You At The Top," which is an outgrowth of the national "I Can" program. This course teaches values, attitudes, and motivation of the individual as he relates to other people and all aspects of life.

"The course has proved to be highly successful in helping our students utilize their talents and abilities to a further extent," Taylor reports. He has also conducted this course in the Petoskey adult education program.

"The key to success in mental health lies in the willingness of the individual to help himself," Taylor described his role as a counselor in terms of selling people on themselves and their own self-worth.

Gerry Brindel has spent the whole of his professional life in the area of education and counseling. A graduate of Ball State University, Brindel received a B.A. in History and Psychology. Subsequently he earned his M.A. in Counseling from Central Michigan University and has amassed some 30 hours beyond that degree in counseling and social work. His professional experience includes four years of classroom teaching, two years involved in student conseling at Alma College, and school social work for the past eight years at Charlevoix Emmet Intermediate School District.

As school social worker, Brindel's major responsibilities are his work with the school, home, groups and agencies in his role as diagnostic consultant for the emotionally impaired.

Brindel, aside from his work and spending time with his son, devotes much of his time to pursuing physical activities such as jogging, skiing, tennis, windsurfing, bicycling, rock climbing and mountaineering. Related activities are an extension of his love for the outdoors and his dedication to youth. He has coached Little League baseball, helped with the Youth Soccer League and serves on the stewardship committee for the Little Traverse Nature Conservancy. For the past 4 or 5 years Brindel has conducted an outdoor adventoring experience known as "Northwest Adventure" for school age kids. He has initiated parenting classes out of Char-Em and personal growth groups out of Central's graduate department and North Central Michigan College. He finds "education and counseling both meaningful and rewarding and fully expects to remain in these areas."

"Our counseling service is meant to fill what we have perceived to be a community need. It is not meant to compete with school counseling or any other established counseling agencies. It specializes in private confidential counseling in the areas of divorce mediation and personal motivation counseling," Brindel further clarified.

Both Taylor and Brindel are currently actively involved in planning for up-coming events related to their counseling service. Taylor will be the keynote speaker at the May 7th Alternative Education Program in Traverse City the theme of which is "Learning To Love Yourself". He would like to see his "See You at The Top" format evolve into a community workshop through the Northern Michigan Conseling Consultants office.

Brindel announces two workshops this month: "Want to Get Rid of the Michigan End of the Winter Blues", (depression alternatives) on April 21, 7:00 - 9:30 p.m., Northern Michigan Counseling Consultants Office, 1101 South Bridge St. in Charlevoix, fee $10.00, and "The Divorced Father: Stresses and Coping", April 28, 7:00-9:30 p.m., $10.00

To register for either workshop, for appointments or further information regarding Northern Michigan Counseling Consultants, you are invited to phone evenings or weekends 547-5867.

Fishing for answers

by Dave Knight

Plunked down a hefty sum for my fishing license the other day only to read shortly thereafter that the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC) executive committee has proposed that fishing in certain waters affected by Indian treaty rights be completely deregulated.

That means no planting, no monitoring, no research, no law enforcement...and no need for fishing licenses. Now they tell me.

What it would also mean, presumably, is eventually no fish. Of course, some say that's the situation now. Having little Great Lakes fishing experience from which to draw upon, I can only rely on the wistful musings of the oldtimers on how great the sport fishing was in years past - and how lousy it is now.

It is also interesting to look at photos of the Charlevoix harbor scene of decades ago - such as can be found on page 2 of today's paper - and see such a lively commercial fishery flourishing. Those days are also long gone.

Looking back, one cannot help but include the demise of first the commercial fishery and, more recently, that of the sport fishing industry as major changes in the Charlevoix way of life. Some would tie these developments closely to the ill health of our local economy as well.

I hope the MUCC proposal for a fishing free-for-all in the Great Lakes shocks the right people into developing a the new fishery policy that is so badly needed.

Clockwise

Selling out the city

by Bob Clock

I SEE BY the papers that bills have been introduced in the state Legislature by Sen. Mitch Irwin (D-Sault Ste. Marie) and Rep. Ralph Ostling (R-Roscommon) asking that the residents of the City of Charlevoix be largely disenfranchised when it comes to drawing up a charter for the city and Charlevoix Township, should they decide to consolidate.

The disenfranchisement was first proposed — believe it or not — by city fathers who fear that the township never will agree to consolidation if it has fewer members on the proposed charter commission than the city itself, which has four times as many residents.

The township, of course, jumped on the bandwagon. It isn't everyday that someone offers you a voice four times greater than that of your neighbor in drafting anything as important as a city charter.

Strangely enough, all of this nonsense has been foisted upon Irwin and Ostling under the guise of "equal representation" on the proposed charter commission by both the city and the township.

In reality, there is nothing "equal" about it. Given the population of the two governmental entities, "unequal representation" comes a good deal closer to the mark.

I am surprised that neither Irwin nor Ostling recognizes that any charter commission elected under their twin bills would be in direct violation of Michigan's long-established principle of "one man, one vote." Furthermore, any charter drawn up by such a lopsided assemblage certainly could never survive all the legal challenges that lie down the road — even though it were approved by the voters.

I also am surprised that the two bills got past Attorney General Frank Kelley and his staff. My only hope now is that someone in the House or Senate has the good sense to see how unfair such a proposal is to the people of the City of Charlevoix.

WHAT DO I have against consolidation? Absolutely nothing. I believe residents of the city and township would benefit in the long run under a single municipal government. Consolidation would eliminate costly duplication of services in the two governmental units. Consolidation would give Charlevoix room to expand and provide a broader tax base to pay for civic improvements.

Consolidationmakes good sense any way you look at it, particularly since the city sits smack in the middle of the township and boundary lines already are pretty hazy. Did you know, for example, that both Charlevoix Area Hospital and the Charlevoix Elementary School actually are located in Charlevoix Township?

What I object to is amending state law to accomodate two little communities which are too petty to resolve their differences within the framework of the Michigan Constitution.

I would have no objection if the city and the township appointed an equal number of delegates to an informal commission to look into the feasibility of consolidation. Nor would I have any objection if the two units merged under the present city charter and then established a commission to effect whatever changes are necessary. Actually, a consolidated city could function very well under the present charter simply by enlarging the three wards.

However, I do object strenuously to tampering with the "one man, one vote" principle — particularly when it compromises my voice and my vote as a Charlevoix resident.

Plenty of activities scheduled for Ground Zero Week

Thursday and Friday, April 22 and 23 from 11:00 A.M. to 9:00 P.M. People may drop in to watch whenever it is convenient. Coffee will be served and people who come during the lunch hour may bring a brown bag lunch. There will be time for conversation about nuclear weapons issues between film showings. A major goal of Ground Zero Week is to create an atmosphere in which everyone will feel free to participate informally.

Other plans for the week include: special services on Peace Sunday, April 18, in local churches; a workshop for teachers, to be led by Julie McGarvey of Boyne Falls, with suggestions for high school and middle school learning activities; programs available to service clubs and other organizations; a discussion class on the "Christian Response to the Nuclear Arms Race" led by Rev. Austin Regler. A complete calendar of the week's events will be published next week.

The Little Traverse International League for Peace and Freedom, sponsoring groups for these activities is planning a Ground Zero Day in Petoskey on Saturday, April 24, which will include Dr. Helen Caldecott's film "Eight Minutes to Midnight". People in both communities are welcome to attend all of the events.

Expenses connected with these activities are being paid mainly by private donations and contributions are needed. Checks made out to the Little Traverse International League for Peace and Freedom (LTILPF) and marked "Ground Zero" will be used for this purpose and are tax deductible. They may be given or mailed to Mrs. Marian Kohn, Hidden Brook, Rte. 3, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

The Ground Zero planning group will not meet during Easter week but will have a final report meeting on Friday, April 16, at 4:30 at the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix.

Will flowers freeze?

Operation Petunia Update by Fran Martin

The spring blizzard last weekend did nothing to dampen the spirits of Dale Boss and members of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful group who are continuing to make plans for Operation: Petunia.

Pride Day, May 22, continues to be the target date for the planting of petunias from border to border...the northern city limits of Charlevoix at Mercer Blvd. to the intersection of US-31 and M-66 on the south.

Some people have questioned the plantings by this date, feeling that it is too early, that there is a chance of a late frost. Boss, however, said he had consulted a number of people who make it a point to keep track of such things because they plant gardens each spring. Among those consulted was Clayton Smith who operated Smith's Little Acre where he has a truck garden. He assured Boss there is little chance of a killing frost at that late date.

Should the weather not warm up as anticipated, the grower where the flats of petunias are being purchased has assured the committee that he will keep the flowers until planting conditions are right.

"With so much at stake, you can be assured that we are taking every precaution necessary to bring this venture to a successful conclusion," Boss said in answer to questions regarding the early plantings. "If we feel there is any threat to the planting of the petunias by May 22, we will postpone the plantings a few days. There's nothing that rules that they must be planted by that date. We have just set it as a target day," he continued.

The city of Charlevoix prides itself on the number of trees that line the streets. These have given rise to still another question: i.e., will the flowers receive enough sunlight once they are planted.

The answer to this question is a definite "yes". This has been checked and all areas where the flowers will be planted will receive a minimum of three sunlight each day plus reflected light.

"This is one of the things we studied and researched before selecting petunias as the flower to be used in the beautification program," Boss added.

If you have any questions regarding Operation: Petunia, address them to Keep Charlevoix Beautiful, Inc., P.O. Box 123, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Fowler remembers first bus and taxi service in area

by PEG OHLE

Forrest Fowler is a Charlevoix "old timer". As a young man, he drove taxis and buses for Fowler's Bus and Taxi Service, run by his father, Horace R. Fowler. Later he was employed by Loeb Farms as assistant general manager of their Northern Dairy Products mail order business. This week he tells the Courier about these adventures and others in his long lifetime.

COURIER: What years did your father run the taxi and bus service?

FOWLER: Probably about 1916 to 1934. Before that we had a grocery store and meat market and I used to deliver groceries to people's houses and cottages.

COURIER: What kind of taxi and bus service did your father provide?

FOWLER: Well, we had a regularly scheduled bus line between Charlevoix and Petoskey and Mackinaw City. It was the first in the area – started in 1920. It took 40 minutes to get to Petoskey and about an hour and a half to get to Mackinaw City. I've driven two trips a day on this route many times. At one point we used to go to Harbor Springs, too. This was all after the dummy train lines were discontinued. Later on, we had a contract to carry the mail between Charlevoix and Petoskey.

COURIER: This old business card we have indicates that the bus left Charlevoix for Petoskey at 6:30 a.m., 12:45 p.m., and 6:45 p.m. Return trips from Petoskey were at 10:15 a.m., 3:15 p.m., and 9:30 p.m.

FOWLER: That's right. We also had another bus that met passenger ships and trains. One of the trains was the Resort Special from Chicago and Detroit. It came in every Saturday morning and left Sunday night. We'd pick up the passengers and take them downtown for 20 cents. The same with people who came in on the Manitou and other ships.

COURIER: What other kind of service did you have?

FOWLER: We operated two seven-passenger vehicles, a Buick and a Winton, and took people from the boats on trips around the area. One of the trips was along Lake Shore Drive to Cross Village, stopping off at Bliss Farms for dinner. Another trip was around Lake Charlevoix, stopping for dinner in Horton Bay at the Red Fox Inn or Dilworth's, and later at the Wolverine Hotel in Boyne City.

COURIER: What did you charge for these trips?

FOWLER: I don't remember, but I do remember that once in a while I'd get a $200 tip – and that was a lot of money in those days.

COURIER: This business card also indicates you had a regular taxi service.

FOWLER: Yes, we'd pick up people at the ships and trains and take them to their cottages. And people would call and we'd take them wherever they wanted to go around town. Dad operated several cars both summer and winter.

COURIER: The card says a one-passenger taxi call cost 25 cents and two or more passengers, 20 cents each, but a closed car cost more.

FOWLER: And we had five and seven-passenger cars for hire...

COURIER: Where was the bus and taxi business located?

FOWLER: At 113 Bridge Street. The grocery store was in that area, too

COURIER: When did you leave your father's employ?

FOWLER: I enlisted in the Army and served during World War I. When I got back, I decided I wanted to do something else, so I went to work for Charlevoix Abstract and Engineering. They were doing work for Loeb Farms and eventually I went to live on the farms. I was given the job of helping to manage their mail order business. You remember that Albert H. Loeb was an officer of Sears, Roebuck, and, of course, believed in the mail order business. He was sure that farm products could be sold by mail. We sold butter and cheese mostly. We had a mailing list of 10,000 names and we also had a retail store on the grounds. Every year thousands of people came to Loeb Farms for tours of the place and they signed their names when they came in. That's where the list came from. We built a cheese factory in East Jordan and bought one in Levering. We sold the products under the "Golden Leader" name. Another Sears connection with Loeb Farms was that we would test Sears farm equipment right there on the farm.

COURIER: You sound as if those were happy days.

FOWLER: They were. It was a good place to work and the Loeb family was a wonderful family.

COURIER: When did that job end?

FOWLER: The farm closed down in 1927. Albert H. Loeb had died and other members of the family didn't have the interest he did.

COURIER: Then what did you do?

Meet Charlevoix

Forrest Fowler

FOWLER: I went over to Rogers City and worked as manager of the Bradley Calcite business, but that closed up, too, so I decided to work for a company that would last longer than I did. I got a job with the Standard Oil Company and worked 30 years for them in Detroit, Chicago, Grand Rapids, and Benton Harbor in sales and market research.

COURIER: Then what?

FOWLER: After I retired, my wife, Anne, and I spent a lot of time traveling around, coming back to Charlevoix for weeks or months at a time. Now I can't travel much so we're here most of the time.

COURIER: Has this house always been the Fowler home?

FOWLER: Yes, we lived on Antrim Street where Art's Dry Cleaners used to be when my father bought this lot (214 Antrim Street) and drew up plans for the house. My grandfather was a carpenter, so he took the plans and built the house. It's been in the family ever since.

COURIER: Do you have children?

FOWLER: I had two girls and a boy but one of the girls died a couple of years ago. Joanne Duff lives in Guala, California and has a girl and four boys. Forrest lives in Birmingham, Alabama and has five girls. Barbara Jean Norton, who died, had two girls. They have all come back here for vacations.

COURIER: What organizations do you belong to?

FOWLER: I'm a lifetime member of the Masonic Lodge and past Charter Member and Commander of the American Legion. I used to be active in the Kiwanis Club in Benton Harbor-St. Joe. I was baptized and brought up in the Congregational Church here. My Dad served on the Church Board of Trustees and was Treasurer. He was also on the City Council and a Justice of the Peace for 17 years.

COURIER: Where did your parents come from?

FOWLER: My father was born in Brighton, England and came to this country by way of Canada in his early teens. He wasn't adopted by them, but he sort of became a part of the Henry Gornell family who farmed near Barnard Church. My mother was born in Canada and came here with her family.

COURIER: Do you have any hobbies?

FOWLER: For years I was an avid photographer and a canoeist.

COURIER: You've had an interesting life.

FOWLER: I've met a lot of good people. If I had it to do over again, I'd do it about the same way.

Forrest Fowler's father is shown above with one of the buses in his fleet.

Middle School Honor Students Are Itching!

Itching! Itching! The sixth and seventh grade honor students at Charlevoix Middle School are just itching to go to Chicago for their annual field trip! The kids are raising funds for the trip right now and the Charlevoix Courier is helping them out. Half the money collected for every new subscription sold by the students in April will go toward the trip. For every subscription renewal sold, the students get 25%. It's a good bargain, too! Courier subscription rates will go up this spring. May will be the last month to subscribe to the Courier for $11 a year in the area and $15 a year elsewhere.

Call Tom Sothard at the Middle School to make sure the honor students don't miss your home or business as they canvas the Charlevoix area.

The Community Choir rehearsed its Easter Cantata before an audience at Pine River Place last week.

Easter cantata to highlight Good Friday

The Easter cantata "Alleluia!" by William Gaither will be presented at the Assembly of God Church off M-66 at 7:30 p.m. Good Friday under the sponsorship of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.

Steven Stargardt will direct the 38-voice choir which has been rehearsing for the past six weeks in preparation for Good Friday.

Soloists for the production are Vincent Chew, Tammy Boggs, Nancy Smith, Joanna Gunn, Eloise Klooster, Cindy Mansen, Cheryl Thayer and Sally Bales.

Readers will be Cass Russell, Howard Struthers, Herman Izor, Robert Drenth, Amy Smith, Rev. Larry Grooters and Maxine Drenth.

The cantata, in keeping with the Easter season, replaces the annual Union Good Friday service usually sponsored by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.

Seek families for exchange students

Youth for Understanding, a worldwide student exchange organization, is currently seeking families in the Charlevoix area interested in hosting a foreign student this summer.

Five thousand American families will qualify this year to host high school students from 24 countries for a year, according to YFU. In its 30-year history, YFU has worked with over 100,000 American host families.

Applications are now being accepted from families interested in providing a home to a young person from Latin America, Europe, or Asia and the Pacific, who will arrive in August.

To qualify, a family must be personally interviewed and provide two references. All students speak English, have medical insurance and their own spending money and attend the local high school.

Those interested should contact YFU Regional Director Diana Follebout, 6464 Dixie Highway, Bridgeport, MI 48722.

Township slo-pitch league to hold meeting

The Charlevoix Township Slo-pitch League will hold an organizational meeting at the Charlevoix Township Hall on Norwood Road at 7 p.m. Tuesday, April 8, Mike Reinhart has announced.

All teams planning to participate in the township league are asked to send managers or their representatives to the meeting at which season plans and schedules will be discussed.

Fiedoreks name best young bowlers in town

by ANNE KELLY

It will be 22 years ago this month that Stan and Jean Fiedorek built Charlevoix's bowling alley – Paul Bunyan Lanes. From the outset they have hosted and supervised middle and high school league bowling.

The season runs 22 weeks for school-age bowlers, Saturdays from Oct. 1 to the middle of March. Students grades 6-12 may sign up at school each year to participate on a league team. They then must be responsible to be at their games each week or find a replacement. Middle schoolers bowl 2 games per session while high school students roll three. Stan and Jean provide some basic instruction for the beginning or inexperienced bowler in technique and scorekeeping the first week, and after that as needed.

"Bowling," Stan explained, "is like golf, a muscle memory sport." Experience is the real teacher.

The Fiedoreks are proud to announce their champion bowlers this year.

"These kids are as deserving of recognition for their accomplishments as the kids who participate in the more publicized sports," the Fiedorek's believe.

Here are the champs for the 1981-82 year. Middle School Team: John Horn, Brian Hribek, Jim Gibbs and Jody Putman. High School team: Pat Kerr, Stan Sutherland, Lyle Kleiber, Tom Egler and Joe Borths.

Tournament exposure is a significant and exciting experience for young bowlers. During the season, the High School Travel League (the team in first place at the scheduled time of bowling) represented Charlevoix against East Jordan, Kalkaska, Mancelona and Trsverse City teams.

Headed for the State Finals in Lansing this May in a tournament sponsored by Coca-Cola are top scoring bowlers: John Jaskierski, Mike Smith, Shelly Pond, Connie Borths, Chris Putman, and Bill Brodin. They will be aiming for the tournament championship prize of 1st place $10,000, 2nd place $5,000 scholarships offered for the accredited college or vocational school of the winner's choice.

At a recently held play-off tournament in Boyne City, the following students earned the opportunity to attend the State team finals to be held this month in Bridgeport representing the Northern Michigan area: Pat Kerr, Stan Sutherland, Lyle Kleiber, Tom Egler and Joe Borths.

Other tournament action will be the State Singles Finals to be held May 29 and 30 in Westland.

Ron Svatora specializes in parents and families for Char Em District schools

by ANNE KELLY

Ron Svatora is known as a parent co-ordinator with the Charlevoix Emmet Intermediate School District. As such, he covers an average of 100-120 miles per day, has an active caseload (for which he has an on-going responsibility and sees on a regular basis all year long) of 50-60 kids, provides 15-20 more with diagnostic service, and conducts screenings for between 200-225 parents of prospective pre-schoolers annually for our area.

Ron assumed his position at Char-Em in 1974. Prior to that year, his experience included work in a psychiatric out-patient clinic, psychiatric hospital experience, working with various family agencies and administrative experience as Director of Social Services in the Alpine Center, Gaylord, and Director of Family Services with the Oakland County Catholic Social Services.

He holds a B.A. in psychology from M.S.U. and an M.A. in clinical social work from Wayne State University.

Ron Svatora, M.S.W. is not only a certified social worker, but a licensed marriage counselor and approved school social worker as well.

When Ron joined the Char-Em staff, his job was to provide direct in-home counseling and counseling for students in general education schools in Emmet County, Alanson, and Petoskey middle and high school. Since then, several other dimensions have been added to his job description: working with the mentally impaired and their parents, working as part of the pre-school team, and working as a diagnostic team member for the emotionally impaired at Boyne Falls.

Ron has worked with the St. Francis, Petoskey-based mentally impaired program since 1975. His role in working with the trainable mentally impaired finds him doing 1) direct contact and group work with the kids as well as 2) serving as the parent co-ordinator for programs. An innovation which he initiated and is rightfully pleased with is called the "R.A.P." group (Responsible Affective Participation.) The dynamics of the R.A.P. group involves "the kids learning to relate socially and improve their self-esteem," Ron explained. He makes use of video taping equipment for recording and learning from practical role-playing situations which the kids may run up against when they are on their own. Examples are: telephoning for a date, a skiing accident, a stay in the hospital. By taping their spontaneously produced performances, Ron hopes to promote their independence in planning a production and their awareness of solutions for practical life-situations. He himself acts in only an advisory capacity.

Other work with trainables centers around working with the parents of the mentally impaired student, acting as an in-between in the area of social security red tape and social services, testifying for a child's needs in court, some limited direct counseling and helping the kids eventually make the transition to an adult home setting.

As part of the pre-school team, Ron co-ordinates the annual 3 year old screenings which are held throughout the district, conducts a presentation for parents at the screening and directs two parent groups for parents of handicapped pre-school kids: one in East Jordan and the other in Pellston. As a member of the team, he participates in the in-home rotating service which zeros in on the kids who are not in the programs and provides support and information for these parents.

Ron described his work in this way, "I look at the child in terms of his total family setting, which is a slightly different approach from that of the other specialists assigned to his case."

As part of the Boyne Falls diagnostic team for the emotionally impaired, Ron joins the psychologist, teacher consultant, Title I teacher and the school principal in decisions regarding the students involved.

A satisfying example of his role as parent co-ordinator can be found in the work he does in his combined group of parents of the severely multiply impaired, Petoskey, and the trainable to age 14, Melrose. Here he discusses general topics regarding the handicapped kids and the specific problems encountered in parenting the handicapped and dealing with the system.

"I feel most positive about my work with parents," says Ron about the demands of his professional role. He feels great satisfaction in being instrumental in helping parents of handicapped children and young adults in the Charlevoix - Emmet area get through crisis times and helping meet the parent needs at all levels and stages of the development of the impaired child.

Library has seven new gardening books courtesy of Garden Club

Seven new books on gardening will soon be making their appearance on the shelves at the Charlevoix Public Library as gifts of the Charlevoix Garden Club.

"With so many people interested in both vegetable and flower gardening, we of the Garden Club felt this would be a gift to the entire community. At the public library the books would be available to every one," a spokesperson for the club said.

A committee chaired by Mrs. Annabelle Webb, reviewed the material presently available at the library, studied lists of books relating to those areas of gardening that would apply to this zone and recommended the books they felt would meet this criteria. Other members of the committee are Mrs. Connie Raymer, Mrs. Wilma Stabnick, Mrs. Anna Burlin and Mrs. Dorothy Lewand.

The books they selected and are on order include: "Encyclopedia, America's Garden Book", New York Botanical Gardens, 1980, Scribner, Bush-Brown; "New Approach to Design Principles", Anna B. Sutter, 1978; "What's Wrong with My Plant?" Chuck Crandell, 1980, Avon; "Ten Thousand Questions Answered", Marjorie Dietz, 1974, Doubleday; "Gather Ye Wild Things"; Susan Hitchcock, Harper, 1980; "Growing Up Green", Alice Skels, 1973, Workman Publications; "Vegetable and Fruits", James Crockett, Time-Life.

A spokesperson for the club emphasized that these books are presently on order and will appear on the shelves at the library as soon as they arrive and so they may not be available at this time.

The next meeting of the Charlevoix Garden Club is scheduled for Tuesday, April 13. The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Raymond Wood at 302 Michigan Ave. which is a change of meeting site. Co-hostesses for the meeting will be Mrs. William Staffel and Mrs. Donald Couse. Mrs. Raymer will present a lesson on "Late bloomers that won't blow away if dried up" and offers information on flowers that will be available in the fall for indoor bouquets and arrangements.

The club also suggests that if you have a shady area in your garden you might consider using cool blossoms such as white. These might include phlox, sweet williams, white impatiens and white flowering hostas.

—FRESH DAFFODILS for patients' trays at Charlevoix Area Hospital were prepared last week by members of the Hospital Guild. The flowers were donated by the Charlevoix County Unit of the American Cancer Society as reminders of the crusade held April 4-15. Daffodils were also doanted to Grandvue and have been purchased for public distribution by Drs. Robert Tollas, David Strawbridge and Jeffrey Porter, Grey Gables, Dockside Pharmacy and Central Drug.

Students boost March of Dimes by reading

While educators bemoan the fact that children watch too much television and just aren't spending enough time reading good books, Charlevoix K-5 students have proven the exception.

During a recent four-week period, pupils in grades 2 through 5 kept the school librarian, their teachers and parents busy as they selected books to read for pleasure as part of the Reading Olympics program of March of Dimes. As they read books, they lined up sponsors to pledge a certain amount of money for each book read.

Selections included "The Tree House Mystery" and "Tales of a Fourth Grade Nothing", as well as perennial favorites as "Charlotte's Web", "Encyclopedia Brown", and "Green Eggs and Ham".

At an awards assembly, Marlon Porker, Executive Director of March of Dimes for the area, praised the students for their enthusiastic participation and thanked the teachers for their support and assistance. Gold, silver and bronze Olympic-style medals as well as certificates of achievement were presented to the participating students. A total of 1,014 books were read by 95 students, earning $1,166.12 for March of Dimes.

Top reader was Aaron Boris, a third grade student who read 38 books. Tying for second place with 30 books each to their credit were Brian Coolman, Jamie Crain, Randall Williams II, second grade, and Charles Mathers, third grade. Books will be donated to the school library in their names by the March of Dimes.

The monies raised will be used to support the work of March of Dimes in the area. Neo-natal equipment, genetic counseling, in-service training for nurses and patient services are just a few of the ways that March of Dimes serves the community.

CITY MANAGER ROBERT HUNT'S resignation of April 13 prompted several people to attend Monday night's City Council meeting to urge the council not to accept the resignation. Petitions bearing about fifty names were presented to mayor Kenneth Staley who said they would be taken into consideration. No action on the resignation was taken one way or the other, however, at Monday night's meeting.

Downtown Development Authority created

by DAVE KNIGHT

With deletions of some areas previously included and addition of a safeguard against future added millage, the City Council acted Monday night to create a Downtown Development Authority for the purpose of purchasing the Drew Young property next to the Post office for parking.

The DDA proposal was first made by the Retail Merchants Association earlier this year as a means of financing the purchase through tax incremental financing. Although the city's first budget draft had included funds to purchase the property, later cuts eliminated that funding and prompted the merchants to seek creation of a DDA.

The next step in the process following Monday's action will be consideration of a tax increment financing plan which the council is expected to take up at its regular meeting next week, April 19.

Eight downtown property owners were named to the DDA board by Mayor Kenneth Staley who, as designated in the ordinance, will also sit on the board. Board members will include, for terms of four years, Michael Greeley and Robert Lieberman; for terms of three years, Frank Ochs and David Hand; for terms of two years, Jack Uhrick and Hans Wiemer; for terms of one year, James Mabee and Hugh Mason.

Boundaries which had previously included several residential areas were amended to circumvent R-1 and R-2 zoned properties as requested by property owners. The council also tacked on an amendment to the ordinance which prevents the DDA from having the authority to levy up to two mills in taxes a permitted by state law.

Passage of the DDA ordinance came on a unanimous vote.

In other action, the council approved the installation of a third emergency warning siren in Michigan Beach park.

Judge orders Berlage to take down carport

by DAVE KNIGHT

Charlevoix's zoning ordinance received a strong legal endorsement Monday from visiting Judge James McCormick who decisively upheld in District Court a zoning violation by Donald Berlage who built a carport alongside his 423 Michigan Ave. home without a sideyard variance required by the city's zoning laws.

McCormick, from Traverse City, ordered Berlage to dismantle the carport within 20 days or face 90 days in jail in what was hailed by city officials as a decision crucial to the integrity of the zoning ordinance.

Berlage, a former city attorney who is presently engaged in private law practice in Charlevoix, argued that his narrow 75-foot by 234-foot lakefront lot was platted long before the current zoning laws were enacted seven years ago and was thus nonconforming and exempt from zoning requirements. Under the city's zoning, no lot less than 100 feet wide may be zoned R-1 residential.

On September 21, 1981, he approached the city council with a request for a variance of 15 feet to accomodate a plexiglass carport. The harsh winter weather off the lake, he told council members, comprised unneccessary hardship and was damaging to his unsheltered vehicles.

Council denied the request but Berlage proceeded to build the structure anyway and was subsequently served with the zoning violation.

Monday's District Court session was held in the annex of the County Building and lasted only a few hours as McCormick dismissed a total of six motions filed by Berlage not including one filed in Circuit Court earlier in the morning to enjoin the city from prosecuting the case on grounds of constitutionality.

At Monday evening's council meeting, Mayor Kenneth Staley commended City Attorney Michael Gibbons for his efforts. Staley, along with the entire council and several other potential witnesses, were on hand for Monday's trial though not all were required to testify.

Gibbons termed the violation "an assault on the constitutionality of our zoning ordinance" and expressed optimism that any future appeal filed in Circuit Court would yield a similar decision.

Berlage had no comment Monday other than to say "There will be further proceedings."

Simulated accident at Big Rock prompts activation of emergency operations centers

by DAVE KNIGHT

Other than a few minor suggestions for improvement, the disaster drill held last week at the Big Rock Nuclear Plant was regarded as generally successful according to observers from the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) and the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA).

The drill held Tuesday consisted of a simulated steam leak in the plant's turbine housing. The pretend incident resulted in activation of the Charlevoix and Emmet County Emergency Operations Centers at their respective locations along with the Joint Public Information Center at the Holiday Inn in Petoskey.

According to the scenario, the leak was discovered at about 6:15 a.m. April 6, lasted about 30 seconds, but resulted in no offsite release. A state of disaster was later declared by the governor, a section up to two miles southeast of the plant ordered evacuated and road blocks set op on all roadways leading to the vicinity of the plant.

Warning sirens recently installed within the five mile radius of the plant were also activated as part of the drill. Criticism for use of the sirens came from the Concerned Citizens of Charlevoix who pointed out that "In the event of an actual emergency, people who have to be outside to hear the sirens (which includes most people in the radius) could be exposed to unneccessary radiation just to be told to go inside for protection.

The drill, one of a series of such exercises required to be held on a regular basis by the NRC and FEMA, was wrapped up late Tuesday morning and was followed by an evaluation by NRC and FEMA observers.

Local Angora goat breeders fight peril of Blue Tongue disease

by PEG OHLE

It isn't easy to earn a living on the farmlands of northern Michigan, but local farmers keep trying, often going into new enterprises.

Jeff Wilson of rural Charlevoix is one of them. He has turned to the raising of Angora goats and selling their hair for processing into mohair textiles. This is a new "crop" for northern Michigan.

A carpenter by trade, Wilson had previously raised a few beef cattle on his 80 acres, but decided that beef cattle raising had to be done on a large scale in order to be profitable.

Last year, Wilson bought a herd of 50 Angora goats at $135 a head from a broker in Sault Ste. Marie, who had imported them from Texas, the largest goat growing state in the Union. Since then, 36 kids have been born, bringing Wilson's herd up to 86. This is a step toward a herd of 500, which Wilson and others believe is necessary to make a good business profit.

Angora goats are shorn twice a year, with the first two shearings of young goats producing the best hair, according to experts. Because of weather conditions, it is believed that the hair from Michigan Angora goats is of a quality superior to that of Texas goats and therefore should bring a higher price. Wilson recently shipped his shearings to Texas for sale because of the larger number of buyers in that area.

While Wilson is the only farmer raising Angora goats commercially in Charlevoix County, there are several herds in Emmett County and quite a few more in the Upper Peninsula, according to a State Department of Agriculture spokesman.

As with any new enterprise, there are many "do's and don'ts" about raising Angora goats which should be carefully studied before buying a herd, Agriculture sources warn.

The first "do" is to be sure of the source of the animals – have they been legally imported, given all tests, and do they show a negative Blue Tongue result. This has been the law since July 1, 1981.

Blue Tongue is an ailment, a blood virus, which is carried by a blood-sucking and biting gnat. It is quite prevalent in the larger Angora goat herds of Texas and has appeared among some of the herds which were brought into Michigan without proper permits and tests.

Blue Tongue, as its name indicates, causes inflammation and sores to appear in the animals' mouths, making it difficult for them to eat and eventually causing starvation among some. Another result of Blue Tongue is the weakening of the females' reproductive systems and the resultant abortions of kids.

Of further concern is the fear that Blue Tongue will be carried to other ruminants – cattle, sheep, and deer.

The State of Michigan is now in the process of testing all Angora goat herds for Blue Tongue. The big question about the disease in Michigan is whether the particular species of gnat living in Michigan is capable of spreading Blue Tongue. Dr. Charles Cole of the State Department of Agriculture has expressed concern about this question. Other animal professionals are divided on the answer, which they say can only come after a period of testing and watching. To this end, all ruminants on farms where infected goats have been found, are also being tested.

With all the attention being given Blue Tongue at this point, it is hoped that it will not interfere with making the raising of Angora goats a viable business in Michigan.

According to Wilson and others knowledgable about the business, those buying herds should also study carefully and understand the conditions under which they are making the purchase.

One large dealer in Angora goats is reportedly offering a one-page contract with questionable promises of buying all shearings at a guaranteed price and buying back all kids at a guaranteed price. He has also advertised that a textile company with which he has connections would deposit $12 million in Upper Peninsula banks to provide low interest loans for goat farmers, mostly in Chippewa County. Several persons have reported checking into these loans and finding them non-existant.

In an effort to give Angora goat raising a fair chance of succeeding in northern Michigan, local legislators are closely monitoring enforcement of laws governing the importation of Angora goats into the State, as well as the business practices of those involved in importing. Both Congressman Bob Davis and State Senator Mitch Irwin are well informed on the subject.

Library to hold contest

The Charlevoix Public Library is sponsoring a spring coloring contest this year.

There will be five categories of entrants according to age: Pre-school; kindergarten and first grade; second and third grade; fourth and fifth grade; and a category for "kids of all ages" (everyone over fifth grade). There will be a $5.00 prize awarded for each category.

You may pick-up your picture to color at the library. It must be returned by the deadline of 5:30 on April 27, 1982.

Once again Mrs. Mary Ann Chew will judge our coloring contest, as she has our previous ones. Mrs. Chew teaches 4th grade in the Charlevoix Elementary School and has a varied background in art.

Barter club started in area

The Horizon Barter Club is a new organization in the area. As its name indicates, barter (or swapping or trading) is its business.

George Hamlin of Burgess Road conceived the idea of a Barter Club and meetings are held at his home at 7:30 p.m. on the first Thursday after the first Saturday of each month.

The club published a monthly newsletter containing barter ads. It also collects $15 worth of barter goods from each new member as well as a membership fee.

Further information may be obtained from Hamlin at 547-4171.

Faith-Promise Missions Convention starts this week

The Third Annual Faith-Promise Missions Convention will be held at the Community Church of God in Charlevoix this Thursday through Sunday, April 15 to 18, according to the Rev. Walter G. Hastings, pastor.

Speakers for the convention include Wesley H. Haines, Scott and Kathy Murphy, Paul Haines, Valetta Steel, Hilda Johnecheck, Marilyn Wykes, and the Rev. Craig L. Hexham.

The missions convention offers the opportunity to become personally acquainted with missionaries and to become educated about the cause and needs of missions. The Faith-Promise is a new approach to raining money for missions, because it is a convenant that a person makes with God to pass on a specific amount of money to missions that God supplies from an unanticipated source in honor of the person's faith.

Project goals for missions total $12,000, and include world-wide missions ministries, projects within the State of Michigan, and local ministries projects.

The schedule for the convention includes an opening rally at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday with the film "China Update". Friday evening at 6:30 p.m. features a carry-in banquet with music and speakers, and a special program for children. There will be a Saturday morning breakfast for men at 8:00 a.m., followed by a mini-retreat and luncheon for women at 10:00 a.m. A "Teen Happening" is scheduled Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. at the church, while adults will have informal discussion and dessert meetings in various homes with the missionaries. Sunday morning the speakers will share both in the 9:45 a.m. Sunday School hour and the 11:00 a.m. worship service.

Directing the missions convention will be Mr. Wesley Haines, who serves as OMS Central Regional Director. Mr. Haines is responsible for the scheduling of furloughs for missionaries and presenting them to missionary meeting in the central area of the United States. His own missionary presentation stems from crusade trips to the Orient and Latin America. Through colorful slides, music, and personal observations he portrays the OMS ministry around the world. He is well known for his creativity in presenting overseas information through modern media. Youth coffee houses, "total impact" conferences, and "missions-in-your-home" programs are among his novel approaches to missions programming.

Prior to his appointment as central regional director, Mr. Haines served in Los Angeles as the southwest regional director. While there he sponsored a new approach to missionary challenge, directing a monthly "Missions Around the Coffee Cup", which featured dramatised episodes from the mission fields.
